Killingly will be apportioned a generous share of the $60,000 tax that Windham county is to assess against the 15 townships within it. It is likely that Killingly's share will be well in excess of $5,000, and that means that at least one additional mill must be provided in the next tax levy, in March, 1927, to take care of this item. Taken with the increased tax that is already certain because of the need of taking care of the interest on and retirement plan of the recently issued high school bonds, the indications are that the tax rate next year will be four or five mills higher than the rate this year.

Winter took its first nip at shivering humanity here Thursday morning, when the mercury was down in the teens and a brisk wind was sifting out of the northwest. Thursday was the first really and consistently cold day of the season, with the mercury below the freezing point all day. Like all the first real cold snaps of any season, this one brought tales of frozen automobile radiators, frozen water pipes and what not. The cold came after light flurries of snow that fell during the very early hours of the morning.

Mrs. William Swalmon will be the leader when the Missionary society of the Dayville Congregational church meets next Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Myrtis Blanchard of that place.

Telling of long distance reception, radio fans here are happy over having heard a concert from the General Electric company station in Mexico City an evening this week.

For those who would mail Christmas remembrances to friends in foreign lands the time grows exceedingly short, the postoffice warns.

"In the preliminary game the Buddies walloped the Danielson Town team 23 to 19" was the information appended to a story of the Plainfield Town team-New Britain game, Wednesday night at Plainfield, on the sport page of The Bulletin Thursday. Now that isn't the truth at all. A Danielson team other than the Town team played at Plainfield. The Danielson Town team is an aggregation of real players, not preliminary performers, as all eastern Connecticut teams that meet them this season will know with good cause. It seems proper that the record should be corrected as to that Plainfield announcement.

Mrs. George Stone of Academy street returned from a visit with relatives in Lynn.

THE TACNA-ARICA PLAN

The suggestion which has been advanced by Secretary Kellogg of the department of state to both Chile and Peru for the disposition of the Tacna-Arica dispute has much to commend it, in view of the feeling that exists and the inability to secure any other kind of an adjustment, the idea of having both the countries dispose of these provinces and thus allowing them to serve as a buffer state between the irritated nations is well conceived. That fact is, of course, that it is not an entirely new idea, but inasmuch as it is being formally presented it is fair to infer that there is a probability that it will be accepted.

These provinces in dispute border on Bolivia as well as upon Chile and Peru. They have been battered around from one ownership to another and they form the logical outlet to the sea which is sought by Bolivia, now entirely inland and doing business through other countries.

National honor and the feeling which the long unsettled situation developed have kept the two directly concerned countries in such a state of antagonism that no basis of compromise which would bring about a division of the territory between them could be entertained. It has even been decidedly unpleasant for those who have undertaken to help bring about an adjustment.

But through the disposition of the territory, which it is generally conceded is of no special value because of resources, there is an avenue for solution which should appeal. If such were agreed upon there would then remain the fixing of the price that Bolivia would be asked to pay, the question as to whether it could pay the price and the division of the money should an agreement be made concerning the amount and payment be made.

The ending of the long standing dispute and the severance of diplomatic relations should be an inducement for Chile and Peru to lend the cooperation that is necessary to accomplish it along the lines suggested. The only interest which this country has, or ever has had, is to terminate this international squabble without further trouble and without bloodshed.

CONFISCATING PROPERTY

Interest beyond the borders of New York state is bound to be displayed in the decision which has just been handed down by the United States supreme court against the action of the New York legislature three years ago in ordering dollar gas in New York city.

This was an instance where in an effort to regulate a public utility and protect the consumer there was a disregard for vital facts. Instead of finding conditions such as to actually warrant the sale of gas at such a price the price was seemingly fixed and the utilities told they must comply therewith regardless of the effect upon their business. It was a case, as it turned out, which amounted to the confiscation of corporation property. Companies were forced to dispose of their products at such a price that they could not make the profit to which they were entitled.

The highest court in the land thus declares the New York state law unconstitutional and upholds the contention of the New York gas companies. This is not to be regarded as action which means that the state has no right to undertake such regulation, but it points out that when the state enacts legislation for such a purpose it should be based upon the actual conditions and should not undertake one sided justice. New York's mistake was in going so far in its regulation that it worked injury to the concerns regulated.

New York may undertake further legislation of this character, but it is safe to say that it will proceed in a different manner, that it will first find out that it is right and then go ahead and that it will have a chance or a long time to refer to this supreme court decision when matters of this character are before it. But other states as well as New York will have a chance to make good use of it always, especially if there is a disposition to entirely disregard the proper rights of corporations just because such action is so often looked upon as the popular thing to do.

ROADSIDE STANDS

Wayside stands have come in for both commendation and criticism. There is no question but what there has been a disposition to do business with them in the belief that fresh farm products are obtained, and that inasmuch as it is a case of cash and carry a better price is obtained. Experiences have differed. Those who have found that they were not getting fresh goods or were paying as high if not higher than city prices have displayed less interest in such enterprises with the result that there has been a demand for the regulation of such business places, whether they are temporary or premanent.

During the month of October representatives of the department of agriculture made a survey of 176 roadside stands in Massachusetts with the result that they found that 97 per cent of the farm products sold at these places during week days was grown locally and that 3 per cent. came from all parts of the country.

The report says that "nobody likes to make a trip to the country to buy eggs and find out that they have been buying western eggs of poor quality and often paying prices higher than the store at home would charge. . . To the trained market man it is apparent they are handling mostly city produce. Often the truck from the commission house will be seen in front of the stand unloading goods that were left over at the end of the week. In the near future it may be necessary to protect the public and the farmers from the activities of this group of men."

That the roadside stand can do a good sized business if well located on a much traveled highway is disclosed by this investigation which found that some of them do an annual business of $30,000. This is a side issue in which it would appear that honesty would prove the best policy in the long run, in fact the only policy that could expect to develop business. In other undertakings experience shows that it pays to play fair. Those who are caught by the roadside stands are not likely to make a second stop, and they are very apt to tell of their experience in such a way that their friends will look the other way.

GRAVESTONE SMASHERS

There can be no sympathy displayed for those who engage in acts of vandalism, especially those who do it either for the purpose of revenge or just for the sake of satisfying a desire to do something that will annoy.

Perhaps as mean as any are those who seem to take delight in defacing and breaking gravestones. Just what degree of satisfaction can be gained by a normal person from such an act is hard to understand, yet it is too frequently the case that the news of the day tells of such destruction.

The latest instance is in Brooklyn where 18 stones in the cemetery of an old Reformed Dutch church have been broken off. Whether this was a case where someone out for a good time thought he was having some fun, or whether it was the result of animosities it is to be hoped that it will be possible to locate those who were responsible and to make an example of them for the benefit of any others who may be similarly minded.

It is hard to picture one who would not have sufficient respect for the dead to refrain from such acts, even though they might be harboring a personal prejudice against grave markers, and yet there are many narrow minded and thoughtless individuals who act first and think afterward if there is any thinking to be done. Cemeteries as a rule contain too many stones which have fallen or been broken through action of the weather or by accident to have persons deliberately set out to increase the number. It is vandalism of the worst kind which may mean future demonstrations in other directions unless effectively dealt with.

FRANCE'S NEW AMBASSADOR

All those who speculated on the new French ambassador were not correct. For some little time France has been combining its ambassador and its special debt representative. By the appointment of Paul Claudel as ambassador to this country France names one of its long time diplomats. Having been in the service for more than three decades it is interesting that his first foreign appointment should have been as a vice consul to New York. The greater part of his service however has been rendered in European and far eastern posts.

Just what the significance of his selection is remains to be seen. Senator Berenger resigned the post because he considered his mission as debt representative finished and because he felt he could do more for the ratification of the agreement he negotiated in the French senate than as ambassador to the United States. Whether that means that no new efforts are to be made to modify the Melon-Berenger agreement and that the plan is to get ratification as it now stands rests for the future to disclose.

If that is the case the new ambassador will have his task considerably modified and will not be called upon to undertake the tearing to pieces of the understanding which his predecessor effected. Ambassadorial activities have for a considerable time been centered about the debt. It had been hoped that such matters had been disposed of when the refunding plan was agreed upon, but no little uncertainty regarding that has been created by the attitude of France, although as viewed on this side the advantage to France would seem to lie in an early ratification.

PACKAGES.

The conductor glared at the meek-looking little man sitting at the open window seemingly interested in the passing houses and streets. After long minutes of staring the burly custodian of the street railway's interests was able to force the gentle passenger's eyes to meet his. The conductor looked suggestively at the packages resting on the seat beside the small man and immediately the small man looked out the window.

With a quick frown and an exasperated air the conductor left his post, walked to the passenger and spoke.

"Don't you know a seat's to be sat on and not to park packages on?"

"You hear me?"

The diminutive passenger turned.

"Were you addressing me?"

"I sure was."

"Then lower your voice and speak like a gentleman."

The conductor cast a look about the curious faces turned toward him, leaned over the seat and in a voice, low but hissing, asked again.

"Don't you know a seat's to be sat on?"

"But I am sitting on it."

"Sure you are and so's them packages."

"Why, so they are!"

A titter ran through the car and several patrons edged closer to be better able to hear. The conductor pointed a thick finger at the seat.

"Them packages ought'en to be there. It's against company rules to park packages on a seat."

"A very admirable rule," the passenger agreed with a smile. "I can see that it would rob some passenger of a seat." He looked about the car and added: "If there should happen to be a passenger who had no seat."

"Never mind if there ain't nobody for the seat," the conductor replied. "A rule's a rule any way you look at it."

The passenger nodded his head.

"I quite agree with you and this rule should be enforced by all means." He settled himself as if to make a speech. "Now, then, let us consider the question from all angles. Aside from the fact that packages placed on a seat take up room that might otherwise accomodate a passenger they are also in a precarious position, being some distance from the floor and admitting that the roadbed is anything but smooth."

The conductor had been leaning forward more and more until finally, with face almost in the face of the little man, he roared:

"Say, what you trying to do, make a monkey out of me?"

The little man raised a hand in admonition.

"Calm yourself, sir. You forget that the discussion was over these packages."

"You take them packages off that seat."

"I refuse."

"You refuse?"

The little man straightened and looked his tormentor squarely in the eye.

"Yes, I refuse."

The conductor took a step forward.

"Then I'll knock 'em off."

The passenger again raised his hand.

"Don't do that. The owner might object."

For a gasping minute the conductor fought for breath, amid the laughter of the car, and then managed to get out:

"Ain't you the owner?"

"No."

"Who is?"

The little man pointed to the head back of the woman in the seat ahead. The conductor turned to look at her as she turned to look at him. Something in the way in which her militant eyes met his and in the way in which she grasped her umbrella caused the conductor to tip his cap and turn on his heel.

"Just a moment, sir," the little man called after him. "I believe it is also a rule of your company that passengers shall be treated courteously and I believe that—"

"I apologize," the conductor was quick to answer. "I hope you won't report it, sir."

The passenger waved his hand as if bestowing a boon.

"Oh, that is quite all right. The next street is mine. Will you let me off?"

As the car came to a stop the little man wormed his way around the packages and down the aisle. The broad-shouldered woman rose from her seat and roared after him:

"John Henry Smith, if you think you're going to leave those packages for me to carry you're crazy. You come back here and pick 'em up!"

The meek little man turned obediently and murmured:

"Yes, my dear."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is generally believed, says a despatch from Paris, that M. Louis-Loucheur, former minister of reconstruction, will be named to succeed M. Berenger as French ambassador at Washington. M. Loucheur has long been reckoned among the "big" men of France. In addition to his success in the public service he has a wide reputation for his business capacity and is reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the republic. Engineering is his profession and it was as a builder of railroads and other public works in various parts of Europe that he attained his wealth and reputation. Since the war he has been engaged in the reconstruction of the devastated areas and is an industrial organizer of the Stinnes type. Besides his work in rebuilding war ravaged France he has played an influential part in the direction of the government policies, foreign and financial especially.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Understandable To the Humblest

It is one of the fortunate miracles of literature that so much of the very best poetry is also within the comprehension of the humblest understanding. Many of the poems which have been the delight and consolation of men of the greatest mental capacities have also the power to encourage and uplift those of far lower abilities. The Psalms of David, for example, have heights and depths which have made them the inspiration of men of all classes in all ages. Progress in the understanding of the poets is the result of reading which, beginning with those that are easiest to comprehend, goes on with increasing power to those, who, like Wordsworth, are philosophical and deep and those, who like Browning present particular difficulties the overcoming of which is rewarded by a vast wealth of inspiring thought.

Matthew Arnold, who speaks with authority on these subjects says, "Constantly in reading poetry a sense of the best, the really excellent, and of the strength and joy to be drawn from it, should govern our estimate of what we read," and he remarks of the poet that "if he is a real classic, if his work belongs to the class of the very best (for this is the true and right meaning of the word classic classical) then the great thing for us to feel and enjoy his work as deeply as ever we can, and to appreciate the wide difference between it and all work which has not the same high character. This is what is salutary, this is what is formative, this is the great benefit to be got from the study of poetry."

BAKING SODA GUILTY OF HARM IN CASES OF DYSPEPSIA

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

The habit of taking common baking soda, with its resultant temporary relief in cases of so-called dyspepsia, has, in a vast number of instances, done more harm than good. This is true because of the neglect occasioned in having early recognition made of the true state of the disease.

Dyspepsia, as most people believe, is not a disease of the stomach, primarily. The symptoms are very often the result of disorders in other parts of the body. The stomach is secondarily affected in most cases, and in order to treat the condition properly, the cause must be accurately determined.

Symptoms, few or many, may consist of heartburn, belching, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite and actual pain of moderate or severe degree.

Now as a matter of fact such symptoms may be the result of influences on the nervous system. For example, anxiety, fear, worry, mental strain or exhaustion, directly or through the medium of certain glands, may be responsible.

On the other hand, diseases in other organs, as well as in the stomach proper may be guilty. Many digestive complaints have their primary origin in the intestinal liver and gall tracts. Some may be traced to tuberculosis, tonsils, adenoids, or teeth. In fact the origin of the disturbance, which seems to come from the stomach, may be located in any remote organs.

It is also true that dysteptic symptoms may result from disease within the stomach itself, and, in this way may occur from catarrh, inflamation, ulceration, growth, muscle weakness or displacement. When these conditions occur, the cure is, of course, more difficult to attain.

Dyspepsia, therefore, implies a great variety of possible causes, and it is not as simple as we are inclined to believe. Not to regard this condition lightly but rather to have a proper appraisal made of one's case is the essential procedure, especially since such a large proportion of men and women suffer from so-called dyspepsia symptoms.

In searching for the cause of the disturbance, personal habits must not be overlooked. Many, many times, overeating, smoking, drinking, other indulgences, or worms within the digestive tract bring on the attacks.

Again, they may be the result of conditions of the human mind. For a person afflicted with mental stress and strain is more liable to the development of dyspepsia than are other individuals. The nervous system, which controls the activities of the stomach is very easily influenced by a disturbed mind.

"HAD TO BE CARRIED LIKE A BABY"

Quickly put on feet again by simple home treatment

Laid up for two weeks with an attack of rheumatism or neuritis in the legs, a Canadian writes all the way from Moncton, N. B., to tell of the quick relief he got when he began using a simple, old-fashioned home remedy.

"I could not walk for two weeks," he writes. "I had to be carried around like a baby. But one bottle of Sloan's Liniment put me on my feet again."

Sloan's gives real help to all kinds of muscular pain because it stirs up your body's own curative forces to drive out the germs and poisons that cause the trouble. Just pat it on lightly—and a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood is sent tingling through the pain-ridden tissues. No rubbing! It's the medicine itself that does the work.

Soon the swelling and inflammation go down. The aching stops. Almost suddenly you find yourself really free from pain, really comfortable at last. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

As he was leaving the principal said to him:

"Well you must come over and see my boys some of these days!"

"How many boys have you?" asked the little fellow.

"Oh, about 200," replied the principal.

"Gee," said the little fellow, his eyes opening in wonderment, "you must be a grandfather."

FRENCH SAW FRANKLIN AS LIGHTNING TAMER

PARIS, Dec. 3 (AP)—Benjamin Franklin came to France 150 years ago tomorrow to find a popular interest that would do credit to the modern reception of a foreign ruler on strange shores.

French archives just inspected give an insight into the human element of his mission to seek aid for the new American republic.

The ancient and thriving oyster and fishing town of Auray had the accidental honor of receiving Franklin. The good ship Reprisal, having no propeller to cope with contrary winds, was unable to make the mouth of the Loire river and was obliged to put into the bay of Quiberon, with its illustrious passenger, its cargo of indigo that was to pay the expenses of the mission and with two English ships taken as prizes enroute.

Franklin was bound for Nantes. Reaching land on a fishing boat, the only conveyance he could find at Auray was a broken-down horse and a shaky cabriolet, which he purchased to take him to Vannes.

Culinary diplomacy is not a modern practice, for Franklin inaugurated his visit at Nantes with a banquet at which he came into contact with the notables of business and politics. Those fortunate enough to be invited wrote about the banquet to friends in Paris, boasting that they had talked with the American philosopher and lauding his intellectual qualities.

News of Franklin's landing had arrived in Paris about ten days before he appeared in the capital. Paris had been informed that he wore a curious fox skin cap, and the curiosity of the public was aroused especially by his being heralded as the man who had "tamed lightning."

Franklin arived without the fox-skin cap and to that extent disappointed the people. But he wore a wide-brimmed felt hat, the first to be seen in France.

One of the first things the French people did was to claim him as of French origin. Perigeux, near Bordeaux, where Francolins were particularly numerous, contrived a genealogy which they decided made Benjamin Franklin one of them.

The lightning rod which Franklin raised over the cottage he occupied in Passy, a suburb of Paris, on December 31, 1776, made him a sort of wizard in the eyes of the people. Franklin tired of the insistence with which he was made out to be first of all a man who had "wrested lightning from the sky," and explained that "thunderbolts continue to fall in front of my very nose despite my experiments in electricity."

When a small boy refuses a second piece of pie it's a sign there is something wrong with him—or with the pie.

STATE VEGETABLE GROWERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

HARTFORD, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Superior methods of vegetable production were discussed, the problem of marketing including the place of the commission merchant, was explained, and officers were elected at the closing session of the fourteenth annual meeting of the Connecticut Vegetable Growers' association here today.

Farmers who had unusual yields in potatoes and cauliflower told how they obtained their results, and green houses as an aid to successful growing were argued. The standard size shipping box and the grading of products, as an aid to marketing were brought up for discussion.

L. L. Rand, of Wilson, was elected president; George Croft, of Greens Farms, Westport, vice president; William Valentine, of Pomfret Center, secretary, and Charles R. Risley, of Silver Lane, treasurer. County vice presidents elected included the following; New London, (north), Lewis R. Peckham, Norwich; New London (south) B. B. Billings, Mystic; Tolland, O. K. Driggs, Vernon; Windham, C. B. Jewett, Hampton.

President Rand announced toward the close of the meeting that he had appointed A. B. Plant, of Branford as the vegetable association's representative to the agricultural committee of the Connecticut chamber of commerce. The following will be the personnel of the legislative committee for the ensuing year: A. N. Farnham, of Westville, A. B. Plant, of Branford, H. S. Coe, of Waterbury, E. E. Rogers, of Southington, Charles R. Treat, of Orange, David Clark, of Milford, and C. B. Jewett, of Hampton.

EAGLES SCORE HIGH IN WEEKLY PINOCHLE

The fourth nights' play of the Eagles weekly pinochle Thursday evening resulted in the three prize winners having a total of 7,000 or more, E. J. Mullins counting 7,255, N. Petrone 7,240, and J. Shegoda 7,125. With four men in the Eagles team that represents the Fraternal Order of Eagles in the city league with totals of 7,000 or better Thursday it looks as though the champion Eagles should be on the top of the list Saturday morning.

Shoots Arctic Owl.

Ben Smith of Shuttle Meadow avenue, New Britain, shot a white Arctic owl Tuesday near his place. The bird is the only one of its species to be killed in that vicinity in many years. It measured four feet, two inches, from tip to tip. The owl was perched on the chimney of a nearby cottage when shot. Mr. Smith intends to have the owl mounted.

MILTON SIBERMAN IN CHARGE OF BUSINESS

Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Silberman, who have just returned from their honeymoon trip to Europe, have come to this city from Stamford and are now residing here in Broadway so that Mr. Silberman can be in charge of the Shea & Burke furniture business, which was purchased last month by his father, Philip Silberman, who for many years has been prominent in the furniture business in Stamford.

Milton Silberman is to be in charge of the business temporarily, however, remaining here only until his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sharp, return from their honeymoon in Europe. The two couples were married within a few weeks of each other and when Mr. Silberman bought the Norwich business it was with the intention of putting his son-in-law in charge of it.

At the present time, Joseph Brondo, chief accountant for the Silberman company, is here arranging the accounting system for the Norwich store.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAMME AT WESLEYAN GUILD MEETING

With the president, Mrs. Albert Boardman, in the chair, a regular meeting of the Wesleyan guild, was held Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the parlors of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. The usual business matters were disposed of and plans for the Christmas bazaar were discussed.

Following the business session there was a Christmas programme, which was in charge of Mrs. Edwin Floyd. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. George Greenlaw, Mrs. Edwin Floyd and Mrs. J. Harlow Graham.

Warrants for Tax Delinquents

Names of delinquents in the payment of their personal tax of $3 have been turned over to City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins by Miss NeNie V. Harrington, who is the collector of the personal tax. Warrants will shortly be served on the delinquents, bringing them to appear in the city court where the usual procedure is to assess them an additional charge of $3 besides the $3 tax.

ELKS HAVE NOTABLE INITIATION FOLLOWED BY ENTERTAINMENT

Norwich lodge of Elks made its first December meeting on Thursday evening at the Elks' home a special event that drew an attendance of about 300 who filled the lodge room to capacity for the initiation ceremonies that followed the regular business meeting, at which Exalted Ruler Felix P. Callahan presided.

Eight candidates were on hand to be received by initiation and one by demit from another lodge, Brother Jackie Wilson, custodian of the goat had the animal fairly "rarin' to go" when the blinders and bobbles were taken off and he performed to the complete satisfaction of the lodge members and the consternation of the candidates.

Following the initiation ceremonies the gathering adjourned to the banquet hall where hot dogs, sauerkraut and coffee were served under the direction of the entertainment committee consisting of James Egan, John Thoma, Ralph Patrick, Walter F. Carrigan and William F. Enos. Vaudeville entertainers provided a first class programme, and music was furnished by D'Atril's orchestra.

The Elks' 11 o'clock toast was given by P. E. R. James E. McCormick and Exalted Ruler Callahan anounced the public memorial service which is to be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Broadway theatre with memorial oration to be delivered by Hon. William McSweeney, past district deputy of the state of Massachusetts and a past exalted ruler of Salem (Mass.) lodge. The musical part of the programme will be carried out impressively by Swahn's orchestra and the Colonial male quartette. The memorial committee is James M. Osten, Morgan J. Cronin, John H. Carney, Louis L. Gotthelf and John P. Corcoran.

Backed Into Parked Car.

Early Thursday evening a machine driven by S. S. Gay of this city, backed into an Overland sedan parked on Chestnut street and owned by Jacob Krieg of R. F. D. No. 1. The left headlight and the radiator on the Krieg machine were somewhat damaged.

DEMOCRATIC "RESURRECTION" WITHOUT LOCAL HELP

New London county democrats have apparently been ignored entirely by Chairman James J. Walsh of the state central committee in sending out invitations for a meeting that was held at the Taft hotel in New Haven Thursday afternoon, at which plans for resurrecting the party were scheduled for discussion. Twenty five democrats regarded by Mr. Walsh as prominent in the affairs of the party in this state were asked to the meeting, but it is to be noted that few of the 70 members of the state central committee were among those invited, and so far as can be learned no one from New London county was invited.

Among those invited, according to various sources of information, are Fred P. Holt of Hartford, treasurer of the state central committee, National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, Senator Joseph E. Lawlor of Waterbury, lone democratic member of the senate in the 1927 general assembly and a member of the state central committee, ex-Mayor William E. Thoms of Waterbury, Mayor Francis P. Guilfoile of Waterbury, Mrs. Alice Mooney of Waterbury, vice chairman of the state central committee; Town Chairman John H. Carey of Waterbury, a member of the state central committee, ex-Mayor David E. Fitzgerald of New Haven, a member of the state central committee, Charles G. Morris of Newtown, candidate for governor in 1924 and 1926, David M. Richman of New Haven, candidate for secretary of the state in 1922, and Town Chairman Leonard O. Ryan of Middletown. Judge Rollin U. Tyler of Windham, candidate for United States senator in November, said that he did not care to discuss the matter, when asked if he had been invited to the meeting.

Among those who said that they had not been invited to the meeting were: Homer S. Cummings of Stamford, former national committeeman; Mayor Milo R. Waters of Norwich, candidate for lieutenant governor in the last election; ex-Senator Frederick H. McCarthy of Ansonia, candidate for attorney general this year; Thomas J. Gentry and Mrs. Catherine G. Yale, two of the state central committee members from Hartford; Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic, who made the keynote address at the last state convention and Peter M. Kennedy of Waterbury, candidate for state treasurer last month.

Neither Mayor William C. Fox of New London, local democratic town chairman, nor Alton T. Miner, state central committeeman from the 18th district were in attendance at the meeting. Mr. Fox had not been informed of it, and Mr. Miner is in Florida.

EAGLES AGAINST POLISHERS WILL FEATURE CITY LEAGUE

When the city league pinochle contestants meet for the second evening's play at the Odd Fellows' hall this (Friday) evening considerable interest will be shown when the Polishers play the Eagles as these teams are tied for first place in the league and also because they are old time rivals as the Polishers' union team has the distinction of being the only pinochle team that has ever won from the champion Eagles.

The schedule for the evening is as follows: Foresters vs. Sons of Hermann, Grotto vs. Shetucket, Polishers vs. Eagles, Uncas vs. Duwell, Foresters vs. Duwell, Grotto vs. Eagles, Polishers vs. Shetucket, Uncas vs. Sons of Hermann.

It is expected that the team captains will have their men on hand so that the league games can get going promptly at the starting hour of 8.15.

STATE HOSPITAL PATIENT FOUND IN WESTERLY

An inmate of the Norwich state hospital was returned to that institution Wednesday after he had been apprehended in Westerly. The man, who wore a shirt and sweater with the name George Kelley sewed into the garments, was seen standing behind a telephone pole near the junction of Liberty and West Broad streets at an early hour Wednesday morning.

Patrick Sullivan, who saw the stranger and was suspicious of him, approached him and when the man ran he set chase. Sullivan took him to a restaurant and Officer A. R. Sheldon was summoned. The latter conferred with Officer Michael Curtin who examined the clothing and found his name attached.

Officer Curtin got in touch with an official of the Exeter school and learned that a man answering the description of a man held had escaped, but the name was not the same. Later Officer Curtin called the state hospital in Norwich and it was learned that the man had left that institution on Tuesday. Kelley was returned to the institution on Tuesday. Kelley was returned to the hospital Wednesday.

There are lots of big boys and small men in the world.

COLCHESTER GIRL KILLED AND HER SISTER HAS LEGS BROKEN

COLCHESTER, Dec. 3—(AP)—Miss Irene Wasniewski, 17, was instantly killed and her sister, Fannie, received broken legs and possible fracture of the skull, tonight when they were run into by an automobile operated by Miss Monica Cahey, of New London, accompanied by Misses Mary Sweeney and Margaret Flanagan, of the same city.

The two victims, with a third girl, were walking abreast in the road about a mile and a half from here, on their way home from the academy where they were students. After hitting them the car struck a telephone pole and went through a fence, without injury to its occupants.

Miss Cahey was allowed to continue to her home after questioning, but state police from the Groton barracks, who are investigating, said tonight she would be placed under arrest pending further investigation.

WEDDINGS

Parker-O'Connell

A very attractive November wedding took place in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in New York city on Thanksgiving morning when Miss Catherine O'Connell, formerly of this city but recently of New York, was united in marriage with Thomas J. Parker, also of New York, by Rev. Joseph Strauss. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Thomas F. Lawler of New York. The bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas F. Lawler was matron of honor. Gerard O'Connor was best man and the flower girl was Miss Irene Doyle.

The bride who was gowned in white georgette, wore a veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The matron of honor wore green georgette and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The little flower girl also wore green georgette and carried a basket of sweet peas.

Following the ceremony an elaborate reception was held in Eglin's casino. After a honeymoon trip, the bridal couple will reside in a newly furnished apartment in New York city.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, including a beautiful chest of silver from the employes of the New York Telephone Exchange.

Diodato-Barber

Thursday morning at 6 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of the church, united in marriage, Michael Diodato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Diodato of Plymouth, Mass., and Miss Rose Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Barber of No. 58 North Main street. The bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Diodato of Plymouth, a sister of the groom, and the best man was Frank Barber, brother of the bride.

The bride was charming in a gown of white canton crepe, trimmed with rhinestones, wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried white roses, carnations and lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid wore peach color georgette with black net and silver trimmings and black picture hat and carried pink carnations.

A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents and later in the day the couple left for a wedding tour to Providence, Boston and Plymouth and will be at home to their many friends after December 15 at the home of the bride's parents, No. 58 North Main street. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts including furniture, cut glass, money, silverware and linen. The groom is employed as a chauffeur.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Amos Kerouack

Following an illness of seven weeks Josephine Goyette Kerouack, widow of Amos Kerouack, died at her late residence, the home of her daughter, Mrs. John P. Casey, No. 31 Ninth street, Thursday morning at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Kerouack was born in St. Alexandria, Canada, and was the daughter of the late Jerome and Sophie Goyette. She at one time resided at Wauregan, and 25 years ago came to this city from that town, since making her home in Norwich. Mrs. Kerouack was a member of St. Anne's society, Wauregan, and was a devout member of St. Mary's Memorial church.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. John P. Casey and Mrs. Josephine Davignon of this city, Mrs. Joseph Fournier of Wauregan and Mrs. Edmund Jolicoeur of Plainfield, and five sons, Henry Kerouack and Joseph Kerouack of this city and Anthony, Lucius and Edward Kerouack, all of Wauregan. There are also 23 grandchildren, 32 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild. Mrs Kerouack was well known throughout the Greeneville section of the city and leaves many warm friends who deeply mourn her death.

Mrs. John C. McCrohan

The death of Ellen McCarty, widow of John C. McCrohan, occurred Thursday morning at her home, No. 98 North Main street, after an illness of three weeks. She was born in Ireland, but for a number of years has made her home in the Greeneville section of Norwich, where she was united in marriage at St. Mary's church in 1877 with John C. McCrohan. The ceremony was performed by the late Rev. Daniel Mullen.

Surviving Mrs. McCrohan are four sons and three daughters and a sister, Mrs. Dennis J. Bowen of 39 Hobart avenue, Norwich. She was a member of St. Mary's church. News of her death will be received with sincere sorrow by a wide circle of friends in this city.

FUNERALS

Frank E. Greene

The funeral of Frank E. Greene of Ledyard was held Thursday noon at the funeral parlors of Undertaker C. A. Gager, No. 70 Franklin street with relatives and friends in attendance. There were a number of beautiful floral forms. The service was conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. The bearers were Samuel and Edward Lester, James Stoddard and Mr. Hayton of Clinton, Mass., and burial took place in Bundy Hill cemetery, West Woodstock.

Henry W. Rogers

The funeral of Henry W. Rogers, who died in Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 22, was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the parlors of Undertakers Henry Allen and Son with a large attendance of relatives and friends. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes of esteem. The service was conducted by Rev. Charles W. Smith of Montville. Burial took place in Raymond Hill cemetery, Rev. Mr. Smith conducting the committal service.

The bearers were A. Douglas Winchester, Harold Winchester, Ernest Gadbois and Fred Rogers. Mourners were present from Los Angeles, New London, Waterford, Montville and Hartford.

James Carrigan, Jr.

The funeral of James Carrigan, Jr., of Providence, was held Wednesday morning in St. Patrick's church, Harrisville, R. I., with a requiem mass celebrated by Father Downing, pastor. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where a committal service was read by Father Downing, ex-service men acting as bearers. There were a number of beautiful floral remembrances, including several pieces from ex-service men.

Mr. Carrigan was well known in Norwich, often coming to this city to visit with his sister, Mrs. Alice Osborne of 28 Cedar street. His death occurred at a hospital in Providence on Nov. 29, where he had been a patient for several weeks. He was born in Scotland in 1896, the son of James and Mary Reilly Carrigan and came to this country about 13 years ago. During the World war he served in the Canadian army and saw active service across the water, receiving several wounds, which contributed to bring on his death.

Mr. Carrigan is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Agnes Peak of England, Mrs. Alice Osborne of 28 Cedar street, Norwich, Mrs. Julia Savage of Scotland and Miss Mary Carrigan of New York, formerly of Norwich, and two brothers, Andrew Carrigan of California and Michael Carrigan of Scotland. There are also several nieces and nephews, two of this city, surviving him.

A number from here went down to North Stonington Thursday to attend a chicken pie supper and dance given by the grange.

EASTERN CONN.-R. I. INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the eastern Connecticut-Rhode Island Interscholastic league was held Thursday afternoon at Chapman Technical school, New London, with representatives from all teams of the league except Wheeler high of North Stonington being present. Norwich Free Academy, Chapman Tech, Westerly and Stonington highs had members present while none from Wheeler high, recently admitted to membership in the league, was in attendance.

Earle E. Brigham, athletic coach at the Academy, and president of the league, presided and called the meeting to order at 2:00 o'clock. W. O'Brien, coach at Stonington high was elected president for the ensuing year.

The various schedules in the four major sports carried on under the auspices of the league, namely baseball, football, basketball and track were drawn up and approved. The Academy withdrew from football membership in this league last year and, again during the coming season the local school will play but one game with the other teams thereby, forfeit the right to prizes, etc. However, the Academy will play the necessary two games, one home and one away, in baseball and will also have full membership in basketball and track.

The dates given the Academy in the various sports follow: Baseball—1927, April 23, Chapman Tech, at New London; May 6, Westerly, at Westerly; May 12, Stonington, at Norwich; May 17, Chapman Tech, at Norwich; May 26, Westerly, at Norwich; June 2, Stonington, at Stonington.

Football—1927 Oct. 1, Chapman Tech, at Norwich; Oct. 14, Westerly, at Norwich; Nov. 19, Stonington at Stonington. The annual track meet will be held at Morgan park, New London, May 18. The annual cross country run will be held at Westerly Nov. 11.

The various prizes and trophies won during the past season were presented to representatives of the respective schools. The Academy won the baseball championship for the second successive year and one more championship will permanently secure for the local school the large valuable trophy donated to the school winning in baseball for three consecutive seasons. Westerly also has two legs on this handsome prize.

Westerly was officially recognized as the football champs for the past season, while Chapman Tech likewise received official recognition as the winner of the annual cross country run, which has been held here Nov. 13.

Those present at the meeting representing the Academy were as follows: Earle E. Brigham, coach of baseball and football; Friable Mitchell, manager of football the past season; John Spotton, manager of the cross country team the past season and manager of the 1926-27 basketball team and J. Silliman, manager of the 1927 baseball team.

DANIELSON TOWNERS DOWN WEBSTER ACES EASILY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 2.—The Danielson Town team met the Webster Aces here tonight at the town hall before an enthusiastic crowd of fans and had everything all their own way from the first sound of the whistle. The final score was 61 to 26 in favor of Danielson. After about a minute of play, Armington, the sensational Danielson center, caged a pretty basket from the center of the floor and from then on it was all Danielson, the local boys scoring at will. During the second half Danielson put in the second string team which played during the third quarter and scored almost as often as the regulars. During the final quarter Danielson again shifted to the regular lineup and scored basket after basket with apparent ease.

The work of Keech and Reeves was the outstanding feature of the game. The summary:

Danielson	G.	F.	Pts

WESTERLY MANAGER CLAIMS HIS TEAM HAS CHANCE

Manager Winterbottom of the Westerly Majestics writes that although his team comes from Westerly he has a claim for the eastern Connecticut football title as his team has beaten the Greeneville Tigers but was beaten by the Speedboys. He claims his record for the season is better than either the Speedboys or the Tigers.

Mr. Winterbottom apparently does not realize that in order to decide any title the Tigers must play the Speedboys as these two teams have not met this season. Should the Speedboys win they will have beaten both the Majestics and the Tigers and will have a clear and undisputed claim to the title. If they lose then it will be a three-cornered tie between Jewett City, Westerly and Greeneville. The standing between these teams to date is as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Jewett City	1	0	1.000
Westerly	1	1	.500
Greeneville	0	1	.000

Not Danielson Town Team

Sporting Editor: The writer for the Plainfield team made the statement in Thursday's paper that the Danielson town team was defeated by the Boddies at Plainfield Wednesday night. This is not true as the Danielson town team which is compdsed of seven of the fastest men in eastern Connecticut have not played the Boddies this year although they did beat the Buddie team in Danielson last year with the all-star player, Dissinger, in the lineup and beat them bad.

We all know that Plainfield has a very fast clean team and that the Boddies also have a lot of good comers but the writer does not consider it fair to the Danielson town team or to the supporters of the team and as well as the readers of the Bulletin to mislead them in this way when a pick up team from Danielson journeys to Plainfield to accommodate Plainfield in a pinch.

No doubt this was merely an error on the part of the writer for Plainfield team but we consider it our duty to make the correction.

Manager of Danielson Town Team.

Mello Beats Saxon

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Al Mello, welterweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Johnny Saxon of Bridgeport, Conn., when the referee stopped their scheduled ten-round bout in the fourth round here tonight.

MALONEY BATTERS WAY TO VICTORY OVER DIENER

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney of Boston, battered Frans Diener of German to defeat in a fierce ten-round final bout in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament tonight. Diener was batter continually under a hail of smashing punches, but managed to keep his feet throughout. Maloney weighed 201, Dienar 188.

Diener was outclassed from the start, but his ability to absorb the crushing right hand blows that have floored Maloney's last three opponents, brought the admiration of the 16,000 fans who cheered the Teuton continually. Diener fought in a weaving, bobbing style that bothered Maloney.

Several times the German batter slashed out with both hands from a crouch landing punishing blows to Maloney's head and body that drew blood from his right eye and mouth. Diener was a mark for Maloney's right cross, but although he staggered now and then under the punishing attack, the Teuton was never in real danger of being knocked out. Maloney's heavy body attack weakened the German toward the close.

Sandy Seifert of Pittsburgh won the decision over Jack De Mave, "Golden Boy" of Hoboken, N. J., in a ten round, semi-final battle of blondes. The constant clinching and infighting met with complete disapproval from the gallery. Seifert weighted 182 1-2 De Mave 188.

Art De Kuh, New York Italian, won from Charley Anderson, Chicago Negro, in the third round of the second ten-round match when the mid-west slugger dislocated his left shoulder after 36 seconds of fighting in the round. Anderson's fierce body punching had given him an edge in the brief contest when he suddenly dropped to the floor in pain after De Kuh's right hand crashed into his body. The weights were: De Kuh 206, Anderson 192.

Art Weigand, Buffalo southpaw, scored a one-round knockout over Al Rood, New York battler, in the first of four ten-round contests in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament tonight. A flock of crashing left hooks to the head floored Rood for the long count after two minutes and 48 seconds of fighting. Weigand weighed 176 1-2, Rood 181.

MELLO-ZIVIC BOUT PROMISES TO BE FISTIC GEM

Al Mello of Lowell and Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh are preparing for their big test. On the night of Dec. 13th at the Boston arena, they will meet in a 10-round bout under the direction of the Suffolk A. A., when all arguments as to their respective abilities should be settled.

They met for the first time at Braves field last June, and Mello was awarded the decision, which a large part of the crowd thought was an injustice to Zivic. It had been a dingdong battle, with the lead shifting back and forth. Mello was floored in the third round and Zivic in the fourth. Mello was battered around the ring in the 7th until his case seemed hopeless, but came back in the 8th with a rush that almost swept Zivic off his feet and Mello's wild rally in the 10th decided the battle in his favor.

Their battle on December 13th should be just as hard-fought and should draw a crowd to the arena equal to that which jammed the place for the Finnegan-Suggs battle recently.

Mello has been training as if a title were at stake. Road work every morning, and boxing with sparring partners in the afternoon has put him back into the condition he enjoyed before he was stricken with appendicitis.

Paul Doyle, the veteran New York welterweight, who will be remembered for his rousing battles with Eddie Shevlin, Dave Shade, Pete Latzo, etc., has been matched to meet Bob Lowrie in the 10-round semi-final. Lowrie, a rugged veteran, always packs action into his work and this bout should rival the Mello-Zivic clash in action and hard hitting.

DEMPSEY DENIES THAT HE WAS NOT POISONED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey denied here today that poisoned coffee had anything to do with his losing the heavyweight boxing crown to Gene Tunney several months ago.

"I probably had a little touch of ptomaine a week or so before the fight but that hadn't anything to do with the result. I was perfectly all right when I went into the ring and knew what was going on all the time."

Captain Charles E. Mabbutt, who was chief of Dempsey's training camp was quoted from Baltimore yesterday as saying that he, Dempsey and his trainer, were made ill from poison put in coffee cream on the Saturday preceding the fight.

"I can't imagine Mabbutt saying that," Dempsey added.

CARRIGAN SURPRISED THAT HE WAS OFFERED JOB

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Bill Carrigan, who has agreed to pilot the Boston Red Sox again, today shared his surprise with his townspeople, who had become reconciled to his role of banker.

"My signing a Red Sox contract," he said, "was just as much a surprise to me as to you folks. I got talking baseball and before I knew it I was manager of the Sox again. I can't tell you how it happened unless it was because they didn't tell me what I would have to do if I took the job."

CELTICS WILL TAKE PLACE IN AM. LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(AP)— The New York Celtics, one of the best known basketball organizations in the country, have become a part of the American Professional Basketball league, it was announced here tonight by Joseph F. Carr, of Columbus, Ohio, president of the circuit.

The Celtics will take over the scheduled allotted to Brooklyn, Carr said, and will also take the place Brooklyn, Carr said, and will also take the place Brooklyn occupied in the league standing.

The Brooklyn players will be placed with other teams in the league, it was said.

FORTY CANDIDATES OUT FOR AGGIE FROSH FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 2.—With close to 40 candidates reporting for the first practice sessions this week, a number of whom have starred on high school teams throughout the state, prospects for a strong freshman basketball five at Connecticut Agricultural college, appear promising.

Louis A. Alexander, '23, formerly of Waterbury, where he played on the Crosby high athletic teams, and later an outstanding athlete at Connecticut Aggie, is coaching the State college yearlings. The first contest of the ten-game schedule will be with the Yale freshmen at New Haven on Jan. 8. Intensive drill will be held daily until the Christmas recess begins Dec. 18, and then resumed when college reopens following New Year's.

Hartford public high school is well represented on the Aggie yearling squad with no less than 12 of its former students on the roster of the freshman hoopsters. The more experienced of these men include Leo Duffy, Carl Pivnick, L. S. Champiny, and E. Lamoreaux, forwards; and R. Flydal and N. Slossberg, guards. Others include R. Liftchitz, center; H. Ascheback and J. Burgess, guards; Steve Jainchill and A. Jennings, forwards and Charles Krinskey, a guard.

Former Weaver high graduates represented are Paul K. Bidwell of Bloomfield, a center; Robert Fenn, guard; and T. J. Murphy, guard. Another Hartford boy on the squad is Coe Hawkins, who formerly attended Suffield, and who also captained the Aggies freshmen football eleven this season. Hawkins is a center. Julius Roth, a Mount Herman school product Hartford boy on the squad, is another guard. He is a guard. M. Osterling, who starred at guard on the West Hartford high school five for four seasons, is also a member of the squad. New Haven is represented by Ray Ryan, a forward, and Fred Sansone, a guard. Ryan starred with New Haven high school for four years, and Sansone played a strong game for Northeastern high for a similar period of time.

Other members of the squad include Donald Hunt of Glastonbury, guard; Ray Barnes of West Haven high, a guard with four years of high school competition behind him; L. C. Barnes from Wethersfield, a forward; A. Tiers of Winsted, who played forward on the Gilbert school five; William Shorr of New York city, a product of the National Farm school in Pennsylvania; J. Bottomley of Milford, who played two years at forward on his high school team; R. E. McCaffery, Stonington high forward for three years; Joseph Pracon, who played both forward and guard positions for Wethersfield high; Harold Christen of Greenwich, a guard; Harry Olsen, Naugatuck high, guard; Franklin Mayberry of Seymour, a forward; and Robert Groat, who played on the Niles (Mich.) high school five.

Of the ten games scheduled for the freshmen, four will be played at Storrs and six on foreign courts. The schedule: Jan. 8, Yale freshmen at New Haven; Jan. 15, Taft, away; Jan. 15, Tufts at Medford; Jan. 29, Suffield at Suffield; Feb. 16, Trinity junior varsity at Storrs; Feb. 19, Springfield Freshmen at Storrs; Feb. 25, Roxbury at Storrs; March 2, Brown Freshmen at Providence; Mar. 5, Rhode Island freshmen at Kingston; March 12, Rhode Island freshmen at Storrs.

WALLACE KNOCKS OUT KID KAPLAN IN FIFTH

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, knocked out Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion, in the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round boxing bout here tonight. Wallace had floored Kaplan three times in the fifth round before he took the count.

In a 12-round semi-final Johnny Farr, Cleveland featherweight took the referee's decision from Eddie Shea, Chicago.

Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis light heavyweight, took a ten-round decision from Jimmy Delaney of St. Paul.

Wallace's decisive victory over Kaplan put a crimp in Kaplan's title aspirations and was an upset of the advance dope.

Kaplan who resigned the featherweight crown because he found difficulty in making the weight and announced that he was out after a title bout with Sammy Mandell for the lightweight crown.

Wallace, carrying a powerful right, had the former champion outclassed from the third round. In the disastrous fifth round he floored Kaplan three times for counts of five, seven and nine with right crosses to the chin. A fourth heavy right to the jaw ended the Kid's championship aspirations.

After gather light, opening round Wallace had opened the fireworks in the second frame with two rights to the jaw that made Kaplan's knees buckle. From there on the Kid was unable to get away from the Cleveland boy's rights.

Kaplan weighed 133 pounds and Wallace 132.

Kaplan announced following the fight that he would seek a return bout with Wallace. He blamed his defeat to over-confidence.

IRELAND TO HAVE OPEN GOLF TOURNEY IN 1927

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Ireland has stepped into the breach between ruling golf bodies of Great Britain and America, caused by a clash in the dates of 1927 open championships of the two countries.

An Irish open title tournament, to be held for the first time next year at Fort Marrock, has been decided upon by the Irish Golfing union for some period after the British contest at St. Andrews and the American tournament at Oakmont, both during the week of June 20. Golfing circles here believe that both American and British stars will be induced to settle the question of international supremacy on the neutral fairways.

Many British golfers welcome Ireland's aid in the present situation, which is generally regretted, although with the Americans at home for their own championship, Britons will have a chance of recovering the crown captured by players from across the Atlantic five times in the last six years.

The keenest regret is felt by British professionals, who intended to invade America to defend the team cup won last year in a match against a contingent led by Walter Hagen. The executive committee of the professional association will meet Monday to consider the clash of open dates and the possible abandonment of the proposed trip of their team to the United States.

OVER FIVE MILLION PAY $12,000,000 TO SEE EASTERN FOOTBALL CONTESTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Football's record breaking season, from attendance and financial viewpoints, has capped the climax of a year that has witnessed unprecedented development of public interest in all major branches of sport.

Baseball had its third successive million dollar series, topping all others in actual figures; boxing had its first $2,000,000 event with 132,000 fans paying close to that amount to witness the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia; and football had its first $1,000,000 spectacle as 110,000 paid fancy prices to see the Army-Navy gridiron drama on Soldiers field in Chicago.

Football's paid attendance record was shattered twice this fall. Until the service classic came along to dwarf all previous marks, Ohio State and Michigan, battling at Columbus with western conference title hopes at stake, had attracted the biggest throng $4,000. This was nearly 10,000 in excess of the record jam that witnessed Red Grange's last college game a year ago when Illinois played Ohio State at Columbus.

On the Pacific coast, the largest crowd of the season, 82,000 saw Stanford trample California. In the east, 50,000 watched Cornell and Penn tie while close to the same number witnessed the Yale-Army and Yale-Harvard battles at New Haven.

Increased prices to many of the classics accounted for the substantial jump in gate receipts. With $5 "tops" for the first time, such games as Cornell-Penn and Harvard-Yale drew around $400,000 each. The Army-Navy scale of $10 and $15 boosted total receipts to approximately $800,000. Out spectator's prices, obtained for thousands of tickets to this game, increased its total cost to the spectators to $1,000,000.

Country-wide estimates, all told, have shown that approximately $30,000,000 was turned into college and school coffers by some 16,000,000 spectators.

The east, still main stronghold of the game, leads all other sections by a big margin in both attendance and receipts.

The bulk of the year's attendance and receipts is accounted for in the following table of sectional estimates:

East, total attendance 5,000,000, high game 80,000, total receipts $12,000,000; mid-west 3,500,000, 170,000, $7,500,000, Pacific coast 1,500,000, 82,000, $3,000,000; south 765,000, 33,000, $2,000,000; southwest 500,000, 35,000, $1,950,000. Missouri valley 350,000, 20,000, $750,000.

NO GAME ARRANGED FOR ACADEMY ON SATURDAY

The Academy basketball squad, 25 strong, held a snappy workout at the Y gym on Thursday afternoon and all candidates seemed to be in very good shape.

Coach McKean gave all candidates an opportunity to show their wares during the afternoon's work. The regular varsity five was pitted against four different combinations in turn and the quartet of teams were capable of giving the first string a good, hard workout throughout.

The regular five was composed of Les Pingree, at center, Capt. Ray Yerrington and Jim Kelly at forwards and Artie Armstrong and Cimmikoski at guards. The other teams were changed considerably with the following taking turns in furnishing the opposition for the regulars: Sullivan, Henschel, Pepin, Mish; Fenton, La Croix, Covey, Schwartz, Jarvis, Goldblatt, Sheridan, Lynch, Stevens and McCarthy.

Short scrimmages were also held between the second teams.

The customary five laps around the gym finished the drill.

No game has been arranged as yet for Saturday evening to fill the vacancy left by the cancellation of the Torrington high contest. Negotiations are out for games with several of the high school teams in this section, including Killingly, Wheeler of North Stonington, Lyman of Lebanon and Bacon Academy of Colchester and it is expected that final arrangements for a home contest will be completed by today Friday. The Y. M. H. A. five of this city is also mentioned as a possible opponent for Saturday evening.

A banner attraction has been booked for the following Saturday, Dec. 11, when Suffield prep will face the Academy at the Y gym. This game will take the place of the New Britain game, which was originally on the books for the above date. New Britain will play here later in the season.

FLOWERS-WALKER BOUT FEATURE FOR TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, former world's welterweight champion, will make his second challenging effort to acquire the middleweight crown here tomorrow night, by engaging "Tiger" Flowers, the Georgian deacon, in a ten round contest to a referee's decision.

The champion and challenger finished their training today by doing light gymnasium exercises, and both spoke confidently of a favorable result. Flowers said he expected to dazzle the amiable young Irish lad with a speedy attack. Walker intimated he had growing hopes of knocking out Flowers to make it a decisive victory.

The contest will be the first major bout fought indoors since the passage of the boxing law, and promises to attract a record gate around $90,000, with a capacity crowd of 10,000. The prices range from $3 to $16.50, the highest prices since the enactment of the law.

Walt Miller, manager of Flowers, revealed tonight that Flowers would receive fifty per cent. of tomorrow's gate, with ten per cent. to Walker, and that Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, had posted $65,000 in cash as a guarantee that Walker, if victorious, would meet Flowers in a return match within 90 days. Miller further revealed that the $65,000 would go to Flowers, instead of half the gate receipts, provided the negro lost by a questionable decision or was knocked out.

Flowers has been installed a slight favorite over the challenger with the odds dropping from 8 to 5 to 6 to 5.

NORMYLE DENIES DEMPSEY WAS PHYSICALLY POISONED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Denial that Jack Dempsey was physically poisoned upon the occasion of his defeat by Gene Tunney in the recent battle for the world's heavyweight championship, was issued here today by Gene Normyle, manager of the ex-champion.

When questioned concerning a statement from Baltimore by Captain Charles J. Babbutt, friend of Dempsey, to the effect that the champion was poisoned when he appeared in the ring to defend his title Normyle said:

"After the fight we announced that there would be no alibi, now or ten years from now. We mean it and we offer none now. However, in replying to the statement reported in the press yesterday, I desire to state that Dempsey was poisoned, but not physically. He was poisoned by law suits, writs, lawyers and attachments. He was compelled to raise $100,000 bail on a Saturday night to keep out of jail. He faced injunction proceedings directed at the staging of his fight.

"The legal matters caused the champion to lose seven or eight pounds two days before the fight and this in 24 hours—mighty serious for a man attempting to keep in condition to defend a world's title. I do not offer an alibi—I merely am explaining the situation in view of the poisoning stories that have been published."

AGGIE FIVE WILL BE VERY STRONG THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Dec. 2.—With the first game scheduled for two weeks from tomorrow, the Connecticut Aggie basketball squad will continue with the intensive drill that began this week in preparation for a difficult schedule of sixteen games.

Sumner A. Dole, former Massachusetts Aggie athlete, is starting his fourth season in charge of the Connecticut hoopsters, and Nutmeg followers are looking forward to another successful year.

As a nucleus for this year's quintet are Captain William K. Schofield '27 of Waterbury, who was twice selected as a member of the mythical "All New England" basketball team; Willard G. Eddy '28 of Simsbury, and captain-elect of the varsity football eleven; Arthur V. Williams '28, of Danielson; John J. Daly '27 of Hartford, who captained the Aggie eleven this fall and Harold F. Watson '28 of Hartford. These men except Daly, are all letter men of last year's quintet that won eleven of fourteen games, and their ability and experience should count heavily in the approaching campaign. Captain Schofield can be used at either guard or forward, as he plays each position with equal ability. Eddy and Watson are forwards, Williams is a center, and Daly is a guard. Other upper class men who are outstanding among the reserve material available are Cecil Smith '27 of Middletown, a forward; Howard Kennedy '26 of New Haven, a guard; and Alexander Krayeskie '28 of Thomaston, a forward.

With the exception of Captain White of last year's freshmen five, every member of that team is in school and available for competition though Elovitch of Hartford will not be eligible for intercollegiate competition until after mid-year in February. From the sophomore class, Bernard Hewitt of New London is easily the outstanding player and he will certainly make a strong bid for a forward berth. Hewitt captained the Chapman Tech five that won the eastern Connecticut interscholastic tournament at Storrs three years ago, and he is looked upon as a promising player here.

Other members of the 1925 yearling five that should develop into players of varsity calibre with further seasoning include Henry Schildgren of Naugatuck, who can be used for either center or guard; Andrew Dall of Hartford, who developed rapidly as a guard last year when he first played the game; Charles J. Anderson of Middletown, a forward; John J. Callahan of Revere, Mass., a center and forward; David H. Garber of Hartford, a forward; and Myer Elkovitch of Hartford, a center. The latter starred for Weaver High and then entered Connecticut in last February. Because the one-year residence rule is in force at Storrs, Elkovitch cannot play until next February, though he is working daily with the varsity squad.

Coach Dole is of the opinion that this year's five should develop into a strong combination when the half way mark in the schedule is reached, barring accidents and losses due to scholastic probation. The Aggie Mentor pointed out that the Aggie quintet of this year will be lacking the experience of the 1925 combination, when Captain Makofski, Bilgood, Schofield and Allard—all tried and experienced players—were playing regularly from the start.

In meeting Pratt and the Crescent A. C. at Brooklyn two weeks hence, Coach Dole's men will receive two stiff tests in their opening encounters. This fact is fully relized here, and the squad is working hard in an effort to be well prepared when the campaign gets under way.

Following a custom inaugurated last year, Connecticut will journey to Manchester and stage one game in that town at the state armory. Holy Cross is the opponent selected for that encounter, and the Crusader's will be met in a holiday game on February 22. Last year Massachusetts Aggies played Connecticut before a game that packed the armory to the doors, and the support accorded the state college quintet by Manchester people in that game has led the athletic authorities to arrange for another game this year. Hartford fans will have an opportunity to see the Aggies in action on Feb. 19, when Trinity and Connecticut will meet.

AGGIE FRESHMAN ELEVEN ENDS SEASON UNDEFEATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Dec. 2—With a record of five straight victories in as many games, the Connecticut Aggies freshman football season recently closed its intercollegiate season with a clean slate, being the third yearling team to have an undefeated record during the four years that freshman elevens have been organized at the state college.

The Massachusetts Aggie two-year school, Trinity Junior Varsity, Wesleyan freshmen, Milford Prep and the RRhode Island Freshmen all fell before the play of Connecticut's yearlings, during which 83 points were made by the Storrs boys to 13 for opponents.

The freshmen were coached by L. A. Alexander '23, who has been coaching yearlings at Storrs in football, basketball and baseball since freshman teams were organized beginning in the fall of 1923. Since that time he has developed three undefeated football elevens, as well as basketball and baseball teams of merit.

Coe Hawkins of Hartford, a former Suffield football player, captained the Aggie yearlings from a tackle position, and he work stamps him as promising line prospect and one who will make a strong bid for a varsity berth next year.

The intercollegiate record for the season follows:

Connecticut 25, M. A. C. 3-yr. 7.
Connecticut 26, Trinity Junior varsity 0.
Connecticut 15, Wesleyan 0.
Connecticut 20, Milford 6.
Connecticut 6, Rhode Island 0.
Connecticut 93, opponents 13.

CONN. OFFICIAL PROPOSES CHANGE TO FOOTBALL RULES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A change in the football rules which would meet the situation of a team working the ball down to within striking distance of the enemy's goal line only to have the chance of scoring cut short by the calling of time at the end of the first half, is suggested by Elmer L. Manning, a former college football player and now connected with the Connecticut board of football officials. He has forwarded his suggestion to the national football rules committee.

Manning recommends an extension of the time at the end of the second period if the ball is on the 10 yard line or within that point. The team rushing the ball, if the suggestion is adopted, would be allowed to continue to rush until the ball is lost in any of the various ways, through downs, failure to kick goal, intercepted forward pass, fumble, etc. As soon as the ball carrying team had scored or lost the ball the period would end. The defending team would not have the privilege of possession of the ball in the extended time period.

BREADON CLAIMS HE IS IN FAVOR OF LANDIS

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Commenting on the statement of Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, that he was in favor of curtailing the powers of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, Sam. Breadon, the president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said today he was in favor of re-electing Landis without any curtailment of his powers.

"Baseball under his supervision has enjoyed its most prosperous years," he said. "The game has been kept clean and the clubs have prospered and I can see no reason for making any change."

SPORTING NOTES

(By the Associated Press)

Joe Kirkwood, magician of the links has completed the most extensive exhibition tour in the history of American golf. During the last five years he has played on nearly 500 courses in every state of the Union.

"I'm going to England soon, and the chief reason is to meet George Bernard Shaw," says Gene Tunney. The heavyweight champion is quoted in the New York Evening World as claiming that Shaw's characters should be more heroic to reach the customers."

Negotiations virtually have been completed for Frank Cavanaugh coach of this year's undefeated Boston college eleven, to take over the reins at Fordham university, football men hear. Fordham officials admit that Cavanaugh is one of two coaches under consideration to replace Frank Gargan, resigned.

BUS DRIVERRS INSTRUCTED FOR SAFE VS. SPEED

Speed is at all times sacrificed for safety on the lines of the New England Transportation company busses which are operated on the various highways of Connecticut and which serve to supplement the train service of the New Haven railroad between many cities and towns in the state. According to the Connecticut committee on public service information, the drivers of the big red busses are governed by two codes of driving regulations one compiled by the company itself and another issued by the Connecticut public utilities commission for the regulation of all bus traffic within the state.

The burden of responsibility for the safety of the bus and its passengers is placed upon the driver himself and he is forced to exercise caution at all times. The busses operate on regular schedules, but the drivers are cautioned against speeding or reckless driving in order to make up time when unforseen delays occur. The busses are required by the company's regulations to come to a full stop when approaching a railroad crossing and to slow down to 10 miles an hour when approaching an electric railway crossing.

The company's regulations cover every move of its drivers and anticipate all possible situations. Safety instructions for stopping and starting and for passing other vehicles on the highways are emphasized throughout the code booklet. Special instructions are given for rounding curves and for coming down steep hills. The company's schedules are devised so that all drivers may exercise extreme caution and still make their destinations on time, barring extraordinary delays.

PROPERTY OWNERS GET WARNINGS ON ROAD SIGNS

Efforts of state policemen of the Groton barracks, under Sergt. Clifford B. Gorgas, to eliminate illegal advertising signs in New London county have resulted in about 120 landowners along the county highways receiving notices to have the signs on their property removed or to conform with state regulations. As a result of the campaign against outlaw signs inaugurated early this week it is estimated that at least a score of illegal signs have already been removed from the highways.

Although handicapped by the lack of men available for the work the state police have covered a large part of the county already including sections of Colchester, Salem, Groton, Westerly, Center Groton, Old Mystic, East Lyme, and the Military highway.

Following announcement of the campaign a number of land owners inquired at the state police barracks if it would be all right to have illegal signs removed before ordered to do so. The landowners were advised as to what constitutes an illegal sign and in many instances the land owners stated that they had already taken steps to have the outlaw signs removed or destroyed.

Sergeant Gorgas stated that the signs classed as outlaw are those located within the boundaries of the state highways and those located on private property on which taxes have not been paid. Landowners will be given 10 days notice to remove or legalize the signs on their property and failure to do so will result in prosecution.

WESTERLY

PEABODY-DANIELSON NUPTIALS THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 2.—At the rectory of Christ Episcopal church, at 7:30 o'clock this evening Miss Nellie Esther Danielson, of Hartford, daughter of the late Joseph and Matilda Gustavse Danielson, was united in marriage with Benjamin Arnold Peabody, Jr., son of R. A. and Elizabeth Caswell Peabody, of 8 Lincoln avenue, Pawcatuck. Only immediate relatives were present.

Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Ann Champlin, of Pawcatuck, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, while Frank Wheeler of North Stonington was best man. At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Peabody departed by train for a short wedding trip and on their return will reside in Westerly.

Mr. Peabody, an active worker in the Westerly Sanitary corps, is employed as chauffeur for Charles E. Sherman of Westerly. Several months ago while Mr. Peabody was passing down West Broad street in the evening he heard an unusual sound on the New Haven railroad embankment, near the West Broad street railroad bridge. Hastily climbing the embankment he discovered a broken rail and was just in time to have a fast express train stopped, before a serious wreck occurred. In recognition of his services Mr. Peabody was presented a New Haven railroad service button, was personally thanked for his act by a railroad official and given $20 in gold. Mrs. Peabody has been a successful hair dresser, coming to Westerly for the summer season.

Funeral services were conducted privately on Thursday afternoon at one o'clock at his late home in North Stonington, for Charles Eugene Chapman, who in a despondent mood took his own life last Monday. The services were conducted by Rev. Lucien Drury, Baptist minister of North Stonington. Many floral pieces were received from relatives, friends, North Stonington grange, and from Reliance lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., of Jewett City, of which the deceased was a member. In attendance at the funeral was a brother, Elias Chapman and wife of Providence.

Burial was made in Evergreen cemetery, Stonington, the bearers being Herbert West, George Stone, George W. Tryon, and Alfred Johnson.

Henry S. Hughes of 29 Chester avenue, will leave Westerly on Saturday next for Cleveland, O., en route to Los Angeles, Cal., where he will become associated with the advertising department of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. Mr. Hughes has been in the south for a number of winters and last winter, until ill health caused his return to Westerly, was connected with the chamber of commerce of Miami, Fla. On Wednesday, December 8th, Mr. Hughes will leave Cleveland, accompanied by Roy Wasson of that city, to complete his trip to California by automobile. The southern route will be pursued by the trans-continental autoists, similar to the one taken by the Barnes brother who left Westerly several weeks ago.

Dr. Lester Bradmer, secretary of religious education for the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island, was a Providence visitor in Westerly on Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday evening Dr. Bradmer met with a representative gathering of the teachers of the Church school of Christ Episcopal church of Westerly, and outlined the work of the school in general.

Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, rector of Grace Methodist Episcopal church of Westerly, is a visitor this week end in Hartford, when he takes part in the dedication of a new Methodist church in East Hartford. In this (Friday) evening's program he is a speaker for the Epworth League anniversary.

The annual Every-Member canvass of Christ Episcopal church of Westerly will begin next week in charge of a committee of which John Albert Pawson is the chairman. Other members of the committee are Andrew W. Fisher, Fred P. Babcock, Arthur L. Perry, Frank W. Taylor and David A. Lowry. The committee will meet at the church rectory, 36 Elm street, on Friday evening, Dec. 13th with Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector.

Up to Dec. 1st, the annual roll call of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross had amounted to $2,598.00, as we announced by Miss Frances Haswell, treasurer of the roll call committee. Reports have not yet been received from several branches in outlying districts.

The approximate number of members enrolled up to the present time is 1531, said Miss Haswell.

The second entertainment, The Fanny Washington trio from Virginia, was well attended on Thursday evening in concert course conducted by the men's class of Grace Methodist Episcopal church. Miss Fanny Washington, who claims to be the fourth grandniece of George Washington, headed the trio.

In Odd Fellows hall, on High street on next Saturday evening, Eureka lodge, I. O. O. F., will geather with many of their own members and well known lodge officials, where they will make a fraternal visit to Narragansett lodge, NoN. 7, I. O. O. F., and present the local lodge a block and gavel which are being carried to the different lodges of Odd Fellows throughout the state. It is expected there will be a large number of members from the surrounding lodges present to extend a fraternal welcome to the visiting body. After the meeting refreshments will be served, followed by a smoker.

By direction of Grand Commander James A. Gunn, Turners Falls, Mass., of the Grand commandery of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the sir knights of Narragansett commendery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly will gather in their asylum on High street on Saturday noon, Dec. 25th for the annual toast to the Grand Master of the Grand encampment. The committee on the observance by Narragansett commandery will be Past Commanders, John A. Pawson, Arthur E. Thompson, and Sir Knights, Francis L. Johnson and George Elmer Leonard.

Wendall J. Battye of Pawcatuck has returned home after a several days' business trip to Woonsocket, R. I., his former home.

David Novogrod of Pawcatuck is on a business trip to New York city.

Mrs. George W. Wood has returned to her home in White Rock after visiting for several days in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kenyon have returned to their home in Pawcatuck after visiting in Jewett City.

MYSTIC

LATE EXPLORER AKELEY MARRIED LOCAL CAMP OWNER

Cal Ethan Akeley, American explorer, sculptor an inventor who died at Kabale, Uganda, where he was collecting specimens for the American Museum of Natural History in New York, was well known here. Those having met him and heard his talks regret his death. He married Miss Mary L. Jobe, who has successfully conducted Mystic camp for girls here for a number of years on the west side of the river, once known as the Peace Meeting grounds.

Mrs. Seth N. Williams and Miss Grace D. Wheeler of the Road district were here Wednesday to attend the D. A. R. meeting.

The December meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon in Masonic temple, with a large attendance. Mrs. Elisa Gallup Scott, the regent, presided. Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Mary Lincoln Noyes were read. A message for each month in the year has been prepared by the national flag committee chairman to be read by the chairman on the correct use of the flag. It gives interesting information concerning the flag. After the close of the meeting six members of Groton grange gave the sketch, Memories. In 1924 the Avery Memorial association restored the colonial cemetery in Poquonoc Bridge where the Groton founders are buried. As Anna Warner Bailey had restored some old stones the Poquonoc Bridge members, when it became their turn to entertain the chapter, gave the sketch "Memories" each representing an ancestor buried there and were members of the Avery and Morgan families. Those taking part were Mrs. Mary Morgan Sawyer, the originator of the sketch, Mrs. John Irving, Mrs. Warren B. Burrows, Mrs. Dudley Chapman, Mrs. Charles Burrows, and Miss Addie Thomas. They wore beautiful costumes and the head-dress of colonial times. An old style braided rug was on the floor, an old stand with candlestick and candle and six old chairs, making the setting realistic. Miss Lela Burrows played for the singing of old songs by all present, also gave two piano solos. Only three members were present of the committee, Mrs. Edna B. Colby, chairman, Mrs. Emily M. Allyn and Mrs. Abbie P. Phillips. They served sandwiches, fancy cakes and tea, assisted by two others. Many compliments were paid Mrs. Colby for arranging the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sinclair are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Grover Coffin in Taunton, Mass.

Mrs. Thomas Gilman visited her sister in Westerly Thursday.

Mrs. Charles M. Adams of Groton was a guest at the D. A. R. meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Celia Whiting has returned from a visit in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bachand and son are visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

A large delegation from Mystic grange attended neighbors' night at Stonington grange, Wednesday.

Meetings are to be held in the Old Mystic Baptist church today (Friday) from 2.30 to 9 p. m. Neighboring pastors will speak. A social hour with refreshments, and a roll call of members is planned for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Stedman of Dedham, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Stedman's sister, Mrs. Dudley Bindloss.

The play, Mrs. Tubbs of Shantytown, was given in Grange hall, Ledyard, last night for the benefit of the Congregational church. The cast comprised Mystic players and the sketch has been given here twice.

The annual turkey supper was given by the Ladies' Aid society of the Union Baptist church Thursday night. Mrs. Davis' Bible class sold homemade candy. Mrs. Julia B. Coates was chairman.

TAKING PAINS

"That really isn't very hard,"
Said lazy Johnny Keyes,
"If I should try I know I could
Perform the task with ease;
I've got my share of muscle,
And I've got my share of brains,
I'd do it just as well myself
If I should take the pains."

Now Johnny isn't different
From many that I know,
The world is full of such as he,
It's sad—but it is so;
Each says that he could do the task,
But somehow he refrains;
It isn't worth the bother, so
He will not take the pains.

Now what the world is after
Is one who strives and tries,
Not one content to stand aside,
Find fault and criticise;
And all the medals and rewards,
The profits and the gains,
Are given to the faithful ones
Who care to take the pains.

—William T. Card, in Walkover Shoe Prints.

While Henry Haskell, of Brattleboro, Vt., was giving his little granddaughter, Marilyn King, an airing in her carriage, some one's tame crow hopped board and rode. The bird stole a cookie out of the baby's hand, jumped down and ate it, then hopped back, cocking its head from side to side to see if she had any more.

Introduced on this continent in 1769 by the mission fathers of Mexico, the olive is still rapidly increasing in importance among American commercial products. The olive tree was notable among those mentioned in the Bible; it spread from Palestine to Syria, Italy, Spain and other countries along the Mediterranean basin gaining ever-increasing fame for its food and other values.

The Quebec production of asbestos formed approximately 84 per cent of the world total in 1925, and about 82 per cent in 1924. The next largest output, 84,349 tons, came from Rhodesia. Russia was third. Both these countries, and some others, greatly increased their prodution in 1925, but the Canadian output advanced simultaneously to an amount which gave it the same relative proportion as in previous years.

John A. Yeager, representative from Lamar county in the Mississippi legislature, believes himself to be a "legislative champion." The Mississippi acts of 1926 contains 412 chapters, all bearing the name of John A. Yeager, as author. They represent 413 necessary bills, made in one session of less than three months. The United States supreme court made validation of all road district bonds by legislative act necessary. Mr. Yeager prepared the bills in the space of three weeks and they were passed on one roll call.

Robert G. Guthrie, expert metallurgist, of Chicago, Ill., has broken the world's record in photomicography, the science of photography under a high-power microscope. He recently enlarged and photographed the structure of a piece of steel 15,500 diameters in a single projection. Mr. Guthrie examines samples of metal brought to him by manufacturers. His instruments tell him the entire history of the samples in question. From his observations he remedies weaknesses, eliminates flaws and even designs processes and machinery from what his world's record micro-metallograph has told him.

The January meeting will be held with Mrs. Samuel H. Davis.

SAMUEL H. DAVIS MEMBER OF COUNTY COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 2.—Samuel H. Davis of Westerly was among the 69 of the 83 members of the Rhode Island republican state central committee who meet in Providence today. Mr. Davis was named to supplant George E. Utter, who was not re-elected to the republican state committee from Westerly.

William C. Pelkey was re-elected state chairman and Nathan M. Wright, secretary-treasurer. The naming of women for vice chairman and assistant secretary was laid upon the table, due it was reported to friction among the women members of the committee.

Under committee rules adopted a year ago, Chairman Pelkey named the executive committee. Among changes were Thomas A. Boyle of Cranston in place of Clarence T. Merta, whose followers were defeated in the city election. Joseph P. Burlingame of Warwick, former state central committee chairman in place of J. E. Hudson, removed from the state and the Westerly change. County members of the new executive committee are Joseph I. Denieo, Narragansett; Samuel H. Davis, Westerly, Mrs. Charles Schlesinger of Charlestown.

The second district congressional committee was chosen as follows: Chairman, Charles E. Salisbury; secretary, Mrs. Charles Schlesinger of Charlestown.

SPECIAL AIRPLANE MAY BE NEEDED FOR TROPICS

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 2 (AP)—A special flying machine will have to be devised for exploring wild tropical countries, said Hans H. Hoyte, pilot of Prof. Mathew Stirling's New Guinea expedition, in an interview published in the Java Bode of Batavia, on the eve of his sailing for Europe.

Hoyte, a Dane by birth, was on his way to his family home at Lundby, Denmark, but was stricken with typhoid fever enroute and died at Alexandria, Egypt. He had been employed for a number of years with the the Jockey Aircraft company of Chicago.

Violent changes in climatic conditions such as experienced in New Guinea, Hoyte said, were fatal to any ordinary plane, although his machine had done great service on 30 flights transporting men and material in sometimes very trying circumstances. Finally, he had to leave it behind at one of the bases with its floats smashed.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sir James Barrie penned Peter Pan and all of his early successes with his right hand, but today the author writes altogether with his left.

In a letter read at the annual dinner of the Newsvendors' Benevolent and Provident Institution Sir James explained how the change came about.

"Soon after The old Lady was written, my right hand (probably horrified at the sight of my caligraphy) gave out, and I have ever since had to write with my left, to the joy of my correspondents."

HALLOWE'EN MISCHIEF SUPPLANTED BY MOVIES

CHICAGO, Dec. 2. (AP)—The victory of the movies over Hallowe'en mischief was "amazing," declared William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago schools, in a report to the board of education.

Only two complaints were reported to the police department, he cited, while thousands of children were being entertained free by 733 movie theaters, with programs supplemented by a half hour of entertainment featuring the pupils themselves.

TEDDY BEAR FIRST U. S. TOY FOR BABY PRINCESS

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Little Princess Elizabeth's first "touch" of America was a cute, snappy appearing teddy bear presented to her by the children of Ilford.

The six months' old princess, who is fourth lady in the land, clasped the teddy bear in her chubby arms at the very first sight and gave it a good hug. The teddy bear, however, stands second in the princess' choice of toys, her favorite being an old wooden yellow and red duckling given by her uncle, the prince of Wales

BIOGRAPHERS GIVE FALSE IMPRESSION OF THE LIFE OF EDGAR ALLEN POE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—A false impression of the life of Edgar Allen Poe prevails in the national mind as the result of biographers confusing his life with that of a little known brother, it is contended by Hervey Allen and Thomas Olive Mabbott in a biography of William Henry Leonard Poe, the brother, to be published soon.

Henry Poe, as the authors call him, was born, like his brother, in Boston in 1807. He died in 1831. He was Edgar's elder by two years. The authors do not find confusion in the general character of the brothers, due to altered composite pictures in previous biographers writings, for, they assert, the brothers were much alike, but they perceive a confusion of the brothers' experience.

"Henry," they say, "is known to have been rather wild, to have early developed a fondness for drink, to have been fond of female society—and to have died young. That he must also have possessed a considerable charm, not a little talent, a somewhat precocious development, and a vivid imagination—what little we have from his immature pen seems clearly to indicate."

Even Henry's physical appearance was much like that of Edgar, but he was a little taller. He wrote poetry on lugubrious themes, was either enlisted in the navy or attached to a merchantman, suffered from melancholy and died early of tuberculosis.

"From various incidents," say the collaborators, "which Edgar Poe afterward 'incorporated' into his own biography, it seems likely that Henry visited the Mediterranean, the Near East and possibly Russia. It is probable that he made one or two general European voyages and at least one to the West Indies and South America, as he indicates himself in his work. Adventures at least, furnished forth a chapter of life which appropriated and perhaps splurged upon by his younger brother (Edgar) for trade purposes. It now appears, indeed, that many of the 'standard' biographies of Edgar Allen Poe are in reality partly a synthesis of Henry's and Edgar's lives, especially in regard to the years 1827-29."

Henry Poe, say the authors, was, in 1827 editor for six months of the North American, an obscure literary magazine from which some of the material in the forthcoming book, "Poe's Brother", was taken. In this magazine appeared excerpts from "Tamerlane" above Henry Poe's initials, Edgar then being enlisted in the army under an assumed name, and in disgrace following expulsion from the University of Virginia for debts.

AGED IN WOOD

A WAGE INCREASE FOR EASTERN RAILROAD MEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Trainmen, conductors, baggagemen and firemen of eastern railroads were granted a 7 1-2 per cent wage increase today by the arbitration board which has been hearing both sides of the wage dispute. The awards affect employes on both passenger and freight trains.

WESTMINSTER

During the series of special services recently held in Westminster by Evangelist L. T. Johnson, there was considerable bad weather with rain and high winds. But with only one exception each night people came to the meeting from a distance and all present were inspired by the messages of Brother Johnson.

Westminster has new life in the expectation of the state trunk line road, now beginning to be built. Many of the men, and some of the officials of the company having the contract, board in Westminster at the Newton's and elsewhere.

The Plainfield churches had their second union Thanksgiving worship in the Baptist church, Moosup, Rev. C. S. Nightingale, pastor, and invited the other churches in their region. Westminster was represented.

A privately owned airship was an object of much interest and close inspection by many, including some from Westminster, Thanksgiving day at Plainfield. Several availed themselves of the opportunity to have a ride.

The ministers' retreat with Rev. J. W. Higgins of Packer last week was a worthwhile experience of fellowship.

Walter "Pat" Jones of Jersey City, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. A. Jones was a guest of his parents at Thanksgiving for several days. Jake Jones, his youngest brother, returned with him. The date was the 15th anniversary of the family coming from Jersey City to live in Westminster.

Ben Davies, who is working in Norwich this winter, was a Thanksgiving guest at the Elm Arch farm, home of his brother, William E. Davies and wife.

Mrs. Parmele Lachapelle and Mrs. Fred Lachapelle and infant daughter spent Thanksgiving with New Haven relatives.

Gaybead school closed for the holiday recess Wednesday with an entertainment followed by refreshments under direction of Miss Esther Kimball the teacher. The children did well and the 25 or more parents and friends enjoyed each feature of the evening. Miss Kimball left Thursday morning for her home in Danielson.

On account of the illness of Mrs. Tracy, teacher, Westminster Hill school was closed Friday and Monday before the holiday recess and its exercises were private.

The location of Canterbury Green for the post office, the change to take place Jan. 1 1927 from its present location at South Canterbury is announced, with Mrs. Lillian Frink as post-mistress. There has been government talk of giving up the town's office, it then being served by R. F. D. from Plainfield. Month's ago, a petition was generally signed asking that Canterbury be allowed to remain on the map as a post office, even though it might be well served from Plainfield, and the decision to allow this causes pleasure to the citizens.

The December W. C. T. U. meeting was at Mrs. Ida Shorter's Tuesday of this week.

PREPARING FOR THE FARM

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I confess that I was a good deal surprised, pleasantly surprised,—to learn that of the 3,306 West Point graduates going into civil life and not into the army 301 have taken up farming. Only civil engineering, which called 310, took a larger number. The law proved attractive to 255, lawyers thus making a sad third after civil engineers and farmers. Edukorship called 42 and the church 22.

Engineering is one of the branches in which West Point specializes. It is not at all surprising, therefore, that the largest number of such of the institution's graduates as do not go into the army, should take up this line.

But I should never have guessed, offhand, that farming would attract an almost equal proportion.

You know, when our boys "go through college" it is almost always with the intention of becoming lawyers or ministers or doctors. Not in one case out of a hundred is it with the expectation of using their college training and education in farming. Years ago theology, law and medicine were grouped as "the learned professions," and it was assumed, as a matter of course, that learned young bachelors of arts would go into one of the three. Farming was an occupation for "peasants" and "hinds" and "boors" and the traditional fool of the family."

Those were the days when theologians disputed hotly over the question how many angels could stand on the point of a needle; when lawyers devoted their energies to hanging men charged with stealing handkerchiefs or burning old women accused of witchcraft; when doctors prescribed ground up mummy powder as a cure-all for disease. Their practices show that they were about as uneducated and wrong-headed a set of gumps as it is possible to conceive. Yet they all boasted themselves of their connection with a "learned profession," and looked down with frank contempt on the tillers of the soil.

So much of that queer old ignorance survives, so strong is its taint in our blood, so mastering the inertia which holds us to old ways and old ideas, that there still remains in many of our minds the feeling that it takes bigger brains and calls for more education and necessitates finer training to be a lawyer or a minister or a doctor than to be a farmer.

Yet the immutable fact is just the opposite. —Oh yes, I'll admit that it takes more talent and more knowledge and more training to be a good lawyer than to be a poor farmer. Equally sure is the corollary that it requires more talent and more knowledge and more technical training to be a good farmer than to be a poor lawyer.

No census gives us the figures how many good lawyers and good farmers or how many poor lawyers and poor farmers there are in the country. There are no statistics to which appeal may be made. For which reason it seems impossible to adduce anything like absolute proof as to any assertion about the superior demands of the one calling over the other.

This doesn't prevent us from talking it over and discussing the relative requirements of the so-called "learned professions" and the so-called "menial" vocation of farming, so long as we keep our tempers and refuse to substitute vituperation for argument.

As the patriarch of old said, "Few and evil have been the days of the years of my life," but in them I have been permitted to observe with some degree of intimacy a good many of the problems which come before "the learned professions" and the others which confront the farmer.

And it is a growing conviction with me that, successfully to solve the problems which are clamoring every day for solution from every farmer's acres requires a wider and deeper knowledge of really worth-while matters, in other words, a broader education, than any purely legal or medical or theological problem ever likely to arise.

I go further. The conviction has become almost settled in my mind that successfully to cope with these farm problems calls for a keenness and technical training even more exigent than is demanded by any of the "learned professions."

Further still, if you'll permit me, I doubt if an equal degree of native talent is ever required to solve any theological, legal or medical puzzle, as is needed to decipher, with pre-eminent success, the hieroglyphic crossword confusion which faces the working farmer.

Please notice that I am careful in every one of these assertions to specify "successful" farming.

There are a lot of poor preachers and poor doctors in the length and breadth of this land of ours. There are also unenumerated hordes of poor farmers. I am willing to admit, for the sake of argument and if you insist, that there are more poor farmers than there are poor lawyers, etc. Poor because they are unsuccessful, and unsuccessful for the very reason that they haven't or anyway don't use the amount of knowledge and talent and trained skill which is the prerequisite of success.

My conception of the qualities necessary in a good farmer to do good farming is pretty high. My ideal of what the good farmer should be is equally high. My opinion of the real value of the work the good farmer does is toweringly high.

There is no spicule of knowledge in earth, water or air so apparently unimportant but it may be, sometime and somehow, of advantage to the farmer. There is no teaching of experience in his own observation or that of others, but may be, sometime and somehow, essential to his fullest success. There is no deftness of expert manipulation possible of acquirement but may be, sometime and somehow, necessary in his work.

To attain the highest available success in his calling he must dig deeper, soar higher, spread out more widely,—he must have a broader knowledge, a quicker vision and a surer hand than are required in any one of the three so-called "learned professions."

It was an idea of the darker ages that manual labor was degrading or, at least, that it was less honorable than mental labor. We are outgrowing the one-sided conception of life. We are coming to understand that the highest attainable manhood is based on "Mens sana in corpore sano,"—a reasonable mind in a vigorous body.

Even in the dark ages, when knighthood was in fullest flower, the most renowned knight was the one with most bodily prowess, the one who could couch steadiest the stoutest lance and swing easiest the heaviest battle-axe and cleave his way by sheer strength farthest into the opposing press of foes.

The only tenable reason for our modern "sports" such as football and baseball and rowing is that they, also, tend to produce more vigorous bodily stamina. They are the logical successors to the gladiators' arena and the tournament of armored knights.

Yet there is no inherent reason why wielding a bat is more honorable than swinging an axe; or why mauling a "pill" with a "mashie" is better exercise than killing a weed with a hoe; or why wrestling with another football eleven is any more effective than tackling a cord-wood pile at the back-door.

There is nothing more commendable in strenuous exercise taken by non-producers for their own amusement, than in similarly strenuous exercise taken in the regular course of the day's work by men engaged in producing for the world's benefit the supplies which it demands.

In other words, manual labor on the farm is quite as honorable as manual labor on the football field or in an eight-oared racing shell.

Of course, dudes and flappers don't see it that way. By which failure they may indeed convict themselves of folly but in no wise do they alter the outstanding fact. Outside their happily limited number, the growing and learning world is coming, slowly but surely, to an appreciation of the honorableness of productive labor. And by that I don't mean any hypocritical copy-book text to be set before children and sneered at by grown-ups, but a true change in the trend of worthwhile opinion. The great world of real men and women is coming to see that a sage's intellect in an anaemic body is no nearer the ideal of manhood than an athlete's body concealing a moron's mind. It is the even balance of the two which makes for the ideal.

That even balance is exactly the effect which good farming, rightly considered, tends to produce. There is no other occupation open to man which demands so insistently the cultivation of both body and mind.

I fancy there will be a few who will dispute my conclusions. Unfortunately it is not agreement with a theory which counts, so much as conformity in practice. And I shall be as prompt as any one else to admit that, heretofore, those who "Amen" the theory have been slow to practice it.

Instead of gravitating to the farms, where their boasted education would find its freest field for use and service, our graduates usually tend to the office. That is why this discovery of the trend to farming among the graduates of our most exacting university, West Point, gave me such a pleasant surprise.

Of course, there is an explanation for it. West Point's primary object is the education and training of officers. And army officers must be men not only of trained minds but of highly developed bodies. The course there devotes almost as much attention to hardening and disciplining and fitting the body as to educating the mind. It is, therefore, natural that graduates who, for any reason, do not go into the army should take to an occupation for whose double demands their double training has shaped them.

There remains the hope which we may be permitted to hold, even though its fruition is not, at present, widely visible, that as wisdom grows the graduates of other institutions of "higher learning" will see their opportunities and hear their calls to share in the upbuilding of what is at once the oldest, the worthiest, and the most insistent occupation open to common men.

There is none in which sound brains and healthy bodies can find ampler verge and wider room for exercise.

—Also, as I will cheerfully agree with you, there is none in which the combination is more needed. — or rarer.

TESTIMONY IN $500,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The love of John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh shovel manufacturer, cooled during an absence of four months in California when she was engaged in motion picture work, Miss Anne Caldwell, New York musical review girl, told a federal court jury today, in supporting her $500,000 breach of promise suit against him.

Previously, Miss Caldwell said, Hubbard had made ardent love to her following their engagement in Atlantic City in 1922 and maintained an apartment for her in New York. She testified that he paid the bills and in addition gave her a number of gifts of jewelry, including an engagement ring and presented her to socially prominent friends as his intended wife.

She lost control of her emotions when she said she insisted that Hubbard marry her but that he refused saying it "would be a disgrace."

They exchanged letters for a while, Miss Caldwell said, when she went to California, but Hubbard finally stopped writing. Becoming stranded, she said she wrote Hubbard, who informed her he wanted her to return to New York. Visited by him shortly afterwards in an apartment arranged for her there, the plaintiff said she asked for an explanation for his changed attitude. He replied, she testified, that his affection had changed and that he never wanted to see her again, leaving her in such reduced circumstances that she had to pawn her jewelry to pay for a hotel room.

PATROL BOATS FAIL TO LOCATE FRENCH RUM SHIP

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A vigilant search of the Gulf of Mexico by patrol boats and coast guard cutters tonight had failed to reveal a trace of the Arsene J., alleged French rum runner which eluded coast guard boats Monday night and escaped with J. E. Matthews, assistant prohibition administrator of New Orleans, and a machinist's mate aboard.

Local authorities received no news during the day from the Commache, Galveston patrol boat aiding in the search. The Tallapoosa, which had been seeking the Arsene J. for two days, continued the search.

From other points in the gulf division, patrol boats and coast guard cutters put out in the attempt to capture the Arsene J.

The belief was expressed by Prohibition Administrator O. D. Jackson at New Orleans that Mr. Matthews and the mate would be put ashore at the first port. The opinion was voiced that the vessel had made for the nearest foreign port, possibly in the Bahama islands.

Mr. Matthews and the mate went aboard the schooner after she had been captured off the Mississippi coast by the coast guard cutter CG-203, Captain J. B. Edmonds, commander of the coast guard unit at Biloxi, who was aboard at the time, reported that the schooner had escaped during a gale when his boat was hampered by a shortage of gasoline.

SAFETY OF FOREIGNERS AT HANKOW ASSURED

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Foreign warships have insured the safety for the present of foreigners at Hankow, 585 miles up the Yangtse river, where agitation by Chinese radicals became threatening Tuesday under guise of an anti-foreign strike.

Other foreign warships have had a salutary effect at Foochow, capital of Fukien province, where Chinese authorities yesterday professed themselves unable to guarantee protection to foreigners, owing to civil war.

Foreign warcraft maintained a quiet vigil in the broad Yangtse opposite Hankow today, while the speed destroyers Truxton and Pope carried the Stars and Stripes up that stream from Shanghai to reinforce them.

The general strike planned for Dec. 4, of all Chinese employed by foreigners, as a mark of displeasure, may not be called, eSttlements are being made of industrial strikes in Hankow, and factories are re-opening.

Japanese warships reached Foochow today, the first of fighting ships asked for by foreign consuls. But the American destroyer Hart was today proceeding from Shanghai to Foochow.

MRS. JOSEPHINE W. LEIDY WEDS MILTON W. HOLDEN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine (Fitt) Widener Leidy was married this afternoon to Milton W. Holden of this city, at "Lynwood Hall," the home of her parents at Elkins Park. Only members of the Widener and Holden families were present.

Mr. Holden married the heiress in her father's famous Van Dyke room where are hung the paintings of the great Dutch master. Joseph E. Widener gave his daughter in marriage.

The ceremony was brief and was performed by the Rev. Charles A. Santee, retired pastor of the Reformed church, at Fort Washington, Pa.

The wedding was almost as unostentatious as the bride's first venture into matrimony five years ago, when she eloped to Tennessee and married Carter Randolph Leidy, of this city. They were divorced last January.

WAGE INCREASE FOR 91,000 EASTERN RAILROAD EMPLOYES

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Fourteen and one half million dollars were added to the annual wages of virtually 91,000 employes of 50 eastern railroads by a railroad arbitration board decision today.

The decision, climax of a year's dispute over wage increase demands of trainmen, conductors, baggagemen and flagmen, was rendered almost coincident with announcement of L. E. Gwyn, vice president of the American Railway Express company, and leaders of unions representing 65,000 employes that they too had decided to arbitrate a wage dispute that has been under discussion since October, 1925.

Today's decision of the arbitration board, granting the 7 1-2 per cent increase to the eastern trainmen, followed hearings at which arguments and testimony from each side were heard. The employes had sought a 19 per cent increase, offering evidence that they were justified by rail earnings, living conditions and other things.

The action of the arbitration board is considered of more than national significance in light of indications that Canadian rail employes were awaiting the board's decision to guide them in their wage dispute with Canadian railways. The Canadian employes have already voted to strike, but did not announce the date for the strike. It has unofficially reported that the date was postponed until the dispute on the eastern railroads was settled.

The increase for the employes of eastern railroads will become effective as from Dec. 1. The board stood four to two on the vote.

SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC REVOLUTIONS IN MEXICO

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—One of the greatest social and economic revolutions in the history of the American continent is now going on in Mexico, Dr. Alva W. Taylor of Indianapolis, said tonight.

Dr. Taylor, who is secretary of the board of temperance and social welfare, Disciples of Christ, spoke at the annual banquet of the International Association of Agricultural Missions.

He based his statement on the recent redistribution of 32,000,000 acres of land to tillers of the soil. Last summer he headed a committee of American clergymen investigating conditions in Mexico.

Dr. Taylor said that one of the greatest problems of distributing the land was in getting it tilled in a productive manner. Many to whom land was distributed failed to make it produce as well as under the old plantation system, because they had never known any way of work except under a master. Many others sought to turn their new land into cash and spend the money.

To make the plan successful, Dr. Taylor said, the government is distributing the land only as rapidly as it can be sure that it will be well and profitably tilled, and it has set up the beginnings of a system of agricultural education.

U. S. ACTRESSES HAVE MORE "KICK"—FRANKAU

LONDON, Dec. 2. (AP)—American actresses have more "kick" in them than English actresses, observes Gilbert Frankau, the novelist, who has just returned from a tour of the United States.

Addressing the O. P. club, made up of theater going "first nighters," Mr. Frankau said there was no doubt but that American actresses were better than the English.

"The English actress is good at comedy," he said, "and very good at back chat across the stage, but when it came to 'tearing it,' as they called it in America, and getting over great emotional scenes, something went wrong with the actresses of England. There are hundreds of actresses in the United States who can really shove over big emotions, yet there is not one in this country."

COAL PINCH PUTS PALACE UNDER RATIONING SYSTEM

LONNDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Royality has been hard hit by the tie-up in the coal mines.

Buckingham palace the London residence of King George and Queen Mary, is back to a rationing system similar to war times, and many of the larger apartments of state have been closed until the situation eases.

State affairs on a large scale at the palace have been crossed off the list, and there is but one banquet of any importance so far scheduled.

WOMEN FAVOR PRACTICE OF BIRTH CONTROL

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Legislation designed to permit the practice of birth control received the endorsement of the New York League of Women Voters at the closing session of its annual convention today, despite the continuance of strong opposition which has prevented its consideration at previous gatherings.

By a vote of 53 to 47, the league went on record as favoring the practice, and the endorsement was embraced in its legislative programme.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny and Polly Chuck Stay Up Late

No one can e'er be at his best
Who doesn't get sufficient rest.
—Old Mother Nature.

Johnny and Polly Chuck were up late. That doesn't mean that they were up late at night. As a matter of fact, they went to bed earlier, much earlier, than they did in summer. You see, the days were shorter. You know how it is. And Johnny and Polly Chuck are usually ready to go to bed with the coming of the Black Shadows. When I say that they were up late I mean that they were later than usual in going to sleep for the winter.

It had been a long and very wonderful fall. Here it was after Thanksgiving and Johnny and Polly Chuck hadn't gone to bed for the winter.

"That would be a silly thing to try to do," replied Polly Chuck

They had agreed that this year they wouldn't go until it was really necessary, and they hadn't found it necessary. Right up until after Thanksgiving there was still green food to be found without going far for it.

They had talked over this matter of sleeping all winter. "For just one winter I should like to stay awake to see what it is like," said Johnny Chuck.

"That would be a silly thing to try to do," replied Polly Chuck. "You know well enough you couldn't find anything to eat."

"How do I know?" retorted Johnny. "I've never stayed awake to find out, and neither have you."

This was too much for poor Polly, so she took no notice of it. "It would be rather nice," said she a little wistfully, "to know what is going on. Just think of all the things that happen while we are asleep, and we never know anything about them."

"That's just it," said Johnny eagerly. "Now, Peter Rabbit knows everything that goes on. If Peter Rabbit can stay awake all winter, I don't see why we can't. Anyway, I have half a mind to try it. We could stay up a little later than usual and see how it goes. I don't see any sense in going to bed so early. There's Nimblefeels the Jumping Mouse—he's been asleep a month already. I believe Striped Chipmunk has the right idea. I understand he sleeps a lot, but he comes out whenever he happens to feel like it. In that way he manages to keep up with the news. There isn't much goes on, even in the middle of the winter, that Striped Chipmunk doesn't know about. But the world could come to an end, and you and I would never know it."

"Striped Chipmunk has plenty of food stored up, and that's a different matter, Johnny Chuck, and you know it," replied Polly. "I don't want to stay awake enough to be willing to go hungry—"

Johnny chuckled. "If you ask me, Polly," said he, "you don't look as if you were ever hungry in your life, or ever would be again. You haven't any waist at all. You'—

"Don't talk to me!" exclaimed Polly. "Just go down to the Smiling Pool and look at your reflection. I'm worried every time you sit up for fear you'll split your coat."

"Well, there you are, Polly," cried Johnny. "There you are! We haven't any food stored down in our house, but we have a lot of it stored away under our skins. Now why not use up a little of it this winter instead of saving it all until spring? I'm sure that by the time we awaken in the spring there will be something to eat somewhere and we can find it. Let's stay up late this year, Polly."

So it was that Johnny and Polly Chuck were up late.

OFF STAGE FORCES ALSO REHEARSE FOR OPERA

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Scenery and lighting rehearsals are as much a part of the preparation for an opera production as those of the singers and orchestra. Stage hands and electricians have their cues upon which a smoothly produced opera depends.

Mechanical effects for new operas are tried out repeatedly before the initial performance, until a "plot," or electrician's score, is satisfactorily established.

J. Butcher, chief electrician for the Metropolitan, prepares the "plots" for that organization. Unlike the operatic score with musical notes to be sung or played, they have written notes telling when certain buttons should be pressed or switches pulled. In reality, they are marked copies of the libretto.

The cues are underscored in the libretto and sheets pasted between the leaves contain the notes to be followed. When a cue is reached, Butcher presses a button, of which there are several rows on a switchboard offstage. An electrician or stage hand at some strategic point hears a buzzer or, if silence is required, see a tiny light flash before his eyes. If his cue is to operate a spotlight, raise or lower a curtain, or perform some other task.

The lights are controlled from a large switchboard in the cellar. A man sits in the cellar with his head protruding through a hole in the stage floor, out of sight of the audience. At a cue, he signals through a speaking tube to the electrician at his feet, who operates the switches, of which there are five rows of approximately 20 each.

At rehearsals, the stage manager, the scenic artist and Butcher watch the stage from seats in the rear of the opera house. By means of a portable telephone they communicate with lieutenants at the switchboards and at other spots behind the scenes. Criticisms and instructions thus are relayed.

After the "plot" is satisfactorily established, it is rehearsed no more until the next season, when each opera is gone over briefly to familiarize new employes with the cues.

TABLET FILLS IN GAP OF BEETHOVEN'S CAREER

BERLIN, Dec. 2. (AP)—Biographers of Beethoven and other students of the great composer's activities have always run into a little gap in his career—the year 1817-1818—which they were unable to bridge. It was assumed that he had his abode in Vienna or its neighborhood.

Now the veil has been raised by workmen who have been restoring the castle of Braiden, near Vienna. A memorial tablet was discovered bearing an inscription saying Beethoven had lived in the castle during that period. He had dropped out of sight after his musical triumph during the congress of Vienna in 1815, and it is thought he was quietly engaged in composition in the retirement of the castle the two succeeding years.

If you wish to gain a woman's everlasting friendship ask her advice and follow it.

"MAYDAY" IS NEW S. O. S. CODE USED BY AIRPLANES

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—An airplane accident over the English channel when 13 persons, including 7 Americans, were rescued brought to light a new international code word for an S O S as used by machines in the air.

It is "Mayday," based upon the French word phrase "M'aidez," meaning, "Aid me." The aeroplane with the ten passengers, pilot and mechanic, sent out several "Mayday" flashes which were picked up by radio stations, as well as steamers.

CIGAR HOLDS POPULAR FAVOR WITH GERMANS

BERLIN, Dec. 2—(AP)—The ever-prevalent cigar is one of the most striking sights in the streets and cafes of Berlin and other German cities. Cigarettes are plentiful, and their use is increasing, but the cigar is still the popular smoke. The pipe is seldom seen in public place and then mostly in the mouths of visitors.

Cigar stores abound in which a "smoke" of sorts can be bought for as little as 2 1-2 cents. For the equivalent of a nickel a good-sized one of fair quality is obtainable. It is difficult to pay more than a dime for the best German-made cigar.

"DUDE" STILL A MENACE IN FRENCH WAR AREAS

LENS, France, Dec. 2—(AP)—Casualties from hidden projectiles that have escaped the search of the crews employed to mop up the shell strewn regions of France are still common here, eight years after the last cannon shot was fired.

Children are the most frequent sufferers. The severe regulations against the picking up of metal scraps by any but the persons employed to clean the regions of projectiles have reduced the number of such accidents but they still occur at the rate of about two per week in the coal region.

KENTUCKY BRANDED ITS FELONS IN EARLY DAYS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 2. (AP)—Persons convicted of felony were liable to being branded as a punishment, it is revealed in the early records of the Fayette county circuit court.

The first victim of this form of punishment was a preacher named Francis Barrett who was convicted of stealing "one man's saddle valued at six pounds." He pleaded not guilty, but upon conviction the court sentenced him to "be burned in the hand, which being done in the presence of the court, he is therefore discharged from custody."

The sentence was carried out March 21, 1786 and at the same term of court Henry Clay was admitted to the bar when the following order was entered: "Henry Clay, Esquire, produced in court a license and on his motion is permitted to practice as an attorney-at-law in this court, and thereupon took the several oaths of law prescribed."

ATTORNEY T. F. DORSEY OF NEW LONDON BEING CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 3—Harry Rosoff, 42 Greene street, Norwich, and proprietor of Rosoff's Motor Mart, 321 Main street, Norwich, today made complaint to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Percy S. Hollandersky, claiming that Thomas F. Dorsey, New London attorney, was guilty of embezzlement and requested that the attorney be proceeded against. After obtaining the facts of the allegation, Acting Prosecuting Attorney Hollandersky instructed Sergeant Nelson Smith to investigate the case and upon obtaining the report of the officer, he ordered that Attorney Dorsey be arrested. An effort was made to locate the attorney, but he could not be found. It is understood that he went to Providence earlier to the day. It was also stated that if Attorney Dorsey was arrested during the day that he would be put under bond and that he would be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

According to information in the hands of the prosecutor, Rosoff occupied a cottage at Ocean beach last summer owned by Morris Luchansky. Bank street merchant and that Rosoff vacated the premises owing Luchansky $105. When Luchansky failed to collect the rental money he retained Attorney Dorsey for the purpose of securing payment. Service was made on Rosoff that payment could be obtained and a few days later, Rosoff tendered to Attorney Dorsey a check for $75, issued by Mrs. Rosoff, but made payable to the attorney, "in full settlement of any and all claim" Luchansky had against Rosoff. Instead of tendering the check to Luchansky, Attorney Dorsey is alleged to have endorsed and negotiated the check, and, receiving the money, appropriated it to his own use.

Mrs. Maggie Gaudet, 71, wife of Leander Gaudet, died last evening at her late home, 114 Bayonet street. Besides her husband, Mrs. Gaudet is survived by three daughters, Mrs William Devereaux, Mrs. Bessie Watson and Mrs. Alice Soulce. Mrs. Gaudet formerly resided in Nova Scotia, removing to New London about a year ago and during which time she had been ill.

Charles W. Horton, 73, died this morning at his home, Graniteville, Waterford, death ending a brief illness. He is survived by one daughter. Mr. Horton was stricken by a shock Sunday and his condition rapidly grew worse until the end. Mr. Horton had been employed several years by the city, being a meter inspector for the water and sewer department and prior to being employed by the city he was proprietor of a locksmith establishment, on Green street.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet U. Allyn, widow of James Allyn, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her former residence, 618 William streets and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James Episcopal church. The honorary bearers were Fitch D. Crandall, Harold Pond and Frederick W. Mercer, this city; Pierre L. Schellens, Warren B. Burrows, Dr. Charles G. Barnum and Julius D. Brown, Groton and Daniel Davis, Westerly. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The condition of Robert McCarthy, well known mason, who was stricken by a shock last Sunday, is reported this afternoon as being critical at his home, Connecticut avenue.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Jeremiah E. Sullivan suspended.

How many times Gipsiome Girl is to be arrested for breach of peace and for intoxication that leads him to offend against the laws of the state and the city no man can tell. He is said to be a proper man when he abstains from red wine, but a bad individual when he is under the influence of that beverage. He has been charged with attacking his children, his mother-in-law and even those who seek to control him. Tuesday night the police were called to take him into custody when he had bitten his daughter. There is trouble in the family pretty constantly. Girl was to have been prosecuted today for his latest offense, but when he was arraigned he declared that he desired a lawyer. To allow him to defend himself his case went over till Thursday. In the meantime he is in jail. His family fears him and the police declare they are wisely suspicious of him.

Larry Brockett was charged with having allowed his automobile to stand in State street at the front of the municipal building nearly two hours yesterday while he was in the building. He admitted that he was justly accused, but pleaded that he was in the building to transact business and that time flitted by so swiftly that he did not realize how long his car had been left unattended. He drew a suspended judgment, but he was cautioned that when he offended again a fine would be imposed.

Lawrence B. McEwen was fined $5 for parking his auto two feet away from the curbing on the west side of Meridian street, a section where congestion is pretty constant and where the highway is not wide. He is a resident of this city and as such is supposed to be familiar with the ordinances, so there seemed to be no excuse for an infraction of the ordinance.

Earl R. Edgcomb was charged with recklessly operating an auto, but circumstances warranted a continuance, so the case went over till Wednesday of next week.

The police were called to a house tonight where it was stated that a man was choking his wife and that unless help arrived quickly the woman would be killed. Three patrolmen were rushed to the house only to find that an altercation had occurred between the husband and wife, but the latter was entertaining no desire to have her mate arrested. Instead she declared that the husband was slightly irritable and that he could conduct himself far from any semblance of anger.

State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers has returned to his home, Pequot avenue, after having attended the sesquicentennial at Philadelphia where he witnessed the closing exercises in connection with Connecticut's presentation of a state flag to the sesqui.

Francis Hamilton, member of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Perry, state pier, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a knife wound of the head. His condition is not considered serious. The accident that befel Hamilton was at sea and the exact facts pertaining to it have not been ascertained. It is understood, however, that Hamilton was one of several members of the destroyer's crew who were enjoying themselves in throwing knives, their objective being a board into which the blade was thrust. In moving about, Hamilton walked in front of a knife being thrown and the blade struck him on the forehead. Because of the extensiveness of the wound, the Perry was steamed to port and after the injured man had been admitted to the hospital, the destroyer put to sea again.

Mrs. Carlos Barry, Jr., and infant son, Quaker Hill; Mrs. George Whittlesey, Crocker house and Mrs. Joseph Fidalgo, 57 Woodbridge street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Joseph Caffrey, 57 Bellevue place, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, was able to return to his home today.

Mrs. Robenia D. Floyd, 66, wife of John Floyd, died this morning at her late home Clifton street, Waterford, her death terminating a brief illness. She is survived, besides her husband, by two daughters, Miss Robenia D. Floyd, teacher at the Colt street school, and Miss Belle Floyd, and by two sons, Robert D. Floyd and J. James Floyd, all of this city. She was a member of the Huntington street Baptist church and of the Ladies' Aid society of that church. Prior to residing in New London, Mrs. Floyd resided in Salisbury, New Brunswick, Canada, where she was born, and also in Noank. Mrs. Floyd was taken ill last Monday, but her condition was not considered such as to alarm the members of her family. This morning she suffered a shock and expired a short time later.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Hazel G. Hilliar, daughter of Mrs. E. Estelle Hilliar, Main street Niantic, to T. Theodore Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Sullivan, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Caulkins, 61 Franklin street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Caroline O. Caulkins, to Joseph P. Osborne, Middletown, N. Y.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Dorothy P. Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter M. Berry, Farmington avenue, Hartford and summer residents here, to Harold F. DeCoursey, Warren street, this city.

An automobile truck from the submarine base and an automobile driven by Frederick Burrows, Groton, collided at the intersection of Thames and School streets, Groton, this morning. The damage was slight.

The new bridge at Groton Long Point has been completed and is now ready for traffic. It is located on the main highway to the beach and is much wider than the former structure. It cost $807.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theater

A surprise awaited the crowds every day this week at the Strand theater. The atmosphere of the theater seemed to be entirely changed in every way. Large, roomy, comfortable seats with plenty of "leg room" eliminating that cramped feeling that many theaters have—its cosiness and the musical acoustic qualities enabling easy hearing without that "ear-stretching" strain to catch the spoken word from the stage and the entire atmosphere as a first class theater—all came in for general praise.

The five act Keith-Albee program that opened yesterday once again proved as in the past, that the world's best artists come to this city by means of this great vaudeville circuit.

Millie Delaska, who works in blackface is the first delightful opening stage offering.

Dave Fox and Jane Allyn in Alex Gerber's comedy To Let followed. They patter and sing and are genuinely entertaining.

Will Moore and Marian assisted by Eleanor Warren offered a real laughable skit entitled What Price Auntie.

Bigson Herbert and Barbara Neely, late of musical comedy, and who need no introduction to Norwich fans, are as funny as ever in Laugh-landers.

The closing stage offering is of the sensational kind featuring Sansone and company making the 56th hit of the stage offerings.

The big Columbia fire-fighting melodrama The False Alarm has only two more days to run at the Strand theater. This picture featuring Dorothy Revier, includes some of the most interesting types of any current production. In the supporting cast are Maurice Costello, John Harron, George O'Hara, Priscalla Bonner, Lillian Leighton, Arthur Hoyt and William Franey.

The management reports excellent satisfaction as a result of the thrilling suspense and human interest element sustained throughout.

Palace Theatre

Five big time headline acts feature this week-ends vaudeville program at the Palace theatre. Ethel Marine & Co. starts the show off with a bang, with sensational aerial and balancing feats seldom seen, also some smart character posing. She is ably assisted by her beautiful dog who has been seen on the screen in several pictures. Miss Marine combines grace and charm and is a petite figure to watch. Following is the clever Allan Shaw, this chap is a drawing room entertainer, but doesn't mean he can't provide excellent entertainment on the stage. Mr. Shaw is mighty talented with his fingers, and instead of developing them as a pickpocket, he has used them to evolve a fine art in the manipulation of coins. All of his tricks are accompanied by a sly wistful humor that makes his accomplishments all the more enjoyable. Cookes Revue provide the big punch of the bill with a rendition of clever comedy, tuneful singing and neat dancing. This great act has 10 able artists including a band replete with syncopation. The dancing of an unprogrammed boy stands out boldly. For real comedy, Pisano & Landauer are in a class by themselves; they are the personification of joy and dispellers of gloom. The act that really predominated this big program is Captain Kidds Kabaret, a nautical, piratical revue with a company of five in a treasure of song and dance fantasy. Each performer is in pirate garb, and the scene of a pirate atmosphere makes this act a pretty sight. The Grand Duchess and the Waiter is the chief cinema attraction, starring Adolph Menjou, ably supported by Florence Vidor. A surprise awaits the ladies at the matinee today, and on Saturday afternoon, a kiddie frolic is staged, the youngsters to appear on the stage in songs, dances and recitations, and it is easy to imagine the comical situations.

Many an alleged blessing in disguise would be a blessing but for the disguise.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Festival of St. Francis Xavier, patron saint and apostle of India.

As a reminder to the kiddies, only three weeks now until Christmas eve.

On this date, 178 years ago, was born George Cabot, the first secretary of the navy.

The centenary will be observed today of the birth of Gen. George B. McClellan, who was the commanding general of the U. S. army at the beginning of the Civil war.

Senators and representatives, the victors and vanquished in the November elections, will begin to gather in Washington today in anticipation of the convening of the 69th congress for its final session.

Owing to present disturbed conditions in Central America, the administration in Washington is awaiting with some concern the outcome of the elections to be held in Guatemala today, when a new president of the republic will be chosen, to succeed General Lazaro Chrocon, who has held the office since the death in September of General Jose Marie Orellano.

Norwich Music Association

On account of illness Miss Dorothy George has found it necessary to cancel her engagement with the Norwich Music association for Monday evening, December 6.

The association has been fortunate in securing Mrs Laura Littlefield to present the program on Monday evening in Miss George's stead.

Mrs. Littlefield is the possessor of a very beautiful voice of exceptional purity, and her diction is unusually clear and perfect. She has to her credit eleven appearances with the Boston Symphony orchestra, and has just completed a tremendously successful engagement with the Symphony Orchestra of New Haven.

The fee for membership in the association is $3.00 and it should be remembered that the six remaining concerts scheduled for the season include the finest artists the association has engaged. Admission to this recital only will be 75c.

In Slater Hall Tonight

Angelo Patri is coming to Norwich to speak! A golden opportunity and how many will avail themselves of that rare privilege! The Norwich Teachers' league is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in securing a man so well able to speak on The Child of Today.

Coming from Italy as a very young child, Angelo Patri soon learned to speak and write the English language. During his school days he felt the need of the teacher's personal touch and the total absence of any chance for individual development. Now, as principal of a large school in West Side, New York, he has profited through his contact with many children. He has learned, like most of us, that experience is the best teacher and it has been his own mistakes in dealing with children that have made him sympathetic, understanding and progressive principal that he is.

Eleanor P. Norton says how very fortunate Norwich is in being able not only to hear a man speak on a subject vital to us all but to listen to one with such a charming personality. Anyone who has ever heard Angelo Patri would never miss another chance to hear him. Those who fail to attend his lecture tonight will miss a rare opportunity for a stimulating evening.

Breed Theatre

One of the most colorful spectacles ever introduced into a screen production was filmed in the new Cosmopolitan production of Vincente Blasco Ibanes' "The Temptress" in a sensational ballet number directed by Theodore Kosloff, famous dance creator. Special lighting effects and glittering costumes marked this spectacle, laid in a Parisian revel in the new romance of Paris and the Argentine, which comes Sunday to the Breed theatre.

Greta Garbo and Antonio Moreno head a notable cast, in which is included Lionel Barrymore, Marc McDermott, Roy D'Arcy, Virginia Brown Faire and other notables. It was directed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios by Fred Niblo.

Breed Theatre

Col. Tim. McCoy, star of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's initial western film production, "War Paint," is said to be the greatest living authority on the North American Indian. The picture, now showing at the Breed theatre depicts the Indian in his true light and shows that he has as many, if not more, good characteristics as his white brother.

"Anybody living for a while among the Indians," says McCoy, "soon learns these good qualities and appreciates them. It is very seldom that an Indian forgets an act of kindness and once you teach him to trust you, you may be sure that you can trust him."

This new western hero is the son of a former army officer and was reared among things military. In fact his own army record is not a mean one—having been the youngest colonel in the United States army and is now a brigadier general of Wyoming State Militia.

McCoy young and goodlooking, has the appearance of one from "the great open spaces." He looks western and acts western. He has a natural grace which ought to take the place of any lack of screen technique.

Pauline Starke, heroine of many film productions, appears opposite McCoy in "War Paint." The supporting cast contains many well known screen names including that of Karl Dane, the famous "Slim" of "The Big Parade."

FOUR MEN CONVICTED OF MURDER IN NEW JERSEY

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 2.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of New Jersey four men today were convicted for the murder of one man and sentenced to die in the electric chair for the crime.

The men, Joseph "Big Joe" Juliano, Nicholas Joseph "Little Joe" Juliano, Louis "Kid Ruff" Caponzi and Christopher Barone, were convicted of murdering George N. Condit during a holdup at the Reid Ice Cream company on July 19.

They were sentenced tonight by Judge Edwin C. Caffrey to die the week of Jan. 16.

STOCK PRICES IMPROVE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—(AP)—With buying stimulated for a reduction in call money rates and a series of favorable dividend announcements, stock prices resumed their upward movement today on a greatly enlarged volume of trading. The brisk demand for high grade rails and industrials was attributed, in part, to the heavy reinvestment of year-end dividend and interest payments.

Seldom in recent weeks have the so-called standard industrials shown such uniform strength. U. S. Steel common crossed 149 for a gain of more than 2 points and Baldwin, American Smelting, Allied Chemical and General Motors closed a point or so higher. Rails did not move up as fast, trading in these issues being restricted pending the announcement of decision on applications for higher wages, an increase of 7 1-2 per cent to trainmen on eastern roads being announced this afternoon.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent and then declined to 4 1-2 as funds began to flow back here from the interior. After the close of the market, the New York Federal Reserve bank announced that the rediscount rate of 4 per cent was unchanged.

Oil shares continued to respond to reports of large current earnings, with Maryland and Atlantic Refining leading the advance in that group. Jewel Tea was pushed up to a new high at 47 3-8 on the declaration of back dividends of $9 on the preferred. Burroughs Adding Machine responded to the directors' proposal of a 33 1-3 per cent stock dividend by soaring 7 1-2 points to 172, also a new top. Among the dozen or so other new highs were Corn Products Refining, Porto Rican Tobacco, Iron Products, International Harvester and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

New peak prices in the railroad section were established by Frisco preferred, "Katy" preferred and Lehigh Valley.

Renewed weakness of cotton, with the December option falling to a new low level for the season, and another rally of 1 to 1 cents a bushel in wheat prices were the contrasting features in the commodity markets. Raw sugar was unchanged but coffee prices were heavy.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Another sensational jump of 12 points in French francs, which carried them to nearly 3.85 cents or within a point of the year's high overshadowed all other developments in the foreign exchange markets. Demand sterling held slim above 4.84 1-2, and most of the continental rates were slightly higher. Mexican and Chinese silver currencies were heavy.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNS OF PNEUMONIA SEASON COMING

From November to March inclusive comes the highest incidence of pneumonia, says the state department of health. At this period of the year people are apt to live under more crowded conditions, in overheated, poorly ventilated rooms, which make it more difficult to withstand exposure to cold and inclement weather which prevail. The effect of living under crowded conditions was shown during the World war when pneumonia was nine times more prevalent in the barracks than among the same age in civilian life.

Lobar pneumonia in the past has claimed more attention than broncho pneumonia, and it is only in recent years that the latter has been made reportable in Connecticut. Yet the number of deaths in Connecticut in 1924-1925 from broncho pneumonia during the winter months were nearly as many as from lobar pneumonia.

Lobar and broncho pneumonia are two distinct diseases, the former often developing more rapidly, and attacking people in supposedly robust health while broncho pneumonia is often secondary to some other disease such as measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever. This may explain its high mortality since patients often have low resistance after winning a fight against a previous disease. This calls attention to the most important factor in the development of the pneumonias, that is, a low body resistance, either following some wasting disease, fatigue from over-work, sudden exposure to extreme cold or storm after being overheated in home or office.

Connecticut's death toll from the pneumonias from November to March, inclusive, last year was 1007. What will the record for 1926-27 be?

Now is the time to take certain precautions against these diseases, most important of which are,

Avoid sudden extremes in temperature.

Avoid over-fatigue and worry.

When caught in a storm remove wet shoes and clothing as soon as possible.

When a cold develops stay at home and rest. Colds have not been proven to be the direct descendants of pneumonia, but they are often a contributing cause since, if long continued, they lower body resistance.

Keep away from pneumonia patients. In Pittsburg, Pa., the incidence of the disease has been greatly lessened by isolating pneumonia patients.

Berry-De Coursey Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Berry of Farmington avenue, Hartford, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Philomena, to Harold F. De Coursey, son of Mrs. Maria De Coursey, of Warren street, New London. The announcement was made at a dinner party Thanksgiving evening, at which 16 guests were present.

Studying for West Point

William Mahoney, son of William T. Mahoney of this city, has left for a three months preparation at the Stanton-Loomis preparatory academy for his final examinations to West Point on March 1, 1927.

Surprise For Birthday

A surprise party was given Mrs. E. S. Bennett at her home on Main street Wednesday afternoon in honor of her birthday. A social time was enjoyed by all and lunch served by her daughters, Mrs. Bennett being voted a most genial hostess.

RHEUMATISM

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills thousands years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed for. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless—quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from Lee & Osgood Co., or any druggist today. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back.

PARDON PLEA FOR GILPATRIC TURNED DOWN BY THE PRESIDENT

According to a special dispatch from Washington to the Hartford Times, a second unsuccessful attempt has been made to obtain a presidential pardon for G. Harold Gilpatric, former state treasurer, and former cashier of the First National bank at Putnam. President Coolidge refused to extend presidential clemency to the man who wrecked the bank of which he was the active head.

The request for a pardon is understood to have been made by Warden John Snook of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where Gilpatric is serving a sentence of fifteen years, imposed by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the federal court for the district of Connecticut.

Gilpatric pleaded guilty to the charges of embezzlement on fifteen counts as made by United States Attorney John Buckley of Hartford.

The application for a pardon as made by Warden Snook was referred to the department of justice, following the usual procedure. It is understood in Washington that when the matter was referred to the United States attorney at Hartford it was returned without his approval. The first petition for a pardon for Gilpatric was made by Warden Snook last Christmas, and was denied by the president, acting on the recommendation of the department of justice. It is unlikely that a Christmas petition will now be filed in a behalf of Gilpatric.

When Warden Snook applied for a pardon for Gilpatric last year it was announced it was done because of the fact that Gilpatric's total blindness made his imprisonment much more severe than if he had his eyesight.

"One year in prison for a blind man is equal to five in an ordinary case," was the opinion of Warden Snook, as related by Gilpatric when he was in Hartford last year. It was further explained that for monetary reasons, the government would like to get rid of Gilpatric as a prisoner. He earns nothing, requires the services of an attendant at all times, and is not an asset to the prison budget.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS DECREASED LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Automobile accidents in the state during the week ending November 27 were less numerous than during the corresponding week of 1925, acording to the weekly report issued today by the department of motor vehicles. This is the first time in several months that there has not been an increase in the number of accidents.

The total number of accidents during the week was 431 as compared with 488 a year ago. The fourteen cities, for which a detailed report is compiled, had 273 accidents, three more than the 270 of a year ago. The fatal accident at Warehouse Point on the night of November 20, in which Douglas H. Thomson, of Farmington and Edward W. Cummins, of Winetka, Ills., were killed, is included among the three fatal accidents of the week. Last year there were six such accidents of the week. Last year there were six such accidents with six victims.

Although Hartford again led the cities of the state in the number of accidents, its total of 59 for the week was lower than for several weeks. Bridgeport reported 53, the second highest number. Accidents in other cities as follows: New Haven, 45; Waterbury, 39; New Britain, 22; Meriden, 16; Stamford, 14; Greenwich, 10; New London, 10; Middletown, 9; Norwich, 8; Danbury, 4; Norwalk, 3; Winsted, none.

The other fatal accidents were at West Haven where W. E. Scofield was killed and New Britain where Joseph Setar was the victim. The total of four deaths from automobile accidents during the week was the lowest in several months.

CHARLES E. HOLMES' POEMS MEMORIAL TO A GENIUS

Friends and classmates of the late Charles Elmer Holmes, N. F. A., '30, Yale '24, are re-reading with new interest the books which he wrote, as they mourn his recent sudden death at the very height of his brilliant and useful career.

One of these books is his collected poems, entitled "Happy Days". This is an attractive little volume in silver gray, its cover design by I. H. Snyder, Jr., showing scattered calendar leaves in gold for each month of the year, these apparently drifting leaves bearing each one letter of the book's title. The collection bears the dedication: "To my Mother."

In all, there are 41 poems, most of them breathing the spirit of the free, wide horisoned west—The Hymn of the Prairies, The Cowboy's Sweetheart, On Broken Wing, The Silent Sage, The Bad Lands, A Song of Dakota, In the Carboniferous Era, Wishin', Geology, The Goblins and others.

Mr. Holmes was a native of North Stonington.

RESTAURANT OWNERS SUE TO COLLECT FIRE INSURANCE

Four suits against fire insurance companies to collect a claimed loss of $7,500 in the fire that destroyed The Seafood Restaurant at 98 Bank street, New London, on June 28, 1926 have been brought in the superior court by A. Boodris, T. Stravios and G. Pappas, partners and proprietors of the restaurant.

The suits are brought respectively against Patriotic Insurance Co., of New York, policy dated April 6, 1926, premium $17.50; Atwood Fire Insurance Co., of New York, policy dated April 8, 1926, premium $35; New Zealand Insurance Co., of Auckland, New Zealand, policy, dated Aug. 1, 1925, premium $17.50; London and Lancashire Insurance Co., Ltd., of London, England, policy dated Nov. 17, 1925, premium $52.50.

None of the companies have paid the loss, although the plaintiffs claim they have performed their part under the policy, furnishing proofs of loss on Aug. 17, 1926. The suits are returnable to the superior court in December.

A case, charging A. Boodris, et al., with arson, on account of this fire, is now pending on the docket of the criminal superior court.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB ELECTS YEAR'S OFFICERS

There was an unusually large attendance at the December meeting of the Catholic Women's club of St. Patrick's parish, held Thursday afternoon in the rooms of the Ladies of Columbus, the president, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke in charge. Reports of progress were made by the different committees for the annual Christmas sale.

At the business session there was the election of officers. As Mrs. O'Rourke declined re-nomination, after a year of great efficiency, Mrs. Nelson C. Disco was elected president. Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh was the choice for vice president, Mrs. Maurice F. Kelly, financial secretary and Mrs. William Farrell recording secretary. Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May has again consented to act as treasurer for the organization.

Members of the executive board—Mrs. William Fitzgerald, chairman, Mrs. John B. Caron, Mrs. Bernard J. Coyle, Mrs. John Brassill, Mrs. Patrick M. Coleman, Mrs. James H. Woods, Mrs. John Kennedy.

Investigation committee—Mrs. N. C. Disco, Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Mrs. Mary McCarthy.

Chairman of sewing committee, Mrs. Dennis J. Hayes. Of flower fund, Mrs. T. J. McVeigh. Of entertainment committee, Mrs. B. M. Coyle.

Following the business meeting, sandwiches, cake and tea were served by the committee for the afternoon, Mrs. James J. Lutton, Mrs. Thomas McVeigh, Mrs. Dennis Hayes and Mrs. Thomas F. Burns. The table was in Christmas decorations of tinsel with red candles in silver candlesticks. During the social hour Mrs. B. M. Coyle entertained with piano numbers, and there were songs by Mrs. Coyle, Mrs. J. B. Caron and Mrs. George Roberts.

As usual, the club will devote the winter to sewing for the poor of St. Patrick's parish and to other charity work.

RED CROSS EXPENDITURES BY NORWICH CHAPTER

In making the appeal for the tenth annual roll call of the American Red Cross, the Norwich chapter shows that expenditures in Norwich and vicinity have been made as follows: $360 for carrying on the home service work for veterans, $120 for disabled and needy veterans, $100 for medical work in the schools, $224.58 sent to Florida for relief work.

The officers of Norwich chapter are: Charles Cole, chairman; Walter F. Lester, vice chairman; Roberts H. Learned, secretary; Arthur L. Peale, treasurer, and Theo. R. Sage, assistant treasurer.

Fined in City Court

At the Thursday morning session of the city court a local man was fined $10 and costs for striking another man Wednesday evening on High street. Accused admitted he had been drinking. The continued case against John J. O'Malley, charged with resisting an officer, was again continued, owing to the fact that O'Malley failed to show up in court.

GAIR CO. HEADQUARTERS MOVING FROM BROOKLYN

The Robert Gair company, which is one of the largest manufacturing enterprises in Brooklyn, N. Y., and is the parent concern of the paperboard mill on the Thames river at Uncasville, is to move its Brooklyn headquarters plant to Piermont, Rockland county, N. Y. There are 500 employes in the Brooklyn plant. It is expected to have the moving completed by next March.

The removal of the plant from Brooklyn is in the interests of economy, officers of the company in Brooklyn stated. For many years the Robert Gair company has had a paperboard mill at Piermont. The paperboard manufactured at the mill was brought to Brooklyn for manufacture into boxes and various other things, entailing heavy shipping and freight costs. By moving the manufacturing plant to Piermont, these and other costs will be reduced. A number of large buildings to house the machinery are now in process of erection at Piermont.

The Robert Gair company was originally established in 1864 by Robert Gair, who is still actively interested in the business despite his advanced years. He is chairman of the board of directors. In 1905 the company was incorporated in New York state. About ten years ago the company undertook a large program of expansion, during which it acquired paper mills and paperboard mills at Piermont, N. Y., Uncasville, Conn., Haverhill, Mass., Chicago and Quincy, R. I.

The largest unit of its factories has been located in Brooklyn. The plant includes eight factory buildings, five of them being modern reinforced concrete structures, a power plant, garage, stables and carpenter's shop, representing a total floor area of 37 acres.

The officers of the company are Robert Gair, chairman of the board of directors; G. W. Gair, president; Robert Gair, Jr., first vice president; C. E. Williams, second vice president; Lawrence Beattie, Jr., treasurer; L. A. Standerman, secretary; Louis Van Hasslacher, controller, and J. M. Perry, counsel.

BIRTH AND MARRIAGE RATES ARE DECREASING

A constantly decreasing birth rate which will result in 4,600 less births in Connecticut in 1926 than during 1924, is reported in the November number of the monthly bulletin of the state department of health, which has just been issued. While the birth rate is decreasing there has been a slight increase in the death rate and a noticeable decrease in the marriage rate, according to the bulletin.

Reports are given in the bulletin on the number of births, marriages and deaths in the state for the first nine months of the year with figures for the corresponding period in 1924 and 1925. During this period there were 21,628 births in the state as compared with 22,618 in the same period in 1925 and 24,618 in 1924. The decrease in the number of births has resulted in a drop in the birth rate from 21.5 in 1924 to 18.8 in 1926. The rate in 1925 was 19.7.

Deaths in the first nine months of each of the three years totaled as follows:

13,813 in 1926; 13,224 in 1925; and 12,743 in 1924. The rate increased from 11.8 in 1924 to 11.8 in 1926 with 11.5 in 1925.

Marriages during the first nine months of this year totaled 8,744, almost 300 less than the 9,025 in 1925, and more than 800 less than the 9,552 in 1924. The rate has decreased from 8.5 in 1924 to 7.9 in 1925 and 7.4 in 1926. All rates are on annual basis per 1,000 of population.

During the month of September 2,160 births were reported, 207 less than the 2,367 reported in 1925. The birth rate for the month was only 16.6, the lowest rate to appear in the last six years, in addition there were eighty three stillbirths, the ratio being 37 per 1,000 total births.

The death rate during the month of September was unusually low, there being 1,226 deaths as compared with 1,269 in September 1925, a decrease of sixty three. The rate for the month was 9.4, considerably lower than the yearly rate.

A Peculiar Accident

Going up the cellar stairs at the town farm recently, Lawrence W. Kenyon of Hopkinton, was landed on his shoulder when the stair broke and sent him below. He is very lame, his physician stating that the shoulder was thrown out of position and back in again, during the tumble.

TO BUILD TWO MORE SUBMARINES AT GROTON

Officials of the Electric Boat Co., announced on Thursday the receipt from the Peruvian government of a contract for the construction of two more submarines. The vessels will be named the R-3 and R-4 and will be similar in design to the R-1 and R-2, which are now en route to San Lorenzo Island, Peru. The latter two vessels left the Groton plant of the New London Ship & Engine Co., subsidiary of the Electric Boat Co., 13 days ago and arrived at Colon, Panama Canal Zone, last Sunday.

The R-3 and R-4 will be constructed at the Groton plant of the Ship & Engine Co. and work on them will be started immediately. The vessels, like the R-1 and R-2, will each displace 600 tons, will be 200 feet long, and will be propelled on the surface by two six-cylinder Diesel engines, designed especially for them by the Ship & Engine Co. Like the R-1 and R-2 they will be of the Holland type of single hull construction and will be equipped with every modern device known to the art of submarine construction and navigation. Each will be equipped with four torpedo tubes and one three-inch, .50-calibre gun. They will be capable of a surface speed of 15 knots per hour and a submerged speed of 10 knots, and will have a cruising radius of 8,000 miles.

Peruvian naval officials were greatly pleased with the performance of the R-1 and R-2 in the non-stop run of 2,056 miles to Panama. Unaccompanied by convoy the two ships made the long journey without incident and with the motors behaving in fine fashion.

SEC'Y WILBUR TESTIFIES IN THE FALL-DOHENY CASE

Counsel For the Government Accused the Secretary of Seeking to Restrict the Testimony of a Retired Naval Officer —Endeavor is Being Made to Prove That Fall Personally Supervised the Details of the Elk Hills and Pearl Harbor Negotiations—Admiral Robison Testified For the Defense.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The defense today drew Secretary of the Navy Wilbur into the Fall-Doheny criminal conspiracy trial.

They accused the secretary in open court of seeking to restrict the testimony of a retired naval officer and produced what they said was an official order to prove it.

Whether the document is to go before the jury was still undecided when court adjourned tonight, but Mr. Wilbur will be put on the witness stand tomorrow or Monday. He declined tonight to forecast what his testimony would be.

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for the defense, presented the document during examination of Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, retired former chief of the bureau of engineering, when the witness refused to answer questions concerning the strategic importance of the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, naval base.

Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, lessee of the Elk Hills oil reserve, are charged with criminal conspiracy to defraud the government in the negotiations which led to the lease and the award to Doheny's company of an oil storage contract at Pearl Harbor.

Admiral Robison, one of the principal defense witnesses, was called for questioning as to the part the navy took in the negotiations. As special representative of Edwin Denby, the secretary of the navy at the time, he said he was charged with all negotiations involving the navy's interest, and in that capacity was conversant with virtually every step in the conversations which culminated in the leases and contracts awarded Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

When Hogan questioned Robison as to the official status of the Pearl Harbor base in the war plans division of the navy department, the witness refused to answer.

"Have you received any orders from the navy department?" Hogan asked.

"Yes."

"Produce it."

Robison refused, but finally handed a paper to Justice Hoehling, presiding.

"I see no need of publishing that," the court said.

The matter then was taken under advisement, following government objection to Hogan's tender of the document in evidence.

The text of the letter as quoted by the defense follows:

"It appearing that you have been subpoenaed to court, you are hereby ordered not to disclose any confidential information which may have come into your possession as an officer of the navy.

(Signed) "CURTIS D. WILBUR, Secretary."

The Wilbur flurry was the climax of a laborious day which put before the jury evidence that both sides averred supported their case.

The cross examination of Dr. H. Foster Bain, former director of the bureau of mines, was directed by the prosecution to an effort to establish its contention that Fall personally supervised the details of the Elk Hills and Pearl Harbor negotiations.

The direct examination of Admiral Robison and three other defense witnesses was viewed by the defense as having supported their claim that the navy department's close watch of the negotiations rendered collusion between Fall and Doheny impossible.

Admiral Robison said he was acquainted with every detail of the negotiations and that the interior department subordinates did nothing final without consulting him. He, in turn, presented all important questions to Secretary Denby for his personal consideration and approval.

Denby approved Robison's decision to assent to the interior department's proposal to open the Elk Hills reserve to additional leasing, the witness said. He also personally approved the Pearl Harbor contract, and ordered Robison to proceed with the navy's part in its immediate execution.

A detailed map of Pearl Harbor and contiguous territory was spread before the jury in the examination of Rear Admiral Gregory, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, who was called for examination as to the importance of the $100,000,000 naval base to the Pacific fleet. He identified departmental memoranda which culminated in formal acquiescence by Secretary Denby to the interior department's plans for handling naval oil.

Admiral Robison testified later he understood these plans had originated, not with Fall, but in the offices of petroleum technologists of the bureau of mines.

Robison said he had recommended acceptance of the Pan-American bid on Pearl Harbor because he was convinced it was at least $500,000 below two other bids submitted.

The clause in the contract, dated April 26, 1922, granting the Pan-American "preferential rights" to such Elk Hills land as might thereafter be thrown open to leasing, he regarded at the time as unimportant, he said.

Another Doheny company was granted the Elk Hill lease on Dec. 11, 1922.

Estimates of the geological survey previously in evidence placed the underground reserve in Elk Hills at 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 barrels.

WILD WEST PICTURED IN CRABTREE WILL CONTEST

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Echoes of the early eighties when Tombstone, Ariz., was a roaring camp were heard today in the Suffolk probate court here. Pictures of the good old bad old days were drawn in depositions read in support of the claim of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriels, Calif., to share in the $4,000,000 estate of the late Lotta Crabtree, actress.

Affidavits of two old timers of the Arizona mining camp supported the contention of Mrs. Cockburn that she was the daughter of the late John A. Crabtree, brother of Lotta Crabtree, and therefore a niece of the actress. The deponants were Robert Henry Reynolds of Naco, Ariz., and Michael M. Rice, now of California.

In Tombstone, described as a town of 500 inhabitants, a day's journey by stage from the railroad, life was simple, the affiants said. Killings were frequent and the Vigilantes had much to do. Men were careful how they talked about men and women, for they were held responsible for their remarks. In this background, both said, Jack Crabtree lived with a woman who was generally considered to be his wife. Reynolds and Rice both swore they knew of a daughter born of the union. They said they had known Lotta Crabtree in California, and that the Crabtree they saw in Arizona was the actress' brother.

Reynolds in his deposition said Jack Crabtree had told him he intended to name the baby Carlotta after his sister.

Reynolds said also that he had known Crabtree's wife in San Francisco under the name of Anna Leopold. He had been told the Crabtree's were married in that city.

Rice, who said he met Lotta Crabtree while he was a call boy in a San Francisco theatre, said he came across Jack Crabtree for the first time in Tombstone. Crabtree then lived with a "swell looking woman", generally believed to be his wife. Some years later, he said, he met the woman in Tucson, and she told him Jack had left her and that she was going to try to make him do something for the baby.

JURY IN MORSE CASE LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Unable to reach a verdict, the jury in the Morse trial, in which six men, three of them sons of Charles W. Morse, are charged with misuse of the mails to promote an alleged fraudulent scheme for sales of stock in the various Morse companies, was locked up at 11:40 o'clock tonight.

Special recommendations were made by Federal Judge Thacher for George A. Burdett and Henry E. Boughton, two of the defendants.

Judge Thacher advised the jury that in the case of Boughton, a stock broker, they must feel themselves convinced by the evidence that Boughton had knowledge of the falseness of statements at the time he sent them to clients.

In the case of Burdett it was recommended that the jury have it clearly established that he intended to use the mails to defraud before passing upon his guilt.

The defendants in the case, beside Boughton and Burdett, are Benjamin [illegible] Harry F. and Erwin A. Morse and [illegible] M. Meeh.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN AGREE UPON MILD ACTION IN CHINA

PARIS, Dec. 3—(AP)—France and Great Britain have decided to act with caution and circumspection to defend the respective interests in China during the present disturbed conditions there, Foreign Minister Brian today said after a conference on mutual problems between him and Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain.

Sir Austen, also discussing the Chinese situation, said: "We reached no decision as to a common policy in China, but we both view the situation in the same light."

Both Sir Austen and M. Briand, in interviews this evening, warned that settlement of the outstanding problems between the allied nations and Germany, such as evacuation of the Rhineland and the transfer of military control to the league of nations, demands much time and patience. They ask the public not to expect too much of the Geneva meetings which will be held before the opening of the league council next week.

Both statesmen discounted the report that Premier Musolini of Italy would attend the Geneva conference.

HIGH RECORD TIED BY LIFE INSURANCE AGENT

HARTFORD, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Another world's marathon record has been tied but not eclipsed. This time it is for the number of life insurance applications written in one day, Edward J. Kennedy, representative of the Travelers Insurance company in Chicago, having obtained signatures to 159 of these for a total of $307,198 between 12:01 a. m., and 10 p. m., on Nov. 30, it was announced today at the home offices of the company. Kennedy had arranged for 166 appointments on that day. Five were unable to keep the appointments, two decided against applying, but the other 159 signed. Kennedy obtained 46 signatures between 12:01 and 6 a. m.; 58 between 6 and noon; and 55 between noon and 10 p. m., when he decided to call it a day.

The record of 159 applications was established last April by Achilles N. Sakellarides, a general agent in St. Louis, according to the records of the national underwriter in Chicago.

LENGTHEN SUSPENSION OF CAPT. JOHN DIEHL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—The nine months' suspension of Captain John Diehl, of the steamer City of Rome, which rammed and sank the submarine S-51 in September, 1925, has been increased two years by the supervising officer of the Boston district for the United States steamship inspection service. That of Timothy L. Dreyer, mate of the vessel, has been reduced from nine months to one month and 30 days.

The supervisor's report, made public today here, reversed the findings on certain counts of the board of inspectors. Lower courts held the naval and merchant navigators equally to blame, but the court of appeals upheld in a large measure the contention of naval officers that responsibility for the fatal crash "rested on the shoulders of Captain John Diehl."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

CALCUTTA, India, Dec. 3—(AP)—W. J. Logan, assistant comptroller of the Remington Typewriter company, died here of cholera.

VIGO, Spain, Dec. 3—(AP)—The Holland American freight and passenger liner Maasdam, which was reported afire, is heading for this port under convoy of an English steamer.

NICE, Dec. 3—(AP)—The famous Riviera, where the sun is supposed to shine uninterruptedly the year round, is suffering, like the rest of southeastern France, from the worst fall season in 50 years.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Dec. 3—(AP)—The Most Reverend Edward Ilsley, retired Roman Catholic archbishop of Birmingham, died here yesterday. Before his retirement he was one of the most prominent Catholic administrators and organizers in England.

LONDON, Dec. 3—(AP)—Free beer and free speech, a dream of years, have come to inmates of the Southwark poor house. All restrictions on speech during the winter evenings have been lifted, and on top of this an offer of a London brewery to supply free beer to the inmates has been accepted by the borough officials.

BERLIN, Dec. 3—(AP)—The Reichstag, after spirited debate, today adopted a "clean books" bill intended to check the publication of all types of obscene and immoral literature. The bill was adopted by a vote of 250 to 158, after lively opposition by the socialists and communists who regard its passage as a "black day for German culture."

INCREASED VALUE OF FRANC IS DETRIMENTAL TO FRANCE

PARIS, Dec. 3.—(AP)—France, which faced an economic crisis last July because of the fall of the franc, now is facing another crisis because of its phenomenal rise within the past few months.

Unemployment and serious business depressions have come with the rise of the French exchange which hit 25.52 to the dollar today, double its value in mid-July when it was quoted in New York at less than two cents. It was $1.10 a month ago and 35.52 two months ago.

Textile mills are idle in the north, 35 limoges shoe factories are preparing to shut down while automobile, machinery and clothing manufacturers are reducing forces.

Speculation in the franc, together with success with which the Poincare budget proposals are going through the chamber of deputies is regarded as the reason for today's continued rise in the exchange.

YOUTH FOUND NOT GUILTY OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

BEDFORD, Iowa, Dec. 3—(AP)—By a court directed verdict a jury late today found Hal Howard, 16 year old Creston youth, not guilty of first degree murder in connection with the death of Fanny Turnbull, 17, Diagonal high school girl.

Judge Maxwell in charging the jury said that the prosecution had failed to introduce sufficient evidence to warrant anything but an acquittal verdict.

Miss Turnbull died several months ago, a few days after a ride to Clearfield in an automobile which Howard drove.

Prosecution attorneys failed to introduce evidence that the girl had been poisoned as they previously said they would.

HELD FOR TRANSPORTING STOLEN AUTOMOBILES

BOSTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—John A. Baldwin of Boston, reputed head of a ring engaged in transporting stolen automobiles from Massachusetts to other New England states, was indicted by a federal grand jury today in six counts charged with violation of the Dyer act. On another count Baldwin, Frank B. Coffin of Berlin, N. H., and Karl Coffin of Portland, Me., were charged with conspiracy.

The government charges that Baldwin took automobiles stolen in this state to Maine and New Hampshire, and that Coffin received and sold them. Baldwin is at liberty on $10,000 bail.

TESTIMONY IN THE $500,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.— (AP) —John Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer, treated Miss Anne Caldwell, musical comedy actress, with great respect and was "wonderful" to her in the presence of his friends, Mrs. Madeline P. Conley of Pittsburgh, testified today in the actress' $500,000 breach of promise suit against Hubbard.

Late in the day, the trial was adjourned until Monday, by agreement of counsel. In the intervening time, the plaintiff is to produce Norman Bel Geddes, known as New York actor, whose name was mentioned frequently in today's testimony.

CHARLES RINGLING, CIRCUS MAN, DEAD IN SARASOTA, FLA.

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Charles Ringling, circus man, financier and railroad builder, died at his home here at 7 o'clock tonight after an illness of several weeks. His death was unexpected as it had been believed by attending physicians as late as yesterday that he was recovering from an attack of heart disease.

Mr. Ringling was one of the famous Ringling brothers who years ago organized a wagon show and from this developed the largest circus organization in the world, making their names household words.

FOUR MEN FOUND GUILTY IN ATLANTIC CITY RUM CASE

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 3—(AP)—The Atlantic City rum conspiracy trial came to a close in federal court late today when the jury, after deliberating thirty hours, returned verdicts of guilty against four men, acquitted six, and announced disagreement in the cases of the remaining two.

Charles Guttleman, Seymour Nathanson, Michael J. Keeley and Robert Friedman all of Atlantic City, were found guilty. They face maximum penalties of two years imprisonment and fines of $10,000 each.

ALCOHOL WAS LOCATED BY THE USE OF A GIMLET

TENANTS HARBOR, Dec. 3—(AP)—Prospecting for alcohol with a gimlet was rewarded here tonight when a crew of coast guardsmen struck "pay dirt" in the form of 500 gallons of the contraband in a secret compartment of the New York motorboat, Lily May.

Coast Gale Causes Damage to Shipping

Two Steamers Aground—Two Schooners Disabled—Motor Boat Adrift.

BOSTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—As the wintry gale that had lashed the north Atlantic for 48 hours moderated tonight, battered shipping along the coast line from Newfoundland to Nantucket remained to bear witness to its fury. Two large steamers were aground, one on the Miquelon group and the other in Sydney, N. S., harbor; two disabled schooners were lying in Massachusetts waters; and an unknown motorboat, reported adrift off Nauset last night had not been found.

The crew of the German steamer Tolta, which grounded on little Miquelon island yesterday morning, tonight were camped on the beach at White Sails, a fishing settlement of the island, awaiting fair weather for an attempt to salvage the vessel. The British steamer Hindustan, engaged in the coast carrying trade between Sydney, N. S., and British ports, was hard aground in Sydney harbor, but apparently in no danger.

The four masted Boston schooner Horace A. Stone, which was reported in distress off Chatham last night with both anchors gone, rails gone and holds partly flooded, drifted during the night to a point 45 miles south of Nantucket lightship. She was sighted today by the British steamer City of Melbourne, Hamburg for New York. The coastguard cutter Acushnet, which started to her assistance, was crippled in the battle with the gale and put into New Bedford for repairs, and the destroyer Burrows went to the schooner's rescue.

The British four-masted schooner Whitebelle, also a victim of the gale, tonight was riding at anchor off Chatham. Her sails were blown away and she will be assisted to Vineyard Haven for a new rig.

The coller Lemuel Burrows, disabled Tuesday night off Nantucket by the breaking down of her main engine, was safe in port here tonight after a fierce struggle with wind and sea. The consiguard cutter Mojave towed the collier towards Boston in seas so high that twice towing hawsers parted. The Burrows carried a coal cargo from Baltimore.

Vessels entering port had no news of the derelict motorboat reported yesterday by the captain of a fishing vessel off Nauset. The boat carried a masthead signal but there was no sign of life on board.

CHARLEY CHAPLIN CONSULTS ATTORNEYS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Charles Spencer Chaplin, spurred to action by intimations that his estranged wife would demand a huge sum in settlement of their marital difficulties, gathered his attorneys about him in his Beverly Hills mansion ate today for a conference to determine how much of the Chaplin wealth would have to be extended to keep the matter out of the courts.

That the former Lita Grey, who, with her two children, left her home Tuesday and announced a day later that she would never return will demand a property settlement in harmony with the income of the millionaire comedy man, was no secret, for her attorney, George Beebe, already has mentioned sums in excess of a million dollars.

Meanwhile, the wife, whose place at the head of the Chaplin's film cast was taken by Merna Kennedy when Miss Grey married the comedian in Mexico two years ago, reiterated her charges of cruelty. She declared that her husband insulted guests she took to their home last Monday night.

OBITUARY

Rev. John W. McCarthy.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 3—(AP)—Rev John W. McCarthy, who had served Southern New England Catholic parishes since his ordination in 1888, died at the Truedale hospital here today after an illness of several months.

Father McCarthy was graduated from Boston college and Grand seminary in Montreal.

He was appointed permanent pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart in this city in 1913.

Out of the Everywhere.

Where do they come from . . . these many things that make up the stock in trade in the stores? How are they brought into one shop—how gathered in one home—how enjoyed by one person? A simple turning through the advertising pages of the newspaper is the answer. Advertisements summon them into the here.

Advertisements give you intimate stories of new things. That's news. They tell all the amazing truths of a good thing. That's honesty. They arouse the desire that brings it closer, inform you where you can find it, advise you how much it's worth to you. That's service. And when you enter the shop to choose, and choose the value you are sure of because it's advertised, the value that means the most to you because you compare the advertised truths—that's economy.

Annual Report Public Utilities Commission

No Recommendations For Legislation Relating to Public Service Corporations.

HARTFORD, Dec. 3.—(AP)—No specific recommendations for legislation relating to public service corporations were made by the public utilities commission today in handing its annual report to Governor John H. Trumbull. It expressed opinion, however, that there is sufficient capital and executive ability in New England "to take care of a purely local, or home, industry (furnishing of water, gas and electricity) vital to its inhabitants, without going outside for controlling capital or executive management."

The report says, also, that there are pending certain committee investigations pertaining to the regulation of hydro-electric and other electric companies doing or contemplating an interstate business, and also companies performing an interstate motor bus service.

The commission says it had "the feeling and apparently the desire is in adjoining states that the particular states involved should retain as far as possible control over such operations. By reasons of the limitations as to distance of the transmission of electric current and also motor bus operation, only a comparatively few states would be involved in any particular transaction, and delay and expense incident to a centralized control at Washington should be avoided as far as possible."

The commission refers to bills pending in congress for regulation of interstate motor bus transportation and of others which may have to do with regulation of interstate transmission of electric current, and it may happen that later state legislatures may have to act, but no plan has yet crystallized sufficiently to warrant the Connecticut commission in making specific recommendations.

There are 204 public utilities companies and 62 companies and individuals holding certificates to supply service under jurisdiction of the commission.

SHEFFIELD GUEST MEXICO CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 3—(AP)—James R. Sheffield, recently returned from the United States, described his mission as American ambassador to Mexico, at a luncheon in his honor at the American chamber of commerce today. His efforts, he declared, would be turned toward maintaining the friendly relations between the governments and peoples of Mexico and the United States; he would do all in his power to protect and defend American nationals in their every right under international law and, so far as he was able and permitted to do so, help the Mexicans also.

Mr. Sheffield stated that obviously he could not be expected to discuss the matters at issue between the two countries.

The ambassador said that nations, like men, could only understand each other through insistence upon right, justice and truth and a decent respect for the opinions of mankind.

NOTE LED TO FINDING OF BODY OF NEWELL W. WOOD

UXBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 3—(AP)—A note saying "I'm choosing the easiest way" led to the finding of the body of Newell W. Wood, purchasing agent of the Whitins Machine Works, of Whitinsville, in the Mumford river here today.

Friends began a search for Wood after the note was found which resulted in the finding of his coat on the river bank in this town. A few minutes later the body was taken from the water nearby. His friends could advance no reason for the act.

QUEEN MARIE ACROSS RUMANIAN FRONTIER

BUCHAREST, Dec. 3—(AP)—Queen Marie, nearing home from her overseas journey, now is on Rumanian soil. The train on which she is traveling from Paris to Bucharest crossed the Rumanian frontier this evening. The royal party will reach Bucharest at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

No announcement was made as to whether King Ferdinand would be able to go to the station to meet the queen. He has expressed determination to do so unless his health or the doctors prevent him.

HEIRESS SLIPPED AWAY TO BE QUIETLY MARRIED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3—(AP)—Alexander D. Thayer, of Chestnut Hill and Miss Marjorie Bourne, co-heiress to a $40,000,000 estate, gave their friends the slip today and were quietly married. Their engagement was recently announced.

Mr. Thayer is 38 and is in the insurance business. The bride is the daughter of the late Commodore Frederick C. Bourne, former president of the Singer Sewing Machine company.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL IN HALL-MILLS MUDER CASE

Jury Returned Its Verdict at 6:48, After Over Five Hours Deliberation—In Court the Names of Henry Stevens, Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall Were Called in Succession, the Foreman of the Jury Answering "Not Guilty" After Each of the Names—All Three Smiled as the Verdict Was Rendered—Mrs. Hall Remains Under Indictment For the Murder on Her Husband.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP)—As calmly as she had sat through 24 days of trial, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, tonight heard a Somerset county jury say that she and her brothers, Henry and William Stevens, were not guilty of the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Five hours and two minutes after they left the court room, the jurymen returned with the verdict of acquittal. The names of the defendants were called one by one, Mrs. Hall's being the last.

Her face lighted when "not guilty" was the reply of the foreman, to the question "Henry Stevens?" from the clerk of the court. There was an added radiance when the same announcement followed the name of William Stevens, for he has long been her pet.

When she, too, was declared, "not guilty," Mrs. Hall's smile faded to be replaced by a look of calm satisfaction. She knew that was to go with Willie when he was declared not guilty and her own acquittal was only a formality.

Four minutes after the verdicts had been announced the court was adjourned and the three defendants, surrounded by their relatives who had crowded forward, left the court room, the brothers to return to jail, pending a motion for bail on a second indictment charging the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Hall to her New Brunswick home.

Mrs. Hall is also under indictment for the murder of her husband.

There were no tears in Mrs. Hall's eyes when the verdicts were announced but she seemed on the verge of tears as she walked out of the court room, probably for the last time. Her lawyers said they were tears of joy and her voice choked as she acknowledged their handshakes.

Lieutenant Commander Arthur N. Carpenter, her cousin, placed his arms about Mrs. Hall, when the jury filed in and kept her in close embrace until she arose to leave.

Henry Stevens smiled as the last verdict was read after looking stolidly ahead through the first two announcements. Willie, as usual, grinned broadly throughout. As he followed Henry into the tunnel leading from the court room to jail, Willie shook hands warmly with Judge Frank L. Cleary of common pleas court, who has sat with Justice Charles W. Parker, of the supreme court, throughout the trial.

A tense courtroom heard the end of the trial; one month to the day after it began. The jury went out at 1.44 and came back at 6.46.

Before the jury entered, Justice Parker issued a sharp warning to the crowd not to make a demonstration of either approval or disapproval. His injunction was followed to the letter, but there was some cheering in the rotunda, outside the room, almost the minute the first 'not guilty' was uttered.

A newspaper reporter tried to get through the doors, ordered closed by the court and was dragged by three bailiffs before the bench for a reprimand.

Mrs. Hall, through her lawyer and kinsman, Robert H. Neilson, said in a statement to the newspapers that she and her brothers were glad to have had the opportunity "after four years of gossip and false accusation" to come into court and personally go on the witness stand to obtain vindication.

The statement added that the defendants believe the verdict will have "full approval throughout not only New Jersey, but the United States."

"That is all," said Mr. Neilson as he handed the typewritten statement of less than 15 words to the reporters. "Mrs. Hall is through being a public character."

Few people here tonight believe that any of the defendants would be tried on the second indictment or that Henry de La Bruyere Carpenter, their cousin, would ever go to trial.

Counsel for Mrs. Hall and her brothers began an effort, immediately after the acquittal to get an order from Justice Parker releasing Henry and Willie Stevens and Henry Carpenter on bail.

The matter was discussed with Justice Parker and Judge Cleary in chambers and tomorrow morning at ten o'clock was fixed for heading the application.

Mrs. Hall is at liberty under bail and it was not certain tonight whether another bond would have to be signed for her.

Willie Stevens and Henry Carpenter have been in jail since August 12 and Henry Stevens since Sept. 13.

GEORGE WASHINGTON DID NOT HAVE WINE CELLAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—If, as has variously been alleged of late, George Washington kept wine, small beer and other now forbidden drinks about for himself or his guests, present day history will have the word of two visiting firemen for it that the father of his country apparently kept no wine cellar at Mount Vernon.

Fire Chief Watson of Washington, and Fire Chief Emerich of Baltimore, have just completed an inspection of Mount Vernon for "potential fire hazards." The visiting firemen disclaim that they rumaged the cellar with any ideas of "cellar smelling," but after peering into every nook and cranny, Chief Watson said:

"If George Washington had a wine cellar I certainly did not see any evidence of it, and I am certain that there is not a spot anywhere in the building that Chief Emerich and I missed."

The two chiefs acted as a committee of the International Association of Fire Chiefs to report on the fire protection at Mount Vernon. A fully manned fire company has been suggested. The present equipment is a flivver engine given by Henry Ford.

PROSPERITY IS COMING FOR RAILROAD EMPLOYES

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—(AP)—The coming year will be marked by the greatest prosperity in railroad history for more than 100,000 employes of eastern railways, United States and Canadian railways, thanks to mediation efforts concluded in the past two days.

A railroad arbitration board yesterday awarded wage increases of seven and one half per cent. to conductors and trainmen of 40 eastern railroads in this country.

Today mediatory measures proposed by the Canadian government resulted in wage increases of something less than six per cent. to conductors and trainmen on that country's principal roads.

No estimate was made public in Canada as to what the increases there would total annually, but the payroll of eastern roads in this country will be swelled by $14,500,000.

In neither country were wages of engineers involved in the disputes and settlements.

Controversies in each country met failure in first attempts at arbitration.

INVESTIGATION DISCLOSES RIVAL "GAMBLING" POOLS

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Rival gambling "pools" with headquarters in and around the New York state capital supported opposing political parties, according to information federal investigators said they had in their possession today. The activities of the Hudson pool, said to be one of a group located in the Albany district and operating in New York and New England, are under investigation by the federal grand jury. The pools, it was charged, operated lotteries on baseball and clearing house statistics.

STUDENTS ATTACKED JEWS IN BESSARABIA TOWNS

BUCHAREST, Dec. 3—(AP)—Infantry and cavalry were called out today in several towns of Bessarabia to disperse bands of students who were reported to have attacked Jewish inhabitants. The reports stated that the students, notably in Kishinev, smashed the windows of homes and stores and beat many Jews.

66 LOTTERY INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—A secret indictment charging 38 defendants resident in New York and Massachusetts with conspiracy to ship lottery tickets between states was returned tonight by a federal grand jury after a two day investigation of the so-called Albany and Hudson pools. Federal officials at the inquiry claimed to have found evidence that the pools contributed $15,000 to the republican campaign fund in the recent New York state election.

While the names of the defendants will not be made public until they are arraigned, it became known that six are residents of Albany and other places in eastern New York, and 30 are from Massachusetts, mainly from Springfield, Pittsfield and North Adams. The pool, federal officials said, operated lotteries on baseball results and clearing house statistics.

PLANNING MANUFACTURE OF MEDICINAL LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—The treasury may seek an appropriation of $35,000 000 for setting up of the proposed private corporation for the manufacture and control of medicinal liquor.

Assistant Secretary Andrews, who is working out financial details, said today that $20,000,000 might be required from the government for the first year and $15,000,000 for the second, with some provision being made for repayment to the government.

Both Secretary Mellon and General Andrews, however, are anxious to avoid a call upon the government for financial assistance if possible. The bill proposing organization of the corporation under federal supervision will be forwarded to congress early in the coming session.

FORMER NEWSBOY BECOMES KING OF SUBWAY BUILDERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—(AP)—Samuel R. Rosoff, once known as the king of Park Row newsboys, became the king of subway builders today when he made the winning bid on the largest section of subway construction, for which the city ever contracted.

Rosoff is president of the Rosoff Subway Construction company, now building $12,000,000 worth of subways on the Eighth avenue and Washington Heights routes. The new contract, for a section from Sixth avenue and Third street to Church street and Park place, brings this figure to $26,000,000, exceeding all other contracts by many millions. Rosoff outbid 16 contractors who submitted 28 bids.

BRIDGEPORT MAN DIES OF INJURIES FROM CAVE-IN

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 3.—(AP)—John Casey, 55, of 619 Nichols avenue, died in Bridgeport hospital this afternoon from injuries received in the cave-in of a gravel bank on Hurd avenue, Stratford, which buried him and his fellow workman, Frank Laffree, 56 Courtland street, Bridgeport. Laffree being almost instantly killed when a huge section of frozen dirt crushed his abdomen.

The two men who were fatally injured were working at the time of the accident for Tom Conine, of the Conine Nursery company, engaged in taking out loads of "fill" from the gravel pit and shoveling it into waiting dump cars.

WILLIMANTIC TO ADOPT DIAGONAL PARKING RULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 3—Headon diagonal parking along Main street, made possible by the removal of the trolley which formerly ran down the center of the street, will become the rule here in about ten days by vote of the common council at a special meeting. The new ordinance was introduced by Alderman Walter R. King and adopted. The ordinance provided for the marking off of stalls for automobiles. At one time a back-in diagonal parking ordinance was tried out but the space between the front of the parked cars and the trolley car was too narrow for comfort and parallel parking was again resorted to. The two outstanding advantages to diagonal parking are to be found in providing for the parking of better than twice the number of cars that can be parked parallel and the more facile handling of a car in parking it. The ordinance calls for the right front wheel of a car to touch the curbing. At the special meeting a report on the progress being made with the improvements to the municipal water works was made by Henry W. Taylor of New York city, consulting engineer. The streets which were torn up to place the new piping are to be returned to former condition by the contractor in charge or at his expense by the city, providing that the work is not completed by a specified date.

The board adopted a resolution of condolence to Alderman William H. Jackson and his family on the death of his son, William T. Jackson.

The funeral of Louis Paulhus was held from the late home, 23 Hewitt street, Friday morning with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including delegations from the St. Jean Baptiste society, the Willimantic police department headed by Chief Thomas F. Grady and San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus. The St. Jean Baptiste delegation escorted the remains from the home to the sanctuary rails of the church. Rev. J. J. Papillon was celebrant of the mass, Rev. Daniel Massey of La Salette college, Hartford, was deacon, and Rev. [illegible] was sub-deacon. Rev. [illegible] M. Kelly of St. Joseph's church was master of ceremonies. Special singing was rendered by the Ste. Cecile choir with Mrs. Joseph Gaudreau at the organ. Mrs. Gaudreau played Chopin's Funeral March as a processional. Edward Rochevillé rendered Miserere at the offertory and Miss Anna Aubin sang Au Ciel Au Revoir as a waiting hymn. Mozart's Funeral March was played as the remains were being borne from the church. Other soloists were Mrs. Arthur Marrotte, Mrs. Marcelline Goodwin, Joseph Vegiard, and Arthur Roy. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Papillon, assisted by Rev. Fathers Massey, Mathieu and Kelly. The bearers were Adelard Delude, Louis Paulhus, Bona Gingras, Thomas DeBois, Arthur Gingras and Florimond J. Bergeron. Paul Lavin was flower bearer.

The Stonington Ambulance Corps Inc., will start a subscription drive this month. The annual dues of $5.00 are payable before January 1927. It is expected that several new members will be added to regular membership. If the dues are not paid before the first of January it will be too late to enroll and if for any reason the ambulance should be called, the expense will be much greater than the small amount asked from subscribers, as the initial amount entitles the members of families to the use of the ambulance if necessary, without further obligations.

RED PIMPLES ON FACE AND BODY

Itched so Could Hardly Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face and body were covered with pimples that were soft and red. They itched so much that I could hardly sleep. My clothing aggravated the breaking out on my body, and my face was disfigured. The trouble lasted three months.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. Being satisfied with the sample I purchased more and in one month was completely healed after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MOOSEHEART LEGION

An evening of whist and pinochle was held Tuesday at the Moose home with the chairman, Vera Sterry, in charge. There were four tables of pinochle and five of whist. The members to donate prizes were Mrs. Lora De Rusha, Mrs. Lucy Hartley, Irene Burns and Georgia Tomanio.

In pinochle first ladies' prize was taken by Iva Beckham, a mirror; her score 7150; second ladies' Mrs. L. Gresser half dozen glasses, her score 7080; gentlemen's first to Mr. Carrolinoes, a neck tie, his score being 8230; second, F. Medrhos, handkerchiefs, his score 7510; consolations a dish to Mrs. Walz and ash tray to George Morse.

In whist ladies' first went to Mrs. MacLeach, a thermos bottle, her score being 41; Mrs. Mary La Valle second, a bracelet, her score 35; gentlemen's first went to Joe Tomanio, ash tray, his score being 34; gentlemen's second was a tie, between Joe Kirchner and Mr. Lapoli with scores of 32. Mr. Leach won the gut, a set of cuff links and pins. Consolations for the evening went to Rose Carter, a cake plate and Jack Cummings, ash tray.

Irene Burns took tickets at the door and scored on whist. Brother Mehrhos scored on pinochle. The women of Mooseheart legion are planning a whist and pinochle for the benefit of the sister who fell off the float Armistice day.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Pythian Boosters' club held their first dance at Grange hall, Mystic, on Tuesday, Nov. 30. About 240 Knights and their friends, coming from Salem, New London, Westerly and Norwich joined the Mystic Knights, enjoying a delightful evening. Noyes orchestra of Mystic furnished the music. Miss Helene Crandall of Norwich gave several exhibition dances accompanied on the piano by Miss Faith Ryan, also of this city. Alfred Belustracy and Miss Irene Lamb of Mystic gave an exhibition of the Charleston.

The dance committee consisted of Miss Craig and Miss Duerr of Mystic, Mrs. Jemina of Westerly, Mr. Lucino of New London and Mr. Ableman of Norwich. A short impromptu meeting was held during intermission in which the members decided that the next Boosters' meeting will be held on Sunday, Dec. 12, at the Connecticut Farm Home recently acquired for a Pythian home through the instrumentality of the Boosters club. The members will gather at the home at 1 p. m., so that they may spend the afternoon on the spacious and beautiful grounds [illegible] the property of the home. The decision was greeted with enthusiasm by all present.

Members of Woodbridge lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Salem, were the guests of Trumbull lodge, No. 43, Knights of Pythias in New London, at an entertainment and buffet luncheon, following the regular meeting of the latter lodge this week.

Past Grand Chancellor Thomas H. Troland presided as toastmaster.

Fred B. Ames of Salem, president of the Connecticut Farm House association in an interesting address, told of the progress in the construction of the new farm home and recreation center which is being constructed by the association in Lyme and East Haddam. The development is a gigantic one, the association, owning approximately 2,500 acres of land which it is developing into a Pythian playground. The association is composed entirely of members of the Pythian order. A golf course, tennis courts, ball park, 35 acre lake, and recreation field are among the projects which are being constructed by the association. In addition to this, the Raymond homestead, a more than a century old dwelling is being converted into a home for Pythian children.

MASONIC

The lodge room in the Masonic temple in this city was unable to accommodate the number of Masons who sought entrance Wednesday evening when the officers and degree team of Brainard lodge, No. 102, A. F. and A. M., of New London, exemplified the master mason's degree in full form for Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M.

When Worshipful Master Charles F. Potter of the New London lodge, and his associate officers took over the chairs, the lodge room of the big temple was taxed to capacity and hundreds of other Masons from many places were in other apartments of the temple, unable to get into the lodge room.

Most Worshipful Grand Master Arthur N. Nash of Westerly and of the grand lodge of Connecticut and several of his associate grand officers were present, together with past worshipful masters of many other lodges about eastern Connecticut.

Following the work, which was excellently done, a chicken buffet lunch was served in the dining hall.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

The regular meeting of Victory lodge, I. O. O. L. M. U., was held Thursday evening in Steiner hall, with Sister Elizabeth Laird in the chair. Routine business was transacted. Sister Hartley, chairman of the social committee, expressed her thanks to everyone who helped to make the November supper and sale a success. All plans are made for the eighth anniversary at the Wauregan hotel this Saturday.

The next meeting, Dec. 16, will be a summons meeting for the election of officers.

REBEKAHS

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, I. O. O. F., held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall. The lodge opened in due form with the N. G., Mabel Wheeler in the chair. It was voted to have a roll call on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15, with the expectation that every member will be present. When one's name is called each one is expected to donate one penny for each year the lodge is old and it was instituted in 1884. Election of officers will take place at the next meeting with entertainment.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, held a special meeting Tuesday evening in Steiner hall, at which the first and second degrees were conferred on a class of eight candidates. The degree work was followed by a social hour in which games were played and apples were served for refreshments.

At the regular meeting next week Wednesday the third and fourth degrees are to be conferred. The meeting will begin at 7:30.

Last Wednesday evening a delegation from Norwich grange, numbering 25, went to the meeting of Stonington grange, which was held in the Road church, and participated in the lecturer's part of the programme by putting on two entertaining numbers.

GROTTO

Nemrod grotto has two December events for its members that promise to bring out a large attendance for the last two meetings of this year. After the Grotto meeting on Monday evening, Dec. 6, a get-together smoker is to be on the programme with refreshments and the meeting two weeks later will likewise be of an especially interesting nature for the entire membership.

Women Secure

against lost charm, this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem—offers true protection; discards like tissue

SHEER gowns and ill-timed social or business demands hold no terror for the modern woman. The insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

✓ Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

DANIELSON

OVER $150,000 IS TOTAL OF CHRISTMAS FUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 3—The flood gates of Danielson's Christmas club reservoir were again opened on Friday and between $30,000 and $60,000 poured out to augment the $100,000 released here on December 1 and 2 in Christmas club savings and savings dividend.

Checks mailed out by the Danielson Trust company and being received during Friday went to over 1,000 club members and called for a total of between $50,000 and $60,000. Likewise club members of the Brooklyn Savings bank were receiving checks, this bank releasing $30,000. When all the Christmas club checks are out it is estimated that the total of them will be in neighborhood of $150,000, exact figures are not made public by the bank, but approximate information given. This is the largest sum ever released to these clubs through the banking institutions of this community and is indicative of how the club idea has grown.

Distribution of the Christmas club checks is widespread in the town of Killingly and in the neighboring towns of Brooklyn and Plainfield. The checks go into the homes of the wealthy, as well as the humble, into the hands of young and old in a far flung field. In each and every instance the checks sent out go to a person who plans ahead for Christmas expenditures and makes the burden of them light by saving a certain sum for them each week throughout the year.

Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather of the Danielson Trust company said Friday afternoon that the 1927 club already is forming and more members have been received up to this time than ever before at such an early date.

Much the same report comes from Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank, which has maintained a Christmas club the past few years and has seen it grow from year to year. Former club members almost invariably sign up for another year, for they have known the thrill and the joy of getting a Christmas club check and the manner in which it has eased their financial requirements at Yuletide.

The effect of the release of a fortune in Christmas club money is certain to be reflected in the stores in Danielson today, unless a rule of years breaks down, and that is not likely to be the case.

At one o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Todd, funeral services for Harry Chester Young were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church. Friends in numbers to crowd the house joined with relatives in paying a final tribute to the young man. Burial was in the Young family plot in South Killingly cemetery. The bearers were Carl Davis, John Preston, Kenneth Preston, Roscoe Burton, Donald Armington and Stanley Keech, all members of Orient lodge, K. of P. The floral tributes were so numerous that an automobile was required to take them from the home to the cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

The newly elected officers of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., are: Master, Charles A. Burdick; S. W., Louis G. Ingalls; J. W., Walter Anderson; S. D., Howard G. Franklin; J. D., Byron Barrowclough; S. S., Homer C. Browne; J. S., Charles B. Carver; tyler, Frederic O. Armington; treasurer, Charles S. Bill; secretary, Alvan M. Thompson; trustees, Attorney E. L. Darbie, Reland H. Gray, Frank E. Kennedy.

Members of the Danielson chamber of commerce will hear a Norwich promoter discuss a proposal for the construction of a new hotel and theatre building here when the organization meets next Tuesday evening. Construction of such a building has been discussed here for months, with no definite developments, though, it is understood, there is a splendid site available. At this same meeting of the chamber a nominating committee will be selected to present names of those who would be elected to offices at the annual meeting in January.

Friday morning at 9 o'clock there was a high mass of requiem, with Rev. J. C. Mathieu as celebrant, at the funeral services for Robert Chilton in the Sacred Heart church at Wauregan. The bearers were Alfred Messier, Peter Cusson, Joseph Saborin, A. Guertin, Baptiste Desault and Arthur Couture. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery, L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

The United States district attorney's office at Boston is investigating charge the mails were used in the defrauding of a local business man out of $12,000, in a business transaction involving the investment of money. It is understood that the person alleged responsible for the fraudulent operation victimized numbers of people in various sections of New England.

Again this year there will be a community Christmas tree party arranged by Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, and it is indicated that a determined effort will be made to make this year's party even a greater success than the fine one of last year. Committees to carry out the plans will be named by the post within a few days, and then the co-operation of the public will be sought.

Gustav Erickson, an old-time sailor man, died Friday morning at the age of 74, at the home of Everett Burlingame, on whose farm in the north part of the townof Foster, he had lived for years after leaving the seafaring life. Mr. Erickson was a native of Stockholm, Sweden, born October 6, 1852. He is without a relative in this country.

He left his home country and went to sea when he was a youth, following the life of a sailor until middle age. Tiring of the sea, he went to Foster and located, working for Mr. Burlingame for years.

The newly elected officers of McGregor corps, Woman's Relief corps, are as follows: Mrs. Cora D. Page, president; Mrs. Lucy B. Grover, senior vice-president; Mrs. Mary A. Bedard, junior vice-president; Mrs. Hattie B. Bailey, treasurer; Mrs. Effie F. Bailey, chaplain; Mrs. Flora Kennedy, conductor; Mrs. Sarah Birch, guard; delegates to the state department convention, Mrs. Hattie B. Bailey, Mrs. Viola C. Clapp;

PUTNAM

ANOTHER DIVIDEND FOR NATIONAL BANK CREDITORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 3.—The payment of a five per cent dividend to creditors of the First National bank has been authorized by the United States comptroller of the treasury. This is the fourth dividende and brings the amount that depositors have received up to 75 cents on the dollar.

Whether the dividend checks can or will be distributed before the holidays has not been made known. The five per cent dividend amount to about $90,000.

ATTY. J. F. CARPENTER FINDS JUDGE FLAGG INSOLVENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 3.—J. F. Carpenter, as attorney for David Flagg, judge of probate, has addressed a letter to his creditors setting forth the fact that the latter is insolvent. He estimates his assets including merchandise and accounts receivable at about $3,000, and his liabilities at about $6,200; he lists the latter.

Mr. Carpenter suggests that there is one of two courses open to Judge Flagg, either to make a common law assignment for the benefit of his creditors or to file a petition in bankruptcy. The letter is sent out in order to ascertain which of the methods the creditors prefer.

The liabilities are listed as follows: Mrs. J. B. Kent $3,500, First Baptist church of Putnam $1,000 and interest, Miss Charlotte E. Manning $1,000 and interest and about a dozen others, only two of the amounts exceeding $100.

Oscar Swanson post, American Legion of Grosvenordale will hold its annual meeting at the post rooms next Thursday when the election of officers will follow the business meeting. This post and its auxiliary are both unusually active. The women gave a subscription whist this week and the Legion is now rehearsing for a minstrel revue which is to be given sometime during the holidays.

Little Ethel Paul of West Thompson, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for the last three months is reported as improving and it is expected that she will be able to be taken home before long. JEWETT CITY

JEWETT CITY FANS MAY ORGANIZE RADIO CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 3—Jewett City, that never occupied the back seat when it came to clubs, lodges and societies, may, in the near future, have a full fledged and enthusiastic radio club. It is understood and always has been, that this locality is a real "fiver's" paradise, therefore the new idea will probably be considered with enthusiasm. Within the town and the vicinity there are over 100 sets in operation every night. The radio talk on the streets every morning is of much interest and many listen in, who have not as yet a set of their own.

Radio parties are already common, which consist in the main, of those who accept invitations to "come in" and hear the lecture or concert.

There is a sort of friendly rivalry among set owners, to see what new stations can be "picked up" and from how far away the wonders of the air can be brought to one's fireside. One woman got a dozen new broadcasting centers in a single evening, while another tells of getting "Cuba," and wouldn't have been able to make it out, only that his wife understands Spanish, and could interpret the foreign announcer.

The union evangelistic meetings led by Dr. Milton S. Rees of Rochester, N. Y., are now under way with good attendances. On Wednesday evening Dr. Rees spoke on Launch Out Into the Deep, and impressed his audience with his evident sincerity and deep knowledge of the scriptures. Having traveled extensively in Bible lands the preacher portrayed in vivid manner some of the scenes in the life of Jesus.

On Thursday night Dr. Rees spoke on Thy Times Are in My Hands. Mrs. Rees led a fine chorus choir in singing well knowo hymns. It was announced that many delegations from various churches were planning to be present during the campaign which will continue for three weeks.

On Sunday afternoon at 2 a great men's mass meeting will be held in the Methodist church when Dr. Rees will speak on Pilate's Question. All the men from Jewett City and surrounding towns have been invited to this meeting. After many years of special work among men the evangelist is competent to speak upon subjects vital to them.

There will be a union service on Sunday evening in the Methodist church. The subject for Dr. Rees is The Tragedy of the Ages. Special music will be given by a large choir led by Mrs. Rees.

Early Friday morning the mercury dropped to 9 degrees above, at sunrise it stood at 11 degrees, which is the coldest night this season.

W. S. Montgomery who has been enumerating the school children in town, of ages ranging from four to sixteen There are 1181 children, 168 non-attending, 790 public schools and 249 private schools.

Mrs. George Thayer of Bethel, Vt., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Littlefield, remaining until after Christmas.

Rev. Giles F. Goodenough attended the annual dinner of his class in Yale university, held at the Yale club in New York Friday night.

Fred S. Owen of Fort Wayne, Ind., and his daughter, Mrs. Hubert Saunders of Indianapolis, Ind., have been guests at Herbert H. Tifts in Norwich and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox's in Jewett City.

Mrs. Abraham Zegeer entertained several friends of her daughter, Olga, at a birthday party Thursday afternoon. The supper table was attractively decorated in yellow and the children enjoyed the games. Mrs. Zegeer was assisted by Miss Kummer and Mrs. Ralph Kingsley.

Bert Howe and his musical beauties, who played at Finn theatre Thursday night, gave much pleasure to Joseph Vincent, who has been helpless for three years, when they visited him at the home of his sisters, Mrs. Oscar Lamieux, and sang, played and danced at his bedside, Friday afternoon.

A Bulletin item of 20 years ago, read that Victor L. Heureux is starting to build a large brick block on the site of Fenner's store on Main street.

PLAINFIELD

The nominating committee of the Odd Ladies held a meeting at the community house Thursday evening.

Mrs. Lotta Dodge called on friends in Wauregan Wednesday afternoon.

Group meetings of the W. T. C. U. of Windham county will be held in the Methodist church at Danielson next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Elmer Bennett of Plainfield artest is recovering from injuries sustained in an accident at Central Village bridge last Saturday. She was able to sit up Friday.

Word has come from Herman B. Chapman, who is spending the winter in Delant, Fla., that he has peas, squash, lettuce, radishes and nasturtiums up in his garden.

The committee in charge of the dinner to be served at the conference by the Ladies' Aid society at the Congregational church next Wednesday follows; Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Mrs. Charles Dodge, Mrs. Eva Pike, Mrs. Carl Gallup, Mrs. Arthur Mathewson, Mrs. Mary Rundall, Mrs. Carl Mathewson, Miss Ruth Hall, Mrs. Cecil Butler, Mrs. Winifred Gardiner, Mrs George Dainley, Mrs. Harold Lewis, Mrs. Elmer Phillips and Mrs. Lotta Doigi.

Irving Darnley is working for Arthur Bennett at his saw mill.

Miss Helen Baknowsky, a student at the Posse-Mission Physicial Educational school in Boston was a recent guest at the home of Miss Ione Barstow.

The Rebecca lodge held a meeting in the Odd Fellows' hall at Central Village Friday evening.

HANDLING THE SURPLUS

Not a little interest is manifested at this time as to the manner in which the expected surplus for this fiscal year will be disposed of by congress. There is always a temptation to spend any large sum of money on hand, to swell appropriations and to take up measures calling for appropriations which have been delayed for some time because of lack of funds.

In the interest of the taxpayers the suggestion has been made by the president, and concurred in by the secretary of the treasury, that it will be possible to make a refund to the federal taxpayers or give them credit on the next tax payments. This would be a temporary method of dealing with tax money which had come in excess of expectations because of unusually favorable conditions. It would not interrupt the source of income in future years when conditions might be such as to automatically reduce the revenue.

On the other hand there are democratic leaders who are committed to a direct cut in the federal taxes. They are ready to gamble with the future and, just because part of this fiscal year has been unusually favorable they think it ought to be accepted as a guide for the future and tax cutting should be started immediately. The objection to this is that it is running needless risk, an uncertainty, and it is recognized as a political move intended to embarrass those in control of the administration.

There's the possibility that these opposite views will result in making it difficult to obtain any action. Obstructions could be made against either idea that no headway could be made. In that case, unless appropriations for different purposes are made sufficient to take up a large part of the surplus, it can be expected that the surplus would be turned toward a reduction of the federal debt, a step which has been followed at other times and was urged at this time, since there's a decided benefit to be derived from such action. Every cut in the federal debt means the elimination of just so much interest money of which the government is paying large sums each year.

CHRISTMAS MAIL SERVICE

We have reached the season of the year when postmasters are making requests to those who contemplate the use of the mail in distributing their Christmas presents. They are urging not only what is reasonable but what if complied with will mean a decided advantage to the persons themselves.

The postal service is heavily burdened around Christmas time. It is expected to and it does handle a tremendous volume of business. If that large increase, due to Christmas presents, is properly distributed the problem is an easy one and good service can be rendered. If, however, it is delayed until the last few days and all dumped into the postoffices two or three days before the big holiday, facilities are jammed and the undesirable delays can be expected to follow.

What the postmasters ask is a reasonable response on the part of the people. They rightly ask those who know their packages must go a long distance to get busy and mail them. They want others who can get their bundles out in advance to do so and lend to that cooperation which will prevent the clogging of the mails during the few days before Christmas.

Furthermore, in the interest of safe and accurate delivery they make the reasonable request that all bundles be properly and clearly labeled. This means not only the carefully written name and street address of the person to whom it is sent, but up in the left hand corner the address of the sender. That is no more than good insurance for the proper handling of mail matter which, if the person addressed cannot be found, permits of its return to the sender.

Lastly, but not the least, is the request that all bundles be securely tied. This doesn't mean one wrapping with common twine, but the use of stout cord in sufficient quantity to keep the bundle intact to its destination. If this is done there will be little excuse for broken packages and scattered presents about which the postal employes have no knowledge as to the intended destination.

There is much that can be done on the part of individuals to prevent the postal delays, undelivered mail and broken packages. It may not require much time or effort but it is certainly worth while.

OUR ATTITUDE TOWARD MEXICO

As might be expected there are those who contend that Mexico has a right to draft and enforce its own laws and that it ought not to be interrupted therein.

This is all right as far as it goes, for it is no different than any country might be expected to do. This country has no desire or intention of interfering with the independence of Mexico. The difficulty ever which the protesting notes arise develops from the fact that through the enforcement of its new constitution Mexico has made it possible to confiscate the property of the subjects of other countries who purchased their holdings of Mexican land in a legal manner and legislation enacted at this time should protect them in holding it, instead of setting up a method of taking it away from them.

It is the possible retroactive effect of the law over which the remonstrance is made. Mexico can declare law that subjects of other countries cannot acquire Mexican land, quite the same as we have maintained in regard to some of our land laws relative to the Japanese, but such laws should be expected to deal solely with the future and not undertake to confiscate land already owned.

Mexico hasn't as yet undertaken the enforcement of that part of the new constitution which would have this result. Possibly it doesn't intend to do anything of the kind, but if there is no intention or desire to do anything of the kind it is hard to understand why it is there and why an understanding to the effect that it would not be enforced is not so rigidly upheld that there would be no more thought concerning it.

That Mexico should decide its own problems is the desire of this country. It is only when it threatens to do so in a manner that endangers the subjects of other countries in an unjustified manner, that we undertake to offer advice and tell why. Mexico can do as it pleases up to a certain point. Beyond that point it is responsible to other countries and it is that point which has been called to its attention recently.

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

Sunday will be observed as Golden Rule Sunday. This is for the purpose of directing attention to the work that is being done in the near east and the need which prevails for it.

It is a matter of several years that the orphans of that region have been cared for through the funds that are provided in this and other countries. It requires but little to clothe, feed and shelter the children but there are many of them and the period of dependence is considerable.

The idea of restricting Sunday's food expenditures to amounts which would correspond to the purchase of meals for these children and turning over the difference between such meals and those that would ordinarily be provided for the relief of these orphans is one to which large numbers not only can but will respond. Whether they are willing to accept such restrictions there's always the chance for the giving to this worthy cause.

Golden Rule Sunday in the past has been the time for liberal contributions to this object. The work that has been so well started must certainly be continued and through the help that is extended by the many substantial provision be made for the care of the homeless and parentless dependents.

Norwich has never turned a cold shoulder upon such commendable undertakings and it can be taken for granted that there will be no departure from the sympathetic attitude and generous assistance that have characterized the past. It is a fitting purpose for which to arouse the spirit of the Golden Rule.

PRESIDENT HANNAUER

The Boston & Maine railroad is to have a new president. For that position George Hannauer of Chicago has been selected, his choice being based upon the belief that his abilities and experience fit him particularly to deal with the problems of that system.

It is significant that Mr. Hannauer should have been called upon some time ago to give his advice regarding the modernizing of the Boston freight terminals of that road. While that improvement has not been entirely completed it is well along, but it is evident that Mr. Hannauer made such a fine impression in connection therewith that when the time came for the filling of the vacancy of president of the road he was quickly drafted. He this comes to a road about which he knows something and to which he has given some study. He is thus prepared to wrestle with the other handicaps which have been experienced and the expectation is that he will be equally successful in that undertaking.

Assuming the presidency of the Boston & Maine means something more than a swivel chair job. He will have to deal with a terminal road, but that is one reason for his selection for he has been general manager of the system of railroad terminals in Chicago, an experience which certainly fits him admirably for his new position. Perhaps he can introduce into the east some of the western methods of terminal railroad transportation. Being regarded because of his record as the man to make the try it is to be hoped for the good of the road and the transportation interests of a large part of New England that he will be eminently successful.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: A little bit of the beautiful for a change.

Perhaps now it will seem a bit more like the month with Christmas in it.

There's an appeal about the Christmas seals which makes it hard to resist them.

The peril in Maine hunting and football is apparently the same. Eight were killed at each this year.

The report that there are yet 100,000 barrels of cranberries on Cape Cod relieves any fear of a shortage for Christmas.

The closing of the sequel ends the uncertainty as to whether the extension of time would also mean an extension of debt.

The decision in the Hall-Mills case will create no surprise. It was generally anticipated but that doesn't determine who committed the deed for which no one has been punished.

That cowboy lawyer from Oklahoma who was told to put on a necktie before his application for permission to practice before the United States supreme court would be heard ought to grow long chin whiskers.

The claim is made that the soil of Canada was taken and deposited in southern New England. Well there was something besides soil if we can judge by the glacial boulders and rock studded farms on some Connecticut hillsides.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is reported that Phillips Brooks likened serial sermons to alligators, in that "they began with a very large head, but ended with a very small tail." This comparison applies to some other things less holy than sermons. Take, for instance, the moanings of political orators, when they are heaving heaven and earth to get votes. The head of the alligator is the pork barrel that will be the reward for voting for the speaker. If he is successful at the polls what they will get is a box of sardines or the tail of the alligator. If not sardines perhaps it will be a package of garden seeds. Or when some rascal offers you stocks that will pay 15 or 20 per cent income, and you see nothing ahead but big profits, the result of your avarice will probably be the tip end of the animal's tail. That is a dead loss. The well-known saying is absolutely true that "a sucker is born every ten minutes."

Have we the right attitude in regard to the cultivation and practice of benevolence? Is it not in the majority of cases looked upon as hard necessity that must be dealt with, rather than a blessing to be bestowed? When we are asked to make a contribution to the Red Cross or the Near East relief, do we ever say, "Will there ever be an end to these calls for money?" "It is nothing but give, give, give!" Or should we be thankful that God has given us all we need, and have something to spare that will drive hunger away from somebody else? Which is the Christian attitude? Think of the one million cases dealt with; that out of 132,500 orphans there are only about 5,000 that have to be cared for. The nearly 100,000 little ones saved are now self-supporting. Can human kindness do a greater work than this?

The Minister's Protective society of Pennsylvania, a large assurance concern, has tabulated statistics which puts this matter in an appalling light. Having access to the real facts their statement is all the more convincing because it is the cold truth. Among their trite sayings are the following: "A person is twice as liable to die from accident as from old age." If the present death rate from accidents continues to increase in a few years there will be no old age. Of course it is the very general use of the automobiles that has sent the percentage of casualties sailing up into the clouds. Listen to this: "A person is more likely to die from accidental injury than from any other disease that could be named; more die from accidents than from consumption, pneumonia and all diseases of the heart combined." Now this is truly appalling, and demands that every available expedient should be used to lessen these fatalities.

Unlike Great Britain we are not in the grip of a strike that is nationwide, for coal is a commodity that every family must have. Without entering at all into the merits of the case, it is a matter that affects all classes of people. The mine owners are not producing what the nation needs. The people at large are not getting what they want. The strikers need the wages which they are not getting. The government is forced to resort to the "dole" system to keep the unemployed from starving. This even if it is necessary is unfortunate because it must come from the taxpayers, and because a certain type of mind would rather live on a half loaf of charity bread than, to work for a whole loaf. As the "dole" is temporary there sooner or later will be a clash unless a settlement is soon made.

As Old Sol approaches his winter solstice his tread thus far has been quite velvety, for which our coal bins are vocal with praise. He has just slipped to his southern stopping place without attracting any special attention. Did it ever occur to you that this old gentleman was a patient traveler? Probably for 100,000,000 years he has been going to the same point south, and coming back to the same point north. He must be terribly bored by the same old scenes year in and year out. I wonder if it would affect the potato crop if, when he gets to the summer solstice, six months from now he should take it into his dear old head to make a journey into polar latitudes, cross the Arctic circle, then the north pole, take a peek into the soviet government of Russia, and then keep on south across the Antarctic regions and finally settle down to his old pathway between Capricorn and Cancer. I wish the old chap would try it some year.

When Andrew Carnegie in 1914 established the Church Peace union—or at least put it on its feet as a working organization—by the princely gift of two million dollars, he was building better than he knew. He selected 29 trustees including eminent Protestant Christians belonging to many communions, and also well-known Roman Catholics and Jews. Its main object is to give financial support to all recognized agencies that are working for world peace. The first work of this union was under the guidance of Dr. Frederick Lynch, its first secretary. This was the calling together of a great convention at Constance, Germany, in the summer of 1914. The object was to see how the churches might grapple with the mighty problem of war. Three hundred delegates were on their way but had to flee from Germany as war was declared on August 1 of that year. Unfortunate as this was it was the beginning of a great movement for peace.

Among the tragic items presented in last Tuesday's papers, the most pitiful was that of a New Jersey youth who, in a seemingly sudden attack of insanity shot and instantly killed his uncle and aunt and seriously wounded his sister. He also fired two shots at his mother without effect. At length he was overcome and put under guard. In commenting upon the affair, the commissioner of public safety said: "If I had my way about it, the person or firm who sold young Ware a revolver would be held as an accessory before the fact and punished as they deserve to be." To this we fervently say, amen! There is no possible reason why a youth known to be abnormal should be able to purchase deadly firearms. Is there any excuse for anyone except duly appointed officers of the law carrying revolvers? Were it not for the use of deadly weapons bandits could not get away with their loot. Let the government alone deal with such commodities.

One can hardly fail to realize his liability to accident; to put the matter lightly it is simply frightful. In one sense such liability is the price we pay for a highly-developed civilization. The danger increases just in proportion as we make the dynamic forces of nature bend to our will. There is no reasonable doubt, however, that at least 90 per cent of these accidents would be avoided if we could eliminate carelessness, recklessness, and criminal negligence. And yet the death toll from apparently unavoidable accidents is alarming and increasingly so. Of course this means a larger exercise of zouleness and mental activity than ever before. The time has wholly passed for men and women to take a comfortable snooze in the middle of a busy highway. If the old Psalmist was dealing with the situation, his warning would be, "Awake, thou that sleepest!"

Those who come early to avoid the crowd make the crowd.

CENTENARY OF THE GROTON MONUMENT

There wasn't much local news in the journals of eastern Connecticut a century ago. For one thing, every crossroads newspaper of the time looked upon itself as an organ of national, or at least of state, importance; and so it gave the go-by to items which its successors found so popular—such as chowder parties, mowing matches, Bible readings, Shakespeare tableaux, sleigh rides, jubilee singing, necktie festivals, hose company meetings, tin showers, trotting brushes.

The great news staple of 1826 in the Norwich Courier, as in papers the country over, then and for many years later, was politics. But that is not saying that when an event of genuine permanent importance occurred locally, the Courier slurred it. One hundred years ago the only occurrence of the twelvemonth hereabout that was to find a place in history was the dedication of the Groton monument; and below is the report of that ceremony as it appeared in the Norwich Courier of Sept. 13, 1826.

The account was written by a young fellow of 26 named John Dunham, the editor. He and Thomas Robinson, a Norwich bookseller and stationer, were partners in the ownership of the paper and the printing business connected with it. In after years John Dunham held, among others, the offices of state bank commissioner and of state comptroller, and for the last 20 years of his life was president of the Norwich Gas company. Thomas Robinson became a surveyor and engineer. As such he led in developing the water power of the Shetucket river and in building the Norwich and Worcester railroad. He also constructed Central wharf and surveyed Yantic cemetery and Laurel Hill.

The Groton monument dedication account follows:

Groton Monument

The sixth of September was the anniversary of the battle and massacre at Fort Griswold, on Groton Heights, in 1781; and this anniversary was selected and is rendered memorable by laying the first stone of the monument to be erected for a memorial of an event so prominent in the history of that eventful period, and as a testimonial of respect for those brave men who died for their country's safety. At a celebration so interesting, we could not fail of being present—but as we have just been kindly furnished with an account of the proceedings from a pen more able to do justice to the subject, we submit it in preference to any attempt of our own.

The fine weather attracted a greater assemblage to the scene than ever met together on any similar occasion, in this state. Arrangement had been made by the tasteful erection of a vast pavilion, on the site of the monument, north of the front gate of the fort. At the northern extremity, and fronting the gate, a stage was elevated to accomodate the officers of the grand lodge, the clergy, orator, and others concerned in the ceremony. The huge granite rock, wrought with geometric precision, suspended by a strong tackle a few feet in front of the stage was ready to drop on the spot where it would seal with immortality the names engraven on its bosom. Thousands of well dressed spectators filled a large amphitheater erected between the stage and the fort—a wide avenue through it, corresponding to the military road to the Fort from the bank of the Thames, was left to introduce the procession. This was formed about 11 o'clock, in front of Bailey's inn, at the north extremity of Bank street, under the direction of the marshals of the day. Several companies of military, in beautiful uniform, with a grand display of band and field music, escorted the procession, under the superintendence of the marshals, down Bank street and up the Military road to the Heights:—on the brow, the great concourse opening to the right and left, admitted the procession to the pavilion. The elegant appearance and exact movements of the military, and the soul rousing notes of the music, formed an array of indescribable charms around the imposing scene. All the sober train were seated, when its pervading silence was broken by the discharge of cannon from the ramparts. This was the signal for the exercises to commence. With all the appropriate order so peculiarly adorning the fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, under the direction of the Hon. Lyman Law, grand master, the corner stone was laid by Col. J. French.

Prayer, solemn and well adapted, was now offered by the Rev. Mr. McEwen. A hymn, for the occasion was sung. It was followed by a sensible and well spoken oration, by Charles Griswold, Esq.—its sound sense, patriotic feeling, historical references, and manly reflections, did justice to the occasion and his own respectable character. Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Tuttle, and the singing of Riles' celebrated Martial hymn, closed the ceremony. The procession then re-formed and repaired to a beautiful tent row, erected on the hill near the pavilion—where hundreds were regaled with a plentiful collation.

It should not escape notice, that the small remnant of mutilated and grey survivors of the massacre, were grouped near the orator of the day. He addressed them in a most tender apostrophe. It could not be otherwise. These were men (with the exception of William Seymour, Esq. of Hartford) who stood now upon the spot which, on this day 45 years since, was fertilized with the blood of their brethren. Who could witness their dripping eyes and throbbing bosoms without the deepest sympathy? while the peals of cannon attending the address recalled to mind the day of their sufferings, and rent their brave hearts anew by the vision of scenes which were long gone by.

The delightful temperature of the day seemed to be fitted to its purpose—the mild verdure of the fields; the full foliage of the green groves and forests; the gay and beautiful Thames, studded over with small craft, white sails, and airy streamers. The magnificent steam-boat McDonough, (a name dear to glory and virtue,) decked with an hundred flags and banners; and the splendid and charming Fanny, (the home of the traveller,) crowded with near 400 passengers; added their enchanting features to the noble show. It was much regretted that these two boats were compelled at so early an hour to proceed up the Thames to this place. They left the shores of Groton bank about 4 p. m.—Their passengers were delighted with the entertainments of the day, and thankful to heaven that so many recent events had roused anew the spirit of '76, and given to the rising age so intense a feeling of respect for the wisdom and heroism which the conflicts of the war unfolded.

As the Fanny is descending the Thames passed the grave-yard which contained the bodies of the slain heroes of Fort Griswold, sweetly slumbering on its rippling shore in all their loneliness and glory; all at once the band struck up a musical dirge which swelled the heart. When the cemetery caught their eye, a discharge of musketry from the rifle guards on the promenade, under command of Captain Child, added their passing testimonial of military respect for their early and heroic fate. The discharge was firing continued till the white monuments faded from their sight, and left impressions which need not be described.

The failure of the seats under the amphitheater was a very unfortunate circumstance; and not merely the confusion, but the injuries sustained thereby, are greatly to be regretted.—Some, too, we have heard complain of the arrangements, or the manner of carrying them into effect, and probably with some truth—but the great body of those collected appeared to be gratified.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The U. S. bureau of standards which today celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary as a branch of the department of commerce, has as its active head Dr. George K. Burgess, a scientist of international note. Dr. Burgess is a native of Massachusetts and received his professional training at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, supplemented by special studies in Paris. In 1900 he returned to Massachusetts tech as an instructor in physics and subsequently he held a similar post at the University of California. In 1903 he went to the bureau of standards as associate physicist, where his thorough training and extensive experience in scientific affairs won him rapid promotion. When Dr. Samuel W. Stratton resigned as director of the bureau several years ago it was on his earnest recommendation that Dr. Burgess was selected to succeed him.

Sunday Morning Talk

ELIJAH

The word of God came to him saying, "Hide thyself in Cherith," Cherith means separation. If he had stopped to ask questions he would not probably have gone. It is not God's way to show His children more than one step at a time. If He told us all the way we should grow confused. So very trustingly Elijah went down to the brook, and it began to dry up. It became like a silver thread. Then it stood in pools, and the pools were evaporated, and the birds flew away from it, and the wild beasts came no more to drink of it. Then the brook was gone. Elijah might have said to himself, this must be a mistake the Lord could not have meant me to come to such a place. I will return. But no, all this was Elijah's preparation for greater things. The man who takes a high place before his fellows must take a low place before God. It is God's way with us oftentimes. He may hide us I the Cherith of a sick room, or of disappointed hopes, or of bereavement. A Carmel always presupposes a Cherith. Separatoin must always precede power.

And the word of the Lord came to him, saying, "Arise and go up to Zarepath," and with the memory of Cherith he obeyed. Zarepath means, "a smelting furnace," and there was much of the influence of refining fire about his experience there. The refiner purifies the metal until he can see in it the reflection of his own face, and Elijah turned at Zarepath until there began to appear in him the very likeness of God.

His next step was Carmel, one of the very highest parts of the mountain. On the left was the Mediterranean sea, dotted with white sails. At the base of the mountain wound the Kishon. Away in the distance was the city of Jezreel with its royal palace and from all sides of the mountain may be seen people hurrying from all sides upward to hte place where the servant of God is seen.

There was a sea of faces, all fixed on one man who awaits the hush which will fall on the waiting crowd. One man and yet all Heaven is at his back. Legions of angels fill the mountains. He was only a man of like passion with ourselves and yet he was full of power, for he had availed himself of the resources of diety as the slender lightning rod draws the lightning from the clouds. The greatest victory of the ages was won on Carmel.

His next mountain experience was years afterwards, when he stood on Mount Hermon, and Moses was there and Christ was there, and the Master was transfigured before them. But this was enough to show that his life was all the time upward and so is the Christian's life to be.

Who would suppose that Cherith with its dying brook and its burning shrubbery away from the world alone with the ravens, was the path to power? Yet so it was. Who would think that Zarepath, with its loneliness, its widow's home, its scanty fare, was on the way to a mountain-top experience? Yet so it was. Who would suppose that Carmel with all its beauty, was but a stepping stone to the mountain of transfiguration with Christ? Yet it was.

We can place our hand in the hand of the same master, and He will lead us on until we stand beyond Carmel, beyond Hermon in the very presence of God Himself, face to face. This is one of the sublimest scenes in the Old Testament, the translation of this old servant of God in the chariot of fire. There was fitness in the way he went, for he had been the prophet of fire.

The Sleepy Guests

All those who proper hours keep,
Need never fear they'll fall asleep.
—Old Mother Nature.

Johnny and Polly Chuck never had been awake so late in the year before. No, sir, they never had. In fact, fall was over, for already it was after Thanksgiving. Now they were talking of staying awake still longer. As a matter of fact, Johnny Chuck was curious to know just what winter was like. Both were so fat that it was all they could do to waddle about. Yes, sir, they were so fat that it was all they could do to move. That was because for weeks they had been stuffing themselves, getting ready for winter. You know that is their way of storing up food.

Peter Rabbit was quite surprised when he found that they had not gone to bed for the winter. Johnny told Peter that he wanted to stay awake and Peter thought it a great idea. Once Peter thought it would be a great idea to sleep all winter and tried it. All the people on the Green Meadows knew about it, and even now they all laugh when it is mentioned. Peter was no more fitted to sleep all winter than Johnny was to stay awake all winter. But when Peter found that Johnny and Polly were still awake, he remembered a patch of sweet clover not far away that was still green, and he invited Johnny and Polly to dine with him there. Johnny and Polly accepted.

"You'll find it is the very finest sweet clover of the late fall," said Peter as he led the way to the clover patch. "Never have I tasted sweeter clover. I hope you'll enjoy it."

Johnny and Polly did enjoy it. "I didn't know clover could taste so good," said Johnny, eating away as if he were half starved. "No, sir, I didn't know sweet clover could be so good. How late in the winter do you find it like this, Peter?"

"Well," said Peter slowly, "that depends. It all depends on how early Jack Frost comes and how hard he pinches when he does come. I've seen the time when all the sweet clover disappeared before Thanksgiving, and I've seen the time when I could find sweet clover almost up to Christmas."

Polly Chuck sighed. "I hope it will last as long as that this year," said she. "If we are going to stay awake we shall want plenty of sweet clover."

Just then Peter looked at Johnny Chuck. Johnny had gone fast asleep right in the middle of that patch of sweet clover. He had gone to sleep with his mouth full.

Peter gave Johnny a push. "Wake up!" said he. "This is no place to go to sleep. Supposing Reddy Fox should come along."

"I wasn't asleep," said Johnny indignantly. "I just had my eyes closed. I wasn't asleep."

"You'll find it is the very finest sweet clover of the late fall," said Peter

Just then Peter looked at Polly Chuck; she was asleep. Peter chuckled. "I suppose," said he, "that Polly just has her eyes closed."

"Yes," replied Johnny with dignity, "she merely has her eyes closed this way." Johnny closed his eyes and in a minute he was asleep. Peter sat up and looked all around. He saw Sammy Jay flying overhead, and he beckoned to Sammy. Sammy turned and came down. Peter whispered to him Sammy flew up on a little tree just above Johnny and Polly Chuck. Then with all his might he screamed like Redtail the Hawk.

At the first scream the eyes of Johnny and Polly Chuck flew wide open. At the second scream they took to their heels. If Redtail really had been there I am afraid he would have laughed so hard he wouldn't have been able to catch them. You see, they were so fat that when they tried to run they did little more than waddle. And they huffed and they puffed and they never once looked behind as they scampered for their own doorstep.

WOODBURY'S PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE

The eighth annual exhibition of paintings by contemporary artists was recently opened at Knowlton hall, Thursday afternoon with a private view and tea, attended by many friends of the college and the city. New London and Lyme.

The exhibition will continue for two weeks being open daily from 1:30 to 5 o'clock.

The feature of the work of Charles H. Woodbury, N. A., of Boston is shown in a comprehensive display of his dramatic subject and show color sense and striking. Mr. Woodbury is one of the most versatile artists in this country. He is equally successful in pieces of the impressionistic school and those of the realistic school. Both are on the walls of the exhibition room. He has been awarded medals in the South Kensington museum, London, and by the government of the queen of Italy.

Mr. Woodbury seems to be especially successful in painting the sea. The power of the sea. The beauty of the sea. The fog. Some of his pictures are so full of fog that a person looking at them feels as though he were in a fog. He is a master of the sea. He is a master of the fog. He is a master of the sea and fog. He is a master of the sea and fog and the sky. He is a master of the sea and fog and the sky and the clouds. He is a master of the sea and fog and the sky and the clouds and the wind. WOODBURY'S PAINTINGS ON EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE

The eighth annual exhibition of paintings at Connecticut college was formally opened at Knowlton hall Thursday afternoon with a private view and tea, attended by many guests of the college from this city, New London and Lyme.

The exhibition will continue for two weeks being open daily from 10:30 to 5 o'clock.

This year the work of Charles H. Woodbury, N. A., of Boston is shown. It is a comprehensive display of this brilliant artist's work in oil, water color and etchings. Mr. Woodbury is one of the most distinguished living painters of the sea and is represented in most of the important public collections in this country. He also has paintings in the South Kensington museum, London, and in the collection of the queen of Italy.

Mr. Woodbury seems to be especially successful in giving a sense of the power and majesty of the sea. The Fog Bank is particularly striking and gives one too, a feeling of the movement and weight of deep water. Then there is the very original group of six pictures which he calls Panels of the Sea; three of them are the brilliant blue of tropical seas; the other three a contrasting group of shoal green water of our coast. In these the artist was concerned decorative motive, taking what he needed from nature and making of it a splendid harmony of blue and glowing reds, green with gold, and building up a pattern of line and color and form that is effective and very beautiful.

That the artist is by no means limited to the ocean as a subject, he ably demonstrates in the picture called Return of the World Fliers. Here he has achieved the very quality of the dramatic scene. The west wind is blowing, the planes are sweeping through the clear air, strange dark shapes against the infinite beauty and depth of the sky. It is a thrilling picture, so much more than a mere record, it is rather a re-creation of the event.

In addition to the large oil there are six water colors in the exhibition. Particularly interesting being the Cliff and Rain Cloud. There are, besides several groups of vivid sketches done in the West Indies last winter and an interesting group of sketches actually painted from a plane in the air.

The etchings form a delightful part of the exhibit. They have the same vigor and enthusiasm of execution which mark all of this artist's work and they are true etchings, expressions in line; not line trying to imitate textiles and tones, but line expressing form and movement. There is great variety in the choice of subjects, from a bit of rocky coast with a dark pine, another a pilot boat seen from the deck of a steamer, still another a misty stretch of the river at Portsmouth, all of them vivid and delightful.

Saturday afternoon the exhibition will be closed at 3:30 owing to the sophomore hop.

BEDARD DIVORCE IS GRANTED UNCONTESTED

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court, the uncontested divorce suit of Mrs. Delina Wanner Bedard of 65 West Main street against Joseph G. Bedard was heard here Friday morning and the divorce was granted on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. The marriage of the couple took place in the Catholic church at Wauregan on May 17, 1910 and cruelty was claimed since Oct. 1, 1916. A petition for $10,000 alimony and custody of a 15 year old child was not pressed, having been withdrawn before the trial and counsel stated to Judge Brown that Mr. Bedard is to pay his wife the sum of $15,000 as her share of the property held jointly by them.

Mrs. Bedard is the second wife of the defendant and they have lived in the same house at 65 West Main street, but have occupied different rooms for the past three years, according to the testimony that was brought out.

Mrs. Bedard testified that her husband was a very quick tempered man and had struck her so often that she was black and blue all the time. Some of the trouble she said was because he wanted to transfer some of the property to children of his first wife, which she objected to because she and he held the property jointly.

Witnesses testifying for her were Joseph C. Collins, Joseph A. Sadoway, and her daughter.

Ellis, director of extension service spoke on changes in agriculture in New London county the last five years. Community singing followed and there was a demonstration by Rose Norcross and Embeth Bennett of the Jolly Cookies 4-H club at Gales Ferry.

The concluding number of the day's programme was a splendid address on How Can Rural People Get Something Out of the Farm Bureau, by A. B. Graham of the extension office of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

County Agent's Report

A summary of County Agent Clark's report, giving the outlook and his recommendations for 1927, is as follows:

The program for 1927 will not be changed greatly from the one used in 1926. The main item will be to organize for the various projects a little better than heretofore has been done. This will be by the means of project committees in all projects, thus getting the county people working with more interest than they otherwise would have. This has worked out very well with dairy projects and poultry. Following is an outline of the proposed agricultural program for New London county:

Agricultural engineering—A general campaign for some kind of water system in dwellings; sewage water disposal; land drainage.

Poultry — Continuation of grow healthy chicks program; better organization and follow up with two general county poultry meetings.

Co-operative—Lime, fertilizer, seed and spray material pools.

Dairy—Continue pure bred sire work; increase cow test association membership; five calf and young stock feeding demonstrations; increase interest in junior work.

Fruit—Better organization of the fruit project; a spray program which will include four sprays at the right time; pruning demonstration; grading demonstrations.

Vegetables—Grading and standardizing; insect and disease control by means of joggers; better organization of the project.

Farm management—Special poultry vegetable and fruit farm accounts; increase number of farm account summaries; a farm management school; a farm management club.

Forestry—Planting pines; thinning and estimating.

Crops—More alfalfa and clover; increase use of improved seed; get small groups to order lime together; 10 cars of lime for Lebanon; better strains of silage.

Home Demonstration Work

The report of the home demonstration agent, Miss Gladys E. Stratton showing a summary of her activities follows:

Organization Project—41 communities organized; 22 groups met with annual program; 20 meetings, 301 attendance; 58 directors and leaders assisting; 3 new communities with organized programs.

Rural Engineering—21 problems discussed and suggestions made; 16 installed, including 1 pressure pump; 4 septic tanks; 1 water storage; 2 bathrooms; 3 electric pumps; 1 electric lighting; 3 water at the sink; 1 toilet.

Home Marketing—Assistance given in packing type of containers, label prices for varieties, etc. Women putting home canned products on the market. Help given in procuring the equipment for canning in tins. Help given in planning roadside markets, type of product to be held, recipes for making, prices to charge.

Food and Nutrition Project—12 communities represented; 24 demonstrators of food preparation; 6 nutrition talks; 85 women signed up to follow out one or more demonstrations; 26 days work with 433 attendance.

Clothing Project—11 groups in construction of garments; 9 groups in remodeling garments; 11 groups in tailored finishes; 15 groups in altered commercial patterns; 6 groups in design and color in clothing; 5 groups in machine attachments. As a result of the work on the clothing project the accomplishments are: Improved practices in selection and construction 390; improved practices in remodeling 207; improved practices in selection and design 269; improved practices in finishes 205; improved practices in use of pattern 279; improved practices with machine attachments 198.

Millinery—Hats made in class 190; cost $306.00; estimate value $891.50; estimate saving $584.70; number taught improved methods 223; number of homes effected 291.

Home management project — 9 group meetings; 168 women working on the project; 16 demonstrations given.

Accomplishment—Small equipment added and reported 147 pieces; breakfast nooks put in 7; new kitchen sinks 11, sinks raised 14, working surfaces raised 28, kitchen cabinets built 7, electric irons new 2, kitchens redecorated 5, kitchens rearranged 19, built in conveniences like shelves, closets 31, rearrangment of small equipment 37, wheel trays built 5.

Home furnishing—26 demonstrations; 348 present; 17 pieces furniture upholstered; 208 chairs reseated; 62 pieces furniture refinished; 202 woven rugs reported; 29 hooked rugs made.

Health project new topics this fall stations given; 14 communities covered; 296 attendance.

Summary—Days in office 121; days in field 172; telephone calls 680; office calls 293; personal letters 804; circulation letters 57; meetings 338; circulation 8,648; attendance 5,635. home visits 147.

Outlook for 1927

In 1927 the main lines of home economics work will be the same, some parts of the projects will be changed or others will continue to be stressed.

In nutrition the new project is called "Square Meals" and is intended to teach the house wife how to plan her meals to get the kinds of food before her family which will give a well rounded diet.

Health project new topics this fall are 1, posture and care of feet; 2, care of hair, skin and nails. Subjects given this year will be continued.

The clothing project will continue the work of remodeling, construction and finishes.

New work—In two communities five days work will be given intending to give a well rounded idea of clothing problems. (2) More work will be given on the "Use of Machine Attachments." (3) There will be demonstrations on spot and stain removal and the laundering of silk and wool dresses. (4) A commercial demonstration will give us some time on the use of bias trimmings.

Household engineering—Help will be given on this as heretofore and "water at every kitchen sink" will be the new project.

NEW APPOINTMENTS FOR LOCAL NATIONAL GUARD

Special orders, No. 143, from the adjutant general's office at Hartford were issued Dec. 1 as follows:

Upon the recommendation of the commanding officer the following changes are made in the 192nd Field Artillery:

Captain William R. Denison is relieved from duty with and command of Battery B and assigned to duty as adjutant, Hq., 1st Bn., vice Selden transferred to N. G. R.

1st Lt. Jonathan L. Johnson is relieved from duty with Hq. Battery and Combat train, 1st Bn., and assigned to duty with Hq., 1st Bn., vice Sunderland resigned.

2nd Lt. Tracy R. Burdick is reassigned to Hq. Battery and Combat Train, 1st Bn., in lieu of 1st Lt. Russell Day reassigned to Hq. Battery and Combat Train, 2nd Bn.

Upon the recommendation of the commanding officer, subject to the requirements of par. 29, NGR-2, the following appointments and assignments are made in the 192nd Field Artillery:

Charles Colt of Norwich, to be captain, Field Artillery, vice Selden transferred to N. G. R., and he is assigned to duty with and command of Battery B, vice Denslon re-assigned.

Private Nikola C. Pierce, band section, Service Battery, to be captain, Field Artillery, vice Burdick transferred to N. G. R., and he is assigned to duty with and command of Hq. Battery and Combat Train, 1st Bn. The commanding officer, Service Battery, will discharge Private Pierce in accordance with par. 60, NGR-25.

Arthur E. Wilbur of Norwich, to be second lieutenant, Field Artillery, original appointment, and he is assigned to duty with Hq. Battery and Combat Train, 1st Bn.

The appointment of Capt. Denison locates a staff officer in Norwich, the necessity for which has for a long time been felt.

SPOKE UPON MERGER TO CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN

A well attended meeting for the Congregational women of the city was held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community house under the auspices of the missions department of the Woman's guild of the United Congregational church at which Mrs. Charles Daniels of Hartford, honorary president of the Woman's board, spoke upon the topic, "Our New Friend, The Merger."

Miss Nancy C. Lucas, chairman of the missions department presided, and after the opening prayer by Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Daniels gave an instructive talk upon the merger of the American board and the Women's board, pointing out that it meant greater efficiency, greater power and better direction of missionary activities. She spoke on the organization plan, the finances and the application to the local church.

Miss Sylvia C. Morton of North Westchester, state president of the Women's Home Missionary society, attended the meeting and spoke briefly when she was presented by Miss Lucas.

Tea was served in the social hour under the direction of Mrs. Clarence A. Spear and Mrs. Alfred G. Slived, with Mrs. Chauncey A. Sherman and Mrs. Henry W. Lane pouring.

AMERICAN LEGION PLAY ENTERTAINS STATE HOSPITAL

Through the courtesy of the American Legion and the Auxiliary of the Legion the three-act comedy "When a Feller Needs a Friend," was given on Friday evening at the Norwich state hospital auditorium for the benefit of the patients. The hall was packed to over flowing with a very appreciative audience that was very generous in their applause. Those attending the performance spoke very highly of it, saying that it was by far the best amateur theatrical that has ever played at the hospital auditorium.

Dr. E. S. Burdsall, assistant superintendent at the institution, after the performance personally complimented the members of the cast and also expressed his gratitude to the American Legion in providing such a splendid evening of entertainment, which is one of the many things that the legion is doing for the patients at the institution.

The members of the cast were Elmer MacKenzie, Meredith Lee, William Mitchell, Harry Bowers, James Moore, Helen MacKenzie, Evon Broadhurst, Dorothy Campbell, May O'Brien and Edythe G. Standish. The Roamers orchestra furnished music during the evening.

HARTFORD PASTOR SPEAKS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE'S BANQUET

An address by Rev. Arthur F. McKenny, assistant pastor at the Central Baptist church, Hartford, featured the programme at the young people's banquet Friday evening at Bushnell chapel of the Central Baptist church. At 6:15 the 75 young people present were served the following menu:

Grapefruit
Chicken Pie
Peas Mashed Potatoes
Pickles Rolls Coffee
French Cakes Ice Cream

Ledlie Pitt was the toastmaster and following the singing of America, Grace was said by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church. During the banquet the Sunday school orchestra furnished a concert program and there was also community singing.

At the close of the banquet there were brief remarks by Miss Ellis, pastor's assistant, and Rev. Dr. Pitt. Rev. Mr. McKenny was then introduced to the gathering. He advocated good reading, the selection of good friends and a real interest in religion. Good reading, he said, makes world citizens. We ought to get acquainted with good books, he continued. Outlines of science, for instance, will keep us abreast of what is being done along scientific lines. We should develop our mental growth.

What kind of people do we choose for our friends. It is natural that some people should come a little closer to us than others. Our real and most abiding friendship must be made with Jesus Christ. Organizations like these, he said, help us to make friends.

Speaking about religion Rev. Mr. McKenny said, "If we grasp the great ideals that are contained in religion then we will have a life that is broad and rich."

Following Rev. Mr. McKenny's talk adjournment was taken to the social rooms where there was an hour of games under the direction of Miss Ellis. Miss Marion Royce was chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet arrangements and was assisted by Arthur Armstrong, Marion Denison, Gladys Lambert and Emily Hill.

The waitresses were Misses Ruth Hamilton, Eugenie Dean, Beaulah Whiteley and Chrystal Whitney. The committee in charge of the kitchen comprised Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. Jennie Davis, Miss Nellie Rathbun and Mrs. Willis Hill.

OBITUARY
Martin Danehy

Following an illness of five weeks the death of Martin Danehy of 72 Division street occurred at 4 o'clock Friday morning in this city. He was born in Ireland about 74 years ago and came to this country when he was a child. The greater part of his life was spent in Norwich, residing in the Falls section. He was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church. Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Cornelius J. Mack, Miss Mary Danehy and Mrs. Rudolph S. Nicholson, a son, William J. Danehy and a brother, Jeremiah J. Danehy and a brother, Jeremiah J. and nephews.

He was one of the oldest Irish residents of the city and having grown up here as a boy he was an authority on many matters of local history, having an unusually retentive memory which made him an interesting conversationalist in reference to events of the past half century and longer.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

NAP LIBERTE SIGNS CONTRACT TO PLAY WITH YORK, PA. NEXT SEASON

Nap Liberte, a product of the Jewett City sandlots, stepped into professional baseball Friday when he attached his name to a contract to play with the York, Pa., team in the New York-Pennsylvania league next year. Liberte was recommended to the York management by Joe Faber, another Jewett City boy, who played with York last year and was the leading shortstop of the league.

Liberte reports to York early in the spring for his try-out and Faber predicts that Liberte has all the stuff to make the grade. Liberte started his baseball career with the St. Mary's school team and then graduated to the Ashland A. A. team where he made an excellent record as a third sacker and his services were demanded by other semi-pro clubs in the eastern part of the state. In 1923 Liberte was voted the most valuable player in the Norwich Twilight league. This season he played third with the Riverview club where he played brilliant ball during the season although being handicapped part of the playing season with a strained ligament in his shoulder.

He is a valuable asset to any team, being able to play most any position in the infield and also can take his turn in the box if the occasion demands it. He throws right handed and can bat either left or right although preferring to bat from the port side of the plate. There is little doubt in the minds of eastern Connecticut fans but that Liberte will make good in professional ball if given a thorough tryout. Liberte tried out with Hartford but turned down a contract for last year.

"CONNIE" LEWIS, BRIDGEPORT SPORTSMAN IS ARRESTED

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Clifford J. "Connie" Lewis, wealthy Bridgeport sportsman, well known in sporting circles throughout the east as a promoter of fights, football contests and other sports, was arrested in the offices of Robert T. Hurley, superintendent of the state police Thursday afternoon on charges of drunkenness and breach of the peace after he had created a disturbance in the state police headquarters here. Lieut. Walter F. Stiles ordered him locked up.

Lewis, who conducts a pool room and bowling alleys in Bridgeport, and is owner of a large estate in Redding, failed to appear in the Hartford police court today to answer to the complaints filed against him and Judge Day ordered the forfeiture of a bond of $100 which was furnished by Charles St. Pierre last night for the release of Lewis.

A week ago, Lewis was arrested in Bridgeport for alleged violation of the state lottery law. It is charged that he is the head of a lottery in Connecticut and Massachusetts and that the sales of the lottery tickets ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars each week. He is being held under bond of $5,000 for appearance in the December term of the superior criminal court.

It was said today that Lewis, who arrested in Bridgeport by State Policeman Frank Verelli, sought an interview yesterday with Supt. Hurley to discuss the details of his arrest. Lieut. Stiles noted his condition, it is alleged, and told Lewis that the head of the department was "too busy to talk." Lewis was insistent and he was finally ejected from the building. He returned shortly afterward, however, and this time the lieutenant ordered him locked up. The lottery with which it is alleged Lewis is identified is based on the figures contained in the daily treasury reports. The police say that a number of Lewis' "salesmen" have been arrested here and in other New England cities.

POST SEASON GAMES CONDEMNED BY STUDENTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Post season football games were condemned at a round table conference of delegates to the National Student federation here tonight. Identity of speakers at the conference was not disclosed, officials holding that with maintenance of anonymity more freedom of expression would be possible.

A representative of a Pacific coast school declared that in the Washington-Alabama game in the Rose bowl a year ago players on the former team were forced to enter the game against their will. The unpleasantness of that game resulted in adoption of a northwest conference rule prohibiting post season games, he said.

Another speaker condemned a proposal that the Army and Navy play off their Chicago tie to help the finances of a non-college organization.

Alumni were condemned by another speaker for what he termed their action "in deciding for high school athletic stars what colleges they shall enter."

Other speakers frowned on proposals for curtailment of football which they said pays the bills for all other sports indulged in by college men.

SOUTH DAKOTA ELEVEN TO PLAY IN HAWAII

BROOKINGS, S. D., Dec. 3.—(AP)—South Dakota state college's undefeated football team will play two games in Hawaii, one of them with the University of Hawaii, at Honolulu, Christmas day. Officials of state college approved the trip today following receipt of a cablegram from University of Hawaii officials offering to pay all expenses.

(The other game will be with a team from the United States, which is expected to be in Hawaii during the holidays).

Cobb to Attend Baseball Meeting

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, now just a citizen from Augusta, Ga., has written that he will attend the annual meeting next week of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues here. "Just wanted to mingle with the crowd, that's all," said Cobb in a letter making hotel reservations.

NINE GAMES APPEAR ON AGGIE GRID SLATE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Dec. 3.—Nine games appear on the 1927 Connecticut Aggie football schedule announced here today, four of which will be played at Storrs and five on foreign fields. Connecticut is a charter member of the New England conference and with the exception of Massachusetts Aggies, all conference elevens will be played next season.

Newcomers on the Connecticut schedule are Boston college, Springfield, Coast Guard academy, and Lowell Textile. Of the elevens played in the season just closed, Massachusetts Aggies, Cooper Union and Rensselaer will not be played next year. Springfield returns to the Aggie slate after a two-year lapse, 1924 when they played to a scoreless tie being the last time the elevens of the two institutions met. The Coast Guard academy eleven from New London opens the schedule on Sept. 24 in a game arranged to give the Nutmeggers a workout before meeting Wesleyan, Maine, Springfield and New Hampshire—four hard opponents on consecutive Saturdays.

In scheduling Boston college, the athletic authorities at Storrs are departing from their customary policy that has prevented Connecticut from scheduling games with admittedly stronger elevens of larger colleges and universities. Each year the Aggies have had opportunities to close games with teams like Brown, Holy Cross, New York university and other major elevens, but in general such offers have been turned down. There are several reasons why such a policy is in force at Storrs, the chief one of which is the usual downright scarcity of reserve material. Less than 250 men at Connecticut are eligible for varsity competition, and thirty men is considered a large football squad at the state college. A squad is never "cut" at Storrs, and even the largest Aggie squad has more or less green and untried material that is lacking in the experience so necessary for stiff intercollegiate play. All of which means the burden of actual competition for any football men has in the past been carried by a comparatively small group of men. For this reason, engagements with major elevens, where the risks from injuries appear to be greater than when a team is playing in its own class, have not been accepted.

Conditions have improved at Storrs during the present year, however, and as the situation shapes up at the present time, Coach Dole will have a wealth of material next season. He loses only five seniors by graduation, the sophombre class furnished an entire line of varsity timber, and only one man was lost from this year's backfield that was admittedly the most powerful in the history of Connecticut Aggie football. In addition to all this, much good material is expected from the undefeated freshman eleven, that had stars both on the line and in the backfield. Thus with prospects looking better than any time since he came to Storrs in 1923, Coach Dole feels that a game with a major eleven like Boston college is worth attempting as the final contest of next year's season.

It is felt among many that in tackling teams like New Hampshire, Springfield, Maine, the Aggies are really playing elevens out of their class, as those institutions are considerably larger than Connecticut, but scores in recent seasons do not bear out such an assertion. Ordinarily, the Aggies play four or five contests of an eight-game schedule with teams of that calibre, and it is for such elevens, especially Maine and New Hampshire in the New England conference, that the Aggies point.

The Aggie schedule follows: Sept. 24, Coast Guard academy at Storrs; Oct. 1, Wesleyan at Middletown; Oct. 8, Maine at Storrs; Oct 15, Springfield at Springfield; Oct. 22, New Hampshire at Storrs; Oct. 29, Lowell Textile at Storrs; Nov. 5, Trinity at Hartford; Nov. 12, Rhode Island at Kingston; Nov. 19, Boston college at Boston.

ALABAMA WILL PLAY AT TOURNAMENT OF ROSES

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson tide, football champions of the south for the third straight year, will make its second straight bid for the post-season honors if the team goes through with the proposed New Year's day game with Stanford's Pacific Coast championship eleven at Pasadena, California.

Since 1916, this contest, featuring the tournament of roses celebration, has become an intersectional classic.

Alabama was victorious over Washington last New Year's day in a thrilling game, 20 to 19, and has a chance to establish a record by winning from Stanford. Only one other university, California, has appeared in the tournament game two years in a row and the Golden Bears, after beating Ohio state, 28 to 0, in 1921, were held to a tie the following year by Washington & Jefferson.

In nine tournament contests since 1916, the Pacific coast's representatives have won four, while one triumph each has gone to the middle west, east and south. Two games ended in ties. The results since 1916:

1916—Washington state 14; Brown 0.
1917—University of Oregon 14; Pennsylvania 0.
1918-19—No games because of World war.
1920—Harvard 7; University of Oregon 6.
1921—California 28, Ohio state 0.
1922—California 0, Washington & Jefferson 0.
1923—Southern California 14, Penn state 3.
1924—University of Washington 14, Naval academy 14.
1925—Notre Dame 27, Leland Stanford 10.
1926—Alabama 20; University of Washington 19.

FIVE OPEN TOURNEYS IN CALIFORNIA THIS WINTER

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The vanguard of golf's winter touring forces left New York today for California, where a series of five open tournaments this month and next have attracted entries of international importance.

Walter Hagen, former American and British open titleholder, heads a group that will carry the east's banner in competition providing prize money in excess of $30,000. Others included Mike Brady, Mac Smith, the Metropolitan champion; Bobby Cruickshank, Dan Williams, Cyril Walker, Leo Diegel, Johnny Farrell, Bill Mehlhorn, Joe Turnesa, Tommy Armour and John Golden.

George Duncan, British professional, is expected to join the contestants in a campaign which will spread later to Texas, Florida and other southern courses.

WALKER WINS WORLD'S MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE BY DECISION OVER FLOWERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, one time holder of the world's welterweight championship, won the middleweight title from Tiger Flowers, the Georgia deacon, after ten savage rounds of fighting, in which the champion was floored twice.

Walker was awarded the decision by Referee Benny Yanger as the record breaking crowd of 11,000 spectators immediately broke into a chorus of boos and cheers. When the battle ended, blood was streaming down Walker's chest from a gash over his left eye, suffered in the second round. Flowers, the defeated titleholder, immediately grasped Walker's gloved fist and congratulated him on his game fight. Then 20 or more police piled into the ring to protect the new champion and the defeated titleholder from any riotious outbreak.

The match drew a capacity crowd in the Coliseum with a record gate of between $85,000 and $90,000.

Walk Miller, manager of the defeated negro had feared for several days that Flowers would not receive what he would consider a fair decision provided the contest went the limit. Because of these fears Miller had demanded a forfeit of $65,000 from Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, guaranteeing to give Flowers a return match within 90 days. Kearns had further agreed that Flowers would be the first challenger.

"We had a good referee in there," Miller said. "He decided Walker won, so it must be so. However, Flowers was hit low two times and these punches took the steam out of him. Walker has got to fight Flowers again within three months. Kearns has $65,000 up to guarantee it."

The fight was spectacular, savagely fought and in the very first round Walker sent Flowers sprawling to his haunches with the first right hand punch Mickey fired at the Negro's chin. Fowers jumped to his feet as the timekeeper started to bark out his count. The Negro apparently was not hurt, although the blow slowed him up for a second.

After that furious first round, Flowers, throwing his punches from a variety of angles, peppered Mickey with long lefts and reaping rights, keeping him out of range of a body attack.

Flowers managed to keep Walker out of range until the fourth, when Mickey made a furious stand, and again in the ninth when Walker made his best showing, he nailed Flowers on the chin with a right that made his knees buckle, and a few seconds later clipped him another right in the chin that dropped Flowers for the second time.

The champion's shoulders hit the mat, but he bounced to his feet before the count was started.

Walker always attempted to bore into Flowers, hoping to drop him for the full count, but in his anxiety he missed many shots for the chin. Flowers was too skillful in blocking and dancing away from the punches.

Flowers' chief attack was his puzzling left hand and long right that he kept poking into Mickey's face. At times he slapped Walker around with long lefts like he was painting a fence.

Walker was handicapped by being constantly blinded by blood dripping into his eye from the gash in the left eye brow. At times he attempted to blot the blood out of his eye in an effort to clear his vision.

Experienced ringside observers were surprised at first at the verdict. The crowd also evidently was surprised as the decision of Referee Yenger, himself an old time boxer, was at first greeted with boos, then an outburst of cheering. Some of the ringside spectators thought that Flowers won five rounds, that four went to Walker and that the other one was even. Others thought that Flowers took an even greater number of rounds.

Walker gave away 4½ pounds, weighing 154½ this afternoon, while the champion scaled 159, a pound under the middleweight limit.

Flowers entered the ring tonight as 8 to 5 favorite.

Godfrey Knocks Out Owens

George Godfrey of Chicago, a negro heavyweight scored a knockout over Cowboy Billy Owens in the eighth round of the semi-finals. The bout was stopped with Owens, a protege of Jack Kearns, out on his feet.

Jackie Williams and Harry Robart, Chicago light heavyweights, battled in the six-round opener with Williams getting the referee's verdict.

Walcott Langford, of Chicago, a negro middleweight, knocked out Jack Elkhart, of Dallas, Tex., in the fourth round of a scheduled 8-round bout.

Chuck Burns of San Antonio and Babe McGorgory, an Oklahoma 165 pounder, fought eight vicious rounds to a draw. McGorgory, a sharp, active puncher, waited Burns with a right to the chin in the third round that made his knees buckle, but he failed to follow up the advantage.

Lee Knocks Out Kelly

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 3.—(AP)—George (Kid) Lee of Worcester, New England welterweight champion, knocked out Jimmy Kelly of Philadelphia in the second round of their scheduled ten round bout today.

NOTRE DAME-TROJAN GAME MAY BE PLAYED IN RAIN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Prospects tonight were that tomorrow's game between Coach Rockne's Notre Dame eleven and the Trojans of the University of southern California might be fought in the rain.

Drizzling rain fell late today. Coaches and football authorities gathered here from over the country, however, held that rain would not have any effect on the outcome of the intersectional clash.

The only element which could have decided effect is warm weather. That, they agreed, would slow up the men from Indiana.

After two nights rest and two practice periods at Tucson, Ariz., the Notre Dame squad was due here tonight.

The usual argument that a team from the four-season section would be more at home in bad weather and thus assume an advantage over the thundering herd of Howard Jones, was discarded in the light of the splendid work of the Trojan backs in the rain this fall.

No advantage was given either team by outside coaches. Glenn Warner of Stanford agreed with Tad Jones of Yale that it was a "toss-up." Other mentors pointed out what they considered an advantage by one of the two outfits, but his argument was nullified by the next.

In the Trojan camp, with Morton Kaer, halfback, in fine fettle, discussion centered about whether Morley Drury, who kicks, plunges, calls signals and runs the ends, would be in Jones' lineup. Injured six weeks ago the big halfback was not expected to figure in another game this year, until a few days ago when it leaked out that Drury might get his chance.

RUBE BENTON ARRESTED ON STABBING CHARGE

CINCINNATI, Dec. 3.—(AP)—John C. (Rube) Benton, baseball pitcher, was made defendant today in a warrant charging cutting to kill. It is alleged Benton attacked William C. Murphy, salesman, and stabbed him in the back of the head and neck following a card game in a private residence, early today.

It is believed Murphy's injuries will not prove serious.

Benton formerly was a pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds. Last season he played with the Minneapolis team of the American association.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS AT WESTERLY TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Dec. 3.—The first basketball game of the season, this year, will be played this (Saturday) night at the state armory on Dixon street. The opposing quintet will be the Battery Five of the 243rd. R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) stationed at the armory and the Westerly Sanitary Corps team. The Battery men have been coached by First Lieut. Andrews and the Sanitary players are not without previous playing experience so that when the referees whistle sounds at 8 o'clock a lively game is looked forward to by the fans. Dancing will follow the basketball game.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

(By the Associated Press)

If this season's form means anything an eleven that faces Brown, Penn state, Chicago, Navy, Harvard, Columbia and Cornell in a row next fall will have as stiff an assignment as any out out for it. That's what Pennsylvania's 1927 schedule calls for.

If there was any doubt about the Army-Navy classic coming back to New York next season, the Navy's schedule announcers "let the cat out of the bag." The Polo grounds and Yankee stadium both may be in the bidding but the former apparently has the call among Army men who will pick the site.

Kid Kaplan, the Meriden "buzz saw," retired undefeated as featherweight champion only to have his hopes of attaining light weight title heights jolted by a knockout at the hands of Billy Wallace of Cleveland it was the kid's first knockout and one of the biggest upsets of a flistic year that has been replete with form reversals.

Batting departments in which Babe Ruth failed to lead the American league in 1926 were few and far between. The bambino, only five points behind Heinie Manush of the Tigers for the batting percentage crown, led all rivals in home runs, total bases, runs responsible for, bases on balls, and runs scored. He was second in strikeouts, fanning 76 times as compared with Tony Lazzeri's 96.

Many of the east's gridiron satellites are expected to shine on the basketball court this winter. Harry Wilson, Army's football captain-elect, was an all-eastern guard last season and Bulwark of the 1926-27 West Point five. Harlan Carr and Vic Hanson of Syracuse, are as adept at caging basketballs as they are at bagging forward passes.

Ralph Greenleaf, who has again annexed the professional pocket billiard championship, has earned a position in this form of the green-table sport similar to that occupied by Willie Hoppe in balkline billiards for the long stretch of years prior to Hoppe's defeat by Schaefer. Greenleaf is without a peer. As a shot maker none of the champions of the past has been his superior and few of them have excelled him at safety play. Greenleaf was only twenty-one when he first won the title at Philadelphia in 1931.

Olympia Fields, Chicago, is the largest golf club.

ACADEMY FIVE AND Y. M. H. A. TEAMS IN BASKETBALL CLASH AT "Y" TONIGHT

A treat is in store for local sportdom this Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gym when a doubleheader of basketball games is scheduled with Nordics-C. F. C. and Academy-Y. M. H. A., fives slated for action. All four teams are exceptionally fast and tight battles can be expected.

The Academy, after playing fine basketball only to be nosed out by 3 points last Saturday evening by the C. F. C. team, will take the floor tonight in their second game of the season determined to make up for last week's reverse and turn the Y. M. H. A. outfit back in a decisive manner. Coach McKean has put the schoolboys through some exceptionally stiff drills during the past week and better team and pass work should be in order in tonight's game.

The Academy will probably lineup as follows: Pingree, center; Capt. Yerrington and Kelly, forwards; Cimikoski and Armstrong, guards. Jarvis, a forward, and Fenton and LaCroix, guards will have first choice on the reserve honors.

The Y. M. H. A. will open their season in tonight's game and if records of past seasons are to be taken as a criterion then the N. F. A. can expect a mighty interesting evening. Segal, Brauman, Kenig, Budnick, Jones, Deanville and a few new faces will make up their lineup.

The C. F. C.-Nordic fracas should develop into a tight contest right from the opening tap-off. The former after opening their season last Saturday by conquering the Academy, will be bent on keeping their slate unTarnished while the Nordics, who have met rather tough going to date this season against the fastest that this section can offer, will be out to gain their first victory of the year and the C. F. C. is intended as the victim.

The C. F. C. will probably lineup as follows: Ludlow, center; Lambert and Leffingwell, forwards; Brown and Neil, guards. The Nordics will use the following without doubt to start the contest: Huston, center; Lefty Dugas and Heap, forwards; Smith and Archibald or Mathewson, guards.

The first game is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock sharp.

CHEVROLET

1926 Again Chevrolet's Greatest Year

In 1925 Chevrolet astonished the automotive world by attaining an annual production never before reached by any manufacturer of gearshift automobiles.

Yet, so spectacular has been the increase in demand for Chevrolet cars, that a new and even more brilliant record is the climax for 1926.

Thus, for two years in succession, Chevrolet has broken all its previous records and has set a new mark in automotive history.

This splendid achievement results from a steadfast adherence to the fundamental Chevrolet policy of building a car of the finest possible quality to sell at a low price.

That the vast majority of buyers now demand a car of this type—and that Chevrolet has been successful in building such a car—possessing the highest degree of smooth performance, smart appearance, and economical operation—is proved by Chevrolet's success during the year now drawing to a close. Come in and see this record-breaking car.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT HELD LENGTHY SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 3—The regular Friday session of Third district court, before Judge Oliver H. Williams, was somewhat late in getting down to the trial calendar but when this point was reached the session did not adjourn until after 1 o'clock. The case of the Rhode Island department of state police, vs. Raymond Patraca, alias, was one for alleged escape from lockup in the town of Richmond on August 18th, 1926. At the conclusion of the lengthy hearing Judge Williams declared that the state had made out a case and found the accused probably guilty. Patraca was bound over to the grand jury of the February term of superior court for Washington county. For his appearance his mother, Mary J. Patraca became surety in the sum of $1,500 bail.

Judge Williams called the follow: .

New writ entered before the calling of the docket: Mary L. Foley of Jersey City vs. Charles J. Mesenagos of Stonington, trespass in the case for negligence and Bradford Garage and Auto Supply company vs. B. Franklin Peckham. Petition filed for bill of particulars, continued two weeks.

Criminal docket—State, vs. Angelo Turano State, vs. Julia Davis. State, vs. Mary Nugent. Continued two weeks. State, vs. Raymond Patraca. After being continued this case was recalled at 11:15 for trial. State, vs. James Miller. On motion of Solicitor John Ferguson for the town of Hopkinton, this case was marked discontinued. It was an action brought against Miller, who was tried and found guilty in Third district court for the obstruction of an officer and on appeal to Washington county superior court the jury which heard the case disagreed. George E. Clark of Shannock vs. Mrs. Bertha Madsen. Continued one week.

Mary A. Graf vs. Henry J. Rivard. In this case Mr. Ferguson stated to the court that a writ was served as a writ of attachment on property in the New Park hotel on Canal street. Writ was forwarded to sheriff of Providence county and service was made on Industrial Trust company as trustees but there was no actual service on the person. No reason appeared on the writ for non service o fwrit. The court was told that the defendant had very little property and that the claim was for rent due and that most everything was on a conditional bill of sale. Judge Williams continued the case for one week to satisfy the court.

William A. Burk, vs. Elizabeth Ostman, et al Judgement was entered for the plaintiff for the payment of $313.11 and costs.

In the case of State vs. Raymond Patraca. Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony placed Lieut. John Baird of the state police on the stand as the first witness for the defense. He testified that Raymond Patraca, then before the court was the man who gave him his name as John B. Nubla, when he had arrested him at 6 a. m. on August 18, 1926, and left him in the Richmond lockup Baird testified that a lock had been shown him, which had been on the cell, when the prisoner along with another had been locked up and was then broken. On cross examination by Attorney Charles A. Kelley Baird said that the defendant had been arrested in Hope Valley, while making his escape across fields from a truck. In the Dodge truck cab were two man, who jumped out and ran as the officer blew his whistle, when R. I. State Troops Marceau, No. 38, had attempted in vain to stop the truck as it passed him. The lieutenant said that the truck, travelling at the rate of 40 miles an hour was preceded by a Buick roadster, which went 50 miles an hour and that firing his gun in the air the men stopped and he took them both to the Richmond lockup and placed them in a cell, while he directed Trooper Marceau to follow the truck. The men gave their names as "Raymond" and "Mike" and he did not tell them the reason for his locking them up. The truck contained a load of beer, which was turned over to federal officers in Providence. When Trooper Marcau returned to the Richmond lockup he found the cell empty, the men having escaped. Later Trooper Marceau arrested Patraca near the Richmond town house and Lieut. Baird took him from Richmond to Providence and turned him over to the federal officers. On his warrant Providence police arrested Patraca on August 14th, at 10:30 in the morning and he was brought to Westerly, where it was after 9 o'clock that night before Patraca was arraigned on a warrant charging him under the common law with breaking out of a place of detention, it being that case which was now before the court.

No evidence was put in by the defence and Attorney Kelley argued that the men were confined in the lockup, when there was no charge against them, that the defendant was taken to Providence on Friday, brought back to Westerly and not arraigned until 10:30 o'clock on Saturday night after nearly thirty-six hours detention and that the complaint was made on the common law charge of escaping from a detention He said that if it were found the men were held on a sufficient charge the present count was but a misdemeanor for which the penalty was not over a year's imprisonment or a $1,000 fine. The court adjourned on the judge's finding.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers: Dec. 1. Henry E. Segar to James Cofone a certain tract or parcel of land bounded on the north by lands of Frederick P. and Tristam B. Babcock, easterly and southerly by lands of S. H. Davis, Wanton R. Carpenter and Main street highway, and westerly by lands of Frederick P. and T. D. Babcock, Ann M. Maxson and the Pawcatuck river.

Dec. 1. Heirs of Alzada A. Saunders, William F. and Carrie L. Saunders, to Mary S. Damerel, two certain tracts or parcels of land at Pleasant View. The first bounded northerly by Atlantic avenue, southerly by the Atlantic ocean and adjoining land of Raymond B. Case The second on the north side of Atlantic avenue and bounded northeasterly and northerly by Winnapaug pond.

Chapman and lodge officers will conduct a special ritualistic lodge work. The committee of arrangements consists of John H. Murphy, John F. Gallager, Judge William A. Wilcox, Daniel L. Crandall, Joseph L. Lenihan and Dominic Albamonti.

Miss Katherine W. Foster presented an entertaining talk on the subject of Old Epitaphs before the December meeting of the Westerly Historical society, held Thursday evening in the assembly hall of the Wilcox Public library building on Broad street. Many old and new epitaphs were given by Miss Foster which showed the great diversity and broad scope of those who had chronicled in brief form the lives of the department. Miss Foster urged her hearers to visit the cemeteries in person and read for themselves the enduring sentences cut in marble and stone.

In the Westerly public school attendance records the Bradford grammar school with an attendance percentage of 97.35 led all of the other Westerly public schools in attendance during the month of November, according to figures compiled by Willard H. NOANK

The new Nuggets and the Nuggets of 1913 will play this (Saturday) evening. The young Nuggets have put in a week of hard practice and they are out to beat the old timers. The old records book book of 1913 was brought from the attic of Walter McDonald's home and it was read to all the members of the team. With Albert and Charles Patterson forwards, well known as the Patterson Bros., and Smith at center and Stretch Morrison at guard, with his running mate, Flash McDonald at the other guard, the young Nuggets will have a hard road to travel for a victory.

Alden Brocky was a caller in Ledyard Thursday.

A young man from Georgia came into Jane Caron's store Thursday afternoon, looking for Durwood Main; he wanted to buy the white owl which Main shot recently. He wanted to have it mounted to show to his friends down south. He came from the south by automobile and read in the paper about Mr. Main's good luck, bringing Noank almost the first owl of the season. This young man is after all kinds of birds for to have them mounted and keep them is his hobby.

On account of the cold wind Thursday the carpenters at Groton Long Point quit working on the outside of the new cottages.

Several young men of the village attended the play and dance at Ledyard Thursday evening. The play was Shanty Town given by Mystic people. After the play there was dancing.

The property of Sam Main, sold recently to people from Hadley, Mass., is having new stone steps laid by Contractor George Carpenter and a boundary line that will run east and west. The roof is to be shingled and work inside done. The new owners will make it their summer home.

Boat C. F. C. was hauled out at Rogers' boat yard by Raymond Coon and men and will be put away for the winter. Also the boat Katherine was pulled out at the same yard and will be stored until the lobster season opens in the spring.

THE VALUE OF SIGHT

Sight is priceless; it has no market value. Sight can neither be bought nor sold. It is a precious gift from the Creator.

Of the five human senses, seeing, hearing, feeling, smelling and tasting, sight is more indispensable than the other four senses combined. Its value cannot be estimated because there is nothing with which it can be compared. Have your eyes taken care of. When in trouble come to see

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

A Nippon Garden

Not all the wealth nor all the power
That I may ever know
Can bring to me the happiness I knew in vanished days;
But when upon my tired brow the summer breezes blow
My spirit goes adventuring along the old, old ways.

It seeks a little rustic bridge within a garden fair,
With yellow kisses abloom around a mossy pool.
And sweet wisteria's purple blooms
throw scent upon the air,
And dragon-flies spin lines of blue o'er water green and cool.

I long to turn life's pages back until once more I see
The moon's face mirrored in the pool where lotus flowers sleep,
And fireflies weaving golden webs to hold night's mystery,
And watch beneath the crooked pines the long, black shadows creep.

I can not turn the pages back, I can not alter fate.
No more will I go wandering beneath an eastern sky,
And only down the mind's dim paths
can I approach that gate
That leads into a garden old where flowers bloom and die.

The pines and pool are far away; tho
I may never see
The loveliness of lotus blooms in all their native grace,
Still deep within my heart there hides
a rare, sweet memory,
That wakes to life when summer
winds lie soft upon my face.

The Death of the Flowers

The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds, naked woods, and meadows brown and sere.
Heaped in the hollows of the grove
the withered loves lie dead;
They rustle to the eddying gust and to the rabbit's tread.
The robin and the wren have flown,
and from the shrub the jay,
And from the woodtop calls the crow through all the gloomy day.

Where are the flowers, the fair young flowers, that lately sprung and stood
In brighter light and softer airs, a beauteous sisterhood?
Alas! they all are in their graves: the gentle race of flowers
Are lying in their lowly beds with the fair and good of ours.
The rain is falling where they lie; but the cold November rain
Calls not from out the gloomy earth the lovely ones again.

The wind-flower and the violet, they perish long ago,
And the wild-rose and the orchid died
amid the summer glow;
But on the hill, the golden-rod, and the
aster in the wood,
And the yellow sun-flower by the brook in autumn beauty stood,
Till fell the frost from the clear cold heaven, as falls the plague on men
And the brightness of their smile was gone from upland, glade, and glen.

And now when comes the calm mild day as still such days will come
To call the squirrel and the bee from out their winter home.
When the sound of dropping nuts is heard though all the trees are still,
And twinkle in the smoky light the waters of the rill,
The south-wind searches for the flowers whose fragrance late he bore,
And sighs to find them in the wood and by the stream no more.

BREAD MAKING

Dear S. C. Sisters: I really think it just as easy to make one loaf of bread as it is to make four. In the first place I think good bread depends on good materials. Choose a good bread flour. It should be creamy in color and the grains easy separable from one another, and another thing I note about flour some take up more moisture than others. Don't you think so Milky Way? A good way for a beginner in making bread is to find out the amount of flour of the kind you are using, which a certain quantity of liquid needs in order to make dough and after that add the same measurement each time you make bread. On a warm day the temperature and the air is warmer and I find on a cold day the temperature is below 80. So on a warm day in taking the temperature of the air (which is about 80 degrees) and the flour which is about 65 the combined temperature of the two is then 175 and that subtracted from 240 leaves 65 degrees which should be the temperature of the water. A good many degrees less than that of luke warm water I really have found a high temperature does kill the growth of yeast.

I like Milky Way, use 1 yeast cake to one loaf of bread if made in the morning. Some insist that it is too much, but I think it just right. At night I use 1-3 cake. This is the way I put my bread together. I always make my bread with milk. Scald the milk first and when it is the right temperature—blood heat, I pour it on the lard—1 tablespoon to one loaf of bread. Here is a recipe that I have found always comes out right. Of course all measurements are level.

One-half tablespoon lard, 1-2 tablespoon butter, on this 1 cup of scalded milk, blood warm, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt and about 2 1-4 cups of flour and about 1-4 cup water. Crumble up your yeast in the water and be sure and dissolve it, then pour on the flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt in the flour, 1 teaspoon of glycerine, (the glycerine these all together I mix it all getting these all together I mix it all up with my hands, place on board, pat lightly, do not press down but let all motions be as elastic as possible. I always knead mine until the dough is velvety and like a flat cake, and then fold. I knead it this way about five to ten minutes and use as little flour as possible so that it wont stick to the board. After a time you will find it will not stick to the board. If you wish to make your bread the night before one third of a yeast cake is all right then, but I really prefer to mix my bread in the morning and let rise about two hours then mix over or knead over. Then takes 2 hours more so it goes in the oven four hours from the time it was mixed. Every one has a way of their own, but I was very much pleased with your letter about bread for bread is my hobby.

I am going to send you, Milky Way, a recipe that two New York girls who run a tea room there use and their customers congratulate them in these rolls. One cup shortening, 1 cake yeast, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup mashed potato, 2 pints luke warm water and milk, 4 quarts flour. Scald milk then add butter or lard, eggs, mashed potatoes and sugar. Dissolve cake of yeast in one half cup luke warm water. To the yeast add 1 tablespoon of the sugar and enough flour to make a thin batter. Let this rise for 30 minutes. When the scalded milk is blood warm add yeast, sponge and two quarts of flour. Let this rise over night. In the morning add the remaining 2 quarts of flour. Let rise twice its bulk. Make into rolls. Let them rise, bake ten minutes in moderate oven. For family use you can use 1-2 the amount.

A simple way to test flour is in the first place see that it has a yellow tinge. Then take some of it in your hand and press it. It will fall apart loosely (not in lumps,) rub some of it between your fingers. It will not feel entirely powdery, but you will be able to distinguish different particles.

WANTED, A CORN REMEDY

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: It is sometime ago, since I wrote for the Corner and I thought it about time to thank the sisters who sent me birthday cards—Black Eyed Susie, Necia, Hill Top, Catnip, U. C. E., Whirlwind, and that sister of mine out in (No Man's Land.) Well, ma, I suppose you are working as hard as ever, feeding and driving the chickens to water.

E. L. M. and Cosmos: Be sure and come to our next meeting as I am going to take the old fiddle along.

Kochie: I think I know who you are, are you still a dressmaker and do you live in the village of V.? Come up to our next meeting we will have an old fashioned square dance and you can prompt.

Early Blue Bell: Was glad to make your acquaintance and have been waiting for that call on the phone.

Joan: You are wondering if Kochie is a sister or a brother. They say guess work is alright, if you guess right. So I guess he is a brother. Am I right?

U. C. E.: How are you? Hope you are O. K. by this time and your rheumatis all gone.

Katinka: Was thinking of the days gone by, and it gives me a homesick feeling. Suppose you have moved into your new house. Am coming to see you sometime.

Scottie: Hope you are practicing up a bit.

Necia: I suppose you are having a good time. Don't miss the next meeting.

Mrs. E. W.: How were the salted peanuts? Did we get them? You bet we did.

Do any of the sisters know of any remedy that will cure corns. I have tried several different kinds, but I still have the corns. Best wishes for the Corner.

MINCE PIES AND GINGER BREAD

Dear Cornerites: There are various opinions as to mince meat and what to use for the sweets. Many housewives think it an improvement and use either the undercut of a well roasted sirloin of beef or a boiled fresh tongue (ox) for the purpose. Either of these meats I find may be chosen with an advantage, and one pound after it is cooked will be found sufficient. This should be freed from fat and well minced. In making mincemeat each ingredient, should be minced separately and finely before adding it to others. This is the way I combine mine. For a moderate quantity 2 pounds each of seedless raisins and currants, (well washed and dried) 2 pounds beef suet chopped fine, 1 pound of apples, pared, cored and chopped, 2 pounds of moist sugar, (coffee A), 1-2 pound candied orange peel, 1-4 pound of citron. The grated rinds of three lemons, one grated nutmeg, a little mace (1-4 teaspoon) 1-2 ounce salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 2 pounds of ox tongue (you can use beef) 1 pound after it is cooked, after having mixed the fruit separately, I mix all together with my hand, then add 1-2 pint of grape wine and the same of cider. Years ago I used to use brandy and sherry wine but I think the grape wine and cider very good substitutes.

I have had this recipe for 50 years and it is always the same.

Mincemeat Recipe 150 Years Old: 2 pounds each of mince meat, currant, raisins, beef, beef suet, 1 pound citron, 1 1-2 pounds of candied lemon peel, 4 pounds apples, 2 pounds each sultana raisins and sugar, 2 nutmegs grated, 1-4 ounce cloves, 1-2 ounce mace, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 lemons, the juice, rind, 2 oranges, juice and rind.

Simmer the meat gently until tender and when perfectly cold chop it fine. Stone the raisins, shred the citron, pare, core and chop the apples, chop the suet fine. Mix the dry ingredients then add the juice and rind of the oranges and lemons. Pack in a stone jar, cover close and keep cool. This mincemeat will keep all winter. This recipe is said to have come from the Curtis family in the beginning—according to Virginia tradition, the widow Curtis, who became Mrs. Washington, made famous mince pies.

This is the way George Washington's mother made her gingerbread. I copied it from Better Home and Gardens.

Ginger Bread: 1-2 cup fresh butter, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, mace, nutmeg, ginger, 2 tablespoons of coffee, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, juice and grated rind of one large orange, 1 teaspoon soda.

Beat sugar and butter to a cream, add molasses and spices and coffee. Beat eggs very light and thick, add flour with soda sifted in with it. Stir in alternately with beaten egg. Last mix in the juice and rind of the orange. Beat very light bake in a loaf.

A SOUTHERN CHURCH CONFERENCE

Dear Social Corner: How many of you have been to a quarterly conference of the Methodist church in the south? They are conducted differently than in the north. Everybody is welcome, both to the preaching services and the business session.

The man who presides is called the presiding elder here. He comes the day before the conference and preaches the evening before. Another sermon is forthcoming the next morning at 11 o'clock.

The minister who serves Cave Spring has three other charges. The conference I attended was held at Jackson chapel, three miles away. The small church was well filled, men predominating. After the sermon, a bountiful lunch was served out under the trees. It consisted of 'possum, fried chicken, fried and boiled ham, stuffed eggs, all kinds of pickles and relishes, pies and cakes, sandwiches, bread and rolls.

After lunch was the business meeting to which every one was invited to remain. I regretted the woman with whom I rode, could not stay to that. The conference year closes in the fall and this was the fourth quarterly conference. The man presiding over these four churches is a worker and frequently preaches three sermons on a Sunday, and he never complains of "too much work," but is always trying to do more.

I wish Rural Aunty would postpone her trip to Florida till December 22 and meet me in Atlanta on that date. I am going to St. Augustine, then to St. Petersburg and would like her company. She should not go to Florida without seeing St. Petersburg. If she can postpone her trip till the 22 I wish she would write me at Box 64, Cave Spring, Georgia.

CLUB NO. 1 TO MAKE GIFTS TO POOR

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Club No. 1 is going to meet Dec. 2 at Chamber of Commerce hall, Willimantic and the Coventry ladies are to entertain. Now we have decided to donate a ten cent present to the poor children of the Welfare bureau, instead of the usual gift to one another, so let's try and make some poor child happy.

I remember the time when a ten cent bag of candy at Christmas was the height of happiness to me. Now brine plate, knife, fork, and cup, and something in food for the table. Bring a smile and keep it in evidence all the while, and we will furnish the grindstone to sharpen your appetites.

Yours for the Corner.

KINDNESS

Dear Editor and Sisters: I read this little piece about kindness and thought I would pass it on. Why not kindness as well as friendship and happiness?

"Kindness is the magic which makes home happy. It makes little children run to meet daddy with out-stretched arms. Kindness brings a smile to mother's face as she hears dad's footsteps returning from his days work. Kindness makes all happy whom it touches. It makes the day's work lighter, the difficult task easier. Kindness prompts father to give mother as good tools to work with in the kitchen as he has on the farm or in his shop. It makes Jack and Mary glad to bring in the wood or help wash the dishes, even when there is a chance to play. The more you give away of kindness the more you have."

It is not always easy to be kind and pleasant, when work is piled up so high we can hardly see over it, but perhaps if we were the pile would lower faster and things wouldn't go wrong quite so often. It doesn't cost us anything to be kind and smile instead of scowling.

E. L. M.: I think you are getting away with too much. You have all those good friends and then get a prize because you have them. Good work anyway. Hope you get some more. You deserve the friends and prizes both.

Necia: What a lovely trip you must have had. Was there any snow? Did you know the twins got the cup at the baby show? I'm all puffed up and as I have some meal now I am just revelling in johnny cakes. Have one? Enough for this time.

Congratulations to prize winners and good luck to everyone else. Hope to see you all at Mystic.

CLUB No. 2 MEETS DEC. 14

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Don't forget that Club No. 2 meets in Buckingham Memorial again on the second Tuesday of each month, which is Dec. 14. To those who do not know about it, will say that the club members will not have to bring any dishes as they are furnished with the hall. Only bring the usual donation of food for the table. All members of Clubs No. 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 will be heartily welcome as well as new members. Sister Ready is the hostess, if her sick ones are well at this meeting.

Wetona: Will be looking for a program of good music, poems, reading, singing and whatever you have to offer for the entertainment. Don't forget the change back to Buckingham Memorial the second Tuesday of each month.

Best wishes to all.

CLUB 6 TO MEET IN MYSTIC

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Shore Line Club No. 6 will meet in Grange hall, Main building, Mystic on Tuesday, Dec. 15th. The Mystic members will furnish clam chowder, do all the work and put on a program and provide the hall same as the meeting held here in August. Will the sisters please bring, cake, salads, sandwiches and pie? That should be sufficient for those who do not eat chowder. We are obliged to make this date for several reasons and sorry to have it the same day as Club No. 2 in Norwich.

We hope at this meeting to add some new members and make new friends. Bring what is asked for and you will be sure of plenty to eat if you do.

FOUR SIMPLE TABLEAUX FOR CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

Cornerites: It is time to prepare and rehearse for The Nativity. A frame work of laths at the back of the stage or platform is covered to represent sky. An electric light behind makes the stars appear very realistic. A few domes and turrets are cut from light gray paper and pasted onto the frame, below the sky to represent an ancient city. A manger-cradle is formed of a box a yard square, filled with straw; straw covers the floor. Footlights are needed, as the main building is in darkness during the tableaux. The characters are Mary, Joseph, Three Wisemen, five shepherds, one angel, a narrator, a chorus or soloist. The costumes are easily made and colors can be copied from any lithograph of the holy night.

Carols used—Oh, Come All Ye Faithful; O, Little Town of Bethlehem; The First Noel; We Three Kings Orient; Silent Night; Holy, Holy, Holy; Onward Christian Soldiers.

Prelude—The choir (or soloist) and audience sing, Oh, Come All Ye Faithful. At the conclusion of the last verse the lights are turned off in the auditorium.

Part I. Bethlehem—The choir or soloist sings O, Little Town of Bethlehem, while the lights on the stage are turned showing the scenery alone.

Part II. The Shepherds—At the conclusion of the carol, the narrator takes his place at right of stage and reads from Luke 2: 8-14. When he has finished the tableau of the Shepherds pointing to the Star is shown, while the carol The First Noel is sung.

Part III. The Wise Men—The narrator now reads Matt. 2: 1-2. After he has finished the tableau of the three Wise Men is shown while the carol We Three Kings of Orient Are is sung.

Part IV. The Holy Night—The narrator reads Luke 2:1-7. The tableau of Mary and Joseph bending over the cradle is shown and the carol Silent Night is sung.

Part V. The Adoration of the Child—The narrator reads from Luke 2: 15-18. Show picture of Mary, Joseph, the angel, the Wise Men, the Shepherds, grouped around the manger while the hymn, Holy, Holy, Holy is being sung.

Part V. Postlude—At the conclusion of the final tableau, the narrator reads John 3: 16 and Matt. 11: 25-30 and Matt. 28: 20 beginning with Lo, I am with you always.

The chorus and audience now rise and sing, Onward Christian Soldiers.

ARIES.

HOLIDAY BIRDS

Dear Sisters: For your holiday bird remember pink-footed and pink-fleshed, short legged and full-breasted birds are finest grained and tenderest, Orpington hens have these desirable characteristics. The White Holland turkey is the only turkey with these characteristics. The pullet turkey of this breed is the choicest thing in the turkey line. It weighs around eight or 10 pounds. A pullet turkey of any breed is the bird to choose. If one is not large enough it is far better to buy more birds than to buy big males. The male is distinguishable by its beard.

If any tells you that only old birds have hair on them, do not believe them. No birds have more hairs than chicken broilers.

There is nothing more delicious than roasted two and one-half pound chicken broilers. Although there is more waste from dressing two broilers than from one-six-pound bird, two plump broilers will "go farther" than the five pound bird. There are twice as many legs, etc. to make servings and the bones are smaller. They roast so quickly, too, they do not shrink so much.

If one wants to be especially economical, a year old cock bird can be roasted tender in a double roaster. They should cost only 22 cents a pound—ever. They may be stuffed and boiled whole and then browned in the oven. They should be well larded with strips of salt pork and the dressing should contain plenty of butter.

An eight pound bird, costing less than $2.00 will, if carefully and slowly roasted four hours will "turn out" delicious. Year old hens will be good too, but not such an economically "buy" Most people think a hen more meaty than a chicken, but a chicken of the same size has the most lean meat.

Ducks are not economical eating. They have no legs or wings to speak of and little breast meat. The only way real servings can be made is by cutting them in four sections. An old duck or goose can be told by the roughness of the skin. Parboil 1-2 hour to remove strong taste before roasting. An old chicken hen will have a wrinkled skin, a hard breastbone and long toenails while the cock bird has spurs. The scales on the legs of both are larger; thicker and discolored. Turkeys are judged the same way. A 13 pound turkey will lose around 4 pounds in drawing. So draw it yourself and save the fat. A goose or duck has no crop—so do not hunt for it.

In have heard that turkey wings are worth 50 cents so perhaps you would like to pick your turkey and save the wings by cutting off the tips. They should be dried well.

Guina fowl in the markets have all feathers on as do game birds. They can be skinned and the skins cured with salt and alum and the breasts used for hats with the wings.

If one wishes to bone any bird partly, lay it back up; cut all the way down one or both sides of the backbone. It will be quite easy to take out the breast and shoulder bones. The ribs can be extracted with little trouble. To bone the legs, cut the skin under the knee, break the joint, cut the tendon and the lower leg bone will easily slip out. Do the same at the thigh joint, leaving the outside skin and flesh whole. Do the same to the wings. Any boned bird makes a nice dish if stuffed with oyster dressing. Tie it in a roll and bake as in ordinary roast bird.

HOW I SPENT THANGSGIVING

To Editor and Corner Friends: A greeting.

Well, another Thanksgiving has gone and I hope we can all say, I am thankful for our past mercies and for all the blessings which we have received during the past year." I was requested to write up a function I attended last Thursday in Norwich. It was a family affair. There were 17 of us, four generations being represented. The oldest was 89 and the youngest about two. My nephew came after me quite early. He had been to Groton and had his mother and grandmother in the car. The road was torn up on both sides of the river, so we made a detour around by Fairview which gave us about a 15 mile ride, and a cold one. When we reached our destination, I was about chilled through but it was still early, not quite 10 o'clock. It took us some time to get thawed out, but there was a hot stove in the kitchen and hot radiators all over the house. Of course we were the first guests to arrive which gave us an opportunity to visit with the family. The other guests most all came from the city, and arrived at a fashionable hour. The most of the ladies brought their work but I left mine at home, and took the day off so had nothing to do but visit.

Soon after 12 o'clock we were called to gather around the festive board, which was loaded to the limit with all the good things to eat, that go to make up a first class Thanksgiving dinner. After we were all seated at the table a chapter in the Bible was read, a short prayer was said and a few remarks, made suitable to the occasion and we were bountifully helped to turkey and all the fixings that go with it.

There were four kinds of pie, all kinds of fruit, nuts, candy and sweet cider right from the press, that was delicious. My nephew has all the old New England spirit. He likes to gather all the relatives together at Thanksgiving time. He thinks we should all meet together once a year. He seems to enjoy being the host and takes a lot of trouble to gather those who have no other way of becoming his guests.

We left there about four o'clock for our home bound trip, but it was not as cold for the wind had moderated. But we did have a lovely time and I was greatly pleased with my entertainment. The cook had done that turkey so well there could be no improvement on it.

That all the Corner Sisters had as good a dinner and enjoyed the day as well as I did, is the wish of DOM PEDRO.

MAKING A PRETTY SLIP

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I have read in the Corner page if you don't do your bit to fill it you are classed as a slacker. I had rather not be, so here I am, although I haven't anything of interest to write.

I might pass along a little bit of economy I tried this spring. I had an old under skirt, the lace and embroidered flounce of which had a lot of wear in it yet. By the way this was a skirt I wore when I was married, not so many years ago either. I had a fine piece of lawn cloth in the house so decided to make me a dressy slip to wear under summer dresses, so this is how I did it. I cut the slip doy with a little fullness over the hips and just long enough to come to the top of the flounce and be the right length when finished. As my flounce was just the right width at the top where it joined the slip body and quite circular, making it somewhat wider at the bottom, I put on under the flounce a sort of dust ruffle about one-half inch shorter when finished than the flounce. As the flounce was about 18 inches, it served as a shadow proof hem. In adding some embroidered insertion I had on hand for straps about one inch wide and some sprays of hand embroidery on the front. I had a very pretty slip and it was good for all summer. If I had gone to the store and bought one like it it would have cost me $4 perhaps.

Eca: I would like to visit your club but Norwich is a long way. I have just moved and don't think I can go this month anyway. Come and see me.

Yellow Jacket, Weus and Wheeler: I can keep my eyes on you now.

Silver Moon: If I have your number, you are my aunt and Savilla is your hubby's. I saw her at the Grange hall last. Do you know me as KATRINKA.

A HAPPY SURPRISE PARTY

Dear Social Corner Friends: More time usually elapses between my letters but I feel I must write and thank our editor for my yellow slip. It came as a nice surprise to me and I'm glad to have it but can't feel that I really deserve it. Many thanks, also to those who remembered me with cards for my birthday anniversary, Whirlwind, Black Eyed Susie, Lady Lou, Skipper, True Blue, E. L. M., Cosmos, Frances L. Estel, Idaleane, Rebe, Ruthina, Dorothy Bradford and Theoda. It seemed good to receive so many. Beth-O and I were invited to spend Tuesday, November 30 at the home of Frances L. It was a stormy day but a taxi took us to her door and we didn't mind the rain. We were nicely settled for a visit with our knitting and sewing when a loud rap sounded at the door and in came six Social Corner members.

It was all intended as a surprise for Frances L. and me and was the genuine surprise. She was in on some of the plans, but not on all. We had a fine dinner and social time. E. L. M. had made a delicious birthday cake with Frances L. and my initials worked out in colors, which was cut later in the afternoon. And even that didn't seem enough for them to do, they also presented each of us with a pretty glass candy jar filled to the brim with candy. I am glad to have such good friends and I hope I may be worthy of their friendship. I had a lovely time and hope they did. How the time will fly, from now till Christmas and everyone will be so busy, but it will be a happy busy-ness. Best wishes to everybody.

MINCE PIES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I meant to have written my recipe for mince pies as one sister requested so you could make some for Thanksgiving, but maybe Christmas will do.

I use half of meat and half apple and grind in my grinder. And to the apple (the meat has been cooked) I add molasses, brown sugar and coffee and the fat from cooking the meat and some butter and spices, cloves, allspice and some, nutmeg and a little salt, cook till apple is done and then add meat, cook all together a little while then I add two or three spoons of vinegar. I always taste and use my judgment.

Then when I all my pies I put some white sugar a teaspoon, raisins, little nutmeg and small pieces of butter and with a good pie crust they are very good, we think.

I never use the prepared mince meat—don't like it.

Now I will tell you how I manage by blanket sheets. When I have a new one I put it on for a top sheet double and when it gets soiled I turn it and use it that way. Then when it becomes necessary to wash it I cut it making one sheet much longer than the other. Then generally I have one partly worn and take off a strip from the side and piece down the short one and when they are hemmed I have two blanket sheets ready to wash.

Hope you all had a pleasant Thanksgiving and with kind wishes to editor and known and unknown sisters.

BIG RESULTS FROM SMALL GARDEN

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Have been planning to write to the Corner ever since my return home from Norwich in September, but after being away nearly a month found much extra to do, with garden canning and every thing behind. Had but a tiny garden but put up over 50 cans of vegetables from it and had all we wanted to eat beside, also sent several parcel post dinners from it. With much watering and hard work everything was bound to grow. Perhaps I was a little conceited because I planted and cared for it myself.

Aunty No. 1. Yours received and will write soon. Have been very busy ever since I left you, besides "very much under the weather." Of course our family is small but have canned 173 cans of vegetables and fruit, besides 80 tumblers of jam and jelly and hope I am through for the season. Am so glad it was my privilege to be with you in time for your Social Corner picnic and some picnic it was, too! And that dinner was great, and by the looks of it, also the taste. There is nothing stingy about the members of the Social Corner. The ten days I spent with your went so quickly. Was so glad we were able to take the trip to Tolland and Willimantic and visit places which I had longed for many years. Weren't those apples fine? Wish we had taken more, and would if we had known as much as we did an hour later.

Biddy: How are you and yours? Not cackling loud enough to be heard. Have looked for your name for quite awhile but it seems to be among the missing as well as most or many of the old writers. But I know I have nothing to say as I have not written since probably in the spring when I answered to the roll call.

Theoda: Well, here I am. Didn't I respond quickly? So glad to have seen you at Aunty's picnic also for another little visit on car. Hope we may meet again sometime.

I. J. B.: Sorry not to have seen you at gathering.

Eliza Jane: Wonder if you found my card? Sorry you were not at home. Anyhow glad to have seen you before, and had a fine call.

Ariawanna: Sorry you have been sick and hope you have fully recovered. This has been a busy day with me, entertaining at Thanksgiving dinner.

Balsam Fir: Your dear welcome card received and mean to write you just as soon as I can. Glad we were both able to attend gathering at Aunty's.

Fear I have already taken more room than I ought, so will close with fine recipe for

Pineapple Pudding: Cook 1-2 cup of rice till tender, 1 can crushed pineapple, 2 cups sugar, 1 small bottle cream whipped. Mix sugar and pineapple together and add to the rice when cold and stir the cream in last after the others are mixed.

Best wishes to all Corner members.

As ever

HOPEFUL.

GREETINGS FROM E. M. R. C. P.

To the Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Greetings to all. Hope you all enjoyed Thanksgiving day. I know I had more to be thankful for this year than for a few years past. Hope all those sick now, will enjoy better health. As I haven't had a Social Corner page since July, I am kind of out of touch with current affairs and letters in it. So if any of the sisters wrote a few lines to me and did not receive an answer you all have the reason of my silence.

Aries and Whirlwind: Hope to hear from you again soon. Things are going somewhat better.

Anna Z.: Won't you please send me your address again. Have lost yours. Address to Gen. Del, the rest is the same as before.

Foxglove: Hope to hear from you too. From some Boston papers just received, I read that you folks are beginning to have winter. We have had about five cool days so far. But today the sun is warm. The autumn coloring of the live oak trees and fruit trees, with live Spanish moss on them, make a very beautiful picture.

Sister Potlatch: I read last year of the hard times you had had out west. I had no grasshoppers to ruin my crops, but, I did have the range cattle break through my garden fence and eat up all my nice winter garden. After all my labors, to see the ruins that morning. I went into hysterics like a young child. But now, I try not to think of it or look that way. My! but those hardy pioneers must have had very hard times, when they only had their crops to depend on for a living. It is not until you have to really go through what some similar experiences that you can realise how our forefathers had to work for a living and to pay for their homesteads.

Am inclosing a poem by a local writer, which I like to read, so I will pass it along for the Corner. His poems are always so nice.

Quite a few Windham county folks are down again for the season. Some of the Moosup folks are building nice homes also. Three of them nearby here.

Will close by sending my best wishes to the editor and the Corner sisters.

E. M. R. C. P. (May 7th)

REMINDER OF CLUB 2'S CHANGE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The time is drawing near for Club 2 to hold a meeting and for fear some of the sisters might forget that we are going back to the Buckingham and that the second Tuesday in each month is to be our day I am writing this letter. I hope to see a lot of visitors and all of Club 2 on December 14. Be sure and bring something good to eat as usual, also be prepared to take a part in the entertainment as Christmas is so near. Let your paper be about it. Sisters from all the clubs will be made welcome.

Mittie: Have not seen you lately, have you been ill?

Catnip: Did you know the Social Corner flag was carried in the parade on Armistice day, by the ladies of Mooseheart?

Inez: I am very sorry you are ill and hope you will soon be better.

Mandy Lee: You have my sympathy, hope all will soon be well.

Success to all clubs.

WELL IMPRESSED BY MAINE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It seems as if this was about the first time I have had time to draw a long breath in several weeks, and even now I should be up and doing, for with my trip to Maine and preparations for Thanksgiving and now the reconstruction period I have been very busy. But, O, sisters, it has paid, yes, many times over.

I will not go into details of the trip to Maine but say it was lovely from beginning to finish.

Before starting we were warned by many to prepare for the cold weather we would surely encounter up there, as there was where they made it, but we were very agreeably surprised to find the weather there very much like that in Rhode Island. The fog was just as thick and the rain was just as wet and when we were permitted we saw the sky was just as blue. The hospitality of the Maine people is certainly unbounded.

Everyone seemed to vie with the other in doing everything possible for the Grangers. We were there a week and improved every minute by our stay outside the meetings taking in the sights and in visiting some of the large stores.

I have been reading since my return of stray dandelions being found around here and I was reminded of our trip to Portland Head light and Fort Williams where we found the ground literally covered with dandelion blossoms and with heavy bright looking leaves causing us to wish they were just a little nearer our kitchen. All too soon came our time for departure and we reluctantly bade good bye to dear old Maine, but the memories of our stay there will remain a most pleasant reminder of "the national" of 1926.

And now Thanksgiving the day of mingled joy and gadness has come and gone, bringing the usual quota of each. But as in other years, we find very much for which to be truly thankful. And now after a little rest and deliberation, there's the stockings to fill. The number may be lessened at our chimney side, but there may be more at some others, so let us not forget the spirit of the season.

We are looking forward to the 14th when in response to B. Natural's invitation we go to Mystic where we are sure to have a delightful time because "we've been there." Shall certainly expect to see Zulieka there for we know she has something that will take her. Best of all good to all from DOROTHY BRADFORD.

NOW IN WINTER QUARTERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Thought perhaps some of the Cornerites would like to know that I had (at last) reached my new winter quarters. I left the "house by the side of the road" by auto in the evening of Nov. 20th, and in quick time arrived at South Main street. Found a good supper all ready for us after which we "listened in" to Gov. Fuller's Thanksgiving proclamation from Massachusetts and many other good selections. Next day was Sunday. Heard a church service from Trinity church, Boston; in fact the radio was kept busy most of the day. Monday we found plenty to do as usual.

Tuesday we took a trip to my old home town to get the turkey which was raised on the beautiful farm at Mashamoquet meadows and given to me by a friendly neighbor. I certainly enjoyed the ride and only made a short call to the house "just around the corner" for a few things which I had forgotten. In the evening heard Queen Marie bid America good bye.

Wednesday was a busy day preparing for New England's high holiday. The people here had invited guests, so there were five of us who sat down to a most bountiful feast which we all greatly enjoyed on a most beautiful Thanksgiving day. I have a very pleasant room which overlooks the Quinebaug river, and a far away view where I imagine I can see the "home hills which I miss."

VACATIONING IN NEW YORK STATE

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner, Perhaps it is almost too late in the season to write about my summer vacation to the home of my childhood but on my return home my niece came with me and I entertained her for eight weeks and then I started to go on a trip.

I left South Coventry, Monday August 16, stayed at Willimantic camp ground over night, left at 2 p. m. for Hartford by bus to Springfield, passed through the Berkshires before daylight; arrived in Albany, N. Y., about 6 a. m took the local train to Little Falls and then by bus to the home of my sister at Stratford, N. Y. Arrived there before breakfast, so I made her no extra work for the first meal (she had plenty.) In the afternoon we were sitting on her porch talking when we saw our niece and another girl coming. They came and took seats on the porch. My presence was a surprise to them, and after awhile we all decided to walk to the post office where they had left their car. As we left the office, I was persuaded to step into their auto expecting they would bring me back to my sister's; but alas I was taken in the opposite direction at a high rate of speed, leaving my sister standing alone and looking after me in deep amazement and wonder. As my heart went pity-pat at the rate of speed, I began to think I was being kidnapped, and decided I would have to keep quiet and wait the results. The next I knew I was at my brother's home, the same old house where I was born. After supper they loaded up the big pleasure car with real live people and we all went to prayer meeting in the same church where four generations of mine have worshipped and two are worshiping today, and also where I promised at the same altar to live and lead a Christian life. The church is a very nice up to date building at present. Different people have given money or bequests and it is kept in fine shape. When Sunday came I was urged to teach a class of adults. Only had 25 in the class. I continued to teach the class as long as I remained in town.

Some changes have taken place, the same as in all other communities. My brother is still working at his profession as school teacher which would date back nearly 40 years. He had occasion to be absent from school one day, and I took his place in the schoolhouse as teacher. It brought back to my memory thoughts of the past, when I was a teacher. When recess came they did not go and play; but seemed to enjoy my talk with them. They all gathered around me in the front seats. Of course I knew all of their parents in the past years. While at my brother's there was a very severe thunder storm and a terrible rain fall, which lasted for several days. After the storm cleared away, we were taken to Dolgeville in a big auto truck, all youngsters excepting my sister and myself. Tell about fun. You would say "fun" if you had been in our company. Wash-outs, etc., all the way. Then I started for Herkins, N. Y. My home of many happy years of married life. I made my stay at nights with a dear friend and called to see others through the day. I will speak of only one of my calls to tell of too many would be tiresome. Sept. 14, I called to see Col. and Mrs. John W. Vrooman. We talked of days, when we all lived in town, and of changes since and Mrs. Vrooman called my attention to a most beautiful floral stage basket of hybrid with sprays of golden asparagus hatchi delicate blue flowers and sweetheart rosebuds, decorated with loops of ribbons, especially designed and on another stand a solid silver basket flower vase, given to her, and Col. at

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the joint board of school visitors and selectmen of the town of Norwich appropriated $29,999.05 for the support of the common schools during the school year. Several Thanksgiving socials and dances were held that week. As a whole the week was a quiet one in Norwich. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of that week, follow:

Monday, Nov. 27, 1876—The Hyer sisters entertainment on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week promises to be a highly enjoyable one.

The funeral services of the late Alonzo H Sherman were conducted from his former residence, corner High and Main street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Hoffman, rector of Grace chapel, Yantic, officiating. The ceremony was according to the Masonic ritual and was participated in by about 150 members of St. James and Somerset lodges.

A carload of poultry arrived Saturday night on the Worcester road, from Montreal, for Taftville parties and remained on the track near the depot yesterday. There were over 600 turkeys, geese and chickens in the consignment and they ate five bushels of corn yesterday, besides disturbing the neighborhood with their noise.

The coroner's investigation into the cause of the death of Julia Doyle, which occurred suddenly Friday evening, was finished Saturday. The jury, according to the evidence, brought in a verdict of apoplexy, superinduced by intoxication.

Tuesday, Nov. 28, 1876—About 600 turkeys, geese and chickens were taken from a car at the Worcester depot yesterday morning. The geese flew into the river and the hens onto the tops of buildings. There was great excitement in the neighborhood and a large number of the fowls were lost. Some were stolen and the owner, a Taftville man, proposed to prosecute the thieves.

The annual meeting of the New London County Historical society was held yesterday in New London. Judge Foster of Norwich presided.

The Rev. Joseph Cook, who has attained such a celebrity as a lecturer, will deliver a course of free lectures at the Broadway church beginning next Friday evening.

A light snow storm began about 5 o'clock last evening and continued until nearly 11 when there was a complete change in the weather, the clouds clearing away and the moon coming out brightly.

Wednesday, Nov. 29, 1876—The first of the Park church sociables which in years past have been so pleasant, will be held this evening. The attendance is not limited to members of the congregation but a cordial invitation is given the public to be present.

Rev. William Hutchison of this city has received an invitation to the principalship of Thayer academy, in Braintree, near Boston. This is a new institution, with an endowment of $300,000, most of if not all of which is furnished by Mr. Thayer, who is well known in New York state as one of the most liberal benefactors of West Point Military academy.

It was reported yesterday that a raid was made during the day upon the Hooker house in Colchester, and, $500 worth of liquor seized.

Thursday, Nov. 30, 1876—No paper will be issued from this office tomorrow.

The City Guard propose a series of their popular socials the coming season. The opening dance comes off at Steiner's hall, December 12th.

The series of sociables for the winter at Park church opened last evening successfully and pleasantly with a concert by the choir, assisted by Mr. Kieh, the organist. There was a good attendance and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The programme, which was admirably arranged by Major Learned, had among its pleasing features, a harp obligato by Mrs. C. J. Fillmore.

The Norwich Silber Gard give one of their pleasant dances in Steiner's hall tonight. A large number of dances and a very jolly time is promised all who attend.

The examinations of applicants for positions as teachers in the West Chelsea school district will be held December 28th.

A large number of turkey raffles were held last night about town.

The members of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R. have decided to give their masquerade in December.

The members of the W. M. Williams S. F. E. company had a pleasant dance in Steiner's hall last evening.

Friday, Dec. 1—1876—[No Bulletin published on this date as day previous was Thanksgiving day].

Saturday, Dec. 2, 1876—At the meeting of the joint board of school visitors and selectmen of the town of Norwich the sum of $29,999.05 was appropriated for the support of common schools during the current school year. It is apportioned to the several school districts and towns as follows:

Central district	$ 2,846.33
West Chelsea district	1,539.45
Town street district	1,976.70
Greeneville district	4,897.93
Wequonnoc district	2,338.16
Falls district	2,147.84
West Town street district	1,103.26
Mill district	666.54
E. G. P. district	501.30
Waweecus Hill district	218.03
Town of Sprague district	479.80
Town of Bozrah district	7.06
Town of Preston district	87.37
Total	$29,999.05

The ball of the Norwich Silber Gard Thanksgiving night was largely attended by the members and their friends. They had a good, old fashioned time and took with pleasure to their coming socials. The next ball of the Silber Gard will be on New Year's night.

The Rev. Joseph Cook of Boston delivered the first of a series of lectures at the Broadway church last evening. His topic was Skepticism in New England.

Mother's Collecting Antiques

Mother's collecting antiques;
She brought home a wheel that you turn
And spin something called flax,
And she brought home some jacks
To remove people's boots, and a churn.

Mother's collecting antiques;
She brought home some spits and a crane,
And some firedogs and tongs
That she purchased for songs,
And we're using a fireplace again.

Mother's collecting antiques;
She's acquired an authentic chaise-longue,
And a door with a latch,
A big brass key to match,
And a shell clock that always goes wrong.

Mother's collecting antiques;
A refectory table she owns
That is twelve inches wide,
And has claw feet beside,
Which Father encounters with groans.

Mother's collecting antiques;
It's all very nice, I dare say;
But tucked off upstairs
Are some overstuffed chairs,
And that's where I'm sitting today.

—M. E. Baker, in Life.

The Rose of Stars

When Love, our great Immortal,
Put on mortality,
And down from Eden's portal
Brought this sweet life to be,
At the sublime archangel
He laughed with veiled eyes,
For he bore within his bosom
The seed of Paradise.

He hid it in his bosom,
And there such warmth it found,
It broke in bud and blossom,
And the rose fell on the ground;
As the green light on the prairie,
As the red light on the sea,
Through fragrant belts of summer
Came this sweet life to be.

And the grave archangel seeing
Spread his mighty wings for flight,
But the glow hung round him fleeing
Like the rose of an Arctic night;
And sadly moving heavenward
By Venus and by Mars,
He heard the joyful planets
Hail Earth, the Rose of Stars.

—George Edward Woodberry.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Boss, to new clerk: "We'll have to find a nickname for you."

Clerk, who has been doing the dirty work: "Call me Job, sir."—Good Hardware.

Bookkeeper: "I never knew the butcher had triplets."

Butter clerk: "Yah! He married a telephone girl and she gave him the wrong number."—The Progressive Grocer.

Blake—"It's dangerous to try to pass a car when there's a woman driving."

Drake—"Yes, especially when there's a man at the steering wheel."—Detroit News.

Eddie: "Say, how do you expect your girl to get that letter when you don't put any address on it?"

Arch: She's a clerk in the deadletter office.—Cincinnati Times Star.

Mrs. Chant—She is always gossiping.

Mrs. Grant—Yes; and the exasperating part of it is that her gossip is about people you don't know.—Answers, London.

"I sail here every day in this beautiful place while my poor husband is working in the dismal town. I reproach him often."

"Reproach him?"

"Yes, he ought to buy me a motor boat."—London Opinion.

"The man has been here again to collect his bill, and he said he would give you a good thrashing if it isn't paid."

"What did you say?"

"I said I was sorry you weren't in!"—Sondagsnisse-Strix, Stockholm.

A youth walking toward Piccadilly Circus approached a chauffeur. The youth had noticed on the back of the car the letters E Y on the number plate. Interested in number plates, he asked the chauffeur, "What's E Y?"

The chauffeur replied, promptly, "About 'alf a ton."—Tid-Bits.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The male black back stays on its watery nest of fish eggs during the entire incubation period.

The world's record corn yield was made on an Ohio farm last year, with 160 bushels to the acre.

There are few gaily colored flowers in regions where nectar and pollen-gathering insects are scarce.

New York city has 23 playgrounds where children whose mothers work may be cared for all day.

A naturalist who collected medicines in Chinese cities found evidence that remains of 35 different kinds of fossil animals were used.

Very fond of hunting, Fred Hermann, of Davis, Cal., is in doubt whether he should be regarded as fortunate or unfortunate. Hermann, who was out hunting for the first time this season, bagged two ducks with one shot. As the law allows only two a season, Hermann is through.

Economy marriages are on the increase in England. Mary and John are taking vows before a registrar in increasing numbers and eliminating the religious ceremony because of the expense. The civil marriages for a period of five years have made up 24 per cent. of the total, which is a marked increase over pre-war days. Registrars believe this is no indication of the slackening of religious belief.

A plan aimed at impressing automobile drivers that they should operate their machines safely has been adopted at Pittsburgh. Large white crosses are painted on dangerous street intersections of the city where a number of fatalities have occurred. A short distance from the cross is painted a large white figure indicating the number of people who have already lost their lives at that particular spot.

Such steady streams of sightseers sought the top of Washington Monument during August that all records for any one month were broken. A total of 77,929 reached the top by elevator or stairway during that month, exceeding by some 30,000 the best previous record. Most visitors take the elevator in preference to toiling up the 896 steps which lead to the summit. On Sundays and holidays the traffic is the heaviest. On one Sunday 2,220 persons made the ascent during four hours.

INTERIOR OF SECOND CONG. CHURCH, NEW LONDON, IS RUINED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 3—The Second Congregational church, one of the richest in this city, a large granite structure occupying a triangle at the junction of Broad, Federal and Hempstead streets, was gutted by fire of unknown origin this afternoon. In subduing the flames, which had made great headway when discovered, the combined efforts of New London's department were brought into service eight pumpers and hose apparatus and aerial truck being utilized. The firemen, directed by Acting Chief Thomas Shipman and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds, put in three hours of the hardest kind of work in battling the flames. Millions of gallons of water were emptied into the burning structure before the fire was extinguished and one of the worst fires to be combatted by the firemen in recent years had been subdued after the complete destruction of the interior of the church.

The firemen were aided by a fire-fighting squad of sailors from the United States Coast Guard academy, who had observed the immense clouds of smoke and were dispatched with equipment with orders to report to Acting Chief Thomas Shipman.

How the fire originated has not been definitely established, although it is believed that the fire started from an overheated defective furnace flue or possibly from defective wiring.

The work of the firemen was witnessed by hundreds of men, women and children and so great was the throng that fire area was established by the police and to accomplish this police were taken from practically every beat, except traffic and maintained on duty there as long as the fire continued.

The fire was discovered at 3.30 o'clock and had made great headway. Clouds of smoke were noticed issuing from the windows and eaves. Entrance was gained to the church and a rearing furnace of flame was found in the rear of the structure, behind the pulpit and organ loft. An alarm was sent in from Box 27, corner of Broad and Williams street, but two blocks away, causing four pumpers and aerial truck in charge of Chief Shipman and Deputy Chief Edmunds to respond. By that time the fire had burned rapidly into the main part of the church. A call was sent for additional firemen and as soon as this was done, a general alarm was sent in. This was followed by a second general alarm 15 minutes later, as the entire church was burning, the few streams of water having no effect upon the leaping tongues of fire that completely enveloped the church addition and a part of the main structure. Four additional pumpers and hose apparatus, together with squad wagons of reserves responded. Pumpers were stationed at Huntington and Federal streets, Broad and Hempstead streets and Cottage and Broad streets, while the aerial truck was located directly in front of the church. With the pumpers starting throwing water, 15 lines of hose, one of them from a 75-foot ladder of the aerial truck, poured large volumes of water into the burning church from every angle, while clouds of dense, black smoke rose to a great height.

The flames finally broke through the roof of the annex and the department renewed their efforts in combatting them, for the residence of Dr. S. J. Lawson, Federal street, was threatened, as the wind carried the blaze in that direction. The firemen prevented the flames reaching the physician's residence, but the blaze continued to make its way through the church and to the extreme front of the structure. After two hours' work the combined efforts of the firemen had gotten the fire under control, and in another hour all that existed of the handsome interior was a mass of smouldering ruins.

The interior of the church was but recently renovated and redecorated.

Tonight the opinion prevails that the fire originated from defective wiring in the rear or in connection with the organ, which is controlled electrically. Electricians have been at work there recently making repairs and as the fire was discovered when it was burning briskly about the organ, the general belief is that loose wires from which the insulation had been removed caused the ignition of the woodwork. Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church and David Edson, the sexton, were in the church at the time and when the blaze was located they attempted to extinguish it. In doing so Rev. Mr. Lee was slightly burned.

Edwin Merriam of Uncasville drove his automobile to New London this afternoon and parked it on Masonic street while he attended to some business. When he returned to where he had left his car he discovered that it had been stolen. Merriam went to police headquarters and reported his loss. The state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the police at Norwich, Westerly, Middletown and Hartford were requested to be on the lookout for the automobile, which is a Ford touring, 1926 model and carries Connecticut registration N-379.

Federal Narcotic Agents Flynn and Adams came to New London last night and this morning, accompanied by Sergeant Patrick Murphy, of the local department, raided the living apartments of Yee On, Lincoln house, Golden street; Lee Him, 121 Golden street and Eng W. Young, 187 Main street for the officers possessed information that the three Chinamen had received recently a quantity of opium of an amount in excess of that which is prescribed by law to be in their possession. The officer found quantities of the drug at each place and arrested the three men. They were made prisoners at the police station until this morning when they were presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran. Their cases were continued a week and each furnished a bond of $1000 for appearance later. This evening Agents Flynn and Adams arrested Young on a second charge and he is now a prisoner at the police station. He will be presented before Commissioner Corcoran tomorrow morning.

Charles D. Wilson, 30 South Oxford street, Brooklyn, N. Y., died suddenly at his home yesterday. He was formerly a summer resident at Oswegatchie and had many acquaintances in this city.

Frank Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan of Ann street, and Miss Marion C. Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Callahan of Waller street, were married yesterday at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. Robert Sullivan, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Helen Donovan, cousin of the bride was bridesmaid. Mr. Sullivan is employed as day driver of the Ockford hose company and Mrs. Sullivan until recently was at the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company as instructor.

The condition of Robert McCarthy of Reed street, critically ill of shock, is reported this evening as slightly improved.

Leverett Dimmock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dimmock, Waterford, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Lawrence Memorial hospital this morning. His condition is reported as being favorable.

GROTON TO DIVERT TRADE IF FERRY LOSES SUPPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 3—Groton people are showing alarm because of a rumor, senseless though it appears to be, that the city of New London proposes to withhold its contributions for the support of the ferry that plies between New London and Groton after the 1st of January. It is not likely that the city of New London is inclined to do any such thing, but rather that it desires the operation of the ferry at as little cost as is consistent with good service. New London gets a considerable volume of business from the village across the river. There is every probability that New London appreciates the fact and is inclined to foster that favor. Naturally the city does not propose to pay more for operating the ferry than is demanded by efficient service. At present, and indeed since the highway bridge was constructed over the river, there has been a deficit in the operation of the ferry. This the city of New London and the town of Groton has shared in the proportion of 75 per cent. and 25 per cent. Now it is claimed that the deficit will be increased during 1927 because of the increased cost of coal. The present lessees have made an offer to operate the ferry if the two towns will allow $1000 more for the higher cost of coal. The city replied that what the increased cost amounted to would be paid, but it was not believed that cost would be $1000. On a settlement the rumor mongers go at work and circulated a report that the ferry was to be abandoned. This led to a movement on the part of Groton people to do their trading in Mystic, Stonington and Westerly. They say they will spend the money they expended on the ferry to pay for transportation on the trolley road. That they will be obliged to do that is not likely.

OFFICER STARTS FRIDAY ON WAY TO GET BIGAMIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 3 — Sergeant John Cavanaugh left this morning to secure Alfred C. Cornell, Staten island, N. Y., who is being held a prisoner in New York, charged by the New London police with bigamy. Sergeant Cavanaugh went to Norwich where he obtained the signature of State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown to extradition papers and then proceeded to Hartford where he obtained the signature of Governor John H. Trumbull. Sergeant Cavanaugh then started for Albany, N. Y., to secure the signature of Gov. Smith and that mission accomplished he will return to New York where next Tuesday, Cornell will be presented in court that he may be delivered to Sergeant Cavanaugh. The officer and prisoner will return to New London Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning Cornell will be presented in the police court.

Girolome Giri, residing on Nameaug street, is believed to have been convinced that he cannot create disturbances at his home that call for police intervention and escape punishment for his indiscretion. Giri has a long record in the police court for his wild disturbances. He is said to be a diligent worker with appetite for wine and liquor that brings him into trouble. He was in court Thursday when he announced that he desired the services of a lawyer to look after his interests. To give him that opportunity the case was continued till today and Giri spent last night in jail. He didn't like the experience. Today he was disciplined. A fine of $25 was imposed and a jail term of three months was attached to the penalty, but to give him his last chance, the execution of judgment was suspended and Giri was placed in the custody of the probation officer. He and the members of his family seem not to be able to reside under the same roof and avoid quarrels, and when these begin, Giri is not quieted till he has to be. He is said to have bitten his daughter in the last conflict and to have been prepared for more desperate acts should he be forced to them.

The body of Mrs. Maggie Gaudet, wife of Leander Gaudet, who died at her home, 114 Bayonet street, Wednesday, was forwarded to Ipswich, Mass., this morning and in which city the funeral service and burial will take place.

Corporal Kinsey, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Wright, N. Y., has been sent to New London for recruiting service. He is at the recruiting station, post office building, where he is assisting "Scotty" Carroll in obtaining enlistments for the army.

A Ford automobile was stolen from Fort Wright last night and a requeset has been made of the state police and New London police to institute a search for it.

Officers at the submarine base reported to the police this morning that binoculars had been stolen from the reservation within a day or two.

Mrs. Robert Symington of 24 Elliott avenue; Master Frank Abbottee, Westerly and Mrs. Mary Hollander, Woonsocket, R. I., patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

"The Land Where Men are Men" has an ever-increasing appeal to all ages and classes, and in "The Fighting Boob," F. B. O.'s latest western release with Bob Custer in the title role, Arizona and the border are shown at their wildest and woolliest. Custer is rapidly becoming a general favorite with the fans who like red-shirted stories of mesa and sagebrush, and in this picture, which will appear on Sunday only as the first feature at the Strand theatre, he has a go-get-'em part that will bring the spectators up on their toes.

In "Ace of Action," the gripping western drama which comes as the second feature Sunday, the star, Wally Wales, has played his trump card Wally, who is one of the most daring riders of the screen, has some new stunts in this offering which are not only different, but which may be classed as the ultimate in breath-taking feats.

A new comedy will complete

Lovers of clean outdoor action pictures are just going to revel in these two marvelous photoplays.

Strand Theatre

From coast to coast, through the entire country, the finest theatres everywhere will start Monday to celebrate vaudeville's centennial celebration which dates from 1827.

Norwich theatregoers will have reason to remember this event as the management of the Strand has been making arrangements for many weeks to give local theatregoers a show that will linger to come.

Foremost on the five act Keith-Albee program opening Monday will be Joe Small's Seven Stylish Steppers (all girls) which is described as a glittering galaxy of gay goddesses, gorgeously gowned. It is advised that readers watch for other acts to be announced Monday.

Whoever is interested in money and marriage may anticipate a laugh from the Columbia picture, "When the Wife's Away," which is to open a three-day engagement at the Strand theatre Monday. An adaptation from the story by Douglas Bronston, this picture relates the complicated existence of a couple who practice a humorous deception in order to inherit a fortune.

George E. Arthur and Dorothy Revier have the principal roles and the supporting cast consists of Tom Ricketts, Ned Sparks, Harry Depp, Lincoln Plummer, Bobbie Dunn and Ina Rorke, all of whom were selected for their peculiar ability in comedy.

Palace Theatre

Today winds up the great vaudeville program at the Palace theatre. Five big time acts, each one in a class by itself, present offerings that comprise sweet singing, nifty stepping, wholesome comedy and syncopated music. The Palace theatre is living up to its promises of offering nothing but the best in entertainment, as evidenced by the first two vaudeville shows, and the response by the theatre goers of Norwich and surrounding towns. The Palace management assures its patrons of the same brand of shows as they have seen so far, and as the season advances the biggest vaudeville productions will appear at the Palace. Accompanying todays big show, the Grand Duchess and the Waiter with Adolph Menjou and Florence Vidor is the film attraction, this smart love comedy is a feature alone. As an added attraction a kiddie frolic will share the program. The little ones sing, dance and make merry. Coming Sunday night for four days, an excellent big double feature will be shown, featuring "So's Your Old Man" with W. C. Fields. This former nomad of vaudeville and musical comedy reaches the heights of his talents in this vehicle and has more than hit his stride. "So's Your Old Man" is unreservedly recommended as good entertainment. Supporting this great comedian is lovely Alice Joyce, long a screen favorite. Her dignity and charm makes a pleasing contrast to the rough tactics of the star. Co-featuring, "Rose of the Tenements" with Shirley Mason and Johnny Haron. A masterpiece of screen drama will be presented. A vivid irresistable picture of the crowded east side streets of New York. A throbbing, compelling love story wound deep in the hearts of the human living characters, with a surging climax that will lift you off your seats, with a smashing realistic proof of the power of a womans love—See this dramatic big feature, and learn the answer.

Breed Theatre

Those who love thrills, mighty drama, astounding situations that grip by their sheer tensity, combined with glittering spectacle, gorgeous pagentry, kaleidoscopic costume, combined with faultless acting and wonderful artistry, will find a perpetual joy in "The Temptress" which opens a four day engagement at the Breed theatre Sunday. It is a screen drama that has everything. From the pen of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen," it tells a gripping story of Paris and South America; of a woman with the face of an angel and a soul of ice; whose charms wreck men's lives and sow the seeds of disaster wherever she goes—of a love strong enough to survive the weirdly evil destiny seemingly dealt by fate to her lovers; of a gigantic maelstrom of human emotions.

Miss Garbo as the seductive modern Circe, revels in glorious gowns; her beauty glitters with the brilliant hardness of a diamond; and, in the dramatic moments, her emotional acting approaches almost sublime heights.

In Antonio Moreno an ideal hero was chosen for her. As the engineer Robledo battling the elements in the wilderness he is a powerful figure, and his acting is a revelation. His is one of the hardest roles ever vouchsafed an actor—and he handles it perfectly. Lionel Barrymore and Roy D'Arcy contribute almost classic bits of talent to the gigantic drama; Virginia Brown Faire, Hector V. Sarno, Ines Gomez and other noted players are in a huge supporting cast.

Fred Niblo directed this production.

Norwich Music Association

There is every indication that the recital on Monday evening, December 6th, will prove an unusually fine one. Certainly, Mrs. Littlefield is a much more expensive artist than the association can ordinarily secure. Mrs. Littlefield combines very happily vocal excellence with fine musicianship, singing with unusual intelligence and a clear enunciation which is rare.

The accompanist for the evening will be Miss Florence Judith Levy, reported as a brilliant pianist. During the recital, Miss Levy will present a group of selections for the piano.

Membership in the association can be secured for $3.00. The six remaining concerts for the season include Gilbert Ross, violinist; Mr. Henry LeFontaine; Doris Emerson, soprano; and the Green Mountain Jr. String Quartet. Admission to a single concert is 75c.

Picture at Y. M. C. A. Sunday

"Hero of the Big Snows" the remarkable feature moving picture will be shown at the local Y. M. C. A. on the coming Sunday at 4 p. m. The story is the portrayal of the regeneration of a desolate youthful heart through the splendid character of Rin-Tin-Tin, the dog of almost human sympathy and understanding. Deeds of heroism and courage against the majestic beauty of the snow covered north, where need drives hard and loves bears much. Desperate hours of hope battling despair, and then, Rinty's magnificent rush through the storm to save the lovers he loved. This picture is at once wonderful heart-stirring and uplifting. A brief talk will be given in connection with the picture, and Hugh Kinder will furnish the music. To this service both men and women are invited, but positively no boys and girls under four-teen will be admitted, unless accompanied by parents.

LEGAL NOTICE

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 3rd day of Dec., A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Thomas P. Johnson, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Mabel H. Craighead of Providence, R. I., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to die intestate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 11th day of Dec., A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of the said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least six days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

Cattle: Firm and higher.

Hogs: Steady.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Heavy buying of General Motors and Baldwin Locomotive, which closed at net gains of 4 1-4 and 5 points, respectively, featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market. Easier call money rates, prompt over-subscription of the $50,000,000 issues of Standard Oil of new debentures, favorable trade reports and the establishment of a new 1926 high record by French francs, all had a cheerful effect on speculative sentiment.

Weekly mercantile reviews forecast an unusually heavy volume of holiday trade, which is already being discounted by chain store and other merchandising issues. The usual weekend realizing was light in volume, final quotations in the active issues being around the high levels of the day. While pools continued to furnish the main impetus for the advance, there were indications of a good reinvestment demand in some of the high grade dividend paying stocks.

The spurt in Baldwin coincided with the announcement that the road had received an order for 80 engines from the Baltimore and Ohio. Buying of General Motors was on the large scale, and based on the belief that spring sales of cars will be surprisingly large. Passing of the Paige-Detroit dividend failed to slow up the advance. Wall street also heard talk of a possible merger of Chrysler and Packard, and of the possible introduction of the former into the General Motors family; but these lacked confirmation.

Rails were unaffected by the announcement of a 7 1-2 per cent wage increase to eastern trainmen. Curiously, the revival of rumors of a collapse or rearrangement of the "Nickel Plate" merger plan was accompanied by a brisk demand for some of the stocks involved, Erie common advancing to the highest price in eight years, while Chesapeake & Ohio showed an extreme gain of over 3 points.

U. S. Steel common crossed 180 for a net gain of more than a point. Among the many new high records established during the day were such diversified issues as Freeport-Texas Sulphur, Westinghouse Air Brake, American Home Products, American Piano preferred, International Harvester, Texas Co. (new), Jewel Tea, Porto Rican Tobacco, International Business Machines and Auto Sales preferred.

Oils were slightly reactionary. One block of 132,000 "rights" to purchase common stock of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey changed hands at 2 3-16. Texas & Pacific Land Trust, which recently attained a new record peak at 1245, sold today at 1100. Electric Refrigeration and Stromberg carburetor touched new 1926 lows.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent and held steady at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper were unchanged.

A renewed break in cotton figures, which collapsed to new low levels for the season on selling inspired by fears of another upward revision in the government crop estimate, featured the commodity markets. Some of the distant wheat options dropped a cent or so a bushel, and coffee prices yielded slightly. Raw sugar was unchanged.

French francs climbed above $.00 cents for the first time this year. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.84 1-2, but most of the continental rates showed moderate improvement.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. John Atterbury of Greeneville formerly of Taftville spent Wednesday in Fitchville at the home of Joseph Rivers and sister, Mrs. J. McCann.

The local post of the American legion is completing plans for a membership drive. The post feels that to accomplish its purpose in the community, it must have a larger membership. There are over 150 ex-service men in Taftville, very few of whom have availed themselves of the opportunity to join this worthy organization. The wonderful work the legion is doing throughout the country in many different fields is proof enough that the legion should be supported by every eligible man. There is to be a meeting of the local post next Monday at the store of Stanislas Benac on Hunters avenue at 7.30 p. m., and every ex-service man, not a member of the post is being cordially invited to attend.

The basketry club held its regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Poneman building.

John Hughes has given up his house on South Fourth avenue and has gone to reside with his son, James Hughes, who lives on the same street.

At the regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society held Wednesday night in their rooms on Providence street, the election of officers took place, and resulted as follows: President, Miss Mary Ward; vice president, Miss Mary Hanlon; recording secretary, Miss Annie Dailey; financial secretary, Miss Mayme Nolan; treasurer, Miss Mary Murphy. Plans for a Christmas tree party for the members were discussed, and Miss Mayme Nolan was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange the affair.

Misses Loretta and Alice Piche of Norwich were visitors at the home of Miss Christine Gagne and Miss Alice Frechette Wednesday evening.

A birthday party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Gagne of South B street in honor of the ninth birthday of her son Clifford. Eleven of his young friends were present. At 7.30 supper was served for the guests. It consisted of fruit salad, candy, cake and ice cream. In the center of the table was a gaily decorated birthday cake with nine candles on it. After supper games were played and there was a Charleston exhibition by the Misses Jeanette and Lucille LeClair. The party broke up at 10 o'clock, all wishing Master LeClair many happy returns of the day. Those present were E. Kelley, Violet and Julie Boisvert, Jeanette and Lucille LeClair, Wilfred and William Chappell, John and Henry Girard, Edmond Lamire, Alder Langlois and Clifford Gagne.

NORWICH TOWN

The president, Mrs. William Weaver, presided at the December meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society, of the First Methodist church, held Thursday afternoon at her home on Huntington Green. There was a good number present. The members served on patch-work. The devotional exercises opened with scripture reading from a part of the eighth chapter of Romans, by Mrs. Weaver. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Albert G. Miner. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. George Manning, her report which showed that there was $54.36 in the treasury was read by the president. In the vestry of the Methodist church next Thursday afternoon, this society is to meet to tie a quilt.

The recent sale and supper under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Christian society of the Methodist church, which was held in the First Congregational chapel, netted about $55.

In attendance at the annual meeting of the New London county farm bureau held Friday at Buckingham Memorial, from Norwich Town, were Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Wellington Miner, Mrs. Albert G. Miner, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, Mrs. Frank S. Wheeler, Mrs. William H. Whitman, Mrs. Everette Rogers, Mrs. Ernest Washington all members of the Norwich Town class, under the leadership of Mrs. Weaver, also Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lathrop

Mrs. Edward Clark of South Windham, was a caller this week on her aunt, Mrs. Alvin Stimpson, of Huntington Green, who has been ill for a week. Mrs. Stimpson, who is being cared for by Mrs. Cora Hilliard of Norwalk, was reported Friday afternoon as greatly improved.

At the Sacred Heart church, for the first Friday of the month, mass was celebrated Friday morning at seven o'clock. The usual devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, were held in the evening at 7:30.

Gargle Aspirin for Tonsilitis or Sore Throat

A harmless and effective gargle is to dissolve two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in four tablespoonfuls of water, and gargle throat thoroughly. Repeat in two hours if necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer Cross, which can be had in the boxes of twelve tablets for few cents.

BARN AT FAIR GROUNDS BURNED WITH LOSS OF TWO TROTTING HORSES

Two horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a large barn and an adjoining shed at the fairgrounds, East Great Plain, about 8 o'clock Friday night. Both barn and shed were reduced to ashes and for a time nearby barns and the large grandstand were threatened with destruction by flying embers and sparks.

The fire, which is said to have started from a stove in the barn, had been burning for sometime before it was discovered and a call sent in to the fire department. The Yantic fire department responded to the call and the West Side company and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department also responded. When the firemen arrived they found the barn and shed a mass of ruins and there was little they could do except to play on the ruins and prevent the sparks and flying embers from setting fire to nearby buildings.

Dennis Connelly, a truck driver for the town of Norwich, was first on the scene and others, attracted by the shooting flames and the brilliant reflection in the overcast sky, hurried to the grounds.

In the stables were five horses at the time the fire broke out, and only three were saved. The two horses burned to death were Rose Marie, b. f., by Peter Agan, owned by James H. Craney and a horse owned by Frank Smith. Both Mr. Smith and Mr. Craney are well known horsemen.

The Yantic pumper was put into operation and two lines of hose were laid from a "Y" connection on the line leading from the pumper. The nearest hydrant was over 1,500 feet from the burning building, and outside the fairgrounds on the old New London turnpike. The pumper was stationed on the turnpike and had to pump through over 1,500 feet of hose. Owing to the great length of the hose line the pressure was poor at its best.

Mr. Craney's mare, Rose Marie, a pacer met death in the large barn. Rose Marie which was trained at Springfield and Hartford last summer by Audrey S. Rodney, made a mile in 2.13 and was considered a valuable and promising animal. Mr. Craney carried insurance on the mare. Rose Marie had never raced but Mr. Craney was planning to start her in the Bay State circuit.

In addition to Rose Marie and Mr. Smith's horse, the three horses in the barn were Elmwood Kid and Red March owned by M. C. Rowe of Brandon, Vt., and Robert W. owned by Dan Kelly of Blackstone, Mass.

The large barn was owned by the Pierson estate and the shed, 100 feet long and 24 feet wide, was owned by the New London County Agricultural society. Frank T. Maples, secretary of the Association, said Friday night that the shed, valued at $2,000 or more, is partially covered by insurance. Henry Myott was in charge of the horses for the winter.

It is understood that a coal fire had been started in the stove in the barn about 6 o'clock. There was no one on the grounds after the stove was started and it is thought the barn caught fire from the stove.

The burned buildings were located near the race track and within a short distance of the large grandstand. Back of the destroyed buildings and only a few feet away is a long building used for stables. The heat from the flames scorched the front of this building but owing to the fact that the wind was blowing away from the building it did not take fire. The snow storm which started in soon after 7:30 o'clock probably saved other nearby buildings from taking fire.

The reflection could be seen for miles and a large crowd rushed to the fairgrounds to watch the fire.

Norton of North Westchester, president of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Connecticut was the honor guest at a luncheon given Friday by Mrs. Allen Latham of Norwich Town for the officers of the union from New London county. Other officers are, Miss Gladys Taber and Mrs. George S. Palmer of New London, Mrs. E. A. Faust of Jewett City, Miss Elizabeth G. Day of Colchester and Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, Miss Edith Bliss, Miss Mary Lucas and Mrs. W. M. Zumbro of Norwich.

COURT APPROVES SALE OF GROTON & STONINGTON RY.

At the superior court short calendar session here Friday morning, with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding, approval was given of the sale of the Groton and Stonington street railway company for $50,000 to P. Leroy Harwood of New London, representing the bondholders' committee. Judge Brown also approved the deed to the purchasers.

Attorney Lewis Crandall, a committee appointed by the superior court, to make the sale, submitted his report to the court which was also accepted.

Judge Charles E. Waller, counsel in the matter, stated to the court that "this was the first step in the re-organization of the company."

The sale of the railroad was ordered by the superior court as the result of foreclosure proceedings brought by Anson T. McCook, treasurer, State of Connecticut, against the G. & S. S. Railway Co., et al.

Foreclosure for $4,305.67 was granted in favor of Ella A. Card of South Windham against J. Lawrence Rivers and others on a first mortgage on the Rivers farm of 135 acres in Lebanon. C. W. Tryon of Willimantic valued the property at $4,000.

Judgment for $884.95 was given for H. F. and A. J. Dawley of this city against Angelo Del Grosso, a Norwich contractor. The claim was for a bill for building material on Colchester property.

Supplemental judgment was entered and the court approved the deed of sale, in the case of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation of Worcester against Nathan Nanchik, et al., of Colchester. Attorney Morris Lubchansky of New London, a committee appointed by the superior court to sell the Manchik property, was given $200 for his services, while three appraisers, Charles and Fred O. Brown and John Congdon of Colchester were each given $25 as appraisers. The property was sold to Samuel Levine, Jacob Boratz and Ida Getzoff, for $4,800 subject to a mortgage of the East Hampton Savings bank for $3,346. The property is located in Colchester. The L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation got $3,453.53 as their amount of the judgment, while Ida Getzoff, holder of the third mortgage on the property, gets $483.92.

On the claim that she loaned various sums of money to her husband Frank Drozd for his business in the American European bakery at New London, Mrs. Frances Drozd was given judgment for $1,827 according to stipulation.

Davis-Warner Arms Sale

Attorney George Gilman announced that Dec. 9 at 10 a. m. would be the date for the auction of the machinery, equipment, etc., of the Davis Warner Arms Co.

Judge Brown entered an order confirming William H. Allen, president of the Uncas National bank, who has been serving as temporary receiver as permanent receiver of the concern.

Four months from Dec. 8 is given according to an order approved by Judge Brown, for the presentation of claims against the corporation, after which date claims will not be honored.

An order to cite in the heirs of the Dodd estate as defendants, was ordered in the case of Quinn, Adm., vs. Dodd, individually and as admr., et al., while two other motions listed, disclosure of defense as to all defendants and if no defense, judgment of foreclosure and limitation of time went off the list.

In S. W. Board Co., vs. Ft. Griswold Paper Co., default for failure to plead was entered, and Judge Brown reserved decision in Herman vs. Grosdove, et al., to place case on the jury docket, instead of the court docket.

Motions for default against defendants, Nelson Grenier and Bert Grenier in the cases of Martha J. Snyder vs. Grenier, et al., and William E. Snyder vs. Grenier, et al., were granted.

Default was entered as the Norwich Savings society as a non-appearing defendant, in the case of Slosberg vs. Berkman, et al., while two other motions in the same case, disclosure of defense, and foreclosure, limitation of time, went off the list, due to the fact that a defense is to be set up.

ENJOYED SQUIRREL AND CHICKEN PIE SUPPER

Employes of the I. E. Bogue Co., with their friends, held their regular monthly meeting this week in the O'Connor auditorium on O'Connor avenue, one of the series of gatherings by which the employes are enabled to get better acquainted and also to improve their knowledge of the construction and the servicing of the Ford car. The business part of the meeting proved highly successful, after which all present sat down to a hearty supper of squirrel and chicken pie, with all the fixings, which was thoroughly enjoyed, and it was rather reluctantly that those present turned homeward when the gathering broke up at a late hour.

Mat With Taftville Member

The last meeting of the Jolly Social club was held at the home of Miss Pauline Wunderlich on Norwich avenue, Taftville. The evening was spent in sewing and later refreshments were served by the hostess. Victrola selections were enjoyed by the membrs.

Th next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Lee Hill, 263 Prospect street.

Trickle and High-Rate Charger

The new Balkite Charger with both low and high charging rates is easily the greatest charger value in radio. It combines a trickle and rapid charger in one. As a trickle charger, it can be permanently connected to your battery and in effect converts it into an automatic light socket "A" power supply. Its high rate supplies a ready reserve of power for the largest sets.

The new Balkite Charger is a permanent piece of equipment. It has no tubes and nothing to replace. Entirely noiseless, in most cases it can be used during reception. Can be used with 4 or 6-volt batteries. Price $19.50. FOR THOSE WHO REQUIRE A CHARGER OF ONLY LIMITED CAPACITY—THE BALKITE TRICKLE CHARGER—$10. 125 SHIPS ARE IMPRISONED BY ICE IN ST. MARY'S RIVER

The River is the Gateway From Lake Huron to Lake Superior —Giant Ice Breaker Succeeded in Freeing Three Vessels —The Ships, Bound For Canadian and United States Ports, Contain Cargoes Valued at More Than $25,000,000.

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 5—(AP)—The Giant ice breaker Sainte Marie assisted by tugs and lighters charged about today with little effect against the ice formations of the St. Mary's river which threaten to imprison for the winter a fleet of lake vessels bound for Canadian and United States ports.

A total of 125 vessels with aggregate cargoes valued at more than $25,000,000 were still tied up in the river, the gateway from Lake Huron into Lake Superior.

After working all night and today the Sainte Marie had succeeded in freeing three upbound vessels, the Canadian Pacific liner Assiniboia loaded with passengers and the freighters Ontadoc and S. M. Clements.

The work is exceedingly difficult and slow as it is necessary for the Ste. Marie to make a new lane to each ship and by the time she carves a path wide enough for tugs to operate in pulling the trapped ships free, the starting stretch of the lane freezes over. The Ste Marie was frozen in several times herself today and was able to pull free with difficulty.

The difficulty of the work and the inaccessibility of some of the ships led lake engineers today to express the opinion that the jam may not be completely broken before spring.

Most of the work of the Ste. Marie has centered around the upper reaches of the river channel where the ice jam is less severe. With a slight spell of warm weather it is thought the 40 vessels imprisoned there may be freed.

In the lower section of the channel 66 vessels, all down-bound, are held fast and the remainder are imprisoned by the two outlets. The fate of the ships in the lower channel is the most uncertain. They are seriously handicapped by the downdrift of ice.

Most of the imprisoned ships are at considerable distance off shore and the crews have remained aboard. The tugs are able to get close enough to carry supplies and there is no food shortage. There is an acute shortage of coal, however, and no prospect of reaching the ships with any after the meagre supply runs out. There is only a small supply on hand at Saulte Ste. Marie and local officials have notified shipping owners they will be unable to spare an appreciable amount for the steamers were it possible to reach them with ice trucks.

Approximately 2,000 sailors are marooned in the ice bound channel. Officials said there was no immediate fear for their safety and pointed out that as a last resort they could leave their ships and make their way ashore over the ice and then reach inland settlements. Owners of the vessels however believe they can transport enough food overland to take care of the problem of feeding the men. It is necessary to use horse drawn vehicles to transport supplies overland as the sparsely populated woods district of the upper peninsula is inaccessible for other travel at this season.

About 250 miles west of here on Keweenaw bay, the steamers City of Hangor and Magnham, ran aground off Point Isabelle were in danger of being battered to pieces. The Hangor is loaded with automobiles and the Matham with ore.

There is said to be little hope of saving either ship. Whether an attempt to get them off the reef by throwing their cargoes overboard and thus lighten them, will be made, was still undecided. Lake engineers, however, were of the opinion such action would be a little if any help toward freeing them.

SNOWFALL IN THE STATE SIX TO EIGHT INCHES

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Winter, which for the past few days has been knocking on Connecticut's door, today entered with a rush of frigid breezes and dense flurries of snow.

From all over the state come reports of snow six to eight inches deep on the level and of gales which make it difficult to find level snow to measure. Temperatures reported are as low as five below zero in some cases.

At least two deaths and several accidents are due more or less directly to the storm or to the cold weather. Meyer White collapsed at the wheel of his taxi in Meriden from heart attack after a protracted attempt to keep up service in face of the storm. In Torrington Joseph Nagy was killed and John Kuchta badly injured in an automobile accident on a muddy, snowy road.

From Norfolk and Highland Lake, near the Massachusetts line, come reports of five below zero weather, while Winsted, nearby, had zero temperature until after noon. In Danbury, with toward the southern extremity, theromometers ran about 15 degrees, with six inches of snow drifting badly.

The state highway department has been making efforts to keep the trunk line roads passable. Telephone and telegraph service suffered no interruption, so far as could be learned.

MERCURY FAR BELOW ZERO IN NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—New England was engulfed in a bitter, freezing wave from the northeast today that drove down temperatures to the lowest level so far this season. In the northern sections the mercury sank far below the zero mark. Boston, with a frigid four degrees above zero, experienced its coldest Dec. 5 in the history of the weather bureau, whose annals extend back 53 years.

Hard on the heels of the peak of the cold wave came snow that fell steadily throughout the day and that was drifted by the driving northeast wind.

Official early morning readings showed that the warmest spot on the mainland where official weather bureau readings are taken was New Haven with a temperature of eight degrees. Block Island registered 21 degrees and Nantucket 16.

Hard on the heels of the peak of the cold wave came snow that fell steadily throughout the day and that was drifted by the driving northeast wind.

Northfield, Vermont, reported an official 13 degrees below zero, and Caribou, Me., ten below. It was six degrees below at Burlington and two below at Eastport, Me. Concord, N. H., reported an even zero.

While it has been colder on a few occasions in early December, in Boston, today's reading of four degrees has never been approched on Dec. 5 in the history of the weather bureau. The nearest approach was a temperature of seven degrees on Dec. 5, 1884.

SNOWSTORM ASSUMED BLIZZARD PROPORTIONS

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—On the heels of the coldest December 5 in the history of the local weather bureau a snowstorm that rapidly assumed blizzard proportions rode over central New England before a northeast gale tonight, bringing one death and an increasing threat of a transportation tie up.

Alonzo Waltz, a call fireman in Everett, succumbed to heart failure on the street as he fought his way home after roll call at the station house.

Minor accidents and transportation delays increased in Boston as the evening wore on and all three railroads entering the city began to feel the effects of the storm. With a six inch blanket of snow beginning to drift in outlying sections, through trains were delayed from 20 minutes to several hours and locals were handicapped by poor visibility.

75 BOATS ARE ICE-BOUND IN NEW YORK BARGE CANAL

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Seventy five boats are caught in the ice on the Erie and Champlain divisions of the barge canal, according to reports reaching Capt. Thomas F. Farrell, commissioner of canals, tonight.

Forty boats are tied up, some of them in mid channel, between Utica and Schenectady on the Erie division Twenty are caught at St. Johnsville and probably will not be released until spring.

Twenty five boats are caught at the lower end of Lake Champlain, unable to get into the canal at Whitehall, where 13 more are tied up.

Unusually cold weather, coming a week earlier than expected, and today's heavy snow storm, which reached a depth of nearly a food early today, caused the tie up, Captain Farrell said. Ice breakers have been unable to get through.

THREE TO 14 INCHES OF SNOW IN NEW YORK STATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Accompanied by strong winds, the first heavy snowfall of the season blanketed the east today. Early last night snow began to fall in some sections and 24 hours later was still falling, ranging in depth from three to 14 inches and covering the east from the Delaware capes to Maine.

The disturbance was moving northeastward with increasing intensity, an advisory storm warning issued by the weather bureau said.

Emergency snow clearing equipment was immediately put into use to keep open the vital thoroughfares over which food is moved into the larger cities.

Strong winds swept the New England and north Atlantic coasts and in Maine it reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour. Snow started falling in Portland with the appearance of a blizzard later in the afternoon.

The snow fighting forces of New York city turned their attention to keeping open the ferry approaches and bridges over which 170,000 trucks move daily carrying food supplies into the city. Late in the afternoon the snow had reached a depth of three inches.

Philadelphia reported three inches of snow starting at 3 a. m., which later turned into sleet and rain. Traffic was reported normal.

Snow has been falling in Buffalo since early last night and in some places is from 13 to 14 inches deep.

THREE DEATHS CAUSED BY STORM IN WESTERN NEW YORK

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 5—(AP)—Winter descending on western New York today took three lives before nightfall.

Kenneth Merch and Melvin Britten, of Smithville, were killed in a collision of a trolley with an automobile. The accident occurred when the vision of trolley motorman and the driver of the automobile were obstructed by the heavy snowfall.

George Jones, of Buffalo, died of exposure.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 a. m. Hoist southeast storm warning Delaware breakwater to Nantucket. Northeast storm warning north of Nantucket to Eastport Disturbance over Ohio moving northeastward with increasing intensity. Strong east winds tonight north of Nantucket and this afternoon and tonight between Delaware breakwater and Nantucket, accompanied by snow."

$150,000 FIRE STARTED IN R. C. CHURCH, LONG BRANCH

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fanned by high winds that accompanied a raging snowstorm, fire originating in a Roman Catholic church today swept for a distance of four blocks, destroying the church and a furniture warehouse and damaging 12 structures in its path. Estimates of the loss ranged from $150,000 to $200,000.

CHILE AGREES TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL OF SECY KELLOGG

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Chile has agreed to "consider, in principle," the proposal of Secretary Kellogg providing for the cession to Bolivia of the disputed provinces of Tacra and Arica.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

HAVANA, Dec. 5—(AP)—Eduardo Gato, Sr., 67, multimillionaire and reported to be the most extensive manufacturer of cigars of the world, is dead.

PARIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—Mrs. Mary de Guise-Hite, once a wealthy American widow, is reported by the American consulate to have committed suicide on Thanksgiving day.

PARIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—A divorce was granted to M. Toscan Bennett from Josephine Beach Day Bennett on Nov. 20, it was confirmed Saturday. They were married at Hartford, Conn., and have three children.

CHERBOURG, France, Dec. 5—(AP)—Fire on the Dutch freight and passenger steamer Zeelandia, en route from the Buenos Aires to Amsterdam destroyed several cabins. The crew, however, mastred the blaze in time to avert a serious fire.

POSEN, Poland, Dec. 5—(AP)—A Polish fascist movement was launched here yesterday at a conference of 300 representatives of various classes in Posen province, under the leadership of Roman Dmovski, chief of the national democrats.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER WAS LONE WOLF BANDIT

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5—(AP)—How 19 year old Sunday school teacher became "The Ace", a lone wolf bandit, was told by police today after they investigated the story of Thomas Stephenson, self confessed holdup man, who has been terrorizing chain store managers for five weeks.

Stephenson who taught every Sunday at the school of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Arlington, was captured last night while fleeing with $100. He took at pistol point from the manager of the Star Luggage company.

"Thoughts of being a holdup man came to me," he told police, "when the moonbeams glistened on an old revolver that hung on my bedroom wall. I admired myself in the role of a bandit as I stood before the mirror holding the gun and repeating 'Stick 'em up.'"

He confessed to five robberies, all perpetrated on Saturday nights. He would hand a card to the store manager which read:

"I'm The Ace, hand over the money."

BRISTOL, Dec. 5.—(AP)—News of the death of Charles H. Tiffany, 66, for over 40 years proprietor of hotels in this place, has been received from Burbank, Calif., where he went the past summer because of his health.

At one time Tiffany was proprietor of the Old Bristol house, and later, for over 30 years he conducted the Hadley house, which he sold to the New Departure Manufacturing company in 1916, when more accommodations were needed for war time help.

He was a charter member of Bristol lodge of Elks, a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the National Hotel Keepers' association.

Claude Monet

GIVERNE, Department of Europe, France, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Claude Monet famous artist and dean of French nature depictors, died at his home here at 3:30 this afternoon. His life long friend, Georges Clemenceau was at his bedside when the end came.

M. Clemenceau was so overcome by his loss that he refused to see reporters and sought the seclusion of his own bedroom to be alone with his chief. M. Monet was one of the former premiers few intimates and it is said of him that he did much to uphold Clemenceau's morale during the more trying periods of the World war.

Claude Monet was just past his 86th year, having been born in Paris, Nov. 14, 1840. His principal works were views of picturesque places and cathedrals of France.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Barth, U. S. A.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Charles H. Barth, U. S. A., retired, commander of the Seventh division in France, died at the National Military home here early today. He was governor of the home.

Born in Iowa Dec. 28, 1858, General Barth moved to Leavenworth with his parents at an early age. He was appointed to West Point December 1, 1877. He was one of the first three to receive cadet appointments from Leavenworth, the other two being William Crozier and Joseph Kahn who also attained the rank of brigadier general before retirement.

General Barth was a captain in the Spanish-American war and saw service in the Philippines. During the first few months of the World war he was stationed at Jackson, S. C., organizing and training the 81st division. He later was with the 7th division at Camp McArthur, Texas, and commanded that unit in France. He was awarded the distinguished service medal. was a member of the Legion of Honor of France, and held the French Croix de Guerre with palm.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Thomas F. Garvan.

HARTFORD, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Thomas F. Garvan, prominent business man of this city, former president and treasurer of P. Garvan, Inc., paper stock dealers, and associated with many industries outside the state, notably in commercial aviation, died here tonight at St. Francis' hospital. He was 55 years old.

Among Mr. Garvan's other business connections were: Treasurer of Minerva Automobiles, Inc., of New York; treasurer of the Paul Ostruck company, of New York; president of the Geb and Garvan Yarn company, of Seneca Falls, N. Y.; treasurer of the Audiphone Company of America, New York; president of the Trans-Atlantic Radio Products corporation, New York; secretary of Bradley Fireproofing Products company, New York; and director of Riverside Trust company, Hartford. Mr. Garvan had large real estate interests in Florida, in St. Petersburg, Miami and West Palm Beach. At one time he owned the Burnside Tissue mills in East Hartford.

During the past few years Mr. Garvan became interested is commercial aviation. He became president and treasurer of the Remington-Burnelli Aircraft corporation. The funeral will probably be held here Tuesday.

RUNAWAY SEDAN SMASHED INTO STREET LIGHT STANDARD

TORRINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Traveling under its own power, a small sedan which Paul Longhi had parked in front of a store last night following a winding street for about an eighth of a mile, going around a corner, across a railroad track, and occasionally running for a time on the sidewalk, before it ended its driverless career by smashing into a street light standard, which it snapped off.

Warm Home Welcome Given Queen Marie

Both King Ferdinand and the Queen Wept as They Embraced.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Home from her turbulent, and perhaps triumphant tour of America, Queen Marie spent Sunday in the palace with the ailing spouse and sovereign, King Ferdinand. Although the king's affliction was not severe enough to keep him from meeting his family at the station on their arrival yesterday, well wishers found little to reassure them in the bulletin issued by Professor Henri Hartmann, French specialist, and Dr. Regaud, noted radio therapeutist who have just been called in for consultation, the bulletin reads:

"The results of the first consultation of Drs. Hartmann and Regaud show that the recto sigmoidal affection from which the king is sufferlig, presents no modification. The general condition, appetite and sleep are satisfactory."

The arrival of Queen Marie, Princess Illeana and Prince Nicolas at Bucharest lacked the punctual dignity which it is customary to expect at royal functions. The entire diplomatic corps, state officials, prelates and native aristocracy, arrayed for the occasion, reached the station at 10 o'clock in the morning to await the train, which was due at 11. Shortly before noon they ere informed that the train would not arrive until 2 in the afternoon.

The red carpets were rolled up and with the flowers were carefully put aside in the waiting room. Everyone withdrew for lunch.

When the welcoming groups came back at 3 o'clock, they learned that the train had pulled in at 1 and that the queen had proceeded to the palace with the king; someone had had the presence of mind to order the train to wait in the yard for 30 minutes until Ferdinand could be hurried to the station. Premier Averescu also was notified in time to get back and extend his greetings.

The king and queen warmly embraced and both wept, as did others, affected by the sight of their reunion. There were few onlookers, however, to this scene, but half an hour later the crowds began to gather in the streets around the station to witness what had already transpired.

TEMPORARY TRUCE IN THE CHAPLIN MARITAL ERUPTION

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Charles Chaplin, film comedian, and his estranged wife, the former Lita Grey, who spent $8,000 for a new wardrobe just before she quit her home last Tuesday after a row, continued to observe temporary truce in their domestic argument today while attorneys for both sides prepared for another conference.

Mrs. Chaplin, at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Curry, declined to discuss her differences with her famous husband. She busied herself arranging her children's belongs which she brought from the Chaplin mansion yesterday. Both of the boys, Charles Spencer, Jr., two, and Sydney Earle, one, were dressed in their best bib and tucker, having discarded the soiled rompers and sweaters which they had been wearing since last Tuesday, when they came with their mother to make their home with the Currys.

Telephone calls to the actor's home elicited the information that Mr. Chaplin was out. The Japanese servant boy who answered the telephone could not say when the comedian would return.

Attorney Lloyd Wright, representing Chaplin, was reported out of the city. George Beale, Mrs. Chaplin's lawyer, could not be reached at his home.

Both attorneys, however, have indicated that they would meet early this week in an attempt to effect a settlement of the Chaplin marital difficulties. Two preliminary conferences were held last week. The legal controversy centers about the custody of the Chaplin children. Mrs. Chaplin says she will keep them and their father is equally determined to obtain their custody.

Mrs. Chaplin left her husband after an argument which arose over the propriety of her entertaining a late party at the Chaplin home.

A BLOOD STAINED LETTER MAY PROVE MURDER CLUE

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A blood stained letter, written to Clara Olson by Erdman Olson, her lover, on the September day when she disfore a coroner's jury to circumstantiate, when it is read tomorrow, besearching party discovered the body tial evidence against the missing college boy charged with her murder.

The letter was found by autopists who determined yesterday that the 22 year old girl was beaten to death, a searching party discovered the body last Thursday in a shallow grave near Erdman's home.

The letter may throw light on the present whereabouts of the boy, missing since September 23. A report that his body has been found in a Chicago morgue, never credited by Crawford county officials, was discovered yesterday.

The letter, it was said, arranged the tryst believed to have ended the night in the slaying of Clara, who would have been a mother soon after Christmas. Officials withheld its contents until they can question certain witnesses tomorrow.

Erdman was charged with murder before the discovery of the body. A warrant was issued after he fled from Gale college, 17 days after Clara disappeared and one day after the girl's father had threatened his arrest if her whereabouts were not learned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The jury in the Morse mail frauds trial was discharged shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, when after deliberating since 1 p. m., Friday, it reported a verdict of not guilty for two of the defendants and disagreement on the other four.

Huerta Ready to Lead Revolt in Mexico

Awaits Opportunity to Return to Mexico Without Violating U. S. Laws.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 5.—(AP)—When Mexican revolutionists capture a garrison just south of the American border, Adolfo De La Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, will return to that country to head a movement against President Calles.

That was the declaration made today by Senor De La Huerta, to a representative of the Arizona Daily Star, in an interview given in Spanish.

"I am waiting for the revolutionists to capture a border point so that I can return to Mexico without violating American laws," Don Adolfo said. "There will then be a de facto government in charge of those points, and my entry can be regularly made."

The former president emphasized the fact that he was not taking a single step without the full knowledge of the American immigration and department of justice authorities.

Besides revealing his plans with respect to the present "revolutionary movement," in Mexico, Don Adolfo delivered a scathing arraignment of the Calles government.

In nine distinct counts, Don Adolfo accused President Calles and his followers. He charged them with being insincere, rapacious, and with violating a number of the natural and fundamental rights of man.

"I know the American laws regarding immigration and neutrality, and I am keeping within them," Don Adolfo said. "I am in constant friendly contact with the American authorities at Los Angeles. Yesterday I conferred with the immigration and department of justice officials in Tucson, at their request of course. The interview was entirely pleasant, and my freedom was in no way interfered with.

"I have also visited the Yaqui village north of Tucson, and consulted with several of my personal friends there. From them I gleaned important information regarding the present strength of the uprising in Sonora.

"There are now 14,000 men up in arms against the government in Sonora, alone. Of these, 9,000 are well armed and 5,000 are poorly armed. The majority are Yaquis. Next, in numbers, come the Mayns, then the Pimas and finally white men."

WEEKLY REVIEW OF INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—The contrast between the usual year-end curtailment of industrial operations and the expansion of retail holiday trade became more pronounced last week. Important industries, such as steel, lumber and automobile manufacturing, continued to throttle down the pace of their activities, apparently satisfied to mark time after a year of great prosperity.

Although comparisons with the final quarter of last year have not been altogether favorable, the recessions in most instances have been too mildly graduated to arouse apprehension.

An important step toward stabilization of rubber conditions affecting the United States was taken by leading tire and automobile manufacturers, who formed a $40,000,000 pool with the aid of Wall street bankers to purchase the crude product.

Approaching the close of a highly prosperous year in which aggregate earnings are certain to set a new high record, the railroads were little disturbed the addition of nearly $15,000,000 to the annual wage bill of the eastern carriers.

A rather sharp let-down in the steel business was noted last week, with operations of the industry as a whole barely holding around 70 per cent of capacity.

PLAYED HARMONICA WHILE PRISONER FILED BARS

PINEVILLE, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Discordant notes entering a harmonica marathon as a musician paused to catch his breath in jail here Friday night caused the disbanding of a perfectly good orchestra and incidentally the frustration of a jail delivery.

Early in the night, Charles Wilson, deputy jailor, was attracted by the continued concert of the harmonica soloist who after exhausting his repertoire of mountain folk songs savagely assaulted modern jazz without a rest.

The jailor liked the music but disliked the discord he detected as notes of the harmonica faded when the musician gasped for breath.

Investigation disclosed the orchestra composed of two men, one using deft violin strokes with a file for a bow had played through three bars and was on the fourth, while his accompanist with the harmonica played dozens of tunes on the harmonica.

Boyd Arnett, charged with stealing chickens and Cecil Thompson, charged with false swearing, composed the orchestra. Four steel saws and a window weight were the instruments of one of the musicians.

CHANGE OF GOVT PLEASES RESIDENTS OF FOOCHOW

AMOY, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Meager advices reaching here say that conditions in Foochow remain unchanged since control of the city was taken over by Cantonese troops last Thursday. It is learned that much secret negotiations are taking place between various factions. Former officials of the city are fleeing or going into hiding.

The public seems generally pleased with the changed government, resulting from the fall of the northern regime. This reaction is taken as indication that public opinion favors the attitude the southern government is taking toward solving China's problems.

OPTICAL ILLUSION WAS THE CAUSE OF ENGINEER'S DEATH

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5—(AP)—An optical illusion which caused a railroad engineman to leap from his cab because he thought a collision with another train was imminent, today resulted in the death of A. F. Jones, 33, a Pennsylvania railroad fireman.

Jones jumped from a locomotive last Friday night when he thought a train on an adjoining track and travelling in the opposite direction was on the same track as his engine. He received a compound fracture of the skull when his head struck the tracks.

The report as to the cause of death was made by the coroner

69TH CONGRESS TODAY WILL OPEN ITS SECOND SESSION

More Than 12,000 Bills Remain on the Calendar Untouched From Last Session—Several Hundred More Bills Will Be Presented as Soon as the Formalities of the Opening Day are Over—Batch of Annual Appropriation Bills Are to Be Given Preferential Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Once again the constitution will call congress into session tomorrow.

At noon, the gavel will fall in senate and house, setting in motion the legislative machinery of the nation which has been idle since adjournment last July.

The new session, the second of the 69th congress, will face a huge task. It will have but three months in which to work, for its tenure under the constitution expires March 4.

More than 12,000 bills remain on the calendar untouched from last session. To these will be added several hundred more as soon as the formalities of the opening day are over.

Out of this brief three months of work must be taken ten days for a Christmas vacation, while many hours will be consumed by the political orators.

The burden of selection of those bills to be given preferential consideration will fall on the shoulders of the republican steering committees of the two houses. They will be required to choose only a few bills to push forward for enactment.

First in the minds are the batch of annual appropriation bills to provide funds for the operating expenses of the government. Besides these, agreement already has been reached to take up two measures on definite dates—the rivers and harbors bill in the senate on December 14, and a bill proposing salary increases for the federal judiciary in the house next Thursday.

The tentative legislative list also includes alien property, radio, the McFadden branch banking bill, the Lausanne treaty with Turkey, and the treaty to outlay use of poisonous gas in warfare.

Farm relief proposals in numerous forms also are knocking at the doors of both houses while the democratic membership is solid in its demand for a tax reduction bill.

The first day, tomorrow, will be devoted to the usual formalities of the opening session. Both houses will be opened by prayer. Roll calls then will be taken. In the senate, the names will be called in alphebetical order while in the house the roll will be tabbed by states.

A joint committee, composed of the party leaders of the two houses, will be appointed to wait upon the president and notify him that the congress has convened and awaits his annual message.

While this committee is journeying to the white house, new members with proper credentials will be sworn in.

The call of the committee at the white house is only a formality, as it already has been announced that President Coolidge would depart from the custom used by Wilson and Harding and once by himself in appearing in person to deliver his message. It will be sent to the capitol Tuesday by special messenger and read in both senate and house by clerks.

After the joint committee formally notifies congress that the message will be brought up Tuesday, both houses will adjourn tomorrow out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa and the late Senator Bert M. Fernald of Maine.

Four new members will take the oath in the senate. They are Arthur R. Gould of Maine, and David W. Stewart of Iowa, republicans and David I. Walsh of Massachusetts and Harry B. Hewes of Missouri, democrats. The new members to be seated in the house are: Harry L. Englebright and Richard J. Welch of California, John J. Cochran of Missouri and former Representative Frederick W. Dallinger of Massachusetts.

After hearing the president's message Tuesday, the house will adjourn out of respect to the memory of former Speaker "Uncle Joe" Cannon. The senate has no set programme at that time.

Both houses will receive the president's annual budget message on Wednesday. As soon as it has been received by the house, Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee, plans to introduce the first of the appropriation bills, that for the treasury and post office departments.

Madden hopes to send his message to the senate before the week end adjournment and then take up either the interior or agricultural department measures.

GOVERNOR CHARGED WITH VIOLATING STATE DRY LAW

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Governor W. W. Brandon of Alabama and eight friends, together with a Negro servant, face trial tomorrow for violating the state prohibition law. The arrests grew out of a raid on McQueen's hunting camp on Magnolia river near here. Sheriff Stuart at May Hinette, Baldwin county where the trial is to be held, said tonight he expects Governor Brandon, David R. Castleman, William Castleman, business men in Louisville, Ky.; Addison R. Smith, vice president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, Atticus Mullin, the Montgomery Advertiser; Joe Seth, Carr McCormick, Jack Daniels of Birmingham; Charles P. Anderson of Montgomery, brother-in-law of Governor-elect Graves, and Will R. Reed, a Negro servant, to appear in court. Sheriff Stuart says that if they do not appear he will take steps to have them brought to trial.

Governor Brandon delivered a memorial address today to the Elks lodge at Jackson, Tenn. He is scheduled to return to Montgomery sometime tomorrow.

AMERICAN CHRISTIAN FUND FOR JEWISH RELIEF

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Jews and Christians, both Catholic and Protestant, joined in a meeting tonight in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in behalf of the American Christian fund for Jewish relief.

Bishop William T. Manning, who presided, spoke of the occasion as one "of unusual significance."

"It is the first time," he said, "that a meeting has been held in this cathedral and, so far as I know, the first time that a meeting has been held in any Christian cathedral specifically in behalf of the Jewish people.

"The lives of 5,000,000 Jewish men and women and children are at stake. Our Jewish fellow Americans are sending their help nobly to their stricken brethren, but the American Jews cannot do it all. The need is too great."

Major General John F. O'Ryan saw in the meeting a practical application of the Christian precept of the golden rule.

LENGLEN COLLAPSES AFTER MATCH WITH MISS BROWNE

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, world's tennis champion, who collapsed after a stiff match with Miss Mary K. Browne here last night was sufficiently recovered from her fatigue today to board a train with other members of the C. C. Pyle professional tennis party here today. The party is enroute for San Francisco where the members will play Tuesday night.

Forced to play twenty games of tennis before being able to down Miss Brown, the champion reeled from the courts and collapsed in her dressing room. Pyle announced she was suffering from a severe cold.

During the first set, Miss Browne was within two points of victory at one time. Members of the Pyle entourage said the match was the hardest fought of the present tour of the party across the United States and the longest set played by the French girl since she won the world's championship.

TOUGH EXPERIENCE FOR FIREMEN IN COLD AND SNOW

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Handicapped by bitter cold and driving snow firemen of this city and Pawtucket today fought three hours to control a stubborn blaze which destroyed the dye house of the Premier Cement company with a loss of $80,000. Large quantities of chemicals stored in the two story wooden structure added to the fire fighters difficulties. The cause of the blaze was undetermined.

MRS. CARSON WILL NOT ENTER CATALINA SWIM

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Clemington Corson, first mother to swim the English channel today announced that she would not enter the Catalina Island swim for a $25,000 purse, because of the change in rules, announced last week which will permit contestants to spread a thick layers of grease over their bodies and go without bathing suits.

"I positively will not enter a swimming match and compete with any woman who won't wear a bathing suit, and my advisor, Mr. Lissberger, considers by decision justifiable," said Mrs. Corson today when asked the result of her conference with L. Walter Lissberger, of Norwalk, her financial backer in the channel swim.

"Moreover," she added, "the announcements by some of the women competitors who say that they will swim covered with axle grease, is only a cheap publicity stunt."

Mrs. Corson's statement, at the home of her sister, Mrs. John A. Carlson, 54 Harlem avenue, followed announcement that some of the women competitors in the Catalina Island $25,000 swim would follow Mrs. Lottie Schommell's example, who claims that she will attempt the swim attired only in ten pounds of black axle grease.

WIFE'S GOOD COOKING CAUSE OF HAPPINESS

WICHITA, Kans., Dec. 5.—(AP)—"My wife's good cooking is the reason we have always been happy," William Johnson said today on his 66th wedding aniversary. His wife, who is 80 years old, smiled at the compliment her 91 year old husband paid her, and added, "A happy married life just takes hard work—there is no other secret."

Mr. Johnson is an enthusiastic church worker as his wife is a cook. He often occupies the pulpit in the Church of the Brethren.

The Johnsons aren't critical of the younger generation. "You see we reared eight children of our own, have 17 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, so we understand them pretty well," Mrs. Johnson explained. "They don't have the same ideas we did when we were young, but times have changed. They are just trying to get the most out of life, after all do—only their method is different."

WINSTED MAN INSTANTLY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

CHESHIRE, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Henry Perry, 63, of 39 Baker street, Winsted, was killed instantly and his daughter, Mrs. Amelia Hurd, of 134 East Mountain avenue, also of Winsted, was injured, not seriously, when a machine operated by Franklin Hurd, husband of the injured woman, and another driven by Jacob Rogers of 50 Hamlin street, Middletown, crashed head-on on the Cheshire-Milldale highway, near here, this afternoon.

The driver of each machine was held in $1,000 bonds for appearance at New Haven before Coroner Eli Mix tomorrow. Franklin Hurd was charged with reckless driving and Jacob Rogers charged with operating without a license.

NO ACCIDENTS SUNDAY OF ANY CONSEQUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 5—Caution was the watchword of auto drivers today when the whole day storm, through which hundreds of cars had plowed without the safeguard of tire chains, abated in the evening, with no accidents of consequence having occurred. Many minor skids, without damage nor injury resulting, gave proof of careful driving.

The city snowplows made their initial appearance of the season early this evening and worked late into the night clearing off the streets and preparing gutters for a possible thaw which would choke the drains should it come suddenly.

Two overturning accidents were reported from South Coventry, the first, a Ford coupe in which two young women were passengers, overturning Saturday afternoon on Manning Hill. Late Saturday night a truck owned by a Thompsonville party overturned on Carnem hill in Coventry. Both machines were righted by Henry T. Frink, the Ford continuing on its way to Providence and the truck to Thompsonville.

BLISH GROCERY STORE WILL SOON BE CLOSED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 5—The Blish grocery business, one of the century landmarks in this vicinity is soon to become a thing of the past according to an announcement made by Lester H. Blish, representing the fourth generation of the Blish family who have conducted the business, that he was disposing of the stock on hand. The business will be closed up within a short time when Mr. Blish will enter other business fields, announcements on which are forthcoming. Lester H. Blish has become widely known locally through political offices which he has held, prominent among them being city tax collector. He is affiliated with the retpublican party.

The Blish grocery store is one of the pioneers in that line in this city, having been conducted by a continuous line of owners for about 100 years. For the past 50 years the business has been almost wholly in the hands of four generations of the Blish family and for 40 years it has been at its present location on Church street. Previously it was located in the Union block, the present site of the H. E. Remington clothing store. Frank B. Blish purchased a half interest in the business in 1867 from O. S. Perkins and the firm was known as Perkins & Blish. Upon the death of Mr. Blish in 1892 his half interest wa staken over by his son Dwight F. Blish. Dwight F. Blish died on April 24, 1910 and his son Frank D. Blish who had become associated with the firm in 1899 carried on the family's interest and purchased the interest of Mr. Perkins. Frank D. Blish died in 1916 and his son, the most recent owner, Lester H. Blish, assumed the business.

John W. Keirans, son of Mrs. Margaret Keirans of 35 Center street has been promoted to the position of express agent at Stafford Springs for the American Railway Express company, with which he was connected in this city for the past six years as bill clerk at the local office. Mr. Keirans, a graduate of Windham high school, class of 1913 and all-round athlete, started in with the company in July, 1919 as a porter. He soon developed into a most valuable assistant to Walter H. Parkhurst, agent at the local office. Mr. Keirans won repute in athletics locally and following his high school career he became a star with the Emerald basketball team. He was married last June and since that time has resided in Manchester, commuting here to his employment. Mr. and Mrs. Keirans will now make their residence in Stafford Springs.

The 53d anniversary of the organization of Francis S. Long post No. 36, G. A. R. was noted at a meeting of the veterans at their rooms in the town building Saturday afternoon. Commander A. P. Benner presided over the meeting. Six of the 15 members of the post were present. Commander Benner read a list of the Civil war survivors in Windham. Five veterans now residing out of town are: Thomas Hanley in Florida; Frank S. Shaffer in Middletown, George Thomas in Scotland; Ellsworth Russell in Chaplin and Herbert Williams in Canterbury. At the present time the latter is a patient in a hospital. The remaining ten reside in this city. The post once boasted of a membership of nearly three hundred.

Two cars, one a Ford and the other a Buick, overturned on the Andover highway about 10 o'clock Friday night due to the slippery condition of the road. Fortunately the occupants of neither of the machines were injured nor were the cars extensively damaged. Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frink was called to the accidents and after giving assistance sent the parties along their way.

The first snowstorm of the season was a real one and as evening came on Sunday the ground was covered by several inches of snow. After dropping to two above and down to the zero mark in some places the temperature rose during the day. The snow which fell was of the light sifting kind and impelled by a sweeping breeze blurred the eyesight and made walking anything but pleasant. Automobile owners encountered seasonable motor troubles a sthe thermometer hovered around Zero and many cars that finally reached the garage had to be pushed or towed to get under way after being parked Saturday night. Country roads that were deep-rutted from recent rains were difficult to drive over. Operating on hills without chains became a task of its own and the steep hills in this section were the scenes of many queen automobile antics as cars skidded. On Bigelow hill in Hampton automobiles became stalled by the dozens.

JEWETT CITY

VOLUNTOWN WATCHMAN SCALDED TO DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 5—John J. Buggy, 73, of Voluntown, was scalded to death by steam, early Sunday morning. He has been watchman at the Briggs Manufacturing Co. mills for 15 years. Evidently, something was the matter with the boiler, for he was found dead at 5 o'clock in the morning, in the boiler room, his body having been actually cooked by the steam, according to Medical Examiner G. H. Jennings. He had wound the time clock at 4 a. m. At 5 o'clock someone went to the mill and not gaining entrance, summoned Mr. Clarke, who broke into the mill and found Mr. Buggy's body. The body was brought to Hourigan Bros., undertaking rooms in Jewett City. Mr. Buggy is survived by his wife and a son.

A flavor never equaled

—until this creation by Van Camp

No modern way until now has matched the result of the flavor producing earthen oven called the "bean hole," an old fashioned custom of baking beans out-of-doors in the Maine woods. Sealed tightly in a big iron bean pot, buried under a heaping pile of dying embers, baked slowly for 12 hours—this method, still followed in northwood's logging camps, develops the finest bean flavor known.

You don't know baked beans if you have not experienced the taste of beans like those baked in the ground.

This wonderful new product, Bean Hole Beans, exactly reproduces all the eating quality of "bean hole" beans as baked in the Maine woods.

They are baked unusually long and prepared with the same ingredients.

They have the same baked-in-the-ground, cooked-out-of-doors flavor that people relish so much in baked beans.

Folks who prefer home-baked beans have been the first to praise Bean Hole Beans.

Serve them a few times and see if your folks can tell them from the kind you bake yourself.

This outdoor oven called the "bean hole" in the Maine woods develops the finest baked bean flavor known

DANIELSON

STUBBORN FIRE SUNDAY AT OLIVER A. DOWNS' HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 5.—Danielson's firemen ran up against about as stubborn a proposition as they have had to contend with in years, when they were called out in the storm, about 12:20 Sunday afternoon to fight a fire that was eating its way through the partitions of the Oliver A. Downs home on the northerly outskirts of the Riverview section. Three hours elapsed before they returned to quarters.

An alarm from a new box, No. 12, at the corner of Maple and Williams street, called out the department, and hose was connected up to fight the fire from a newly installed hydrant at the corner of Prospect and Williams street. Were it not for this hydrant the house would have burned to the ground, as no other hydrant is near enough for use, the Downs house setting out in the lots several hundred feet from other homes and by itself.

The fire started in the cellar, near the furnace, it is evident and then spread up through the partitions on all sides of the house. For an hour smoke poured out of the structure in such dense volume that it was impossible to see the building on any side except the one shielded from the northeast wind. The firemen chopped through here and there hunting the fire and finding it, only to have more dense volumes of smoke indicate more fire elsewhere. The house was riddled as with shrapnel when the firemen had fully subdued the blaze.

The place was flooded with water, ruining the furniture. Chief Woodward of the fire department said the loss would not be under $2,000 and might be more. It is understood that Mr. Downs carried $3,000 insurance, on house and contents. Firemen regarded as something like satire legends that hung in the home as they fought the blaze, one of these reading 'Cheer Up," and another "Don't Worry."

CHARLES GILBERT DIES AT EAST DOUGLAS, MASS.

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 5.—Charles Gilbert, 78, a native of this town, died Saturday evening about 7.45 at his home in East Douglas. Mr. Gilbert was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Gilbert, his parents resident at the time of his birth in the eastern section of the town, near Little Neat. Mr. Gilbert was 78 in July of this year. He lived here many years and was engaged at his trade as a carpenter. About a score of years ago he went to East Douglas to make his home. He leaves a daughter and two brothers, First Selectman James A. Gilbert and Frank H. Gilbert, both of Danielson. Mrs. Gilbert died several years ago. The body is to be brought here for burial in Westfield cemetery.

ELOQUENT OBLATE PRIEST DRAWS CROWDS TO MISSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 5.—Through a driving northeasterly snowstorm, several hundred people made their way to St. James' church Sunday afternoon, for the closing service at 3 o'clock of a mission for the English-speaking people of the parish, that was opened the preceding Sunday, and daily through the past week has drawn large congregations at both the morning and evening services.

The mission was conducted by Rev. James S. Carrigan, O. M. I., the order of Oblates of Mary Immaculate, who is a member of the Lowell, Mass., house of the order.

What had been termed a highly successful mission period at the morning masses by priests of St. James' parish came to a close with as spirituality impressive a ceremonial service as St. James' parish has known in its history of more than half a century. Deep faith and spiritual regenetation were manifest.

The personality of Rev. Fr. Carrigan entered in large measure into making the mission outstandingly successful. This young successor of the apostles, from the very first drew his congregations to him. Scholarly, forceful, kindly, his was an appeal to Christian principles that was irresistible. His congregations increased in numbers nightly, drawing attendance from various nationalities of a parish of approximately 3,000—souls. The outpouring of people in the storm of Sunday afternoon was still another tribute to the effect of his sermons of the week. Few who were privileged to make the mission Father Carrigan conducted here will be likely to forget him, nor to omit thinking gratefully of him through the years.

Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Burlingame, in the Park Hill section of Foster, funeral services for Gustav Erickson were conducted by Rev. E. G. Bucklin of the Community church at Chepachet. During the service Rev. Mr. Bucklin sang Just As I Am, and In the Sweet Bye and Bye. Burial was in the Community cemetery at Chepachet. The bearers were Thomas Shippee, Everett Burlingame, J. W. Hayfield and Clarence Koons. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

The first icy roads of the season were responsible for some minor automobile accidents in this territory on Saturday. A light snow that came during Friday night and that melted in during Friday night and that melted in of Saturday morning, produced ice shortly thereafter and added an extra hazard to motor operation. Down on the Danielson-Wauregan highway in the town of Plainfield a motor truck, with trailer, of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company, was in an affair with a Ford coupe owned and operated by Pasquale Deligante of West Warwick, R. I. It appears that the truck started to skid and that the trailer swung around and struck the coupe, damaging the little machine's headlight, fender and running board. No one was injured in the accident. George Beaney, operating the truck, was ordered to appear in the Plainfield town court next Wednesday to answer to a technical charge pertaining to the use of the trailer.

At the junction of Main street here and the route leading to Railroad square between the Danielson Trust company building and the Berthiaume block, Saturday about noon a truck owned by Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn and with Ambrose Geriola as operator, figured in a small accident with a touring car being operated by John Golte of Goodyear. The truck was coming out between the buildings into Main street as Golte came north. A slippery street surface prevented Golte from stopping his car soon enough to prevent the front end of his car crashing into the rear of the truck, the hood going under the truck body. A damaged ardiator, headlight and fender on Golte's car resulted. Chief John McFarland checked up the accident.

State highway crews prevented other accidents by sanding Spalding's hill at South Killingly, Dark Lantern and State line hill, east of here. For this all drivers using the route were very grateful. This service by the state highway department is indicative of how efficiently it works and how promptly it does things when they need to be done.

The dangerous traveling conditions of Saturday and the snowstorm of Sunday cut motor traffic to the lowest point of volume noted since last winter. A considerable number of cars were out, but the great majority of machine owners kept the automobiles under cover. Cold, ice and snow are three things that take about all the pleasure out of motoring.

For no special reasons at all—no one hereabouts having deserved such treatment, Old Man Winter got rough Saturday afternoon, turning on a northwesterly gale that must have originated where icebergs are born and that drove the mercury down to a new record minimum of 3 below zero by Sunday. Not satisfied with that, he shifted the wind around into the northeast and staged the first real snow storm of the winter during Sunday, when indications were, by late afternoon that snow shovels would need a bit of exercising this morning.

Every vestige of comfortable outdoor life had been squeezed out of the weather in this section of southern New England by Sunday afternoon.

What's that?

The question necessitates a qualification. Youngsters have vetoed that statement! They are delighted with the early New England winter. It means glorious rides on their sleds down the hard-packed trails of snow-clad hills, exhilarating gliding along the cleared surface of frozen lakes and river. Crisp, sparkling weather of the traditional New England winter means everything to them in the full flush of youth. The old-timers may sit by the fireside if they elect to do so. Young America is in its glory.

The advance guard of the army of Christmas shoppers invaded Danielson's stores, Saturday afternoon, in the first real onslaught of the season on the stocks of holiday merchandise. Business was brisk, but there were business men who said on Sunday that buying was not as free as one could anticipate it might be. A possible explanation of this—as suggested by one alert-minded merchant—was that a great percentage of those who were out were getting a line on the season's offerings and trying to adjust in their own minds just what they ought to buy—not being certain in their own minds—for father, mother, brother or friend, and arrange their purchases in accordance with the contents of their pocketbooks. That sounded like a plausible explanation. The real holiday buying period begins this week. With as splendid Christmas stocks as ever shown here, business men are confident of being able to report during the closing days of the year a very satisfactory business. Danielson and the surrounding communities have the money. This town is experiencing a prosperous period. It likely will do well by Danielson's business men.

Sleds were brought out Saturday to aid in making a happy week end at coasting for many children who happened to be having a week end holiday.

The fine new gymnasium of Killingly high school will come into use today, and classes for regular work there will begin their routine.

Fox hunters made the most of the first opportunity of the season for good tracking in a light fresh snow by going out in numbers.

Numbers who heard Dr. Milton S. Rees during his three weeks of preaching at union evangelistic services here having been going to Jewett City, the past few days, to hear his addresses in that community.

State highway crews were alert on Sunday afternoon, as the snow began to make depth, to be ready for duty with the department plows, that trunk line highways might not become obstructed.

Petty thieving reported here within the past two days including such miserable stunts as taking electric light bulbs out of the lobbies of public places and the stealing of a device from a radiator in the public comfort station. The very smallness and cheapness of such thieving has aroused special interest to catch the thieves.

A union meeting of the W. C. T. U. organizations of Windham county is to be held Tuesday at the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church.

Upwards of 50 prisoners were being held at the Windham county jail in Brooklyn over the week end, another evidence that winter weather is at hand.

Only a few more days remain in which to pay personal taxes, a matter that does not seem to be causing great worry for several hundred people of this town who have as yet failed to discharge this obligation. The taxes must be paid before December 15, to avoid collection though the courts.

M. and Ms. Waldo Colvin, who were married at Thanksgiving, have gone to Florida to spend the winter season.

There is more than passing interest here as to what will some of the conference scheduled for Tuesday evening, when a Norwich promoter will talk to the Danielson chamber of commerce about a plan to erect a combination hotel and theatre building in this place.

This (Monday) morning at 10.30 the Putnam Clergy Fellowship is to meet at the Methodist Episcopal church here. L. Edwin Hill, county Y. M. C. A. secretary, will lead a discussion on boys' work.

GRADUATE AERONAUTIC SCHOOL TO BE STARTED

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 5 (AP)—Plans for a graduate school of aeronautics have been announced by the California Institute of Technology here following the donation of $305,000 to the institution by the Daniel Guggenheim fund.

Construction of a new laboratory and wind tunnel, the approximate cost of which will be $180,000, will begin early next year. The remainder of the award will be expended for research and experimental work over a period of ten years. The plans call for establishment of research fellowships in aeronautics and the building of full size experimental gliders and power planes for flight work. The courses will be offered in the year 1928-29.

PUTNAM ELKS PAID TRIBUTE TO DEAD MEMBERS

PUTNAM, Dec. 15—Following their usual custom on the first Sunday in December Putnam lodge of Elks paid tribute to its dead members today. Dr. William Beach Olmstead, head master of the Pomfret school, delivered the eulogy and there was a musical program of several numbers. Miss Alice Stevens and Wallace Smith being the vocalists. Instrumental numbers were by Pep's orchestra.

Dr. Olmstead is an interesting and forceful speaker and his address was listened to with close attention by an audience that was large despite the heavy snow fall.

A. Newton Vaughn, exalted ruler, presided and the ritualistic exercises of the lodge made the occasion a very impressive one.

The program was as follows: Overture, march, Pep's orchestra; invocation, Rev. David F. Hatch; opening ceremonies, officers of Putnam lodge, solo, Who Knows, Miss Alice Stevens; selection, Pep's orchestra; eulogy, Dr. William Beach Olmstead; solo, Rest, Wallace Smith; solo, One Sweetly Solemn Thought, Miss Stevens, selection, Pep's orchestra; solo, Resignation, Mr. Smith; Auld Lang Syne, members of the lodge, benediction, Rev. David F. Hatch; selection, orchestra.

SALLY CLOUGH EXPECTED TO COMPETE AT OLYMPICS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 5—Charles V. H. Cushman of Pomfret had a string of horses from his stables at Pomfret in the recent National horse show at New York and they received prominent notice. Mayor Walker of New York city, attended and presented the magnificent Brooks-Bryce Foundation cup, given by Florence Brooks Aitken, to the winner of the jumping contest open to all citizens of the United States and Great Britain. The cup is to be competed for at the international show in London as well as at the National horse show in New York and must be won three times at intervals to become the permanent property of the winner.

The first winner of the international contest was Mr. Cushman of Pomfret. The horse winning the cup was the great jumper, Sally Clough, the star of the Cushman stables. Sally Clough at the present time seems the most likely prospect to represent the United States at Olympia next year. It is said that if nothing happens to this game horse of Mr. Cushman and his equally game rider, who qualified as an officer, he may be the hopeful that will repeat the great victory of capturing the king's gold cup, as Sally McShane did this year.

Not only did Sally Clough capture this valuable trophy but also the heavyweight hunter championship. The Cushman stables added to its laurels the West Chester challenge plate for to tree best jumpers at the show.

Before he city court with Judge M. H. Geissler presiding, Wilfred Daigle was fined $1 for having the wrong registration on his car, Albert Duyea was fined $1 and Phillip Summers $20 for disturbing the peace. John Levesque was fined $100 by the court for driving while under suspension. Two months ago he was deprived of his license for driving while under the influence of liquor and his license had not yet been returned.

There were about 40 women present at the meeting of Social Corner No. 4 of the Norwich Bulletin, which met at the Salvation Army rooms on Union street. The Rev. W. D. Hetherington of East Killingly, in behalf of the corner, presented a well loaded Christmas tree to the Salvation Army. This was accepted by Ensign Greene. Mrs. Nelson L. Stark presided over the meeting. The program consisted of a social time and singing, with instrumental music by members of the Salvation army. Social Corner, No. 4 takes in the towns of northeastern Connecticut.

On Tuesday evening, December 7, at its regular meeting, the Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows will exemplify the initiatory degree on a local candidate. Wednesday evening the degree team and other members of the local lodge, with the candidate, will go to Webster, where as guests of the Massachusetts brethren they will work the next degree on him as well as candidates from Webster and Southbridge lodges.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of Quinebaug lodge, A. F. and A. M. held at the Masonic temple on Grove street; master, Charles F. Richardson; senior warden, W. E. Moss; junior warden, Allie S. King; treasurer, Lucius P. Merriam; secretary, Allie W. Marcy; senior deacon, Edwin S. Phillips; junior deacon, Thomas Bell; senior steward, James H. McCulloch; junior steward, G. Stanley Shaw; chaplain, D. V. Gilbert; marshal, George F. Miner; organist, Ralph C. Thurston; tyler, Charles M. Richards; trustees, Archibald Macdonald, Sr., George E. Brousseau, George P. Miner. The newly elected officers were installed by Past Master Merriam, with Past Master Miner officiating as grand marshal.

Miss Prudence Paine, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Paine of Thompson, was operated upon for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital and is doing as well as can be expected. Miss Paine is the teacher of civics and English at the Putnam high school and during her absence Miss Harriet H. Brown is substituting for her at the school.

Now that the football season has closed the candidates for the basketball teams of the Putnam high school are now practising daily under the supervision of Submaster Lauriston F. Noyes.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Wright of Stafford Springs, formerly of Putnam, have been the guests during the past week of Dr. and Mrs. William Saretski of Grand View.

Sister St. Antoine of the Grey Nuns of Nicollet, Canada, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rivard of Green street. She was accompanied by Sister St. Soveur of the same order.

Miss Marion Shea, formerly a nurse at the Day Kimball hospital and Miss Benbenick, a graduate nurse of Worcester, have been the recent guests of Mrs. A. W. Macdonald of Oak Hill.

Arthur Martinelli of New London has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Michael Zotto and family of Laurel street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker have returned from their wedding trip and are at home in their newly furnished apartment on Middle street.

Frank Tourtellotte and daughter, Madelaine of Farrow street have returned from a visit with Mrs. Ada Tourtellotte at Hartford. Mrs. Tourtellotte recently moved from Putnam to Hartford.

Miss Julia Rawley of Norwich spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rawley, School street.

Mrs. William Brady to New York city has been the guest of the Misses Brady of Church street.

John Hill Moss of Woodstock avenue was called to Athens, Ga., this week by the death of his mother.

Miss Minnie Nutall of Providence spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Fisher of School street.

WESTERLY

SNOW STORM CAUSED TRAINS TO RUN LATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 5—It would appear that the Christmas season, this year in Westerly, is to be a white one for the December month now has two snow storms to its credit. The first storm of the winter began on Friday night about 8.30 o'clock but did not continue for long. On Saturday the cold weather increased with falling thermometer, so that 6 above zero was recorded on Saturday night and 8 above zero on Sunday morning.

On Sunday morning it began to snow again with increasing severity until by Sunday night the ground was well covered with light dry snow, which the wind drove into drifts. On Saturday morning early and again on Sunday the men of the Westerly highway department began their fight against their white opponent. The snow plow trucks of the Rhode Island department of the state board of public roads were placed in operation on both the Boston Post road and Nooseneck Hill road out of Westerly. The cold weather had its effect on train service for the Sunday morning train with metropolitan papers was an hour late in arriving at the Westerly station. The New England express from Pittsburgh was nearly two hours late and the morning accommodation from New Haven nearly an hour late.

Box No. 27, Highland avenue, near Rathbun drive, was sounded Saturday afternoon about 3.15 o'clock, the alarm being sent from the home of Olcott Mills, 31 Highland avenue. A Ford touring car belonging to Theodore Dionne, a carpenter of 28 Clark street, was found to have caught fire from a short circuit from the battery. Dense clouds of smoke arose and the crowd which gathered moved to a respectful distance when the fire was seen to approach the gasoline tank. By ripping out the short circuit the fire was stopped but not until floor boards had been burned and the top of the battery melted. The trucks of the Rhode Island Ones and the Hook and Ladder company responded but returned to the fire station when Fire Engineer Robert Bonner had the recall sounded. Mr. Dionne was employed in carpentry work in the Mills house, when the fire started in the parked automobile.

PAID FINE FOR LOBSTERS TAKEN IN CLOSED SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 5—Manuel Dias, 34, foundryman, residing at 37 Elm street, Stonington borough, entered a plea of guilty on Saturday noon in a session of third district court in Westerly before Judge Oliver H. Williams, to a complaint charging him with the taking of lobsters in Rhode Island waters, during the closed season. Judge Williams found him guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $20 and costs, which he paid to the amount of $24.80 and was discharged. Judge Williams gave the man credit for appearing in court at the time directed, which proved that the summoning officer had made no mistake in allowing the man his freedom at the time he was apprehended. Deputy Rhode Island Fish Commissioner William T. Luth of Newport, with James Patterson as aid, had found Dias on Friday December 3rd, taking lobsters in the Rhode Island waters, off Watch Hill point. The closed season on lobsters in Rhode Island extends from November 15th, 1926 to April 15th, 1927. When arraigned Dias told the court that he did not know it was against the law but Judge Williams replied that he must have as a fisherman, associated with fishermen who were familiar with the Rhode Island fishing laws and the closed season on shell fish. The accused was told by Judge Williams that the maximum penalty, under the Rhode Island law, was a $20 fine, imprisonment in Providence county jail for a period of 30 days or both. Under the Rhode Island law all lobster gear, Commissioner Luth said must have the owners name of identification and that when gear is found set in the closed season it is seized and later declared forfeited to the state.

Col. Thomas Denny who with his wife and daughter are well known visitors at Watch Hill, where has visited for many years past as a guest at the Ocean House, is president of the New York state Sons of the Revolution. He was elected Saturday.

Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence will come to Westerly this (Monday) morning to complete the November term of the Westerly, sitting of superior court for Washington county. A number of divorce cases are down for hearing as well as some unfinished court business from the town of North Kingstown.

The December meeting of the Westerly town council will be held this (Monday) morning in the council chambers. Matters for discussion to come before the council fathers relate to zoning, in which recommendation comes from the Westerly zoning commission for the changing of residential areas to business districts, both at Watch Hill and at Pleasant View. It is also expected that the council may hear a word from the council committee, which already has had several meetings on the adoption of a Westerly building code. Reports from town officers, committee and the payment of monthly bills and damage claims against the town will come up at the last regular meeting of the year.

MYSTIC

Alonzo Main, 70, died at the hospital in New London, Friday evening. His home was in Ledyard near Lantern Hill. He had been in failing health for several months. Mr. Main was one of 11 children and a twin, born in Ledyard, October 4, 1856, the son of William Leeds and Sarah A. Frink Main. July 30, 1879, he was united in marriage with Ethel Main. Two children were born to them, Mabel J., now Mrs. Swan, and James F. Main. He is survived by his widow, and the two children, also by four grandchildren, Clifford Stinson, Frederick, Mary E. and Alonso P. Main. Mr. Main has resided since 1879 at the foot of Long Pond, on a good farm. For many years he had charge of the silex mine at Lantern Hill and had teams engaged in carting the sand to Mystic. In addition to his work at the mine he was engaged in farming and was very industrious and considered of good business ability. In recent years his land bordering on the pond has been in demand for cottages and camps and during the season it has quite a colony of summer people.

This year Mystic Visiting Nurse Association, Inc., has sent out Christmas seals, instead of the seals coming direct from Hartford. The association has been appointed by the state tuberculosis commission to act as local agent. The net proceeds of the sale will be used here, so it is expected the sale will be even larger than in former years.

Rev. Edward H. Knapp is to give a second talk on his work in Alaska t Mystic academy tonight (Monday) for the Parent Teachers' association.

Rev. Louis J. Shepler, pastor of the Baptist church is to attend the meeting of the Men's Bible class in the First Baptist church, Westerly tonight (Monday) and deliver an address.

Mrs. Walter C. Morgan a member of the Economics committee of Mystic grange was appointed a director-at-large, at the 13th annual meeting of the county farm bureau at Norwich, Friday.

Supt. J. D. Austin and men have been engaged cleaning the gutters and putting the roads in condition for the winter.

Seymour Stoddard has been confined to his home for more than a week by a severe attack of grip.

At the roll call and service in the Old Mystic Baptist church Friday evening Rev. Henry M. Thompson, D. D., of Stonington, delivered the address.

COLUMBIA

The little son born to Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Squiers of Hartford, Chauncey Mason Squiers, Jr., is grandson to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Squiers of Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodward of Farmingdale, L. I., have named their little daughter, Charlotte Louise. Mr Woodward is the son of Madison Woodward of Merrychaught farm, Columbia, and is a teacher at the New York state agricultural institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Nuhfer and infant, formerly of Hartford, are staying for the present with Mr. Nuhfer's mother, Mrs. Edward LaBonte. Mrs. Nuhfer having gone into business in Willimantic.

Mrs. Della Porter, formerly of Hebron, is staying at the home of her brother-in-law, H. W. Porter.

Friends in town were deeply grieved and shocked to learn of the death of Mrs. Florence Hyde in Jersey City, recently. Mrs. Hyde with her husband has spent several summers at the lake, in one of the Hillcrest bungalows, and made many friends by her beautiful character and charming personality.

The bus running through town changed its schedule, starting Dec. 1, on three of its trips. The morning trip from Willimantic will now leave at 9.30 instead of 10 as formerly and the last trip in the afternoon will be 5.15 instead of 5. Going the other way, the bus will pass through Columbia for Willimantic at 11, in the morning, instead of 12.40.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Fred Hunt, Thursday afternoon, 22 being present. A social time was enjoyed, and refreshments were served by the hostess. The society will meet with Mrs. Raymond Clarke, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 16.

At the meeting of Columbia grange Wednesday evening the traveling gavel was presented by members of Killingly grange. It was accepted for Columbia grange by Mrs. Lillian Rice, lecturer and for East Central Pomona by Worthy Secretary Laura Loomis. This gavel is to be kept 20 days and then passed on to Hebron grange. Members were present from Killingly, Manchester, Putnam, Hebron, Brooklyn, and Columbia granges. A programme was put on by Killingly grange as follows:

Piano solo, Helen Kelly; reading, Helen Heath; vocal solo, Yolando Camerio; character duet, Mrs. C. A. Downs and Mrs. Maud Kaech; reading, Frank Bennett.

Refreshments were served by Columbia grange. Columbia grange is the first in East Central Pomona to have this gavel and as there are 20 granges in this Pomona, the gavel will be in this section for nearly two years. It has already traveled through New London and Quinebaug Pomonas.

OXFORD STUDENTS MUST "SIGN" BEFORE BOAT RIDE

CAMBRIDGE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Cambridge, like Oxford, has its regulations for undergraduates, but they are fewer.

There are more proctors to be seen at night in Cambridge than at Oxford. They have the right to demand an introduction to any girl seen walking with a man after dark, and any hesitation in giving the name is sure to cause trouble.

A new rule requires that all undergraduates must sign their name and give name of their college before taking a punt or canoe on the river, whether accompanied by a girl or not.

THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

Today the 69th congress will begin its final session, a session that is subject to restrictions for it must end by the fourth of next March. That means that there should be a disposition to settle down to the enactment of needed legislation right away and continue at it until the necessary business is concluded, rather than launching out into a lot of political bickering that will block progress and pave the way for a special session of the next congress.

It is at this session that the annual appropriations must be made. They always require much time and are frequently subjected to delays because of the scrutiny of the amounts and the purposes. There can be no disposition to criticize a careful consideration of appropriation bills when sincerely done. It is when there is an unwarranted prolongation of such inquiry and the resort to filibustering tactics to prevent action that objection is justified.

There is no session of congress but what has plenty of business before it. The one that opens today is no exception. Appropriation measures always take much time but in addition there is much legislation which will be urged and which can be disposed of if it is tackled in the right spirit and congress settles down to business instead of to play.

At this session as well as the last the republicans will be in control. In this session as well as in the next congress there ought to be displayed the results of the efforts which have been underway to bring about a greater evidence of solidarity among the republican factions. It is in fact needed quite as much now as it will be in the 70th congress for upon the manner in which it works now will depend the date for the meeting of the next congress. The short session is always subjected to the arts and devices of the crafty trouble makers. Whether they can be avoided this time depends upon conditions and the position that is taken by those making up what has been known in the past as the insurgent group of republicans. Constructive legislation rather than obstructive tactics should therefore be the aim at this session.

THE RAILROAD MEN'S INCREASE

While the final touches were being put on the Watson-Parker act which replaced the rail labor act steps were being taken to put it under test. Demands were made for increases in pay of railroad employes and even while there were those who were questioning the efficacy of the new measure it was being pointed out that it could best be judged by the way it worked and judgment would not be long delayed.

In connection with the petition for a 10 per cent. increase on the part of the conductors and trainmen it was impossible for the men to reach an agreement with the 50 eastern roads. This resulted in the matter being referred to the arbitration board under the new act. After a consideration of the matter and the hearing of the arguments the board has reported within five weeks and awarded the men by a vote of four to two an increase of 7 1-2 per cent. The representatives of the men and the public on the board approved the increase and beginning December first the eastern railroad men will received $14,500,000 more annually.

The report shows that the board found the transportation conditions such that they felt justified in awarding an increase, though not as much as was sought. Railroad conditions are better than they were and if it is the tendency of the men which has accounted for it, or part of it, it should operate to bring a further increase now that more money is being obtained.

But what stands out prominently in connection with the award is the fact that it has prevented substantial losses to both the employer and the employe for the arbitration has gone on without interruption of transportation or employment. The facts in the case have been allowed to govern and upon them the decision has been based. This is certainly preferable to a strike. The men have avoided a period of unemployment and possibly trouble, and the roads have not experienced the difficulties that always attend trying to operate their lines with new help and other handicaps which accompany strikes.

The test of the new bill came at a time when conditions were favorable to the men. They do not get what they asked but they probably sought more than they expected. The roads opposed any increase because they have never recovered from their losses, but the general improvement in conditions made some increase inevitable.

PRISON HIS ONLY HOME

In connection with the imposition of penalties for crime, especially capital, it is the common desire that life imprisonment should be the sentence rather than death by any one of the various means provided under such circumstances. A life sentence always keeps open the possibility of a parole or pardon and thus a chance for freedom.

And yet a life sentence under such possibilities doesn't always offer real attractions. The uncertainty of it is tempered by the hope of release and yet there are those who have gone through a life sentence to the time of getting a parole, through a ten year parole and yet find that freedom is less desirable than their old restrictions of prison life, where so many years were spent that they looked upon it as home, sweet home.

This is brought to attention by the plea of M. J. Harris, aged 70, to return to the Michigan state prison. He was sentenced for life for killing a man in a quarrel but for the past ten years has been on parole. It is one of those instances where Harris didn't attempt to return to a life of crime, if the past ten years of freedom can be used as a basis of judgment, but in his freedom he wasn't able to find friends or satisfying companionship. Just how much his prison life had to do with this is not indicated, but to men of such a make-up it seems clear that when there has been a life sentence the freedom that may be hoped for in the uncertain future hasn't the lure that it might seem to have.

Harris had become used to prison life. He was not used to the outside world and the changes that came with his years of imprisonment. Freedom meant little to him when he got it. In the paying of his penalty for murder, and through advancing years, he became accustomed to a different life and there was no satisfaction to be obtained short of resuming it. Those he knew were in prison. He had made friends with them there. That was all the home he knew even after ten years of freedom. It is an unusual story but there is in it an unintentional good word for the treatment he received while a prisoner. He goes back but not many will follow his example. Prison is his only home, but simply because of crime.

WINTER HAZARDS

In two ways, within the last few days, have we been brought to a realization of the hazards that go with winter. They are by no means the only ones, but they call for attention on the part of many persons and upon the manner in which heed is given to them will depend the number of cases.

These concern fires which result from overheated and unattended stoves and the auto accidents which develop through slippery driving.

Cold weather always results in the demand for increased heat. That is to be expected. From now on increased burdens will be placed upon heaters and stoves, but it is of the greatest importance that in responding to this demand for greater comfort that proper care and attention to safety be given. It is a mistake to start rousing fires where the conditions immediately surrounding the heating plant are such as to invite serious trouble. Fires of such a character need careful attention, while structural safeguards are of vital importance in connection with all kinds of heating plants.

Slippery highways invariably mean a long list of automobile accidents. On the icy roads machines do all sorts of antics even when carefully driven if icy conditions have to be contended with. This must be recognized by the person driving a car, and, while the chains are not always a positive protection, they furnish a means of prevention which there should be no hesitancy in employing. Slippery streets are certainly the wrong place for fast driving. Consideration must be given to others even if the driver is willing to waive it for himself.

Accidents, losses and injuries may not be entirely eliminated but with proper consideration for these apparent hazards they can be greatly reduced through the use of good judgment and care.

SHOWING RIGHT ATTITUDE

That far the proposition submitted by Secretary Kellogg, that Chile and Peru agree to sell Tacna and Arica to Bolivia, has met with a favorable response. That is no more than should have been expected for the difficulties encountered in negotiations for a settlement of differences over these provinces since it offers a highly commendable method of settlement.

With Chile agreeing to consider the plan there is a hopeful outlook, since it was Chile that displayed the greatest amount of ill feeling over the other methods of adjustment. Both Chile and Peru may be disappointed in not being able by this arrangement to obtain the territory, yet the ending of the long standing dispute in such a manner that it should be prevented from developing again cannot fail to have its attraction to both. This is particularly true since they are not giving it away but agreeing to sell.

It was inevitable that Bolivia should take kindly to the idea. Naturally it would be desirous of regaining what it formerly possessed in addition to getting an outlet to the sea. It is not a country overflowing with funds but it is an object for which it can be expected to put forth its best efforts and is in a position to command assistance as will be required.

That Chile should be anxious to have the plan surrounded by every safeguard is no more than Peru would expect of her any party to the deal or the arrangement would want. The suggestion which has been given to the Kellogg suggestion offers the most encouragement that has thus far been given for the ending of the Tacna-Arica dispute.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Big, burly, blizzardy December is unmistakably with us.

It takes a cold snap to start an interest in the thermometers.

December weather is going to make the demand for griddle cakes brisker than ever.

We have now entered the season when everybody is quick to defend his thermometer.

Having carried all but 46 of the 513 towns in Maine, Senator-elect Gould wasn't hurt a bit by the attacks made on him.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Lettuce and asparagus can be kept fresh by standing the root ends in a pan of cold water.

An iron shelf bracket secured to the wall of a shallow closet will hold several garment hangers.

Sandpaper is excellent for cleaning pots and pans. Keep a piece over the sink.

After you have carefully washed out your scrubbing brushes turn the bristles down and dry in the sunshine.

For cake mixing always use an earthen bowl and a wooden spoon because a tin disk and iron spoon are likely to discolor.

Never use dishcloths for any purpose except washing dishes. Have other cloths for wiping up spilled food or handling dishes.

An easy way to clean silverware that is not too tarnished is to moisten a soft cloth with water, dip it in whiting, rub off with another cloth and polish with whiting.

Pour a few drops of ammonia into every greasy roasting pan after filling the pan with the hot water. Let stand a while and the cleaning will be half done.

A teaspoon of salt and dessertspoon of lemon juice answer the same purpose as "salts of lemon" for removing iron mold from linen. It is not a poison and will not prove injurious to the linen.

To purify sinks and drains, dissolve one pound of copperas in one gallon of boiling water. The copperas is deadly poison and should be so labeled and kept where children or animals can not get at it.

Flowers which are fading may be restored by immersing them halfway up their stems in very hot water and allowing them to remain in it until it cools. Then cut off the scalded portions of the stems and place the flowers in clear, cold water.

To remove paint stains. First, while washing the article stained with paint, rub the part which is stained. Have turpentine ready and place it quickly on the article as you begin to rub again.

WASHING WOODWORK

When varnished woodwork has become very much soiled, it may be washed with soap and water if the varnish is unbroken, but if this is worn off or if there are deep scratches, water should not be used until the surface has been protected by a coat of oil.

A SAFETY SUGGESTION

When a chimney catches fire salt should be thrown on the fire at once and a wet blanket held across the fireplace. The blanket prevents a draft and for handling dishes, reduced by the salt to rise slowly.

TOO SALTY?

When you have put too much salt in cooking food, stretch a clean cloth tightly over the kettle, sprinkle a tablespoon of flour over the cloth, and let the kettle steam a minute. The flour will absorb the surplus salt.

COOKING POINTERS

Soup stock used instead of water in meat sauces, stews and thick gravies makes them much richer.

Cream cheese, combined with crushed pineapple or orange marmalade is a delicious sandwich filling.

A tablespoon of potato flour sifted in with dry ingredients makes a cake wonderfully light and fine grained.

Whip the white of an egg into your salad dressing if you have no cream on hand. It is a good substitute for cream.

When making small buns or cakes flour the tins well instead of greasing them. This plan is much less expensive and the cakes never stick to the tin.

Melted fat should not be hot when added to cake mixture as hot fat is likely to make cake tough, coarse grained and heavy.

To tell when a cake is done: It shrinks from the pan, it springs back when pressed lightly with the finger, it leaves a clean, non-sticky tester or straw.

If a cake falls in the center when baking it is very possibly due to the fact that the oven door was opened too soon after the cake was put in. In the case of a sponge cake the door should never be opened during the first 20 minutes.

SAVE YOUR BLANKETS

If you will make end covers of muslin or cheesecloth for quilts and blankets you can keep them freshly laundered, with less wear and tear on the bedding than if the whole article must be cleaned so frequently.

WASHING CHINA

When washington fine china and glassware, put only a few pieces in the dishpan at one time, and be sure that there is no violent change of temperature of the water. Wash and rinse in fairly warm, but not hot water.

BRUSH AFTER WEARING

When washing fine china and brush it carefully and remove all dust. Then it is ready for the next washing. A clean hat is far less apt to spot disastrously from rain than a dusty one, as the marks will steam out easily without leaving a stain.

NEW HATS HAVE MORE TRIMMING

Hats are growing more feminine. That is, they are exhibiting more trimming even on the small and plain varieties. On the small felt hats these usually take the form of a bunch of flowers or an aigrette of cock's feathers placed at the right side. Many simple leather hats, especially those of doeskin and kidskin, are trimmed with colors to match the coats with which they are worn. For afternoon wear turbans are decidedly in the mode.

CHANGE THE SHADE

A little permanganate of potash dissolved in water and applied to the soiled gray suede shoes will turn them a nice shade of brown and make them like new.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Embroidered pockets give a touch of gayety to dark frocks, and are often seen on cloth coats.

Monogrammed gloves are a novelty this season, the small monogram appearing on the narrow cuff.

The use of moire ribbon is significant. It is used on lace frocks for evening and on plain crepes for day.

A French evening gown is made of black chiffon trimmed with chantilly lace and embroidered with rhinestones.

An evening wrap of apricot-colored velvet has a widepanel in the back, heavily decorated with embroidery and rhinestones.

Bracelets, necklaces and even earrings made of ebony are shown in Paris—they are a part of the craze for black this season.

Slippers for evening of shaded satin are often further embellished by a line of rhinestones outlining the upper edge.

An advance model for winter resort wear is a coat of white kasha cloth, banded with white rabbit, and lined with red crepe de chine.

Crystal necklaces from which hang pendants in the form of bunches of colored crystal grapes are among the novelties in jewelry.

An unusually lovely suit of pajamas is made of old blue silk and painted with roses in many shades of red and pink.

Very attractive evening wraps are made of a square of velvet or brocade, edged with fur, and worn after the manner of a Spanish shawl.

Jerkins of colored suede are ideal for sports wear. They are particularly smart when there is a knitted turtle-neck collar and close fitting cuffs.

Tunics, which in reality are complete frocks, are made of jersey and feature the new square neckline and fluttering bows of ribbon that are important details of the latest fashions.

The acme of this simplicity is reached in frocks of crepe with a circular skirt set on in points by means of fagoting. Kimona sleeves in one with the upper part of the waist are joined to the lower part by rows of self-toned fagoting in silk.

FEMININE MODE AGAIN FAVORED

A decided reversion of style away from the masculine and toward the feminine in dress has been making its appearance even in sports clothes. At recent horse shows many of the contestants wore wrap-around skirts over their riding breeches when not mounted and some prominent horsewomen are again riding side-saddle. Sports shoes among spectators at these gatherings seem to have disappeared and this has been true also of recent foot ball games.

HANDBAGS OF BABY CALFSKIN

The bag vogues of the moment may take any shape almost and still be in style, provided the colors are appropriate for the costume with which the bag is carried. "Baby milk" skins (new-born calf) are now being used with the hair and natural coloring unchanged for bags worn with hats and coats of like material. Shark skin or shagreen, on the other hand, is dyed a wide variety of colors, although the smartest shade is ivory white.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To make a nice gloss on linen when ironing, cover a piece of beeswax with flannel and rub over the surface of the iron.

In covering an ironing board tack your sheet on wet and dry it gradually. The result will be an absolutely tight and smooth covering.

When making blue-water, try adding a little common salt. This helps to distribute the color evenly and prevents the clothes from looking streaked or mottled.

Better results are obtained by ironing all summer dresses on the wrong side, and they are less apt to fade. Should any article become scorched, bleach it in the sunshine and the stain will generally disappear.

A new brush with stiff bristles is invaluable when washing badly soiled cotton bands, mud-splashed hems or other stains on white clothes. Lay the cloth smoothly on the washboard, wet the brush, rub it across a bar of soap, then scrub the garment with strokes of the brush.

USEFUL CLEANING MATERIALS

Even for housecleaning on a small scale several kinds of cleaning materials are needed to put thing in shape.

Neutral soap, that is, one with no free alkali, and plenty of hot water are the most useful of all dirt causers, or detergents. In this connection it is well to remember that a soap solution makes suds more evenly and softly than soap in cake. It especially pays to use up small pieces of soap in this way. A stronger detergent, such as borax, or sal-soda (washing soda), is generally needed for loosening the dirt that soap and water will not remove. These alkalis, however, are likely to be injurious to colors and fine fabrics and must be applied with caution.

A scourer, or abrasive, is also invaluable in housecleaning. For cleaning tin, silver, nickel and other hard polished metals, fine whiting (plain whiting) or rouge should be provided, while for zinc, iron, steel, and sometimes a harsher material, such as emery cloth or steel wool is more satisfactory.

A blueing agent of some sort is also needed for taking iron rust stains from the white-enameled bath tub, lavatory or from some wood surfaces. Oxalic acid is good for this purpose, but is a poison and should be so labeled, and kept out of reach of children.

A furniture polish for restoring the luster to furniture and wood work is also necessary. A simple kind that gives satisfactory results can be made at home by mixing 1 part raw linseed oil with 2 parts turpentine and adding a little melted beeswax, if desired.

THAT'LL FIX 'EM

Fill holes that are suspicious of rats and mice with putty mixed with mustard and broken glass.

GOOD FOR THEM

The grapevine and roses will do well if you empty your greasy dishwater at the roots of the plants each day.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Mary George, an Indian woman, who lays claim to being 125 years of age, is the oldest woman in California.

Mrs. Charles Murray, president of the Murray Oil company, is America's only independent woman oil operator.

Uncle Sam's only woman chemist is Mrs. Doris Tilden, who tests foods in the bureau of chemistry at San Francisco.

Mrs. Elmer Peterson and Mrs. Elmer Hagen, of Cliquet, Minn., are the only two known log rollers in the world.

Being 86 years of age did not deter Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller, of Plymouth, England, from taking her first airplane trip recently.

Besides being president of the Fairmount bank at Fairmount, Ga., Mrs. Edna Tate finds time to look after her 2,500-acre farm.

Miss Genevieve Chase, a senior at the University of Oregon, recently nominated to the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, broke a century old precedent of the church.

MAKES PAPER STICK

If the walls that have been whitewashed are rubbed down with vinegar, paper will adhere to them.

A QUICK IMPROVEMENT

It only means a few minutes in boiling water to make tomatoes peel readily and they are so much nicer without the skins, in salad or any other dish.

RECIPES

Fruit Tapioca: To two tablespoons tapioca soaked overnight in little water add one-half cup sugar, one pint milk and one egg. Heat milk, add tapioca and boil 20 minutes. Beat yolk of egg, sugar, two teaspoons corn starch and little salt. Stir into milk and boil five minutes. Pour into dish, beat white of egg, two tablespoons sugar, spread over top and set in oven for few minutes. Pare and slice bananas, peaches or oranges, sprinkle with sugar. Wet knife, slip around edge of pudding to loosen and lay over fruit.

Fillings for Stuffed Dates: Stuffed dates make a most desirable confection and many persons find them an admirable substitute for the more cloying candy. The desirable fillings are numerous, as this list shows, the newest being banana fondant made by mashing one-half of a ripe banana with a fork and gradually beating in about one-half pound of confectioner's sugar. Add for flavoring one-quarter teaspoon vanilla, half teaspoon lemon juice and a pinch of salt. This fondant will harden when stuffed in the date.

Other fillings include any soft, mild cheese; walnut or pecan meats, peanut butter, peanuts and almonds, plain or salted; candied cherries or pieces of candied pineapple, strips of candied orange or grapefruit peel, cooked or uncooked fondant, plain or mixed with shredded cocoanut; quartered marshmallows.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

In the session of congress which convenes today the attention of radio fans will be contered largely in Senator Clarence C. Dill, who has announced that he will seek an early break in the legislative block over the radio control bill. Mr. Dill is one of the senators from the state of Washington and the youngest man ever sent by that state to the upper house. Prior to entering the senate he had served two terms in the lower house, being the first democratic congressmen elected in the state of Washington in many years. Senator Dill followed the best American traditions by being born in an Ohio farm, tilling the soil in early manhood, and then teaching school to earn funds for a college course. For a time he worked as a street car conductor and later became a newspaper reporter. In 1908 he went west to Spokane, where he began the practice of law and entered upon a career in politics.

Stories That Recall Others

The Devil's Descr.ption

Little John was at his grandmother's. She had baked one of her excellent devil's food cakes, and the members of the family were praising it, calling it the best devil's food cake she had ever baked. John took it all in.

Later in the evening as his family started to take him home, John asked: "Ma, can I have some of, that d—n cake?"

Now they call it "black" cake before him.

The Real Reason

Bobby, a diminutive chap of five, owns a wiry fox terrier named Spot. Spot is just as peppy as his master, and Bobby barks heavily on his fighting powers. The next door neighbor owns an old tom cat, veteran of many fights. One day Spot, having been on a foraging expedition, started to saunter through this neighbor's yard when he spied the neighbor's cat calmly lapping milk from a saucer. A battle ensued, from which Spot emerged with a badly scratched nose and a greater respect for Tom and for all cats in general. As he sidled up the walk, he saw Bobby on the steps and if a dog ever feels humiliation, Spot certainly did then. Such a woe begone looking object he was as he slunk along!

Bobby with a solemn look on his face reached down when Spot came to him, and patting the dog on the head said in a most superior and patronizing tone, "Spot, you just ain't built right to fight cats."

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

Gossipy Details

Learn to make a distinction between the essential and fundamental characteristics of a great man and such gossipy details as what he had for breakfast and how he wore his hair. "It is the great error of thoughtless biographers," says Ruskin, to attribute to the accident which introduces some new phase of character, all the circumstances of character which gave the accident importance."

When a great man has written the story of his own life the result is a book of double value. Emerson and George Eliot agreed in considering the Confessions of Rousseau the most interesting book they had ever read. Franklin's Autobiography is a model of keen and accurate observation expressed in the clearest and simplest language.

Boswell's Life of Johnson is commonly considered the best biography in the language. Of this and Lockhart's Scott, Phillips Brooks says that they are "worthy to be read and re-read, and read again by all men who want to keep their manhood healthy, broad and brave, and true."

YOUR HEALTH

THE VALUE OF RESEARCH INSTITUTIONS

By A. J. Crowell, M. D., Charlotte, N. Carolina
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

The length of the average life has increased from around 20 in the 16th century to 48 years in the 20th. This is the direct result of the application of preventive measures obtained through a knowledge of the causes of of the preventable diseases.

American citizens, as well as those of other lands, have reaped the benefit of the investigations of scientists who have given the best of their life and thought in an endeavor to ascertain the cause and prevention of disease.

Practically all research institutions have been built, equipped and manned during the past 50 years and more progress has been made in preventive medicine during this period than during any five hundred years previous.

Could any stronger argument be advanced in favor of the establishment of such an institution. Can we expect to go forward or even maintain our present position without them? Can such institutions be built and maintained as they should be without the hearty co-operation of all the beneficiaries? The answer is very evident.

Preventive medicine is the watchword of the hour. Much is yet to be accomplished, not only in attaining a knowledge of the cause of disease, but also in its prevention and cure. The whole people are the beneficialies and they will gladly enter into this work if sufficiently informed of its benefits, both from hygienic and economic standpoints.

It is fitting then, that North and South America, especially, pay due tribute to the great and lamented Gorgas, through whose work these countries have been freed of yellow fever, by establishing an institution at Panama for the study of tropical diseases.

The Panama canal is a blessing to all lands and nations today largely as a result of Gorgas' ability to obliterate yellow fever from the canal zone. It is through research work done in such institutions that great epidemics are prevented and humanity spared great suffering to say nothing of the financial advantages derived therefrom.

CHILD TRAINING

HER POINT OF CONTACT

Margaret Conn Rheads

I questioned a little old lady, who had just listened with pride to her son addressing a graduating class, as to how she had made it possible for that son to be the head of such a large institution.

At first she looked amused, and said, "If I made it possible?" Then her face sobered and she said, "Do you know I believe I did make it possible, and I'll tell you why I believe so."

"When Henry was just a wee tad toddling around, I began to study how I could make him a good man and a great one. I had no more knowledge of child training than any other young mother but I always held to the idea that everyone wanted to be good, not bad.

"'I shall always keep a point of contact between my boy and me,' I promised myself. 'I will study his inclinations rather than my secret ambitions for him and through encouragement of the thing, that Baby likes I shall hold him always.'

"Well, he began at a very early age to show a liking for books. He wanted me to 'read' to him at all hours of the day.

"'Read 'tory, read 'tory,' was his continual plea.

"So I read stories, loads of them. Read them when the furniture was covered with dust, sometimes, read them when I was very anxious to do something else. I read things that would uplift him, give him valuable information, teach him a lesson or further his interest in some favorite study. But sometimes I read selections that were pure fun and O, carefully I chose those for I wanted him so thoroughly to appreciate wholesome merriment that he would never be attracted by its counterfeit.

"I realized that through our reading together a bond would be made that nothing could ever really break. He insists now that by my careful selection of his early reading he gained the desire to acquire worth while knowledge. I never allowed him to get hold of poorly worded books or books with questionable value to them and this entailed upon me the job of studying children's books in a very thorough manner. Even Henry's relatives know that if they presented him with books, they would need to be worth while books.

"When Henry was still a young child he had, through a very useful fund of knowledge that gave him a wonderful start in his future career. It was a most common thing in our home to have table discussions about a rabbit book, an adventure into a foreign land, or a mystery story.

"In the first grades at school, Henry again met many of his old favorites and it seemed to the child just like meeting old friends. As a result of the previous reading, he had assurance as well as a fund of knowledge. He could hardly contain himself when one day he was in the first grade the teacher began to read them. How Would You Like to Go Up in a Swing? He was astonished that she should read it. He could repeat every word.

"I know a mother who has kept her boy safe by fostering his love for flowers. When he came in as a baby with a 'pitty fower' to put in water she got out her pretty vase and made much of the occasion. She let him cut out pictures of 'pitty fowers' and hung them on the wall in his own room. She bought packages of seed and together they planted them, and so today that boy knows flowers, enjoys them and is the better for his love of them.

"Perhaps the point of contact you could keep with your boy would be through hammers, nails and wheels; or it might be through the study of birds or by playing store. Any seemingly small preference of his might prove a safe interest and very likely remain a valuable link throughout his whole life.

"The safest guide to follow in the training of a boy is to fill as many of his moments as possible with the things for which he has the inclination. By so doing you will crowd out all time for idleness and mischief. Had I not fostered the liking for reading in my son, had I been careless in the selection of his baby books, do you believe I would have kept my point of contact with him so well?"

A close friend is all right—until he declines to lend you money.

OBITUARY

Miss Lillian Winifred Matthews

Following an illness of three months, Miss Lillian Winifred Matthews died at her home, No. 9 Fountain street, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Miss Matthews was born in Norwich July 10, 1910 and was the daughter of Edward and Ellen Kelly Matthews. She was a graduate of St. Patrick's school and an attendant at St. Prick's church.

Surviving are her parents, four brothers, Charles, William, Albert and Henry Matthews of this city and two sisters Alice Matthews, at home and Mrs. Allen Blondeau of Waterbury. Miss Matthews was popular with her many friends, possessed a bright, sunny disposition and her death is mourned by all who knew her.

Mrs. Ellen McCrohan

At 9:20 o'clock Saturday morning the funeral of Mrs. Ellen McCrohan was held from her home, No. 98 North Main street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 10 o'clock there was a solemn high mass at St. Mary's Memorial church, with Rev. William A. Keefe celebrant, Rev. John Reilly deacon, Rev. Frederick Coholan, sub-deacon and Rev. Frederick R. H. DesSureault of Occum master of ceremonies.

Sureault in the sanctuary were Rev. J. Fitzgerald and Rev. Edward Morrisey of Naugatuck, Rev. William Fanning of Union City and Rev. Edward Cotter of Torrington. Mrs. M. J. Farrell had charge of the musical part of the service and at the offertory Horace Corning sang De Profundis. At the recessional Mrs. Farrell played Chopin's funeral march. The burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, the committal service being conducted by Rev. Edward A. Cotter of Torrington, assisted by Rev. William A. Keefe.

The bearers were Dennis Bowen, Cornelius Leary, Frank Cote, Joseph Desmond, John F. McCarthy, all of Norwich and John J. McCarthy of Meriden. The large attendance included mourners from Meriden, Putnam, Central Village, Willimantic, Fitchville and Norwich. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Lillian A. Lee

Miss Lillian A. Lee, 70, retired instructor in art in the public schools of New Rochelle, N. Y., and great granddaughter of Thomas Lee, colonial settler who founded the Lee Homestead near Bride brook, East Lyme.

Miss Lee was born in the section of East Lyme known as Little Boston, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lee. Her father was a grandson of Thomas Lee of early Connecticut colonial days. Miss Lee was educated in the public schools of East Lyme and later continued her studies in the field of art in several preparatory schools and universities of the east. She was director of art instruction in the public schools of New Rochelle for more than a quarter of a century and retired a number of years ago to her home in Niantic.

Miss Lee is survived by a sister Mrs. Byron Clark, of Niantic and Murray, Ky., and a niece, Miss Lillian Lee Clark, who is an art instructor in the Murray Normal school

Mrs. Augusta Northdurft

Mrs. Augusta Northdurft, wife of Charles Northdurft of Mohegan, 68, died Sunday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler, 86 School street. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs Elizabeth Fowler of Norwich, Mrs. Stephen Smith of Bigganum and two sons, August Northdurft of Montville and Theodore Northdurft of Mohegan. There are also six grandchildren, Beatrice, Doris, and Courtland Fowler, Carrie and Charles Burdick and Roland Northdurft.

Mrs. Thomas F. Callahan

Following a short illness, Julia, wife of Thomas F. Callahan, passed peacefully away at 10 o'clock Sunday evening at her home at 125 McKinley avenue. Mrs. Callahan was born in Carbonereen, Ireland, but the greater part of her life was spent in Norwich. In St. Patrick's church in this city she was united in marriage with Thomas F. Callahan by Rev. Peter Shahan. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Miss Mary Callahan and a son, Dr. John W. Callahan of this city.

Sparks Made Fire Call

At 8:11 o'clock Saturday night the fire department responded to a telephone call for a supposed chimney fire at No. 723 Boswell avenue, the house occupied by Antone Dempsky. Occupants of the house had started a fire in the heater and sparks flying from the chimney gave the impression that the chimney was on fire.

"Cascarets" for Costive Bowels, Headache, Colds

Tonight! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out — the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and bad colds — turn them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels, or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

FUNERALS

Miss Irene Wasniewski

The funeral of Miss Irene Wasniewski was held from her home in Colchester Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock and at 10:15 o'clock there was a requiem mass in St. Andrew's church, Colchester. Rev. Philip L. Mooney, celebrant. Francis Shea presided at the organ and played Pie Jesu as the waiting hymn and at the recessional, Lead, Kindly Light, was rendered. The burial took place in Colchester cemetery, the bearers being Michael Urbanik, Milton Myhowitz, David Shedroff, Nathan Levine, Walter Dominick, and Jacob Naumawitz.

Relatives and friends were present from New York, New Jersey, Norwich and Colchester and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Miss Wasniewski, a student at Bacon Academy, was killed by an automobile while on her way home from school. She, with her sister, Fannie, and a friend, was walking along the highway in Colchester, near her home, when she was hit by the machine. Her sister was badly injured.

Mrs. Amos Kerouack

At 8:30 o'clock Saturay morning the funeral of Mrs. Amos Kerouack was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. John P. Casey, No. 31 Ninth street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 10 o'clock there was a requiem mass at Sacred Heart church, Wauregan, Rev. J. C. Mathieu, celebrant. Rev. U. O. Bellerose of Taftville was seated in the sanctuary. At the offertory Pie Jesu was sung and the waiting hymn was An Cell Au Revoir.

Burial took place in the Sacred Heart cemetery, Wauregan, and a committal service was conducted by Rev. Fr Mathieu and Rev Fr. Bellerose. The bearers were Lucius, Antonio, Edward and Arthur Kerouack, Joseph Fournier of Wauregan, and Joseph Kerouack of Norwich Mourners were present from New London and there was a wealth of very beautiful floral forms. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Orrin M. Price

With a large attendance of relatives and friends present, including officers of the Connecticut state department of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Mrs. Mary Yale of Bridgeport, department president of the Daughters of Veterans, the funeral of Orrin M. Price, commander of Sedgwick post, No. 4, G. A. R., at the time of his death, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Buckingham Memorial. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, conducted the service and, by request, recited Tennyson's Crossing the Bar. Mrs. Henry E. Church sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere.

Interment of the funeral service conducted by Rev. Mr. Ricketts, State Commander W. C. Young of the Connecticut department, Grand Army of the Republic, of Waterbury, and State Adjutant E. T. Abbott of Bridgeport, assisted by members of Sedgwick post, conducted their ritual service.

The casket was draped with the American flag, and the bearers were Arthur L. Peale, John H. Peckham, Herbert B. Cary and George E. Zimmerman. The burial took place in Yantic cemetery. The Knights Templar burial service was conducted by Eminent Commander Paul H. Zahn and Charles L. Stewart, as prelate, assisted by members of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T. At the cemetery William H. Baldwin, Arad R. Manning, John Ferguson, Avery Gallup, Richard Gregson and John A. Scott, members of Columbian Commandery, and in full regalia, were the bearers. There was a wealth of very beautiful floral forms, testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Price was held by his many friends. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

FIRE IN BASEMENT OF SHANNON BUILDING

A fire in the basement of the Shannon building, Main street and Shetucket street, gave the firemen a few minutes' hard work about 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening. A substitute fireman, working for the regular fireman at the building, went to the furnace room to look after his fire and when he went into the room he smelled smoke. Investigating he found that the smoke was leaking through a partition wall, where the smoke pipe from the heater passes through. A telephone call brought the fire department.

In the basement is a partition wall which partly bricks in the heater. On the other side of the wall is a small room used by the Boston store for storing discarded electrical apparatus, old doors, etc. Some of the old doors had been leaning against the wall for some time and had become so dry from the heated wall that they broke into flames. The doors were pretty well burned up when the firemen arrived on the scene. A line of inch and a half hose was run into the basement and the flames squelched. The Boston store basement was pretty well filled with smoke but early discovery of the fire prevented much of the smoke from getting into the store above. The damage was small.

The line of hose was stretched across Shetucket street from the hydrant across the street from the Shannon building and police officers were stationed to divert automobile traffic so that machines would not run over the hose.

P. E. R. M'SWEENEY IS SPEAKER FOR ELKS ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Broadway theatre Norwich lodge of Elks observed the annual memorial service of the order, paying tribute to the 150 Absent Brothers. Tablets arranged on the stage, in the Elks' colors of purple and white, bore the names of nine who have died in the past year: Patrick J. Casey Albert Harris, Patrick J. Sullivan, William W. Beckwith, P. E. R., George E. Hall, Martin M. Dunham, Frank J. Murtha, James O'Connell and John J. Hickey.

A musical programme which is always an impressive part of the services was finely carried out by Swahn's orchestra and the Colonial male quartette, the orchestra opening the exercises with three numbers, March, Religioso (Chambers); overture (selected) and selection, A Floral Poem (Levy).

This was followed by a concert programme that included: Selection, Told at Twilight (Huerter); reverie, On Wings of Love (Bendix); idyl, Affection (Himan); andandante, Dawn of Hope (Casella).

FELIX P. CALLAHAN

The Elks' ritual was conducted by officers of the lodge and the invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Robert E. Day, rector of Grace Episcopal church.

The officers of the lodge are the following:

Felix P. Callihan, exalted ruler; James M. Osten, esteemed leading knight; Nicholas Doyle, esteemed loyal knight; William W. Carrigan, esteemed lecturing knight; William R. Balcom, secretary; Laurence E. Miller, treasurer; Henry Bamber, esquire; Fred Ruthinson, tyler; James Egan, chaplain; Frank Donnelly, inner guard; Hugh Kinder, organist; Nelson J. Ayling, James W. Semple, James P. Hayes, trustees.

Memorial Address

The memorial address was delivered by Hon. William McSweeney, past district deputy of the state of Massachusetts and a past exalted ruler of Salem lodge, who spoke as follows:

Exalted ruler, brother Elks, invited guests: Another year has been added to the ages agone since last we met to exalt the memory and extol the virtues of those brothers who have passed to the Great Beyond and found immortality in death.

Today, in over 1,500 other cities in this land, and amid the dreamy, sensuous life of Eden-like Isles of Kamehameha, and beyond, under the oriental skies of the far-off Philippines, lodges of Elks are paying loving tribute to our brothers forever at rest. Today, the bright genius of Elkdom, clad in habiliments of sorrow, stand, like Niobe, all tears, voiceless in her woe, over the loss of her children. From the tragic day that our parent pair bent in bitter anguish over the lifeless form of their loved second born, and realizing then and there for the first time that death by transgression was abroad in the infant world, there has been in all subsequent ages, and among all races of men, an instinctive reverence for the dead; and this hallowed custom of our noble order of fixing an annual day for rendering loving tributes to the memory of our loved ones who have gone from us, meets with the approval of our better consciences, and inspires better resolves in the hearts of those of us who remain.

Every instinct of our nature persistently protests against the thought of passing from the memory of our fellow mortals and being confined to dumb forgetfulness; hence the monumental shaft, the storied urn, the stately mausoleum. While these in some degree with cold formality perpetuate the memories of those of whom we have been bereft, how much sweeter the thought of being embalmed in the tears of affection, and having our abode in that incomparable sanctuary, the living heart of a loving friendship.

It is in harmony with this sentiment that we are here to-day especial thought to our beloved ones who have gone to their eternal reward, and let the mind, reverent in mood, wander back to the recent or remote past, and with the ear and eye of memory, hear the tender voices, and see, once again, the loved forms—dear to us in life and dearer still in death—recall the happy hours spent with them, their loyalty to friendship, their noble impulses, their smiles, their deeds of good, and realize as a truth that when a good man dies, for years beyond our ken the light he leaves behind him rests upon the paths of men.

They are dead, and yet they live, over the bridge which spans the abyss between time and eternity, and which rests upon the magic chain of memory, they come back to us, not in grave cloths, or mantles marred with blemish. Purged of imperfections, they return to us in all the grandeur of perfected manhood All that was noble, all that was beautiful and all that was inspiring in their lives, comes with them to exert an uplifting influence and point us to higher ideals of life and living.

"They have gone to wait our coming; we do not believe them dead, and the answer to all our summing is, "They're just gone on ahead."

They, "fought a good fight; they kept the faith; they ran the course," and my unalterable conviction is that when the sun of this existence set for them forever, their eyes were gladdened by "the golden dawning of the grander day." We are told to be meek; to carry our cross without murmur, without complaint, when the loved ones leave us. But, oh, how the heart cries out, for in all our language, the most tearing, rending words are: "Earth to earth—ashes to ashes—dust to dust," but "The praises of those, who sleep in earth, the pleasant memory of their worth, the hope to meet when life is past, shall heal the tortured mind at last."

Believing that our beloved ones are safe with Him who does all things well, I am moved to ask: "How fares it with you, my brothers, living?"

A brilliant philosophic writer has truly said: "Not lips touched with the fire of genius can so solemnize us to a sense of duty—so plead for the right—so admonish us of the vanity of human existence, as the dumb cold lips of the dead."

Therefore, aside from the poetic sentimental beauty of this memorial custom of ours, there should of necessity arise from its observance a practical benefit to those of us who still remain, for in an hour like this, when the heart is stirred by sympathetic emotions, and tender thoughts occupy our minds; when elevating, ennobling sentiments are spoken, and beautiful semi-sacred music transports our very souls to purer heights, and we are brought to a startling realization of the instability of life, we become introspective in thought, and under such hallowed influences search our hearts and consciences to satisfy ourselves whether or not we have been true to our fraternal obligation.

Weak, frail creatures that we are, such an examination will reveal to all of us that we have been in some degree remiss, and there should follow a firm resolve to be better, truer Elks, and consequently better, truer fathers, husbands, sons and brothers.

I deem it pertinent at this time to briefly refer to our order—its history, its aims, its principles and teachings. The first lodge of Elks was organized 43 years ago in the city of New York, with a charter membership of 15 gentlemen of the theatrical, minstrel, musical, equestrian and literary professions, drawn together for social intercourse. There are now nearly 1,600 lodges in the order, with a total membership of nearly a million. The order is purely an American institution. No person not an American citizen can become a member of it, and no lodge of Elks can be legally organized without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States of America; the American flag enwraps its altars—is the idolised symbol of its national allegiance, American manhood and principles, the source of its origin and hope for the future.

It is based upon the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you." Its four cardinal principles are, charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity. Charity with the Elks, is restricted by neither country, creed, doctrine nor belief, and their one great secret is the charity they dispense, thus relieving the recipient of their bounty of embarrassment and humiliation. With them for the administration of justice, "Every place is a temple, and all seasons summer." The brotherly love that for it meant is not a mere verbal expression of regard for one another, but contemplates acts and words of kindness; forbearance from captious criticism; a spirit of patience and toleration for the weaknesses and frailties of our brothers; advice, when needed, given in a kind, fraternal manner; an alert and watchful interest in the general welfare of each other; a gentle but firm rebuke in case of wrong-doing, accompanied by a forgiving spirit; the possession of a heart and mind such as to invite application for aid and sympathy in time of sorrow or misfortune, and unselfish rejoicing at the success and prosperity of each.

The great broad, practical humanity that particularly characterizes this order is crystallized in its beautiful motto: "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands.

Their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." There is no more comprehensively pure, and thoroughly unselfish obligation possible than that solemnly taken at the lodge altar by every Elk. Our flower, the forget-me-not, typifies our devotion to those principles.

There is nothing more beautiful and touching in the whole realm of fraternal sentiment than our 11 o'clock toast. At that hour, when two or more Elks are together, the toast is always: "To our absent brothers," not only to those who have gone to bask in the light of eternal day, but also to those who are still on earth bravely discharging the tasks set by the Master.

The ritual of our order is couched in plain, yet chaste and beautiful language, and appeals irresistibly to the better emotions of the human heart.

The philosophy of the Elks teaches that pleasure and propriety, merriment and morals, recreation and business, should go tripping hand in hand; that serious concerns should not so engross our lives as to banish that social relaxation and good fellowship which makes life worth living, and that the standard by which man should be judged ought to be what he is, and not what he possesses. The almost phenomenal growth of the order during its comparatively short existence, and the splendid personnel of its membership, is conclusive evidence of its inherent merit, and most eloquently proclaims to all the desirability of being numbered among its members. It is a matchless propaganda for the diffusion of manly, exalted ideas, and its history is star-gemmed with noble, generous deeds. Its glorious past is secure, "safe 'gainst the erasure and tooth of time," and born of that unfaltering faith that I have in it, is the prophesy that its future will brighten and endure as long as nobility of purpose, and the desire to make the world better and brighter, finds lodgment in the hearts of men.

In concluding, my brothers, I beseech you here in this splendid presence and in this sacred hour, that in the future you will more zealously practice charity, more rigidly adhere to the dictates of justice, more persistently cultivate brotherly love, and never fail in fidelity to the great principles of our grand order.

Believing, as all must, in order to become Elks, in the existence of a Supreme Being, and His eternal justice, I feel that "When the stars are old and the sun grows cold,

And the leaves of the judgment book unfold," we shall see in the paradise of God the glory of the redemption of every faithful brother; that all such will stand absolved before the Grand Exalted Ruler of the universe, not simply because we were Elks, but because through Elkdom we learned to do unto others as they should do unto us; because we ministered unto him; that when the book of time is closed and the Divine Accountant shall have cast up the score of all earthly instrumentalities of good, and allotted to each its entitled place upon the great roster of eternal fame—high, high upon that flaming scroll the recording angel will write in letters of living light: "The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks."

Memorial Committee

The memorial committee in charge of the services consisted of James M. Osten, Morgan J. Cronin, John H. Carney, Louis L. Gotthelf, John P. Corcoran

ST. JAMES GUILD SALE AND CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

A very successful Christmas sale, supper and entertainment was given at the Poquetanuck parish house Friday evening under the auspices of the Woman's guild of St. James church, with an attendance of about 300. A chicken pie supper was served from 5 to 8 o'clock, the tables being well patronized and adding materially to the evening's receipts. The committee in charge of the supper was Mrs. Charles Weeks, Mrs. George Murphy, Mrs. Alanson Fuller, and the Misses Fannie and Flora Peck assisted by the following waitresses: Miss Gladys Hart, Miss Flora Peltier, Mrs. Charles Belding, Mrs. Mary Harris, Mrs. Henry Sauery, Mrs. Henry Hart, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and Mrs. Appleton Maine. The cashier was Mrs. Charles Harkness. The fancy table was filled with many beautiful and useful articles which met with a ready sale, and was in charge of Mrs. Fred Nicolai, Mrs. William Mitchell and Mrs. George Bogue. Home made candies were sold by Mrs. Charles E. Geer, cream by Mrs. Jennie Williams, and Miss Josephine Nicolai, the mystery table was in charge of Mrs. George etting and Mrs. Peltier.

The evenings entertainment consisted of the following program under the direction of Mrs. Alanson Fuller, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and Mrs. Charles Harkness and the teachers of the Poquetanuck school. The first number on the program was a pageant, Christmas Eve in the Land of Nod, by the grammar room under the direction of the principal, Mrs. John Taylor. The next number was by the junior room under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. Mary Corcoran consisting of the following numbers announced by Claire Weeks; song, Little Star, by the entire school; A Greeting, by Alfred Hill; A Forecast by Wanda Gromico; Christmas by nine children; song, Santa Claus Lives in the Northland, by the school; A Secret, by Alma Muench; Happy Christmas, by seven children; Ting a Ling, by the fourth grade; Christmas Star, by Elsie Grayman; Daisy and Santa Claus drill and a song, Away in the Manger, by the school. The next number on the program consisted of a colored sketch, Christmas Eve in the South, presented by the following cast of characters: Aunt Diana, mother of a family of mischievous boys, Mrs. Arthur Smith; Mandy, Mrs. Alanson Fuller; Uncle Ezrah, J. Guy Ayer; Santa Claus; Jared Gallup; Jim, the bad boy of the family, Clarence Spicer; Chick, Irving Kelly; Peter, Robert McGuire; Zeke, Julian Marcinick.

The entertainment was especially well received, all numbers on the program winning well merited applause. The school children showed careful training by the teachers and the old fashioned Negro melodies sung in the colored sketch received many encores. The accompanist was Mrs. Fred Miller. Gallup's orchestra furnished excellent music for the dance which followed the play.

FINDS SAILOR DRIVING STOLEN BRIDGEPORT CAR

An automobile, stolen in Bridgeport October 17, from John Bemacly, No. 2318 East Main street, Bridgeport, was recovered in this city Saturday morning by Officer Michael H. Carroll, and a sailor driving it, is held under $1,000 bonds by the police. Officer Carroll stopped the machine at the Shannon building corner when he noticed that it had only one registration number plate. The officer noticed a dent in the body and becoming suspicious that it might have been involved in some accident, asked the sailor at the wheel for his driver's license and registration certificate.

The driver, who it was later learned is Albert H. Lane of Yantic street, produced a Maine driver's license bearing the name of William A. Bartels and claimed he was Bartels. He failed to produce a registration so he was escorted to police headquarters. At police headquarters, a person who happened to be in the station, identified him as Albert H. Lane of Yantic street. He then admitted his identity and said his station in the navy was the U. S. S. Camden of the Navy Yard. He claimed a sailor on the S-19 loaned him the machine to come to Norwich.

Further questioning revealed the fact that still another sailor, now at Portsmouth, N. H., on the U. S. S. Camden, had left the machine in charge of the sailors at the base when the Camden sailed in October. Investigation revealed the fact that the machine was stolen in Bridgeport in October.

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED FOR HOLIDAY FUND COMMITTEE

The holiday fund committee, through which contributions are made for the holiday work at Uncas-on-Thames, is organized with Miss Mary E. Richards as chairman and treasurer, with whom are associated Mrs. James Lewis Smith and Miss Mazie V. Caruthers as secretary. The personnel of the committee in general is as follows:

Ricketson who will supervise the work in Taftville, Miss Lillian Stetson, representing the Norwich teachers, Miss Katherine Kent, Norwich Town, Miss Audrey Gernon, Miss Mary Sheriden, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Mrs. George L. Ingalls, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, Roy C. Judd, Clarence E. Carpenter, LaRue and Alfred G. Bliven (who are donating the boxes for contributions), Felix P. Callahan (in general charge of placing the boxes), William R. Clark; Mrs. Charles J. Twist, Mrs. Henry W. Lans and Joseph A. Donnelly will have charge of the Greeneville district as a committee of three; Milo R. Waters, (who contributed the cards and printing), Mrs. John E. Hawkins, Mrs. Shepard B. Palmer, Mrs. Harrison Gray, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham (in charge of Gales Ferry), Miss Dorothy Paul of Jewett City, Mrs. Mary Riley, Mrs. C. D. Joslyn, Mrs. Charles D. Carpenter and Miss Ina M. Ufford.

CLIFF STREET HILL WAS HARD ON AUTOMOBILES

Automobiles slipped and slithered around in the streets Sunday morning after the snow began to fall as there was a frozen icy surface underneath and drivers who ventured out without chains ran into trouble when they attempted to navigate some of the hillside streets of the city.

Cliff street hill, which is one of the worst highways to negotiate in slippery weather, claimed a score of victims during the day, one of them managing to bring up against the only tree on the hill and others sliding into the gutters or twisting around at the corner of Elm street as the cars came down the hill. Residents along the street lent a helping hand to push the cars out of the gutters and get them on their way again.

STRUCK YOUNG WOMAN WALKING IN STREET

In the snow storm of Sunday evening, Miss Helena Pryzgoda of 15 Durfey street was struck at the corner of North Main and Third streets, by an automobile owned and driven by Burdette Peter Flynn of 318 Laurel Hill avenue, suffering a bruised shoulder for which she was attended at her home by Dr. George H. Gildersleeve.

Mr. Flynn reported that Miss Pryzgoda was one of four young women who were walking on North Main street in the same direction as he was driving. He did not see them, he said until he was close up to them and he pulled out to avoid hitting them but the right fender of the machine struck her and knocked her down.

ACADEMY BASKETBALL TEAM WINS CLOSE GAME FROM Y. M. H. A. FIVE

The Academy quintet scored their first victory of their first season in basketball Saturday evening at the Y gym when they nosed out the Y. M. H. A. five of this city in a nip and tuck battle. The final score was 33 to 31.

Out-weighed by their more experienced opponents, the local schoolboys fought an uphill battle from the start, trailing most of the way by a few points. A sudden spurt in the last five minutes of the game gave them a well-earned victory.

The play in the first quarter was slightly in favor of the Y. M. H. A., who led at the conclusion of this period, 8 to 6.

The gap between the teams was widened in the second quarter and at the half the score read, Y. M. H. A. 13, N. F. A., 12.

The third period was much the same and, as it was finished the tally sheet showed Y. M. H. A.-25, N. F. A.-18.

However, in the last quarter the Academy gradually put on steam and started to come closer to their rivals. Field goals by Jackson and Fenton made it 32 right at the opening of the period and there the count remained until about the last 2 minutes when Jackson rang up another field goal and made it 34. However, the Y. M. H. A. were not to give up without a fight and with 2 goals by Segal in succession the score climbed to 29. Jackson again came through this time with 2 field goals and a foul, tieing the count at 33-all. A field goal by Segal, which was their last momentarily put the Y ahead with but about one minute to play. However, the Academyites fighting hard were equal to the occasion and Yerrington and Jackson counted on field goals completing the scoring for the evening. The winning basket was made with but about 20 seconds to play.

"Ducky" Jackson of the Academy was easily the star of the game with his 8 field goals and 5 fouls for a total of 21 points. His floor-work and accurate shooting were a major part in the Academy victory. Capt. Yerrington ably assisted Jackson with his 3 goals and 4 fouls for 10 points.

Ellie Segal, himself an ex-Academy athlete, was the shining light for the losers. He was responsible for 17 points on 7 goals and 3 fouls while his all-round play was very good.

In the first game on the evening's program the Nordics five from Taftville barely pulled through a winner over the C. F. C. team in another tight contest. After trailing for three quarters and part of the fourth the Nordics drew up on even terms with the C. F. C. in the final few minutes and a goal by Smith proved the winning margin. This was the Nordics first victory and C. F. C.'s first loss of the current season.

Pingree and Gauthier for the winners and Lambert and Brown for the losers did the best work.

The Academy's next scheduled game is with Suffield Prep five here next Saturday evening and incidentally this will open the N. F. A. scholastic basketball schedule.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING TO BE MAJOR SPORT AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 5—(AP)—Reinstatement of cross-country as a part of track, to the status of a major sport, has been announced by the Yale athletic authorities. The major "Y" will be awarded to cross-country runners placing not lower than third in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton meet, or in first or second place in either the Harvard-Yale or the Princeton-Yale dual meets in case the Princeton-Harvard breaks prevents holding the triangular meet. Men placing among the first ten in the intercollegiates or among the first five in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meets will also get the major award.

SANITARY FIVE WINS OPENING GAME FROM BATTERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 5—Despite the thermometer hovering near the zero mark many faithful basketball fans gathered in the state armory on Dixon street on Saturday night to witness the first basketball game of the season when the Westerly Sanitary Corps defeated the basketball team of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C., by the close score of 29 to 26.

Players on both Sanitary and Battery teams were classified men, but the aggressiveness of the stretched rustlers enabled them to clean up the defense of the Battery boys which showed a marked tightening over their games of last season. Under the coaching of Lieut. Andrews the gun boys especial attention has been given this essential feature of the game. The clean-up men of the Sanitary team proved to be Right Forward Henderson and Left Forward Stanford with nine and ten points respectively to their credit; while the Battery men had Killam, center, with seven points and trailing Left Forward Blanchard and Right Forward Lamb with four points each. The game was started with last year's battery team lineup but the Sanitary team started the game with Battery player Barber at left guard until Mullaney followed a few minutes after and finished the game.

NO IMPORTANT BUSINESS AT AM. ASSOCIATION MEETING

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 5—(AP)—Members of the American association held their annual meeting today prior to the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues which will convene its 35th annual session here Tuesday.

The American association went into executive session early in the day. President T. J. Hickey said tonight that no business of any importance or of public interest had been transacted.

The board of arbitration also went into executive session early in the day. President T. J. Hickey said tonight that no business of any importance or of public interest had been transacted.

The board of arbitration also went into executive session and ran through a great mass of routine business to be cleared up before the sessions of the National association begin.

Announcement that Michael Sexton, for many years president of the association and under whose guiding hand it has grown to be a major factor in the control of minor league baseball, would be present to preside at the opening meeting was received with pleasure.

Club managers spent a large part of the day arranging for spring exhibition games for the 1927 season. A number of tentative dates were fixed but none was made public.

The actual work of the meeting began yesterday with the calling of the western league together. Starting off with a fight over the proposed withdrawal of Tulsa and Oklahoma City, the session closed with these clubs apparently satisfied for another year and with all members voting unanimously to allow the St. Joseph's club to be moved to Amarillo, Texas.

PLAINFIELD LOSES TO FAST BRISTOL ENDERS

BRISTOL, Dec. 5—The Bristol Endees put a crimp in the winning streak of the Plainfield five here Saturday night, winning by the score of 29 to 16 without being pressed at any stage of the game. The combination of Jimmy Malcolm and "Kinki" Feldman was working smoothly, that pair registering twenty points.

Next Wednesday the two teams play in Plainfield. Summary:

GEORGETOWN NOT TO PLAY ON COAST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The athletic committee of Georgetown university has decided not to accept the invitation extended by St. Mary's college of Oakland, Calif., for an intersectional game in San Francisco, December 26. The date would require the team their classrooms several days before the start of the Christmas vacation, the committee held, and it was felt that the team should now settle down to class room work.

The football schedule ratified by the committee last evening includes a game on November 12, with Boston college at Boston.

COLUMBIA HAS 10 MEETS ON SWIMMING SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Ten meetings with eastern league college teams are included in Columbia university's swimming schedule, announced tonight. The schedule follows:

PERSSON-M'CARTHY BOUT NOW SLATED FOR DEC. 13.

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Dec. 5—The Harry Persson-Pat McCarthy bout, originally set for early in November at the Hartford state armory and then postponed because of injury to Persson, now is definitely on the books for Monday evening, Dec. 13.

The efforts of New York interests to get Mulligan to allow Persson to box there before going through with his Hartford engagement fell on deaf ears, and yesterday Ben Benson, Persson's manager, agreed to have Persson fight McCarthy here on the 13th.

This bout, when closed several weeks ago stirred great interest and there was a big sale of tickets.

In fact, the sale of tickets has gone right on through the long postponement, and the indication is a big crowd at the armory a week from Monday night.

Persson's hand has healed and he is fit to resume active work in the ring.

The big Swedish champion is due for a busy season in the ring this winter.

WHEAT AND GRIMES TO GO ON AUCTION BLOCK

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Two Brooklyn veterans, Outfielder Zack Wheat and Pitcher Burleigh Grimes, will be on the market at the annual meeting of National League club-owners here Dec. 14 and 15, according to word from Manager Wilbert Robinson which reached the metropolis today.

St. Louis and Cincinnati both would like to get Grimes, baseball men asserted, while Wheat seemly likely to go to an American league club as a pinch-hitter.

MILLER PROTESTS DECISION, BUT WILL NOT ASK COMMISSION TO REVERSE IT

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—(AP)—Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, announced today that while he protests, he will not formally demand that the Illinois athletic commission reverse the decision of Referee Bennie Yanger, which Friday night gave the Georgia fighter's middleweight crown to Micky Walker, of New York.

The decision Miller protests, which was generally greeted with boos at the end of the ten round encounter, was accepted by the state board yesterday after a review of the matter.

Chairman John C. Righeimer of the commission, did not pass on the possibility of poor judgment on the part of the official, but it was made plain that the commission accepted the decision as a thoroughly honest opinion. Yanger said his ruling was partially influenced by Flowers' continued open hand hitting, his declaration that he was fouled, and Walker's aggressiveness.

Walker scored two knockdowns during the bout, but Flowers was up quickly each time.

Miller's letter to Chairman Righeimer follows:—

"I have concluded not to file any protest with the commission in relation to the unfair referee's decision on the Walker-Flower bout at the Coliseum.

"It am of the opinion, and this is shared by my friends, that since a majority of the commission were personally present and saw for themselves, together with press reports which uniformly agree that the decision was grossly unfair, that is the duty of the commission on its own motion, to immediately reverse the decision, which all except the referee agree was manifestly unfair and unjust."

Miller said he planned to leave for New York after tomorrow's conference with the commission, to see Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, in regard to the return bout, for which Kearns posted a $65,000 forfeit.

"I would have been satisfied with a draw," Miller said, "but I must protest at the decision which deprived Flowers of his title. I have no evidence that there was any collusion of the part of the referee and others, but I feel that Flowers was entitled to the verdict and the referee's mistake in not giving him the decision, was an honest one.

"However, it was such a mistake that in my opinion there is nothing left for the commission to do but reverse the decision.

"In my opinion, the referee was swayed by the yelling of the crowd. There was no doubt that Friday's audience was a Walker crowd, and at the finish Yanger was ready to call the bout a draw, but when he found that raising Walker's hand pleased a majority of the audience, he let it go at that."

JENNINGS EXPECTS TO GET IN GAME NEXT YEAR

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 5—(AP)—Declaring that he never felt better in his life, Hughie Jennings, assistant manager of the New York Giants and former leader of the Detroit Tigers, announced today that he would get back into baseball next spring. Jennings had been away from the diamond more than a year because of a nervous breakdown.

Jennings will not rejoin the Giants when he returns to the game.

"I have my own reasons for not desiring to join the New York club," Jennings said. "McGraw and I are the best of friends, but no offer from the Giants can get me back."

Jennings stated that he is desirous of heading some club, but does not want a position that will require him to get out on the coaching lines and give the "E-Yah" yell that made him famous. That work is too strenuous now, he said. Jennings declined to comment on a report that he has been offered the berth of manager of Cleveland Americans from which Tris Speakers, recently resigned.

LARANETA A GREAT GROUND GAINER IN FOOTBALL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—(AP)—Manuel Laraneta, Univ. of Southern California's fullback, ranks as one of the leading ground gainer of the nation tonight as a result of yesterday's football game between the University of Southern California and Notre Dame, won by the latter 13 to 12.

Tearing off 55 yards from scrimmage, the Trojan star brought his season's total to 1166 yards, within 24 yds of the total of Welch of Pittsburgh.

Morton Kaer, big Southern California quarterback, added further glory to his team by chalking up 84 yards in the game to take second place among the country's ground gainers. His total yardage is 1121. This surpassed by twenty-one yards the ground covered by Charlie Rogers, University of Pennsylvania halfback.

Herb Joesting, Minnesota fullback, covering 962 yards to rank fourth.

Both the records of Laraneta and Kaer exceed that of Harold "Red" Grange, famous Illinois star, who accounted for 1,017 yards in 1924, his best year.

FOURTEEN TEAMS START IN SIX-DAY GRIND

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Fourteen teams started at 9 o'clock tonight on the forty-first international six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden. Paolino Uscudun, Spanish pugilist, fired the gun that sent the pedallers away on their long grind around the pine saucer.

Reggie McNamara, Australian, and Peter Linari, of Italy, made pace for the pack at the end of the first hour, all having covered 25 miles, four laps. The record for the first hour, 26 miles 6 laps, was set by Kaiser and Cameron in 1915.

The fourteen teams follow:—McNamara and Linari; Georgetti and Belloni; Goulett and Spencer; Walker and Beckman; Winter and Stockholm; Wambst and Lacquehay; Goosens and Stockelynch; McBeath and Grimm; Coles and Garrison; Taylor and Hanley; Petri and Lands; Wynsdau and Coburn; Bello and Hill; Dinale and Bestetti.

ROBERTS, TACOMA BOXER, TO SHOW WARES IN EAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5—(AP)—Eddie Roberts, Tacoma welterweight, who jumped into fistic prominence yesterday with a first round technical knockout over Joe Dundee of Baltimore, will leave for the east shortly after the first of the year for a pugilistic whirl in that section. Jack Connor, Roberts manager, said he would seek a match with Pete Latzo, welterweight champion, early in 1927.

Roberts polished off Dundee in short order, and the victory was considered all the more impressive because of the easterner's record which includes a technical knockout over Mickey Walker, and wins over most of the outstanding performers in the country.

The bout was stopped by Referee Toby Irwin after two and one half minutes of fighting with Dundee reeling against the ropes.

Completing its second season without being defeated in a dual or triple meet, the Harvard cross-country team has set up an enviable record.

NOTRE DAME FOOTBALLERS SEE LIGHTS OF HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—(AP)—With the glory of their thirteen to twelve intersectional victory over the University of Southern California here yesterday still undimmed, Notre Dames footballers spent today, the day before departure for home, in a tour of Hollywood in motion picture studios, watching the stars of another firmament make pictures beneath the glare of Klieg lights.

Knute Rockne's men were tired after the game yesterday but gloried in the triumph. Their training is over, and upon arrival at South Bend, the team will disband, the men returning to their studies.

Rockne will part from his men tomorrow, going to San Francisco. With his family he will sail from there for Honolulu. The trip is made in the hope that it will benefit Rockne's son, who is ill. While on the islands, Rockne also will lecture and officiate at two football games.

Fifteen men on the Notre Dame squad saw the end of their college gridiron careers yesterday as they will be graduated this year. Rockne will lose Arthur Boerginer, center, John Wallace, Joe Benda, John Roach and Joe Maxwell, ends, Frank Mayer and Ray Marellijn Guards, Tom Hearndon and Ray Dahman, halfbacks, Gene Edwards, Vincent McNally, and Charles Riley, quarterbacks, Harry Oboyle Riley, quarterbacks, Harry O'Boyle and Elmer Wynne, fullbacks and Joan McManmon tackle.

PSYCHOLOGY PLAYED PART IN NOTRE DAME VICTORY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 5—(AP)—Psychology played as important part in the winning of the Southern California game yesterday by Notre Dame.

When the team returned home a week ago smarting under the 19 to 0 Carnegie Tech. defeat, Coach Knute Rockne did not even mention Carnegie.

For two days he taught them new tricks for the Trojans and polished up the team in general, but not once did he refer to Carnegie.

The first night out on the special train carrying them to the west, the boys unpacked their grips and in each was a big program of the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame game. These Rockne had smuggled into the grips after they had been collected and sent from Notre Dame to the train.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The Stanford university football team has won ten victories without a defeat.

The Minnesota Country club of Minneapolis expects to land the 1927 national amateur championship tournament.

The high school football team of Nashua, N. H., made a record this season, but one scarcely to be envied. The total scores for the season stood: Opponents 171 points, Nashua, 0.

Between them the University of Colorado and the Colorado school of mines have won one-half of the football championships of the Rocky Mountain conference during the twenty-six years of its existence.

One of the unusual features of the football season just closed was the number of instances in which teams came from behind to win or at least tie opponents which had secured good leads in the early periods.

Public interest in six-day racing shows that while the bicycle may have lost its position as a popular means of transportation and recreation, it certainly has not lost in favor as a popular means of providing entertainment.

O'FARRELL CHOOSEN MOST VALUABLE NATIONAL PLAYER

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Selection of Bob O'Farrell, catcher of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, as the most valuable player in the National league during the 1926 race, was announced today by President John A. Heydler.

O'Farrell received 79 out of a possible 80 points from eight members of the Baseball Writers' committee making the award—the highest vote ever polled by a player. He is the first catcher in either league upon whom the honor has been conferred, and with his selection goes a cash prize of $1,000.

Other Cardinals in First Ten.

Three other Cardinal players furnished among the first ten in the voting—Tommy Thevenow, brilliant shortstop, Lester Bell, third baseman, and Flint Rhem, pitcher.

Second honors, however, were taken by Hughie Critz, keystone bag guardian of the Cincinnati Reds, for whom 60 points were recorded.

Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh pitcher, with 32 points, was third, Thevenow, with 30, fourth, and Hack Wilson, Chicago outfielder, with 25, fifth. Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals and winner of the prize last year, and Hazen Cuyler, Pittsburgh outfielder, who finished second to Hornsby failed to land within the first ten this year.

Neither winner nor runner-up this year were among the leading league hitters, O'Farrell posting a batting average of .293 and Critz .269. The committee considered, however, that the former was one of the most timely hitters on the Cardinal team, in addition to being a capable receiver, a deadly thrower and a dependable handler of boxmen. He appeared in 147 out of 154 games.

Critz's Defense Scores

In spite of Critz's low batting mark, the committee decided that he had flashed "the most marvellous defensive play seen in the majors for many a year." He also was considered a dangerous if not a prolific batsman.

The committee making the award was composed of James M. Gould of St. Louis, chairman; George W. Daley of New York, J. Roy Stockton of St. Louis, Robert Newhall of Cincinnati, Stoney McLinn of Philadelphia, William H. Becker of Chicago, Nick Flatley of Boston, Ed Ballinger of Pittsburgh and Abe Yager of Brooklyn.

The following candidates and number of votes follow:

O'Farrell, St. Louis	79
Critz, Cincinnati	60
Kremer, Pittsburgh	32
Thevenow, St. Louis	30
Wilson, Chicago	25
L. Bell, St. Louis	24
Hargrave, Cincinnati	24
Rhem, St. Louis	20
Lindstrom, N. Y.	17
Bancroft, Boston	17
Carlson, Philadelphia	16
Waner, Pittsburgh	15
Traynor, Pittsburgh	14
Bipp, Cincinnati	12
R. Brown, Boston	10
Hermann, Brooklyn	8
Root, Chicago	8
Hornsby, St. Louis	8
Butler, Brooklyn	7
Southworth, St. Louis	5
Alexander, St. Louis	5
Mays, Cincinnati	4
Kelly, N. Y.	2
Walker, Cincinnati	1

To this list the committee added the following honor roll:

Haines and Sherdel, pitchers, Bottomly, first base, and Douthft, outfielder, of the Cardinals; Cuyler, outfielder, Adams, pitcher, and Earl Smith, catcher of the Pirates; Rough and Christenson, outfielders, Donohue and Mays, pitchers, and Ford and Dressen, infielders, of the Reds; High, infielder, and J. Welch, outfielder, of the Braves; Jackson, New York shortstop; Fournier, Brooklyn first baseman; Henline, Philadelphia catcher; Heathcote, Chicago outfielder.

Jake Schaefer, Sr., popularly known as the "Wizard," was the originator of the anchor shot and was responsible for the innovation of balkline billiards.

THE TAX IS ON THE CIGARETTES — NOT ON YOUR TONGUE

1.
When you buy a package of twenty cigarettes you pay your Uncle Sam a tax of six cents—and you do it gladly. That ought to end the tax.
2.
ADDITIONAL TAX
But does it? Not if there's a tax on your tongue and taste. Not if the bite of coarse tobaccos puts a heavy duty on your palate! That's the unkindest tax of all.
3.
That's slick!!
Not so with OLD GOLD. At the first whiff, your pleased tongue will exclaim—"Gosh! there's no duty on this cigarette—it's all pleasure."
4.
The answer is that OLD GOLD is fine tobacco—with a college education. The choicest leaf—with the bite deleted and your satisfaction completed.

NEW LONDON BANKS SENDING OUT $317,000 IN CHRISTMAS CLUB CHECKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 5—It was announced this afternoon that $317,000 would be distributed by the banks of this city for the Christmas stockings of the members of the Christmas clubs depositing for the holiday season. That is the largest sum the banks have ever sent out to club members. The Savings bank of New London heads the list with a total of $160,000, the Mariners bank following with $117,000 and then the New London City National's savings department coming along with $40,000. The big total gives an idea of what small savings amount to during a year when the prudent are really determined to deny in order to save.

The city bank has already put its checks into the hands of its depositors and the other banks will send out the savings entrusted with them Tuesday or Wednesday.

Sunday is a great night for the attendants of the motion plays in this city. It is estimated that nearly 4000 people were in the theatres this evening. There are many persons who follow the practice of attending the photoplays every Sunday. Many store clerks make up parties to attend the "movies" every Sunday evening. The churches suffer in attendance, because of this, but there appears to be no chance when motion plays are pitted against the sermons.

Mrs. Daniel Donohue and infant son, Jewett City and Edwin Plimpton, Lyme, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The funeral of Charles W. Horton, former employe of the city water and sewer department, whose death occurred several days ago, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late home and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles M. Eldridge. The bearers were employes of the water and sewer department. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

George M. Noble, of Willimantic, formerly of New London, died Friday night at Norwich state hospital where he had been a patient for some time. He is survived by his wife and by two daughters, Mrs. Robert M. Bindless, 56 Lincoln avenue, this city and Mrs. John O'Brien, New Rochelle, N. Y., and by a brother, Charles Noble, Waterford. Mr. Noble was formerly employed by the Bingham Paper Box Manufacturing company, this city and removed to Willimantic about 10 years ago.

C. R. Booker, chief engineer of the ugboat Charles McWilliams, reported to the police Saturday that a pair of shoes belonging to him had been stolen from the boat and that the theft was perpetrated by a United States coast guard sailor. Booker stated that the tug was moored at the middle pier of the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company and that a coast guard boat was also moored there. During the night the sailor boarded the tug and stole the shoes. When the theft was discovered the coast guard boat had put to sea.

WORK BY COAST GUARD PROVED MOST EFFECTIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 5—It was mighty thoughtful in Commander F. H. Young of the Coast Guard to order a detachment of sailors to lend a hand in fighting the fire at the Second Congregational church, Friday afternoon. The sailors did good work though they were fighting against great odds. On many occasions in the past sailors on the government's payroll have served New London in time of need. They make the best possible service too for they are under discipline and they work on orders and do what is required of them. Discipline in fighting fire is as effectual as in any other calling.

The Bulletin correspondent has come upon a unique man in that he has reached the age of 84 years and has never tasted a cigarette nor has he ever smoked one. He is addicted to the pipe and to chewing tobacco but he says he never could bring himself to use cigarettes. He is active and had come from a fraternal order meeting when the scribe met him.

Tobias Olsen and Johan H. Olson have sold a building lot on Gardner avenue to Jennie M. Wilcox.

Gordon E. Crossley has sold to Alfred H. E. Burr and Adelbert L. Burr a house and lot on Pequot avenue, opposite Harris court.

Eldora G. Griesbaber has sold a building lot on Montauk avenue to Edith A. Battles.

William D. and Harriet D. Seegraves have sold a building lot on Kononoco street to Delia Mugovero.

Silas Maxson, Jr., has sold to Allen VanWinkle a building lot on Montauk avenue.

Mrs. Elizabeth Petrini, 37, wife of Natale Petrini, 790 Main street, died Friday night at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient two weeks suffering of pneumonia.

Daniel D. Buckley, about 60, formerly residing on Howard street died Friday night at Retreat hospital, Hartford, where he had been a patient about 18 months. He leaves no immediate relatives. Mr Buckley's health started to decline about two years ago and when medical treatment did not bring about an improvement in his condition he was admitted to the Hartford hospital. Mr. Buckley was well known, being a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and was a member of the church choir. He was for many years employed as salesman by the late George C. Strong and afterwards as salesman in the shoe department of Hislop & Co.

The police have been unable to obtain any trace of Helen Borkman, 15, of Tenth street, who disappeared from her home three weeks ago and since which time her mother, Mrs. Annie Borkman has been unable to locate her. It was believed that the girl might go to the home of her sister in Rochester, but the police of that city Saturday notified the local police that the girl had not showed up in Rochester.

Henry Valnet, 22, and Loris Dixon, 20, members of the United States coast guard and stationed at the academy, Fort Trumbull, were arrested Saturday night by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Frederick Jorgerson, the latter a special agent in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, charged with breach of the peace and resisting an officer. The sailors were in the vicinity of the Fort Neck railroad yard and there smashed windows of an automobile. When they were arrested they resisted, but were quickly subdued. Perley Wheeler, a chief petty officer of the coast guard, being attached to the U. S. S. Downes, state pier, was arrested Saturday night on State street by Patrolman George Cockell. Wheeler had been drinking and was in no condition to be roaming about the streets and besides, was inclined to be troublesome.

J. T. Purcell, a member of the United States coast guard and stationed at local section base, No. 4, state pier, made complaint to the police Saturday afternoon that while he was at the state armory, a thief went to one of the locker rooms and stole his watch. The watch had the inscription, "J. J. P." on the back case.

Edward Baker and Joseph Fitzgerold, inmates at the state hospital, Preston, made their escape from the institution Saturday afternoon and the New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for the men. Fitzgerald has an artificial right leg and wore a dark suit of clothes. felt hat and overcoat. He weighs about 140 pounds. Baker was hatless.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siegel, 257 Montauk avenue, are patients at a hospital in Norwood, Mass., as a result of their automobile having been wrecked Saturday night at Walpole, Mass. The extent of the injuries sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Siegel is not known. Mr. and Mrs. Siegel left New London Saturday noon for Boston.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY TROLLEY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 5.—Charles Edward Bisbain, about 35, employed at the Rotisserie, Waterford, and married, was struck and almost instantly killed by a Connecticut company trolley car on Bank street Saturday night. Bisbain sustained a fractured skull, fracture of both arms and legs and internal injuries sustained by the fracture of several ribs. One hand was also terribly lacerated. In order to remove Bisbain's body from beneath the trolley car a wrecking crew from the New London car barn was brought into service to jack up the car. James Wilcox, motorman of the trolley car was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter and was paroled in the custody of Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman and William Horton, an official of the Connecticut company.

Bisbain's former home was at 148 West Main street, Somerset, Pa.

Bisbain and his wife were employed at the Rotisserie. Saturday evening Bisbain came to New London and is understood to have been drinking, but that condition of the victim has not been fully sustained. He was on Bank street, west of Division street, about 9 o'clock and with others he went to a lunch wagon, where a dispute arose over the payment of a taxicab fare. Bisbain left the lunch wagon, which is located on the north side of the street and a short time afterwards he was seen in the act of crossing to the opposite side of the street. He had almost reached the south side and about 460 feet west of Division street when he suddenly decided to retrace his steps. As he started to walk back to the north side of the street the trolley car came along, being headed for the State street terminal. Bisbain had almost cleared the tracks as Wilcox applied his brakes, but before the car could be brought to a stop, Bisbain was struck by the corner of the trolley car and hurled to the pavement in view of a score or more pedestrians. The trolley car dragged Bisbain's body several yards and forced the unconscious form beneath the undercarriage and front truck where the body lay when the car was brought to a stop. Patrolmen Edward Riordan and Walter O'Neil were nearby when the accident occurred and a hurry call was sent to the car barn for the wrecker. When the body was removed from beneath the car it was determined that Bisbain was dead and Medical Examiner Kaufman was notified. He ordered the body removed to an undertaking establishment and ordered Wilcox held in custody. This afternoon the police examined numerous witnesses of the fatality, all of whom stated that the trolley car was not traveling at a high rate of speed when Bisbain was struck.

James F. Murphy, familiarly known as "Dutch" Muphy residing on Walden avenue, and employed as locomotive fireman by the Central Vermont railroad, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolmen William Corcoran, William Riordan and Thomas Cavanaugh charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. He was arrested upon complaint of the proprietor of a pool room at 324 Bank street, who alleged Murphy entered the pool room shortly after 2 o'clock and created such a disturbance that he was forced to summon the police and request Murphy's arrest.

COAST GUARDSMAN HELD CHARGED WITH MURDER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 5.—Gorman Wilson, colored, about 39, and a member of the United States coast guard and a member of the crew of the destroyer 139, stationed at local section base, No. 4, state pier, died Saturday at a New York hospital of injuries he sustained three weeks ago when he was assaulted by another member of the boat's crew. The New London police have no knowledge of the assault, which, it is alleged, took place in New London and the first that they knew of Wilson's assault was when Inspector William Lahey, New York police department, informed them of Wilson's death. It is understood that the coast guard officials are in possession of full facts relative to the assault and that the seaman who inflicted the fatal injuries is under military arrest. It is also understood that Capt. Frank S. Young, commandant at the state pier, will confer with Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollanderaky Monday morning and that arrangements will be made without delay for the delivery of the man charged with murder to the civil authorities.

The worst storm of the winter struck New London this morning when snow, accompanied by a 50 mile gale swept the city and continued throughout the night. Over a foot of snow fell, and with the heavy wind drifts were made in various parts of the city and outlying districts which greatly impeded trolley traffic. The Connecticut company operated trolley cars the entire day, but not on anything resembling its regular schedule, as were the New London-Norwich cars and Groton & Stonington Traction company's cars. Two powerful snowplows kept the various city lines opened and these plows were being operated the entire night to assure the operation of cars on all lines Monday.

Eddie Young, 199 Main street, Chinese laundry proprietor, who was arrested by narcotic agents Friday night charged with violation of the Harrison act, and which arrest constituted the second time that Young had been arrested within 24 hours on the same charge, was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran Saturday and was placed under bonds of $1,000 for hearing next Friday morning.

The total amount of insurance carried by the Second Congregational church, which was completely gutted by fire Friday afternoon, is $152,000, which amount covers the insurance on the organ. The church interior was recently renovated and repairs made, covering an outlay of $12,000. Insurance adjustors will come to New London during the week and when the loss has been determined contracts will be awarded without delay for the reconstruction of the interior of the church. The walls have not been damaged, it is believed, but this fact will be determined within the next few days.

GAS LOAD LARGEST IN STATE ON THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving day was a general holiday throughout Connecticut, but not for the gas man, for on that day, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information, Connecticut used more gas than any other day in previous history. The annual November holiday with its bountiful feast always puts the largest burden of the year upon the gas companies, but this year with more gas customers than ever before the burden was greater than ever. A "peak load" almost as big will occur again on Christmas day and again the gas man will have a busy time.

The reason for the extra burden on the gas companies is an obvious one when it is considered that every housewife and restaurant chef in the state is preparing the largest meal of the year. The extra load begins to show on the recording dials of the gas company early in the morning and usually continues until mid afternoon. During that time, practically every gas range in the state is going at full blast, cooking the traditional turkey and the many kinds of food that are customarily served with it.

For some unknown reason, not so much cooking is done on Christmas day, or at least not quite as much gas is consumed. The Christmas feast, however, throws a larger burden upon the gas companies than is experienced on any other day of the year except Thanksgiving. This year's Christmas load will undoubtedly exceed that of last year, for besides the additional number of customers, many homes are now equipped with gas burning furnaces which will be going at full blast by that day.

MUCH TIME LOST BY HOOK OFF RECEIVER

An unbelievable amount of time is lost in telephone service in Connecticut by the failure of telephone subscribers to replace their receivers on the hooks after finishing a conversation, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information. Many service interruptions often laid to other causes, particularly to errors on the part of the operators, are far more often due to receivers being left off or accidentally removed from the hook. The trouble can be corrected when the operator calls the subscriber's attention with her signal, but many times it is necessary to send a repair man to locate the trouble.

If each subscriber in Connecticut left his receiver off the hook, just once a year and it took only an average of five minutes to correct the situation, there would be a total loss of service time of more than 21,000 hours. Each error of this kind not only makes extra work for the operators, but it also injures the subscriber especially if the telephone is located in a business house, for while the receiver is off the hook, no calls can be made to his office.

In the case of party lines, if one subscriber's receiver is not in its right place, the service of every other subscriber on the line is interrupted. The same is true of business houses and other subscribers who have more than one telephone connected on the same line. A careless shift of one telephone into such a position that the receiver rests on some other object and is lifted from the hook has often put many other instruments on the same line out of business for several hours.

Riches have wings which flying-machine inventors have been unable to duplicate.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Beauty and youth are treasures and a treasure is certainly a big bay of gold, so it may truthfully be said that the bay of gold at the end of the rainbow has been found in Joe Small's Seven Stylish Steppers. This happens to be the grand feature stage attraction that opens at the Strand theatre today, inaugurating the Greater Keith-Albee Vaudeville season which also happens to be vaudeville's centennial year. Mr. Small describes this act as a "glittering galaxy of gay goddesses gorgeously gowned." Rulers in the realm of entertainment—songs and roly poly dances of pep, dash and originality. His alliteration is just about correct, for the act possesses all of the things claimed for it.

Four other big feature acts will conclude the stage offering and a glance at the names in the ad of the Strand theatre today should convince the most blase of theatregoers that a treat is awaiting them.

The management announces that the regular prices will be in force and no one should have an excuse for not seeing this extraordinary bill.

Capacity audiences will enjoy the Columbia comedy which will grace the screen starting today, called "When the Wife's Away," with George K. Arthur and Dorothy Revier in the leading roles. There is a comedy cast including Tom Ricketts, Ned Sparks, Harry Depp, Lincoln Plummer, Bobbie Dunn and Ina Rorke.

The story concerns a happily married couple who get into involved complications when they attempt to deceive a wealthy uncle in order to acquire a fortune. Arthur is required to do a female impersonation which is said to arouse much of the fun in the picture.

Attention is also called to the special two for one ladies matinee today only.

TODAY'S EVENTS

This is the feast of St. Nicholas, the jolly old patron saint of children.

Finland today celebrates the beginning of the tenth year of her independence.

Greetings to William S. Hart, the famous "bad man" of the movies, who is 50 today.

Problems of disarmament and economics are to be taken up by the council of the league of nations at its meeting which opens in Geneva today.

The cornerstone is to be laid in New York city today for the Jewish College of America, the first institution of its kind in the United States.

The twenty-fourth annual Dixie ball a notable winter social fixture given in Washington under the auspices of the Daughters of the Confederacy will be held tonight.

The second Mid-Continent Fiduciary conference of the American Bankers association will meet in Omaha today with financiers in attendance from nineteen states of the middle west and south.

Power and its importance to our march of progress will be exemplified in hundreds of ways at the Fifth National Exposition of Power and Mechanical Engineering, which gets under way in New York today for a week's engagement.

Palace Theatre

"So's Your Old Man", A new epidemic has struck our peaceful town Everywhere one goes, he sees signs of it. People stand on street corners and shout at the top of their lungs. Fathers greet their sons with it, wives greet husbands the same way. Not since the days of the Charleston has anything equalled it. Always that same line "So's Your Old Man". But there is a reason. This bounding, leaping, screaming farce set the big crowd at the Palace theatre last night into hysterics with laughter. The star of this great comedy, W. C. Fields, will be remembered for his success as a comedian with Ziegfeld's Follies. If you never laughed before, here's where you acquire a new habit. Fields with his unbreakable wind shield provides more fun than a circus, you will howl and scream at his funny antics. The management states they will not be responsible for anyone who insists on rolling out of their seats. Lovely and charming Alice Joyce pleasingly supports Mr. Fields in this billarious comedy. "Rose of the Tenements" with Shirley Mason and Johny Harron, will be presented in the screen, completing a double feature program unequalled before. A mighty drama aflame with excitement, an epic of a woman's emotions. See a beautiful girl born in the dirty, poverty of the tenements, longing, striving, fighting for the better things out of her reach. See how she conquered her desires and victory against almost insurmountable odds. You'll love every second of it.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Opening a Studio

Frederick Very, pianist, of Providence announces that he will occupy the studio at 6 Alice building, Norwich, Conn., on Tuesday, commencing December 7th, (omitting December 21st and 28th) in order to receive applications for lesson appointments.

Mr. Very was well received at the recent piano recital he gave here on November 19th under the auspices of the Norwich Music association.

Mr. Very was connected with the musical activities of the Mary C. Wheeler school of Providence for four seasons and has accompanied on the piano, in the past, such artists as Samuel Gardner of New York, concert violinist and composer; Louise Loring, soprano, Chicago Civic Opera company; Ester Gustafson of New York, interpretive dancer,—and many others.

Breed Theater

The Temptress, much heralded Cosmopolitan filmization of vicente Blasco Ibanes' noted novel, opened last night at the Breed theater. It showed several things—it showed something new in gigantic thrills and powerful drama—a screen story that fairly thunders its import to a startled audience—it showed the Swedish beauty, Greta Garbo, as a dramatic actress and emotional artist, perhaps unequaled on the screen—and its power and her wonderful artistry left an astounded audience almost breathless.

The sweep and magnitude of the story are almost indescribable: it bares human souls and masks human emotions living, breathing realities.

Miss Garbo and Antonio Moreno prove an ideal combination as the Russian enchantress and the Spanish engineer—one a pampered pet of the rich who is capable of turning into a human tigress when love finally comes to her; the other a man of nature, battling the vastness of nature in gigantic engineering problems—but unable to conquer a woman's soul.

The spectacular bull whip duel; the wreck of the great dam; the climax of the drama; these are all huge incidentals to a huge story—a romance that will never be forgotten by those who see it.

Fred Niblo, director of Ben Hur, has another gigantic task on his hands in this new drama; his handling of it was consummate artistry. The affair was gorgeously staked at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Praise must be given the acting of the huge cast: such artists are Lionel Barrymore, Roy D'Arcy, Marc McDermott, Armand Kalz, Virginia Brown Faire, Hector V. Sarno and others in the mighty epic. Dorothy Farnum, scenarist, also must be praised for her handling of the dramatic story.

A Fortune from Tea Rooms

The Story of Ida L. Frese

MISS IDA L. FRESE found the way to fortune by serving extra-dainty foods to women who demand them.

She instituted in America the special tea room ideas of food, cooking and service which have since gained such vast popularity.

She is founder of the Colonia Tea Room in New York, also of the two Vanity Fair Tea Rooms. Today two of them are located in buildings which she owns—buildings built from earnings.

The first investment was $500, contributed by Miss Frese and by Miss Ada Mae Luckey, who has been associated with her ever since. The first "Colonia" had only five employees.

The Colonia of today is located in her own six-story building at 379 Fifth Avenue, where Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt had his home.

Folly Farm in Connecticut, where Miss Frese grows her vegetables

Miss Frese also owns the charming Vanity Fair Tea Room Building at 3 East 38th Street, where Miss Jean Carson is in charge. Also an office building at 33rd Street and Madison Avenue. Also a model farm in Connecticut, which supplies the vegetables in season, and fresh flowers daily, all the year, for the tea room tables.

Among the dishes which have made these tea rooms famous are Johannah's chicken and pumpkin pies. The recipe has never been changed. The coffee served in all these tea rooms is exquisite La Touraine, with extra-heavy cream.

Why not serve that coffee at your table? It will be a credit to you, as it is to those tea rooms. It will be a constant delight to your people.

Your grocer supplies La Touraine (Extra) Coffee at a modest price. He has it ever-fresh, direct from us.

Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee

It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 337 years of coffee development.

It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffees. In all Statler Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.

The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.

These of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 25% more than Sao Paulo, the prize coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent 20 years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.

Mr. E. J. Burler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this premier coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.

La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The Ladies' Aid society was entertained last Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Hawes. A good number was present. Committees were appointed for the coming entertainment and sale at the Grange hall. The next meeting will be next week Tuesday at the hall to prepare for that event.

Committees were also appointed in the Sunday school for the annual Christmas tree and entertainment.

Mrs. T. E. Davies of the Westminster church was in the village one day last week, the guest of Mrs. Clinton Frink.

At the grange, Wednesday evening the feature of the lecturer's hour was a demonstration of an Orthophonic Phonograph by the Plaut-Cadden Co., of Norwich. The next regular meeting will be children's night, when an entertainment and Christmas tree will be provided.

A delegation of Canterbury patrons was at Pachaug Thursday evening, where in company with other visiting granges they furnished a program.

Ralph Lovell is repairing the roof of one of his long poultry houses, it being blown off in the recent windstorm.

Miss Lydia Lathrop is spending a week visiting in the vicinity of Meriden, Ct.

Mrs. George Bennett is ill.

Hiram Hawes has been confined to his bed by illness for several days.

Mr. Nelson Lyon and Mrs. Waldo were Plainfield visitors last week and spent Thanksgiving with Mr. Lyon's son, Fred Lyon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Appley and Mr. and Mrs. Milo Appley visited at Walter Appley's at North Stonington last Tuesday. Walter Appley and family were entertained at the family homestead on Thanksgiving.

NOANK

During the big fire in New London, Second Congregational church Friday afternoon the smoke was seen for eight miles. Many from the village went to the city and saw the fire fighters at work.

Mavin Porter of Long Island city is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Porter.

John McArthur of Troy is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis.

Two young men with a brown pony and a large camera, who are taking pictures in the county, paid a visit to the village the past week. Many of the school children had their pictures taken on the back of the pony. The two men have been in nine states so far.

Edward Ashly was in Essex Friday. The first snow storm of the season hit the village early Friday evening. By 10 o'clock the ground had one inch of snow. One old timer, John Ashly said if it snowed on the 3rd of the month there would be only three snow storms during the winter. All hope Mr. Ashly is right, as that would be light on the coal bill!

Sidney Butson has returned from a visit in Providence with his cousin, Dave Long.

At Frank Bracci's boat shop, a 35-foot fishing boat being built for a party on Long Island is nearly finished and will be ready to launch in a week. Mac Mue will have charge of the boat sliding into the water. This is Mus Bracci's eighth boat built since last winter at his shop, on Lighthouse point. He has four men working for him and expects an busy winter.

News of the death of Mrs. Rosella Floyd, wife of John Floyd, of Waterford, was heard with regret by acquaintances and friends in the village. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd made their home here during the first years of their married life and during this time Mrs. Floyd gained many friends.

Samuel Main employed as caretaker by Wm I. Spicer has resigned for the season.

There was the celebration of holy communion at Grace Episcopal church, Sylvan street Sunday, by Rev. Lucius W. Shey D. D. of Mystic, priest in charge.

Steamer Adroit was launched from the big ways at the shipyard, after having a coat of paint and some carpenter work done. Coast Guard boat No. 234 was hauled out on the north ways for a general overhauling.

Friday evening a large crowd of members of the Fire company gathered at their room to watch the pool match between Champion George Deveau of the company and Edgar Schoolmaker, another member anxious to try to land the championship. At 8:30 Referee M. Beebe called both men to the table, told them the rules and then the battle was on. The crowd saw some fine playing by both men. Deveau was good on side shots and his rival was there on the long shots, for he had a great eye and it was the break of the game that made Schoolmaker the new champion of the Fire company. Deveau only needed one ball to win and he missed a side shot and Schoolmaker ran off 10, making the score 100 to 99 and it gave him the match. Deveau said he would like to have another match in a couple of weeks. Hot dogs and coffee were passed by Charles Ellis.

Miss Marion McDonald is ill at her home.

Leon Sistare is spending a few days in New York.

The shipment of fish from the different docks in the village the past week was light, on account of the wind and rough water, keeping the fishermen in and their boats tied up at the docks. The fish now are running fair and when the fishermen get a favorable day to fish they get good catches. The fish are bringing a good price in Fulton market.

Fred Shirley has returned to work at the collar shop in White Stone, L. I., after a visit in the village.

The condition of Ben Latham shows no change.

Jack Steele has returned from a visit in Essex with friends.

POETRY

Gloria Patri

Glory to the Father be!
Lord of might and majesty!
Glory be to God on high,
From all nations far and nigh.

And to Christ, God's only Son,
Saviour, earth's exalted One,
Jesus Christ the Crucified,
Who for man sublimely died.

And to Holy Ghost, divine,
Comforting thy soul and mine,
Whom God sent us through his Son,
When Christ's life and work were done.

Glory to the Trinity!
As it was, is now, shall be;
Glory unto God again,
World without an end. Amen.
—Charles Nevers Holmes.

Promised

There is so very much of you in everything I write—
You shine across my loneliness, as stars shine through the night;
You fill my mind with lovely dreams

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—A selective stock market in which a number of issues were marked up to record high prices while a few plunged to new low levels a record breaking total of nearly $250,000,000 in new financing establishment of a new peak price for the year by French francs around the four cent level and a further slump in cotton to new low levels for the season divided financial interest in this week's markets.

Bidding up of stock prices was facilitated by a reduction in call money rates, a heavy reinvestment demand for high grade issues and a series of favorable dividend announcements. Bond prices also reached new high levels in reflection of the tremendous volume of funds seeking investment. All of the $150,000,000 issues of Standard Oil of New Jersey debentures was taken by holders of preferred stock, which is to be retired, and the $50,000,000 issue of Standard Oil of New York debenture was quickly oversubscribed.

The spectacular rise in French francs, which carried them more than 100 per cent above the year's low established in July, reflected confidence in the Poincare government by French financial and commercial interests, who apparently were bringing home capital which had been sent to other countries when the franc was in danger of following the old German paper mark.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Abbott have returned to their home in Fall River, Mass., after spending the past few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead of Boswell avenue.

The topic at the regular weekly meeting Sunday evening of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor at the Taftville Congregational church was Character, How to Form it; What Affects it?, and the meeting was in charge of the prayer meeting committee. The offering was for the near east relief.

Miss Mildred Kloss left town last week for an extended visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kloss of Long Branch Cal.

Connecticut College

Phi Beta Kappa chapter of New London county met in the library of Connecticut college on Sunday, the anniversary date of the founding of the association on Dec. 5, 1776 at the college of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, where anniversary is being celebrated. A Phi Beta Kappa Memorial hall has been erected in honor of the fifty founders. Rev. Dr. Henry Hurlburt, president of the county chapter attended the dedication on November 27. Dr. Hurlburt spoke at the meeting at Connecticut college about his trip.

Among the members of the New London chapter are many of the faculty of Connecticut college: President Benjamin T. Marshall; Dean Mary E. Benedict; Dr John D. Wells; Dr. Frank E. Morris; Dr. Mary E. Holmes; Miss Hurlburt; Miss Lillian Knight; Miss Evelyn Mann; Dr. Caroline Black; Dr. Edward M. Chapman; Dr. Hannah G. Roach; Dr. Henry Lawrence; Dr. David D Leib; secretary-treasurer of the chapter; and Miss Marguerite Starbird.

Sophomore hop, one of the most important of the social functions of college, was held on Saturday at Knowlton hall. There was tea dancing in the afternoon and the formal in the evening. The sophomores had as their guests the senior class and their escorts. The ball room was attractively decorated with cut flowers. The Purple Pirate of Williams college furnished the music. Hildegarde Harper of Great Barrington, Mass., rendered a delightful solo dance. A number of the freshmen charmingly garbed in black and white Pierrot and Pierrette costumes served refreshments.

The chaperones were President and Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall; Dean Mary K. Benedick, Dean Irene Nye; Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Erb and Miss Agnes Leahy of Norwich. Miss Leahy is one of the honorary members of the sophomore class.

Miss Elizabeth Higgins of Norwich attended the hop, and Miss Alberta Boardman attended with William Dunbar of Yale.

The committee comprised: Catherine Ranney, chairman; Helen Reynolds; Muriel Whitehead; and Elizabeth McLaughlin.

Miss Lucy Gilman of Bozrahville spent the week end in New York city.

Miss Madeline Thune of Norwich spent the week-end in West Orange, N. J.

Miss Marcia Stanton recently read a paper before the mathematics club of the college.

Among those who attended the joint meeting of the history and social science clubs of the college were the Misses Lucy Gilman, Estred Alquist, Dorothy Pasnik, Alberta Boardman, Marcia Stanton and Madeline Thune.

Miss Estred Alquist is one of the students at college who sit at the French and Spanish tables held at Knowlton hall.

Approved For Bar Examination

Two applications to take bar examinations were acted upon favorably here Friday at the meeting of the country bar association. The applicants were Lionel H. Legare of Fall River, mas sale and supper at Buckingham of Boston university, and of Harry L. McGuire of New London, a student in the law offices of C. B. Waller and Daniel Cronin. With several others heretofore approved, they will take their examination the latter part of this month at Hartford.

TWO UNDER ARREST AS DRUNKEN DRIVERS AFTER CITY COLLISIONS

Two Norwich men will be in the city court this (Monday) on charge of driving automobiles while they were under the influence of liquor, them arrest following collisions with other machines.

Peter Sablewski of 313 Central avenue was arrested last Saturday afternoon at Washington square by Officer Luke Riley after Sablewski's machine had crashed into the Dodge touring car of George Maynard of Norwich Town. Just before the collision, a horse in one of the Chappel Co. teams had fallen in West Main street near the corner of Water street and Officer Riley was helping in getting the horse onto its feet when he observed the Sablewski machine coming through West Main street at fast speed. The machine turned into Water street just in time to meet the Maynard machine which was coming out of Water street. The crash damaged mudguards and running boards on the left side of each of the cars.

Damaged Four Other Machines

Peter Pianko of 1 Thames street, driving a motor truck, had a career Saturday that involved him in two different collisions and finally landed him in the hands of the police on the charge of operating while under the influence of liquor.

About 7:30 it was reported to the police that he had been in collision at the corner of Eleventh and Prospect street with a motor truck owned by George U. Zurcher of 284 Prospect street and that Pianko had driven away after the crash. The officers on the beats were on the lookout for Pianko but the next heard of him was when he got into another collision in front of the Buckingham Memorial on Main street. Here he crashed into a Pontiac sedan of Thomas J. Shahan and then shot across the street into the front end of the Ford coupe belonging to William John Gleason of 58 Palmer avenue. The coupe was driven back against the Hupmobile sedan of Fred V. Amburn of R. F. D. No. 2.

The Shahan machine sustained damage to mudguards and running board, the Gleason machine had its front end badly smashed, the Amburn car had a bumper damaged, and the Pianko truck had an axle bent besides other damages.

Officers Hugh McAvoy and Patrick Sheehan were sent to investigate the accident and handle the traffic tangle that followed the smash and Officer McAvoy took Pianko to police headquarters on the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

Both Sablewski and Pianko secured bail for their appearance in court.

AMERICAN LEGION POST DISPLAYS PRIZE CUP

A meeting of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, was held at the post rooms Friday, with a large attendance. Commander E. C. Dunbar presided. Several applications were received and one new member initiated. The annual meeting of the post will be held on Friday, Dec. 17, when reports of officers and committees for the past year will be read and election of officers for the year of 1927 will take place. Nomination of candidates for the different offices were opened at the meeting Friday night and will hold open until the Dec. 17 meeting.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the annual meeting and a committee has been appointed to arrange for refreshments for the occasion. The post voted to buy a bond to help the fight against tuberculosis. The prize cup won by the post in the Armistice day parade was on exhibition and brought favorable comment from the members. Plans are in the works for a banquet to be held in the near future. The death of Commander Orrin M. Price, of Sedgwick post of the G. A. R., brought a feeling of a great loss to the post as Commander Price had been a frequent attendant at the activities of the post and a vote of sympathy to his family was passed. A delegation of Legion members were to attend the funeral.

Number of families under supervision, 15; children concerned, 29; old people, 2.

Nature of investigations: Neglect, 6; cruel punishment, 1; wayward and unruly, 2; endangering health and morals, 2; cases filed and re-opened, 2.

In the animal department: Total number of cases investigated, 14; working when lame, 4; sores and galls rubbed by harness, 1; without proper food and shelter, 2; sales of horses unfit for work, 4; horses sent to blacksmith, 3; horses and dogs humanely destroyed, 5; cats called for and disposed of, 37; cases brought before the court, 6.

A total of 149 calls, covering a distance of 1,002 miles were needed to do this work.

For the past three years the Humane society has had a district agent, Frederic H. Wyant, in this section of the state with branch office in Norwich, also a part-time assistant in New London. There has been the convenience of an automobile, which has enabled Mr. Wyant to answer the numerous calls promptly.

CLEARS NORWICH WOMAN FROM ACCIDENT BLAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Dec. 5—Mrs. Maud Harvey of Norwich, Conn., who was shaken up but uninjured here Friday when her automobile was struck and damaged by another machine, was not to blame for the accident, according to officials of the police department traffic bureau following an investigation of the crash.

Mrs. Harvey, who gave her address as R. F. D. 6, Norwich, reported that she was the owner and driver of the machine in which she was riding, and that as she was crossing an intersection a speeding automobile driven by Peter Proko of Worcester struck her car. She declared that the other machine was driving at a rapid rate, but that she was traveling at only five miles an hour.

The police investigators decided that Mrs. Harvey was not to blame when Proko admitted that he was making more than ten miles an hour, eight miles being the speed limit at a blind intersection.

Rural Carrier Examination

The United States civil service commission has announced an examination to be held at Westerly, receipt of applications for which will close Dec. 29, 1926, to fill the position of rural carrier at North Stonington, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from that post office. The date of examination will be stated on admission cards mailed to applicants after the close of receipt of applications. The salary of a rural carrier to a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800 per annum, with an additional $30 per mile per annum for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per annum, according to length. Women will not be considered for rural carrier appointment unless they are the widows of U. S. soldiers, sailors, or marines, or the wives of U. S. soldiers, sailors, or marines who are physically disqualified for examination by reason of injuries received in the line of military duty. Form 1977 and application blanks may be obtained from the vacancy office mentioned above or from the United States civil service commission at Washington, D. C.

Roadster and Truck Collided

Saturday afternoon at the corner of Broadway and Broad street, two automobiles which their owners were driving, were in collision. The Buick roadster of Leroy H. Whitmarsh of 22 Mulberry street sustained slight damage and the light truck of William T. Kearney of 18 Grant court had an axle damaged.

TWELVE SAFETY ACTIVITIES FOR MOTOR VEHICLE DEPT.

Public safety activities of the state motor vehicle department have grown gradually in the nine years since its establishment until, numerically, they equal the other activities of the department. This is graphically shown on a chart of motor vehicle and aircraft regulation which has been compiled by the department.

Commissioner Stoeckel of the Connecticut department pointed out in a recent address that in the early stages of motor vehicle laws, a motor vehicle administrator had few, if any, safety duties. The early problem was almost entirely to issue registrations and numbers; but, he explained, the registration law, and the operator's license law, have provided such an excellent foundation upon which to base police supervision and such good identification of cars and operators that it has been natural for each law-making body, from time to time, as necessity for control and discipline arose, to make safety laws founded upon and enforceable through these two systems.

Today, each motor vehicle law has two equally important objectives: To gather revenue and insure public safety.

The safety activities of the Connecticut department have been extended as the traffic in the state increased. In 1919, the first year when the state law required the reporting of motor vehicle accidents, 1,987 such accidents were reported to the department. At that time, there were slightly more than 100,000 cars registered in the state. Last year, with about two and one-half times as many motor vehicles registered, 23,585 accidents were reported to the department, and there will be more accidents reported this year, if the present rate continues.

The motor vehicle department now engages in 12 different safety activities: (1) disciplining of registrants and operators, (2) publishing safety documents and bulletins and the giving of public safety addresses, (3) co-operating with the state police, (4) co-operating with the state highway department, (5) co-operating with the public utilities commission which controls public service lines, (6) approval of headlight devices, (7) maintaining interstate motor vehicle relations, (8) preparing statistics and newspaper and radio publicity, (9) co-operating with city police departments, (10) co-operating with automobile and civic clubs and schools, (11) requiring safe location of gasoline stations, and (12) maintaining federal motor vehicle relations.

The department has an equal number of other activities, six revenue-producing and six non-revenue producing. The revenue-producing activities have to do with (1) vehicle and aircraft fees, (2) operator's license fees, (3) gasoline taxes and licenses, (4) court fines, (5) fees for providing copies of operators' records, and (6) forfeited bonds and fees for lens and engine tests.

The non-revenue-producing activities have to do with (1) suspensions of licenses, (2) complaints, (3) accident reports, (4) financial responsibility requirements, (5) hearings and conferences, and (6) information and news clipping bureaus.

JOHN THE BAPTIST CRITICS LIKE TODAY'S SAYS PRIEST

"What went you out into the desert to see? a reed shaken with the wind? But what went you out to see?" words taken from the gospel for the Sunday —the second in advent—which he had just read, Matthew 11 2-10 were chosen as his text at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church, by Rev. John J. Reilly. His theme was the failure of so many Catholics to appreciate to the full the spiritual benefits and favors granted them by Almighty God.

Those who had returned from listening to John the Baptist in the desert and whom Christ was questioning were undoubtedly like the crowds of today—interested for a time in John because of his evident sincerity and ability, but shrinking from the life of prayer, self-denial, service which he was preaching. The groups vacillating from John to Christ in curiosity to hear the new prophet were the prototype of the modern listeners, in fancied superiority thinking themselves wise because they can analyze, hearing in a critical attitude, rather than with a desire to become more and more sensitive to the true values of God's goodness and favors. Not in sermons are men to find the most meaning in what they see and hear, not even in books, nor in libraries, but in forming their lives more and more upon the life of Christ. "But what went you out to see?" was the searching question which the preacher continued to put to those Catholics who, while practical ones in a certain sense still shrink, as did the curious groups who heard the Baptist, from discipline, of Lent, of abnegation, of humble prayer, who would go through life in the same cushioned ease with which they ride daily about the city.

Encouraging to the three hard-working priests of this parish, as shepherds of nearly 4,000 souls, is the renewed fervor manifest since the beginning of Advent. At the 7.30 mass Sunday, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, who as usual had read the early mass, required the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving holy communion to the great number going to the altar, after the confessions of the day before. The long lines were led by the Children of Mary society receiving the Eucharist in a body. At 9 o'clock those going to the sanctuary railing for the sacrament crowded all the space and reached back into the three aisles, Rev. Father Galvin being assisted by Rev. Father Reilly in administering communion. The Junior choir sang the hymns. Miss Helen Dougherty substituting for the regular organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, who did not play until the high mass at 10.30, when the volunteer quartet and chorus gave the music of the Advent season with customary harmony and finish.

MISS HEWINS' LAST BOOK IS AT THE OTIS LIBRARY

The Otis library of Norwich is fortunate in being able to get two copies of the last book written by Miss Caroline Hewins, librarian at Hartford for over 50 years and who died just after car had a bumper damaged, and the Pianko truck had an axle bent besides other damages.

In a recent Herald-Tribune review of books there is a sympathetic review of this dainty little lavender-bound volume and a fine appreciation of its gifted author. The writers says: The old Irish proverb, "As wise as a child four years old" comes to mind, as one pictures little Caroline Hewins sitting before a soft coal fire in the village of West Roxbury (years before it became a ward of Boston) listening to 'Flow Gently, Sweet Afton', sung by an aunt who died before she was six. By other and similar revealing glimpses the readers of Miss Hewins' last book are taken into a delightful family life which included not only a father and mother, a brother and seven younger sisters, but also an uncle, two aunts, a grandmother and a lively whist-playing great-grandmother, who tried in vain to teach the small Caroline to knit at the age of four.

Miss Hewins (1846-1926) was widely known as the children's friend—and it was on the last day of Children's Book Week—which she delighted in celebrating from year to year, that her little book came forth for this holidays. She had been in New York for a Hallowe'en visit and to see her book on the eve of publication, had been to the children's department of the Harlem library and the New York public library, leaving for home elated over what she called a beautiful visit. "New York always does give me the thrill of life—new people, new things to look at and think about! I shall live on this visit like a camel on his hump until I come again!" she had said.

Four days later she was dead.

Her "Mid-Century Child" is as fascinating to grownups as to children; its quaint illustrations are of a clever and supplementary art which gives additional point to the charming tale.

As its author had spoken at library meetings in Norwich and nearby cities the members of the local library staff have a special interest in the new publication due to their affectionate regard for its accomplished writer.

Mr. Stanton will travel for the concern throughout New York state and territory extending south to Virginia and in the spring will move his family to a location that will be central for the territory he has to cover.

EARLY DUSK BOOSTS DECEMBER LIGHT BILL

Connecticut electrical companies like Connecticut's department stores have their biggest job of the year in December and the customs of those companies are also likely to have their largest electric bill of the year, according to the Connecticut committee on public service information which states that the amount of electric current used for lighting purposes is greater in December than in any other month due to the fact that the operation of the solar system shuts daylight off earlier than in any other month and requires a longer use of artificial light.

In December, electric lights are turned on as early as four o'clock in the afternoon whereas in the summer months when the daylight saving system is in vogue the lighting button is not snapped on until after 8 o'clock in the evening. In other words, the lights are used about four hours longer in December than they are in June. Moreover, people stay at home more in the winter than in the summer and this tends to produce larger electric bills. The use of light in Connecticut's numerous department stores and gift shops during the two weeks preceding Christmas also throws an extra night burden on the generating stations.

ADMIRAL ROBISON MADE A PUGNACIOUS WITNESS

During Cross-Examination in the Fall-Doheny Case the Admiral Clashed With Owen J. Roberts, a Member of the Government's Special Oil Counsel—Witness Permitted the Cross-Examiner to Correct From the Official Record What He Had Said of a Navy Department Conference.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)— The commonplace courtroom where Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny are on trial for criminal conspiracy was rocked today by a rumbling exchange between a pugnacious admiral and a quick-spoken and determined prosecutor.

The admiral-witness was John K. Robison, a storm center of the oil controversy ever since the senate committee discovered three years ago that he approved on behalf of the navy the oil leasing policy of 1922. His cross-examiner was Owen J. Roberts, a member of the government's special oil counsel.

Many of the verbal depth-bombs launched by Roberts served the purpose of increasing the intensity of the broadsides that came back in reply. But once or twice the admiral showed signs of losing his sea legs. He conceded he had been wrong in testifying previously that he had not talked to Doheny in New York about the Elk Hills lease. He permitted Roberts to correct from the official record what he had said about a navy department conference. In one quick exchange he agreed that he might have taken a different attitude had he known at the time that Doheny had advanced Fall $100,000 while Fall was in the cabinet.

The engagement lasted most of the day, and while it was at its height the government's special counsel received word of a major victory in another quarter. Upholding the action of the lower courts, a supreme court ruling threw out the protests of Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, against their indictment for criminal conspiracy, and ordered them to trial.

In many ways the two cases run parallel. Fall and Sinclair must face a jury as an outgrowth of the award of the Teapot Dome lease to Sinclair oil interests, just as Fall and Doheny now are on trial as a result of the Elk Hills lease to Doheny's pan-American company. In the Fall-Doheny case the government hinges its hope of conviction on the $100,000. In the Fall-Sinclair case it will hinge on allegations of the passage of a smaller sum between the principals.

Secretary Wilbur of the navy department did not testify today and Frank J. Hogan, chief of the defense counsel, said he might not be called at all.

The navy officer said over and over from the witness stand today that the then Secretary Denby and his subordinates in the navy department not only approved the leasing policies attributed by the prosecution to Fall, but were anxious that some arrangement be made speedily to have a supply of storage oil on hand at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, in case of emergency.

Roberts developed that the Pearl Harbor plans were under secret discussion at the moment the Washington arms conference was formulating a new peace deal in the Pacific. He also asked the witness whether it was not a fact that in contradiction of the defense explanation that "state secrets" compelled secret negotiations for the leases, construction work at Pearl Harbor was actually done by "foreign labor". Admiral Robison said he did not know.

Asked about Secretary Denby's first reaction to the interior department's proposal to open the Elk Hills reserve to leasing, Robison quoted Denby as saying:

"It's full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

"Denby said that?" Roberts returned sharply.

"He did," the response was quick as a shot.

"And did he have anything to do with it after that?"

"He did—and I am proud of it," thundered the admiral.

Coming to the $100,000, the prosecutor got Robison's reaction into the record with a single squarely-aimed question, then cut the witness off before he could go into details.

"If you had known of that loan," said the lawyer, "your conduct in behalf of the navy might have been different?"

"Yes, I think that if I had known everything I might have acted differently, but—"

"Exactly, exactly," and Roberts moved swiftly into his next subject.

Doheny, in court again today with an infected arm in a sling, after a week end in bed, gave attentive ear to the matching of words, and indulged in an occasional smile. His arm bothered him considerably, however, and his doctors tonight determined upon a second lancing operation.

The defense believe they lost an important point late in the day when the court declined to permit examination of L. P. Barneson, president of the General Petroleum of California, regarding his drilling operations in the Elk Hills reserve, and upon appraisal of the pan-American contract from the oil man's point of view.

FIVE WORKMEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION 2,800 POUNDS POWDER

PENNSGROVE, N. J., Dec. 6.—(AP)—An explosion of 2,800 pounds of sporting powder at the Carney's Point plant of the Du Pont Powder company today killed five workmen and injured others, none of them seriously.

The dead:

William O. Tonden, 64, married, foreman, Salem, N. J.

Ezra Herman, 44, unmarried, Deepwater Point, N. J.

John Kelly, 18, married, Pennsgrove.

George Wivel, 24, unmarried, Pennsgrove.

Winfield Bleasa, 28, married, Carney's point.

Of the injured four remained in a hospital. They are Alfred Bradway of Salem and William Freis, Fred H. Borden, and John Graham, all of Pennsgrove. Freis has a broken leg while the others are suffering from bruises and lacerations which may keep them in the the hospital for a few days.

The other five injured were treated for cuts and returned to work.

The accident occurred when Tonden, a first class operator, in charge of the other four men who were killed, as a crew of helpers was unloading the 2,800 pounds of powder at the dry house. As all the men immediately concerned were killed, the cause of the explosion is not known, but the company is conducting a thorough investigation.

The explosion wrecked the building and damaged the adjoining glazing house in which those who were injured were at work.

PLAN OF DEFENSE IN $500,000 BREACH OF PROMISE CASE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—(AP)—John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer who is being sued for $500,000 by Miss Anne Caldwell, musical review actress, in a breach of promise action, will seek to prove that no engagement existed and that the plaintiff had made the remark "You can get money from a man without marrying him."

The defense was outlined by Rody P. Marshall attorney for Hubbard, in his opening statement to a federal court jury today after Miss Caldwell had closed her case presenting depositions by W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and others and by calling the defendant to the stand in an effort to show he is worth $5,000,000.

Marshall told the jury that Hubbard would show that Miss Caldwell told him she liked Norman Bel Geddes, New York stage scenic designer and motion picture director, better than Hubbard, and that enroute to California, where she went to seek a career in the movies, travelling west on the same train with Geddes, she stopped off at Pittsburgh and informed Hubbard she would call it "quits" if he would pay off a $2,000 mortgage on her parents farm in Chester county.

GENERAL STRIKE IN HANKOW HAS FAILED TO MATERIALIZE

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—News that the threatened general strike in Hankow has failed to materialize and that the situation there has become easy enough to make it likely that British marines may withdraw from the foreign concession, has removed a great deal of anxiety from official quarters and the public mind.

These developments were interpreted here as indicating that the Cantonese government has an effective hold on the situation and as justifying the government's refusal to be drawn into any precipitate action in China.

FORMER SHERIFF AT HERRIN IS CHARGED WITH MURDER

MARION, Ills., Dec. 6.—(AP)—George Galligan, bitter anti-Klansman, retired today after four turbulent years as sheriff of Williamson county and thirty minutes later was arrested by Oren Colemen, his successor, on a murder charge.

Galligan was charged, in a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Charles Woolard, with the murder of her husband, one of six killed in a klan and anti-klan gun fight at Herrin, Ills., August 30 1924. The arrest was deplored by klansmen who in the interest of peace had agreed with members of the other faction that there would be no further prosecutions on either side.

The former sheriff furnished $5,000 bond pending action of the grand jury.

Galligan, whose spectacular four year term left him aged far beyond his 38 years, said he planned to return to the coal mines which he entered as a boy of 11.

Coleman, the new sheriff, is 40 years old, a bachelor university graduate, World war veteran, retired farmer and former high school principal. He is more than six feet tall and is stockily built and square jawed. He was elected on a law enforcement platform.

11 JURORS SELECTED FOR THE MELLETT MURDER TRIAL

CANTON, Ohio, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Eleven tentative jurors were selected today at the opening of Patrick Eugene McDermott's trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher slain on the night of July 16.

Opposition to capital punishment and opinions as to McDermott's guilt resulted in the dismissal of 16 of the 34 veniremen examined. When Common Pleas Judge Edwin H. Diehl dismissed court today five women and six men had been temporarily seated with prospects of an additional venire of 75 being called before the jury is completed.

Precautions against underworld attempts to create a disturbance were marked. Nine special deputy sheriffs were stationed about the county jail and court house, and close watch of spectators was maintained.

NO AGREEMENT ON INTER-ALLIED FORCES IN GERMANY

GENEVA, Dec. ...—(AP)—Abolition of inter-allied military control in Germany is believed to be a step nearer realization although the "big five" powers meeting in secret conference today failed to reach an agreement.

The powers represented were Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, acted as chairman. On emerging from the conference the statesmen appeared hopeful.

Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, who came to Geneva rather downcast, but hopeful that what Germany wanted would be granted, seemed more optimistic than at any time since his arrival.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SCHOOL ENUMERATION FIGURES

HARTFORD, Dec. 6.—(AP)—School enumeration figures received at the office of the comptroller today and announced by Chief Clerk John H. Belden were as follows: Coventry, 373; Avon, 305; Naugatuck, 3,330; Westport, 1,356; Greenwich, 6,339; Canterbury, 269; Morrisville, 1,066; East Windsor, 1,098; Ledyard, 393; Ellington, 586; Derby, 3,551; West Haven, 5,516; East Haddam, 564; Old Saybrook, 836; Berlin, 1,540; Stonington, 2,763; Middlefield, 146; Essex, 563.

CLARA OLSON WAS BEATEN TO DEATH BY SWEETHEART

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Basing its verdict on a letter revealing plans for an elopement, a coroner's jury tonight decided that Clara Olson, farmer's daughter, was beaten to death by her sweetheart, Erdman Olson, 25.

The jury's verdict was unnecessary to hold the 18 year old youth for murder, as a warrant charging that crime was issued last week. He has been missing since Sept 27. A few days after the warrant was issued her body was found in a shallow grave near the youth's home.

The letter was found on the girl's body and gave elaborate plans for the girl who was about to become a mother, to meet the writer the night of Sept. 9, the night she vanished, and of plans for a clandestine marriage. It was unsigned but the writing was identified as Erdman's by the girl's sister. The youth vanished shortly after the girl, leaving a letter stating that he was not involved with the girl but would never be taken alive.

"We find," said the report to the coroner, "that Clara Dorothy Olson came to her death by a violent blow administered by Erdman Olson to the left side of her head, causing fracture of the skull and violent hemorrhages, probably in the early morning of Sept. 10."

DEATH OF COUPLE FOUND TO BE FROM UNKNOWN CAUSES

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Death from unknown causes was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury here late today in the case of Louis F. Sweeney, 44, copper mining engineer of New York, and Madam I. Maingot, 36, member of a wealthy family of Trinidad, South America. The bodies of the couple were found floating in shallow water a quarter of a mile from Venice late Saturday afternoon.

Sweeney was one of the best known mining executives in the United States, associated with the Cerro de Pasco Copper corporation. Madame Maingot is reputed to have been a woman of great wealth and to have known Sweeney for several years, having met him in South America.

MARRIAGE ONCE ANNULLED COUPLE MARRIES AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Mary McClintic, 19, daughter of Representative McClintic of Oklahoma, and Richard Elibert, 23, whose marriage was annulled several years ago on motion of bride's father because of their ages, eloped to Baltimore today and were reunited at the St Paul Protestant Episcopal church. Leiber is an organist in a local theatre.

Report of Attorney General Sargent

He Recommends Tightening Up of the Anti-Trust and Prohibition Laws.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Tightening up of the anti-trust and prohibition laws are among numerous legislative recommendations in the annual report of Attorney General Sargent, prepared today for congress.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, urged amendment of the Volstead act to permit courts in their discretion to impose jail sentences "heavy enough to fit the facts."

Reporting that progress against rum smugglers in the last year "has been interesting if not encouraging," she reiterated the plea of the treasury department for legislation to support the rum treaties worked out with foreign governments relative to ship seizures.

Mrs. Willebrandt reported "increasing cooperation" by the foreign governments in the suppressing of rum smuggling and related that the Honduran government had dismissed two of its consuls for issuing temporary sea letters to vessels. Both Great Britain and Honduras, she said, had indicated a desire to prevent the use of their flags by rum runners.

William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney general and in charge of anti-trust cases, suggested possible amendments to section seven of the Clayton act without definite recommendations. He said there had been criticism that the act outlawed the acquisition of stock of a competing corporation but not the acquisition of its property and assets.

Gradual clearing up of the thousands of criminal and civil cases growing out of the war was shown in the reports of other assistants.

Attorney General Sargent reiterated his request for legislative proposals submitted a year ago and suggested numerous other recommendations, including the report of conference of senior circuit judges.

He also renewed his request for additional salaries for district attorneys and their assistants.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

WASHINGTON, December 6.—(AP)—A birds-eye review of bustling interior department activities that reach into many fan nooks and deep below the surface of the earth was given today in the annual report of Secretary Work.

It was one of the few annual accountings of modern times in which a cabinet officer merely told of the many important tasks his department was doing, and asked for nothing.

The 104 printed pages formed a handbook of facts and figures descriptive of departmental interests ranging from the conduct of many-million-dollar reclamation projects to the number of Portuguese admitted during the year to the governmental hospital at Kalihi, Hawaii.

In view of the fact that congress already is occupied with a continuing reclamation program, that subject was given barely one-one hundredth the space of the whole report. Even this was devoted entirely to a tabloid recital taht the reclamation bureau had made certain surveys and carried out certain consrtuction authorized by congress, had provided complete irrigation for 1,302,970 acres and partial water supply to 1,340,000 acres, operated more than 100 dams and 16,000 miles of canlas and built 421 bridges, 446 culverts and 82 flumes.

The scarcely less conspicuous bureau of pensions recited its accomplishments in three-quarters of a page. It paid during the year $207,844,348 in pensions, and received and classified 42,894 Civil war and 72,437 Spanish war pension claims. All of this required the mailing out of 6,311,106 separate checks.

Congress Opens With Usual Formalities

Challenge of the Qualifications of Senator Gould of Maine Single Exception.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—With a setting resembling a college home-coming celebration, congress launched into another session today with an unwieldy program for its brief business schedule of about two and a half months.

Promptly at noon, the gavels fell in senate and house and the legislative grind was on. Although a bit of the dramatic accompanied opening ceremonies in the senate when qualification of Arthur R Gould of Maine was challenged as he stood waiting to be sworn in, the rest of the procedure was gone through perfunctorily in both houses.

After old friendships were again united and new ones acquired, a hush fell over the broad chambers of the big white building on the hill as the clock struck twelve. Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth brought down their stumped mallets, prayer was offered and the routine began.

Each house adopted a number of formal resolutions, seated new members elected to fill vacancies and, within an hour, adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Albert B. Cummins of Iowa and the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, of Maine.

Roll calls established quorums in both houses in the senate 88 answered to their names while in the house 368 were recorded present.

Senator Curtis, republican leader, Senator Robinson, leader of the democrats, Representative Tilson, house republican leader and Representative Garrett, minority leader, constituted a committee that officially notified President Coolidge that congress had met and was ready to transact business. It will report back tomorrow when it is expected the president's message will be delivered to the capitol by messenger.

Aside from the Gould resolution no other legislative proposals were introduced in the senate. In the house, however, the deluge of prospective legislative acts began almost at the instant the body was called to order. Several dozen found their way into the hopper to swell the thousands now listed on the calendar untouched from last session.

Among them was one by Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, proposing a national referendum on prohibition; one by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, for locating a summer white house west of the Mississippi river, while another by Representative Brand, democrat, Georgia, would authorize an appropriation of $50,000,000 to guarantee against bank failure the deposits in national banks throughout the country.

SENATOR WALSH QUESTIONS QUALIFICATIONS OF GOULD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—As Arthur R. Gould stood today before Vice President Dawes in a crowded senate chamber, ready to take the oath as a new republican member from Maine, his qualifications were challenged by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana.

No effort was made by Walsh to prevent Gould from being sworn in, but in a resolution, offered from the floor before the oath could be administered, he proposed an investigation of charges that the Maine senator had a hand in an alleged $100,000 bribe of an official of the Canadian province of New Brunswick.

The Montana senator wanted immediate action on his proposal but on objections offered by Senators Curtis, the republican leader, and Moses, republican, New Hampshire, it went over until tomorrow. This procedure determined, Gould, his arm linked with that of Senator Hale, of Maine, his face scarlet from embarrassment and his eyes fixed straight ahead, took the oath.

The move of Senator Walsh apparently took Gould unaware, surprised almost the entire senate membership, gave the crowded galleries a few excited moments and lent a dramatic touch to otherwise drab proceedings. The voice of the Montana senator, demanding an inquiry, boomed through the hushed chamber as Gould and several other new senators stood before the vice president's dias.

No sooner had the resolution which calls for an investigation by the senate elections committee to determine what action, if any is warranted, been read by a clerk than Curtis and Moses shot in their objections to immediate consideration. The republican leader held that the swearing in of senators could not be stopped by such a resolution; Moses contended that action under the rules had to go over until tomorrow.

The resolution, taking cognizance of charges made during Gould's campaign for the seat of the late Senator Fernald specified that Gould was to be seated, the inquiry to be undertaken later. It said that it would be "inconsistent" of the senate to ignore the charges.

SOVIET MINISTER MAKES BITTER ATTACK ON ENGLAND

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A bitter attack against England was made by Foreign Minister chitcherin of Soviet Russia today in a talk with newspapermen at the Soviet embassy. M. Tchitcherin arrived here last Wednesday on a trip for his health.

England he charged, was making attempts to isolate Russia by forming an anti-Russian union of nations, and "if this program met with response on the continent, it would represent the greatest danger for further peaceful development of political relations." He added that "the bonds of friendship uniting us to Germany are already so firm that I fully rely on them."

ALLEN B. LINCOLN COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF ASHFORD

Resents the Imputation That the Town Has Contemplated Asking the State of Connecticut to Administer Its Affairs as a Receiver—Declares the Town is Not in Bad Financial Situation—Now the Only Town in the State Without a Railroad, Trolley, Stage or Motor Bus Line—Asserts That the Highway Problem is Ashford's Great Burden.

ASHFORD, Dec. 6.—(AP)—This town has never thought of giving up its right to self-government by asking the state of Connecticut to step in and administer its affairs as a receiver, Allen B. Lincoln, member of the last general assembly said today, in reply to a report that electors wished to abandon administration of their town.

Such a thing could not be done, Mr. Lincoln said, it never has been done and any story that the town contemplated this was "fiction." The town is not in a bad financial condition which would require a receiver, Mr. Lincoln said. With a population of 872 at the last census its grand list in 1924, was $432,285 and its indebtedness only $9,306.18. Its tax rate, 26 mills, is high because of increasing expense of highways.

"So far as agriculture is concerned," said Mr. Lincoln, "the town is better off than it was, say twenty years ago, and conditions are improving steadily in spite of highway handicaps. Many who have come to town, who are not native born, are successful in the poultry business. The town has more than twice the area of Hartford and is nearly twice as large as New Haven. It has nearly 100 miles of highway and it can be readily understood that it is impossible for the town which is so small in resources to keep most traveled roads in condition for motor traffic which is demanded by such traffic. It had been suggested that back roads be abandoned but if you lived on a back road would you desire to be utterly abandoned to the mud of spring and the snow drifts of winter? In the old days a farmer used his oxen to break out the road to his neighbor but now oxen and the ox sled are a memory and the R. F. D men are expected to do the 'breaking out.' I have been told that the government has threatened to abandon one or two rural routes unless local residents keep the roads open. In brief, the highway problem is Ashford's great burden."

In the last general assembly Mr. Lincoln made an effort to get state's assistance for the town roads. On this point, Mr. Lincoln says that Ashford is now the only town in the state which is without a railroad, trolley, stage or even motor bus line because it has not a single road which can be called a through line for motor traffic, or a trunk or state-aid highway. The contention of Ashford's representatives in the last general assembly, was that the state should take note of these conditions and because it has not it has been "unfair" to Ashford.

The problem of the "cross-roads" still remains, Mr. Lincoln says, and electors have had opinion that the selectmen should take hold of the problem and devise improvement. The board which went into office October 1, has made improvement, and it is the hope of the town that Nathan Armitage and Gilbert Mathewson, the newly elected representatives may convince the general assembly that Ashford is entitled to relief. "But," said Mr. Lincoln, "there is nothing to that story that the town wants the state to step in and administer its affairs."

"Could it be done?" It never has been done and I do not know such a thing would be possible."

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING OF HER HUSBAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith M. Bishop was taken into custody here late today for investigation in connection with the slaying of her husband, Luther Bishop, state detective, who was shot to death at his home early yesterday.

Two pistols, which it is said Bishop always kept at his side while he slept, were found today concealed in a bundle of clothes on the second floor of the Bishop home. Officials expressed the belief that the detective had been slain with these weapons. Both had been fired recently, police said.

Members of a coroner's jury found the pistols while making a search of the house. The jury will meet again tomorrow to continue its inquiry.

No charges were brought against Mrs Bishop. She was merely held pending further investigation of the

ESTIMATES FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS $65,477,365

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The nation's seacoast and inland harbors and the waterways and rivers will require $65,477,365 during the year beginning next July 1 to keep them in shape to transport the vast volume of traffic which last year amounted to $23,946,000,000 in commerce and passengers numbering 937,100,734.

The recommendations for Providence district: Pollock Rip Shoals $50,000; Pawtucket river $64,000; Harbor of Refuge, Point Judith, $176,000; Connecticut River, below Hartford, $46,000; Duck Island harbor $40,000; Housatonic river $18,000.

QUASH DRY LAW CHARGE AGAINST GOV. OF ALABAMA

BAY MINETTE, Ala., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Charges of violating the prohibition law against Governor W. W. Brandon, seven of his friends and a negro servant, were nolle prossed in county court here today, after Jack Daniels, of Birmingham, the eighth member of the governor's party taken in a raid on a fishing camp where he was a guest, had pleaded guilty to ownership of 12 quarts of whiskey seized in the camp.

Daniels was fined $250 and costs, whereupon the others were dismissed. Governor Brandon and four of his co-defendants did not appear in court.

$100,000,000 WILL BE ADDED TO RAILROAD WAGE BILL

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Approximately $100,000,000 will be added to the wage bill of the American railroads in 1927, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson company and the sponsor of two railroad merger projects in the east and the southwest, predicts today.

Mr. Loree based his forecast on the $15,000,000 increase in wages granted to conductors and trainmen of the eastern roads last week and the pending demands of firemen, engineers and other workers. A corresponding increase for the country as a whole would be roughly equivalent to one month's net earnings for all class one railroads.

DECISION EXPECTED ON SEIZURE OF VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—An early decision by the supreme court on the right of the coast guard to seize American vessels beyond the 12-mile limit for violations of federal laws, as presented in a case from Connecticut brought by Arthur Maul, owner of the boat Underwriter, was indicated today when the court advanced the case for hearing Jan. 17.

RUM SCHOONER IN PORT IN NORTHERN MEXICO

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Arsene J. French rum schooner, on which J. M Matthews, assistant prohibition administrator of the Gulf zone, and Petty Officer Handley, of the coast guard, were kidnapped a week ago, was located tonight in a port in northern Mexico.

COLD WAVES AND STORMS RESPONSIBLE FOR 12 DEATHS

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—New England counted twelve or more deaths tonight due directly or indirectly to two cold waves, gales and snowstorms in quick succession during the past few days. torn battered shipping had just began to move out of the harbors today when there came a new storm threat in a warning of the weather bureau of north and northwest gales from Sandy Hook to Eastport, Me.

A snowstorm that followed yesterday's record plunge in temperature covered New England with snow that ranged in depth from 2 to 9 inches in northern sections to twelve inches in Boston. Transportation delays were common and schools were closed in many places as the cities and towns dug themselves out.

Deaths in this region included one from freezing, four from exhaustion while fighting snow-drifts, four during railroad accidents while the victims apparently were blinded by the snow, and several automobil fatalities.

In the northern section the mercury again flirted with zero tonight and the cold, although less severe than yesterday, continued in southern New England.

MEXICO PRIESTLESS ON HOLIEST OF ALL HOLY DAYS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6.—(AP)—For the first time in our centuries the Catholic churches of Mexico will be priestless upon the holiest of all holy days to most Mexicans—December 12, anniversary of the traditional appearance of Mexico's patron saint, the Virgin of Guadalupe, to a poor peon. For the first time the church and shrine of Guadalupe—located a few miles from Mexico City at the place where, in 1531, tradition says, the Indian Juan Diego saw the saint—will have no priestly ceremonial upon the day commemorating her appearance.

Although the foremost religious festival in the Mexican calendar will be without clergy this year, more pilgrims than ever before are expected to flock to the virgin's shrine on Guadalupe day. Ordinarily from 100,000 to 300,000 worshippers congregate there each December 12. This year Catholic leaders have called for an attendance even greater than in the past because it will be the first Guadalupe day since priests were withdrawn from Catholic churches July 31 by the Episcopate, to protest the government's religious regulations.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Congress convened with 12,000 bills on the legislative docket.

The Fall-Doheny oil trial was resumed with Admiral J. K. Robison on the stand.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, asked for an investigation by the senate of charges that Senator Gould of Maine, paid $100,000 to New Brunswick province officials.

MAN KILLED HIMSELF WHEN CONFRONTED BY A POSSE

DENVER, Col., Dec. 6.—(AP)—When a sheriff's posse, seeking another man, came upon J. E. Dale, Fort Morgan hotel manager, on the bank of an irrigation ditch near Fort Morgan today, Dale shot and killed himself with a revolver, according to members of the posse.

The posse was looking for John W. Hayes, who was alleged to have shot his wife and a neighbor at Fort Morgan last night. None of the party knew Hayes by sight, and they, supposing Dale was Hayes, told him to put up his hands. The reason for Dale's act was not known.

ADMIRAL ROBISON MADE A PUGNACIOUS WITNESS

During Cross-Examination in the Fall-Doheny Case the Admiral Clashed With Owen J. Roberts, a Member of the Government's Special Oil Counsel—Witness Permitted the Cross-Examiner to Correct From the Official Record What He Had Said of a Navy Department Conference.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)— The commonplace courtroom where Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny are on trial for criminal conspiracy was rocked today by a rumbling exchange between a pugnacious admiral and a quick-spoken and determined prosecutor.

The admiral-witness was John K. Robison, a storm center of the oil controversy ever since the senate committee discovered three years ago that he approved on behalf of the navy the oil leasing policy of 1922. His cross-examiner was Owen J. Roberts, a member of the government's special oil counsel.

Many of the verbal depth-bombs launched by Roberts served the purpose of increasing the intensity of the broadsides that came back in reply. But once or twice the admiral showed signs of losing his sea legs. He conceded he had been wrong in testifying previously that he had not talked to Doheny in New York about the Elk Hills lease. He permitted Roberts to correct from the official record what he had said about a navy department conference. In one quick exchange he agreed that he might have taken a different attitude had he known at the time that Doheny had advanced Fall $100,000 while Fall was in the cabinet.

The engagement lasted most of the day, and while it was at its height the government's special counsel received word of a major victory in another quarter. Upholding the action of the lower courts, a supreme court ruling threw out the protests of Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, against their indictment for criminal conspiracy, and ordered them to trial.

In many ways the two cases run parallel. Fall and Sinclair must face a jury as an outgrowth of the award of the Teapot Dome lease to Sinclair oil interests, just as Fall and Doheny now are on trial as a result of the Elk Hills lease to Doheny's pan-American company. In the Fall-Doheny case the government hinges its hope of conviction on the $100,000. In the Fall-Sinclair case it will hinge on allegations of the passage of a smaller sum between the principals.

Secretary Wilbur of the navy department did not testify today and Frank J. Hogan, chief of the defense attorneys, said he might not be called at all.

The navy officer held over and over from the witness stand today that the then Secretary Denby and his subordinates in the navy department not only approved the leasing policies attributed by the prosecution to Fall, but were anxious that some arrangement be made speedily to have a supply of storage oil on hand at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, in case of emergency.

Roberts developed that the Pearl Harbor plans were under secret discussion at the moment the Washington arms conference was formulating a new peace deal in the Pacific. He also asked the witness whether it was not a fact that in contradiction of the defense explanation that "state secrets" compelled secret negotiations for the leases, construction work at Pearl Harbor was actually done by "foreign labor". Admiral Robison said he did not know.

Asked about Secretary Denby's first reaction to the interior department's proposal to open the Elk Hills reserve to leasing, Robison quoted Denby as saying:

"It's full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

"Denby said that!" Roberts returned sharply.

"He did," the response was quick as a shot.

"And did he have anything to do with it after that?"

"He did—and I am proud of it," thundered the admiral.

Coming to the $100,000, the prosecutor got Robison's reaction into the record with a single squarely-aimed question, then cut the witness off before he could go into details.

"If you had known of that loan," said the lawyer, "your conduct in behalf of the navy might have been different?"

"Yes, I think that if I had known everything I might have acted differently, but—"

"Exactly, exactly," and Roberts moved swiftly into his next subject.

Doheny, in court again today with an infected arm in a sling, after a week end in bed, gave attentive ear to the matching of words, and indulged in an occasional smile. His arm bothered him considerably, however, and his doctors tonight determined upon a second lancing operation.

The defense believe they lost an important point late in the day when the court declined to permit examination of L. P. Barneson, president of the General Petroleum of California, regarding his drilling operations in the Elk Hills reserve, and upon appraisal of the pan-American contract from the oil man's point of view.

FIVE WORKMEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION 2,800 POUNDS POWDER

PENNSGROVE, N. J., Dec. 6—(AP)—An explosion of 2,800 pounds of sporting powder at the Carney's Point plant of the Du Pont Powder company today killed five workmen and injured others, none of them seriously.

The dead:

William O. Tonden, 64, married, foreman, Salem, N. J.

Ezra Herman, 44, unmarried, Deepwater Point, N. J.

John Kelly, 19, married, Pennsgrove.

George Wivel, 24, unmarried, Pennsgrove.

Winfield Bleass, 28, married, Carney's point.

Of the injured four remained in a hospital. They are Alfred Bradway of Salem and William Freis, Fred H. Borden, and John Graham, all of Pennsgrove. Freis has a broken leg while the others are suffering from bruises and lacerations which may keep them in the the hospital for a few days.

The other five injured were treated for cuts and returned to work.

The accident occurred when Tonden, a first class operator, in charge of the other four men who were killed, as a crew of helpers was unloading the 2,800 pounds of powder at the dry house As all the men immediately concerned were killed, the cause of the explosion is not known, but the company is conducting a thorough investigation.

The explosion wrecked the building and damaged the adjoining glazing house in which those who were injured were at work.

PLAN OF DEFENSE IN $500,000 BREACH OF PROMISE CASE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6—(AP)—John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer, who is being sued for $500,000 by Miss Anne Caldwell, musical review actress, in a breach of promise action, will seek to prove that no engagement existed and that the plaintiff had made the remark "You can get money from a man without marrying him."

The defense was outlined by Rody P. Marshall attorney for Hubbard, in his opening statement to a federal court jury today after Miss Caldwell had closed her case presenting depositions by W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and others and by calling the defendant to the stand in an effort to show he is worth $5,000,000.

Marshall told the jury that Hubbard would show that Miss Caldwell told him she liked Norman Bel Geddes, New York stage scenic designer and motion picture director, better than Hubbard, and that enroute to California, where she went to seek a career in the movies, travelling west on the same train with Geddes, she stopped off at Pittsburgh and informed Hubbard she would call it "quits" if he would pay off a $2,000 mortgage on her parents farm in Chester county.

GENERAL STRIKE IN HANKOW HAS FAILED TO MATERIALIZE

LONDON, Dec. 6—(AP)—News that the threatened general strike in Hankow has failed to materialize and that the situation there has become easy enough to make it likely that British marines may withdraw from the foreign concession, has removed a great deal of anxiety from official quarters and the public mind.

These developments were interpreted here as indicating that the Cantonese government has an effective hold on th situation and as justifying the government's refusal to be drawn into any precipitate action in China.

FORMER SHERIFF AT HERRIN IS CHARGED WITH MURDER

MARION, Ill., Dec. 6—(AP)—George Galligan, bitter anti-Klansman, retired today after four turbulent years as sheriff of Williamson county and thirty minutes later was arrested by Oren Coleman, his successor, on a murder charge.

Galligan was charged, in a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Charles Woolard, with the murder of her husband, one of six killed in a klan and anti-klan gun fight at Herrin, Ills., August 30 1924. The arrest was deplored by klansmen who in the interest of peace had agreed with members of the other faction that there would be no further prosecutions on either side.

The former sheriff furnished $5,000 bond pending action of the grand jury.

Galligan, whose spectacular four year term left him aged far beyond his 38 years, said he planned to return to the coal mines which he entered as a boy of 11.

Coleman, the new sheriff, is 40 years old, a bachelor, university graduate, World war veteran, retired farmer and former high school principal. He is more than six feet tall and is stockily built and square jawed. He was elected on a law enforcement platform.

11 JURORS SELECTED FOR THE MELLETT MURDER TRIAL

CANTON, Ohio, Dec. 6—(AP)—Eleven tentative jurors were selected today at the opening of Patrick Eugene McDermott's trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher slain on the night of July 16.

Opposition to capital punishment and opinions as to McDermott's guilt resulted in the dismissal of 16 of the 34 veniremen examined. When Common Pleas Judge Edwin H. Uhl dismissed court today five women and six men had been temporarily seated with prospects of an additional venire of 75 being called before the jury is completed.

Presentions against underworld attempts to create a disturbance were marked. Nine special deputy sheriffs were stationed about the county jail and court house, and close watch of spectators was maintained.

NO AGREEMENT ON INTER-ALLIED FORCES IN GERMANY

GENEVA, Dec. —(AP)—Abolition of inter-allied military control in Germany is believed to be a step nearer realization although the "big five" powers meeting in secret conference today failed to reach an agreement.

The powers represented were Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, acted as chairman. On emerging from the conference the statesmen appeared hopeful.

Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, who came to Geneva rather downcast, but hopeful that what Germany wanted would be granted, seemed more optimistic than at any time since his arrival.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SCHOOL ENUMERATION FIGURES

HARTFORD, Dec. 6—(AP)—School enumeration figures received at the office of the comptroller today and announced by Chief Clerk John H. Belden, were as follows: Coventry, 373; Avon, 405; Naugatuck, 2,830; Westport, 1,886; Greenwich, 5,589; Canterbury, 269; Montville, 1,069; East Windsor, 1,078; Ledyard, 868; Ellington, 590; Derby, 2,664; West Haven, 5,516; East Haddam, 564; Old Saybrook, 836; Berlin, 1,540; Stonington, 2,765; Middlefield, 346; Essex, 563.

Report of Attorney General Sargent

He Recommends Tightening Up of the Anti-Trust and Prohibition Laws.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Tightening up of the anti-trust and prohibition laws are among numerous legislative recommendations in the annual report of Attorney General Sargent, prepared today for congress.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, urged amendment of the Volstead act to permit courts in their discretion to impose jail sentences "heavy enough to fit the facts."

Reporting that progress against rum smugglers in the last year "has been interesting if not encouraging," she reiterated the plea of the treasury department for legislation to support the rum treaties worked out with foreign governments relative to ship seizures.

Mrs. Willebrandt reported "increasing cooperation" by the foreign governments in the suppressing of rum smuggling and related that the Honduran government had dismissed two of its consuls for issuing temporary sea letters to vessels. Both Great Britain and Honduras, she said, had indicated a desire to prevent the use of their flags by rum runners.

William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney general and in charge of anti-trust cases, suggested possible amendments to section seven of the Clayton act without definite recommendations. He said there had been criticism that the act enjoined the acquisition of stock of a competing corporation but not the acquisition of its property and assets.

Gradual clearing up of the thousands of criminal and civil cases growing out of the war was shown in the reports of other assistants.

Attorney General Sargent reiterated his request for legislative proposals submitted a year ago and suggested numerous other recommendations, including the report of conference of senior circuit judges.

He also renewed his request for additional salaries for district attorneys and their assistants.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

WASHINGTON, December 6—(AP)—A birds-eye review of bustling interior department activities that reach into many far nooks and deep below the surface of the earth was given today in the annual report of Secretary Work.

It was one of the few annual accountings of modern times in which a cabinet officer merely told of the many important tasks his department was doing, and asked for nothing.

The 104 printed pages formed a handbook of facts and figures descriptive of departmental interests ranging from the Canadian migratory bird treaty to the number of Portuguese admitted during the year to the governmental hospital at Kalihi, Hawaii.

In view of the fact that congress already is occupied with a continuing reclamation program, the report was given barely one-one hundredth the space of the whole report. Even this was devoted entirely to a tabloid recital taht the reclamation bureau had made certain surveys and carried out certain donarticution authorized by congress, and provided complete irrigation for 1,302,970 acres and partial water supply to 1,349,000 acres, operated more than 100 dams and 16,000 miles of canlas and built 431 bridges, 446 culverts and 82 flumes.

The scarcely less conpicuous bureau of pensions recited its accomplishments in three-quarters of a page. It paid during the year $207,846,348 in pensions, and received and classified 42,934 Civil war and 72,437 Spanish war pension claims. All of this required the mailing out of 8,311,106 separate checks.

CLARA OLSON WAS BEATEN TO DEATH BY SWEETHEART

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Basing its verdict on a letter revealing plans for an elopement, a coroner's jury tonight decided that Clara Olson, 18, farmer daughter, was beaten to death by her sweetheart, Erdman Olson, 18.

The jury's verdict was unnecessary to hold the 18 year old youth for murder, as a warrant charging that crime was issued last week. He has been missing since Sept 27. A few days after the warrant was issued her body was found in a shallow grave near the youth's home.

The letter was found on the girl's body and gave elaborate plans for the girl who was about to become a mother, to meet the writer the night of Sept. 9, the night she vanished, and of plans for a clandestine marriage. It was unsigned but the writing was identified as Erdman's by the girl's sister. The youth vanished shortly after the girl, leaving a letter stating that he was not involved with the girl but would never be taken alive.

"We find," said the report to the coroner, "that Clara Dorothy Olson came to her death by a violent blow administered by Erdman Olson to the left side of her head, causing fracture of the skull and violent hemorrhages, probably in the early morning of Sept. 10."

DEATH OF COUPLE FOUND TO BE FROM UNKNOWN CAUSES

SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 6—(AP)—Death from unknown causes was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury here late today in the cases of Louis F. Sweeney, copper mining engineer of New York, and Madam I. Maingot, 36, member of a wealthy family of Trinidad, South America. The bodies of the couple were found floating in shallow water a quarter of a mile from Venice late Saturday afternoon.

Sweeney was one of the best known mining executives in the United States, associated with the Cerro de Pasco Copper corporation. Madame Maingot is reputed to have been a woman of great wealth and to have known Sweeney for several years, having met him in South America.

MARRIAGE ONCE ANNULLED COUPLE MARRIES AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—Mary McClintic, 19, daughter of Representative McClintic of Oklahoma, and Richard Elibart, 23, whose marriage was annulled several years ago on motion of bride's father because of their ages eloped to Baltimore today and were reunited at the St Paul Protestant Episcopal church. Leiber is an organist in a local theatre.

Congress Opens With Usual Formalities

Challenge of the Qualifications of Senator Gould of Maine Single Exception.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—With a setting resembling a college home-coming celebration, congress launched into another session today with an unwieldy program for its brief business schedule of about two and a half months.

Promptly at noon, the gavels fell in senate and house and the legislative grind was on. Although a bit of the dramatic accompanied opening ceremonies in the senate when qualification of Arthur R. Gould of Maine was challenged as he stood waiting to be sworn in, the rest of the procedure was gone through perfunctorily in both houses.

After old friendships were again united and new ones acquired, a hush fell over the broad chambers of the big white building on the hill as the clock struck twelve. Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth brought down their stumped mallets, prayer was offered and the routine began.

Each house adopted a number of formal resolutions, seated new members elected to fill vacancies and, within an hour, adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa and the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, of Maine.

Roll calls established quorums in both houses in the senate 88 answered to their names while in the house 366 were marked present.

Senator Curtis, republican leader, Senator Robinson, leader of the democrats, Representative Tilson, house republican leader and Representative Garrett, minority leader, constituted a committee that officially notified President Coolidge that congress had met and was ready to transact business. It will report back tomorrow when it is expected the president's message will be delivered to the capitol by messenger.

Aside from the Gould resolution no other legislative proposals were introduced in the senate. In the house, however, the deluge of prospective legislative acts began almost at the instant the body was called to order. Several dozen found their way into the hopper to swell the thousands now listed on the calendar untouched from last session.

Among them was one by Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, proposing a national referendum on prohibition. Another by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, for locating a summer white house west of the Mississippi river, while another by Representative Brand, democrat, Georgia, would authorize an appropriation of $50,000,000 to guard against bank failure the deposits in national banks throughout the country.

SENATOR WALSH QUESTIONS QUALIFICATIONS OF GOULD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—As Arthur R. Gould stood today before Vice President Dawes in a crowded senate chamber, ready to take the oath as a new republican member from Maine, his qualifications were challenged by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana.

No effort was made by Walsh to prevent Gould from being sworn in, but in a resolution, offered from the floor before the oath could be administered, he proposed an investigation of charges that the Maine senator had a hand in an alleged $100,000 bribe of an official of the Canadian province of New Brunswick.

The Montana senator wanted immediate action on his proposal but on objections offered by Senators Curtis, the republican leader, and Moses, republican, New Hampshire, it went over until tomorrow. This procedure determined, Gould, his arm linked with that of Senator Hale, of Maine, his face scarlet from embarrassment and his eyes fixed straight ahead, took the oath.

The move of Senator Walsh apparently took Gould unaware, surprised almost the entire senate membership, gave the crowded galleries a few excited moments and lent a dramatic touch to otherwise drab proceedings. The voice of the Montana senator, demanding an inquiry, boomed through the hushed chamber as Gould and several other new senators stood before the vice president's dias.

No sooner had the resolution which calls for an investigation by the senate elections committee to determine what action, if any is warranted, been read by a clerk than Curtis and Moses shot in their objections to immediate consideration. The republican leader held that the swearing in of senators could not be stopped by such a resolution; Moses contended that action, under the rules had to go over until tomorrow.

The resolution, taking cognizance of charges made during Gould's campaign for the seat of the late Senator Fernald specified that Gould was to be seated, the inquiry to be undertaken later. It said that it would be "inconsistent" of the senate to ignore the charges.

SOVIET MINISTER MAKES BITTER ATTACK ON ENGLAND

BERLIN, Dec. 6—(AP)—A bitter attack against England was made by Foreign Minister chitcherin of Soviet Russian today in a talk with newspapermen at the Soviet embassy. M. Tchitcherin arrived here last Wednesday on a trip for his health.

England he charged, was making attempts to isolate Russia by forming an anti-Russian union of nations, and "if this program met with response on the continent, it would represent the greatest danger for further peaceful development of political relations." He added that "the bonds of friendship uniting us to Germany are already so firm that I fully rely on them."

ALLEN B. LINCOLN COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF ASHFORD

Resents the Imputation That the Town Has Contemplated Asking the State of Connecticut to Administer Its Affaire as a Receiver—Declares the Town is Not in Bad Financial Situation—Now the Only Town in the State Without a Railroad, Trolley, Stage or Motor Bus Line—Asserts That the Highway Problem is Ashford's Great Burden.

ASHFORD, Dec. 6—(AP)—This town has never thought of giving up its right to self-government by asking the state of Connecticut to step in and administer its affairs as a receiver, Allen B. Lincoln, member of the last general assembly said today, in reply to a report that electors wished to abandon administration of their town.

Such a thing could not be done, Mr. Lincoln said, it never has been done and any story that the town contemplated this was "fiction." The town is not in a bad financial condition which would require a receiver, Mr. Lincoln said. With a population of 678 at the last census its grand list in 1924, was $432,285 and its indebtedness only $9,306.18. Its tax rate, 26 mills, is high because of increasing expense of highways.

"So far as agriculture is concerned," said Mr. Lincoln, "the town is better off than it was, say twenty years ago, and conditions are improving steadily in spite of highway handicaps. Many who have come to town, who are not native born, are successful in the poultry business. The town has more than twice the area of Hartford and is nearly twice as large as New Haven. It has nearly 100 miles of highway and it can be readily understood that it is impossible for the town which is so small in resources to keep more than ed roads in condition for motor traffic which is demanded by such traffic. It had been suggested that back roads be abandoned but if you lived on a back road would you desire to be utterly abandoned to the mud of spring and the snow drifts of winter? In the old days a farmer used his oxen to break out the road to his neighbor but neg oxen and the ox sled are a memory and the R. F. D men are expected to the 'breaking out.' I have been told that the government has threatened to abandon one or two rural routes unless local residents keep the roads open. In brief, the highway problem is Ashford's great burden."

In the last general assembly Mr. Lincoln made an effort to get state's assistance for the town roads. On this point, Mr. Lincoln says that Ashford is now the only town in the state which is without a railroad, trolley, stage or even motor bus line because it has not a single road which can be called a through line for motor traffic, or is trunk or state-aid highway. The contention of Ashford's representatives in the last general assembly, was that the state should take note of these conditions and because it has not it has been "unfair" to Ashford.

The problem of the "cross-road" still remains, Mr. Lincoln says, and electors have had opinion that the selectmen should take hold of the problem and devise improvement. The board which went into office October 1, has made improvement, and it is the hope of the town that Nathan Armitage and Gilbert Matherson, the newly elected representatives may convince the general assembly that Ashford is entitled to relief. "But," said Mr. Lincoln, "there is nothing to that story that the town wants the state to step in and administer its affairs."

"Could it be done?" It never has been done and I do not know such a thing would be possible."

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING OF HER HUSBAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Edith M. Bishop was taken into custody here late today for investigation in connection with the slaying of her husband, Luther Bishop, a state detective, who was shot to death at his home early yesterday.

Two pistols, which it is said Bishop always kept at his side while he slept, were found today concealed in a bundle of clothes on the second floor of the Bishop home. Officials expressed the belief that the detective had been slain with these weapons. Both had been fired recently, police said.

Members of a coroner's jury found the pistols while making a search of the house. The jury will meet again tomorrow to continue its inquiry.

No charges were brought against Mrs Bishop. She was merely held pending further investigation of the case.

ESTIMATES FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS $65,477,365

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The nation's seacoast and inland harbors and the waterways and rivers will require, $65,477,365 during the year beginning next July 1 to keep them in shape to transport the vast volume of traffic which last year amounted to $23,946,000,000 in commerce and passengers numbering 937,100,734.

The recommendations for Providence district: Pollock Rip Shoals $50,000; Pawtucket river $64,000; Harbor of Refuge, Point Judith, $176,000; Connecticut River, below Hartford, $40,000; Duck Island harbor $40,000; Housatonic river $12,000.

QUASH DRY LAW CHARGE AGAINST GOV. OF ALABAMA

BAY MINETTE, Ala., Dec. 6—(AP)—Charges of violating the prohibition law against Governor W. W. Brandon, seven of his friends and a negro servant, were nolle prossed in county court here today, after Jack Daniels, of Birmingham, the eighth member of the governor's party taken in a raid on a fishing camp where he was a guest, had pleaded guilty to ownership of 13 quarts of whiskey seized in the camp.

Daniels was fined $250 and cost, whereupon the others were dismissed. Governor Brandon and four of his co-defendants did not appear in court.

$100,000,000 WILL BE ADDED TO RAILROAD WAGE BILL

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP)—Approximately $100,000,000 will be added to the wage bill of the American railroads in 1927, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson company and the sponsor of two railroad merger projects in the east and the southwest, predicts today.

Mr. Loree based his forecast on the $15,000,000 increase in wages granted to conductors and trainmen of the eastern roads last week and the pending demands of firemen, engineers and other workers. A corresponding increase for the country as a whole would be roughly equivalent to one month's net earnings for all class one railroads.

DECISION EXPECTED ON SEIZURE OF VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—An early decision by the supreme court on the right of the coast guard to seize American vessels beyond the 13-mile limit for violations of federal laws, as presented in a case from Connecticut brought by Arthur Maul, owner of the boat Underwriter, was indicated today when the court advanced the case for hearing Jan. 17.

RUM SCHOONER IN PORT IN NORTHERN MEXICO

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 6—(AP)—The Arsene J., French rum schooner, on which J. M Matthews, assistant prohibition administrator of the Gulf zone, and Petty Officer Handley, of the coast guard, were kidnapped a week ago, was located tonight in a port in northern Mexico.

COLD WAVES AND STORMS RESPONSIBLE FOR 12 DEATHS

BOSTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—New England counted twelve or more deaths tonight due directly or indirectly to two cold waves, gales and snowstorms in quick succession during the past few days. torm battered shipping had just began to move out of the harbors today when there came a new storm threat in a warning of the weather bureau of north and northwest gales from Sandy Hook to Eastport, Me.

A snowstorm that followed yesterday's record plunge in temperature covered New England with snow that ranged in depth from 3 to 9 inches in northern sections to twelve inches in Boston. Transportation delays were common and schools were closed in many places as the cities and towns dug themselves out.

Deaths in this region included one from freezing, four from exhaustion while fighting snow-drifts, four during railroad accidents while the victims apparently were blinded by the snow, and several automobil fatalities.

In the northern section the mercury again flirted with zero tonight and the cold, although less severe than yesterday, continued in southern New England.

MEXICO PRIESTLESS ON HOLIEST OF ALL HOLY DAYS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6—(AP)—For the first time in our centuries the Catholic churches of Mexico will be priestless upon the holiest of all holy days to most Mexicans—December 12, anniversary of the traditional appearance of Mexico's patron saint, the Virgin of Guadalupe, to a poor peon. For the first time the church and shrine of Guadalupe—located a few miles from Mexico City at the place where, in 1531, tradition says, the Indian Juan Diego saw the saint—will have no priestly ceremonial upon the day commemorating her appearance.

Although the foremost religious festival in the Mexican calendar will be without clergy this year, more pilgrims than ever before are expected to flock to the virgin's shrine on Guadalupe day. Ordinarily from 100,000 to 300,000 worshippers congregate there each December 12. This year Catholic leaders have called for an attendance even greater than in the past because it will be the first Guadalupe day since priests were withdrawn from Catholic churches July 31 by the Episcopate, to protest the government's religious regulations.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Congress convened with 12,000 bills on the legislative docket.

The Fall-Doheny oil trial was resumed with Admiral J. K. Robison on the stand.

Attorney General Sargent asked congress to tighten up the anti-trust and prohibition laws.

The army engineers asked for $65,477,365 to keep rivers and harbors in condition during the coming year.

The supreme court refused to dismiss the criminal charges against Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, in the Teapot Dome case.

Secretary Kellogg announced that Chile's reply was a "practical acceptance" of his plan to settle the Tacna-Arica dispute.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, asked for an investigation by the senate of charges that Senator Gould of Maine, paid $100,000 to New Brunswick province officials.

MAN KILLED HIMSELF WHEN CONFRONTED BY A POSSE

DENVER, Col., Dec. 6—(AP)—When a sheriff's posse, seeking another man, came upon J. E. Dale, Fort Morgan hotel manager, on the bank of an irrigation ditch near Fort Morgan today, Dale shot and killed himself with a revolver, according to members of the posse.

The posse was looking for John W. Hayes, who was alleged to have shot his wife and a neighbor at Fort Morgan last night. None of the party knew Hayes by sight, and they, supposing Dale was Hayes, told him to put up his hands. The reason for Dale's act was not known.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 864 Main St. Telephone 1191-5

ONLY ONE NON-OFFICER ATTENDED CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 6—Nine electors braved the snow Monday to attend the special city meeting in the town hall in the afternoon and with practically no opposition approved the budget of estimated expenses for the next fiscal years as prepared by the common council and totalling $200,035. The resolution for the adoption of the estimates was presented by Corporation Counsel William A. King. The resolution gave authority to the common council to make the required appropriations. The budget figure last year was $211,955. Mayor John C. Tracy explained the fact that the interest of $14,000, an amount twice larger than last year, had increased through the issuance of the new $100,000 water bonds and West Main street sewer bonds. Eugene J. Randall questioned some of the estimates and gave it as his opinion that the city had a poor bookkeeping system in placing all money together for the payment of bills. He felt that all of the accounts should be separate in order that a rapid glance would give the standing of every department. Alderman Walter R. King advanced the information that a new system of bookkeeping was now being installed and that accountants were already at work on the project. The new system will go into effect with the beginning of the new business year. Attending the meeting were Mayor John C. Tracy, City Clerk James S. Donohue, Jr., Alderman Walter R. King, Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro, Assessors George E. Gifford and Arthur J. Dubreuil, Corporation Counsel William A. King and Eugene J. Randall.

CHAPLIN MAN AWARDED MORE MONEY FOR DAMAGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 6—State Referee John K. Beach handed down a decision Monday awarding to Charles S. Turner of Chaplin benefits for land taken by the state highway department to the amount of $435, nearly three times the figure of the state highway department. Mr. Turner's strip of land was taken over along with others in building the three and three-quarter miles of new concrete highway from North Windham to Chaplin. Mr. Turner owns about an acre of land in Chaplin and the department took over a strip in the rear, appraising the damages at $175 and the benefits of $25. Upon being allowed this amount Mr. Turner took an appeal on the grounds that the taking of the strip of land caused damage to his poultry raising plant. State Referee Beach heard the case in this city, Tuesday, November 9, with Attorney S. B. Harvey representing the plaintiff. State Referee Beach found that Mr. Turner's damages are $450 and benefits $25, making a net award of $425.

The speedy and efficient work of the operators at the local telephone exchange, coupled with the valiant efforts of the volunteer fire fighters which they summoned, saved the one and one-half story building known as the Charles Turner place in Chaplin from destruction by flames Sunday night. The building is now owned by Rose Morsn and occupied by Millard Gelway. Mr. Gelway had started a fire in the stove and while tending to other duties about the house heard crackling noises. He found that fire had penetrated the walls of the old brick chimney and the wood work had been ignited. His lone attempt to check the blaze proved useless and a message was sent to the local exchange and the alert operator sent out an S. O. S. series of calls through Chaplin and over a score of men responded. The blazing woodwork was quickly chopped away and with some danger too as part of the old chimney came tumbling down while this work was in progress. The blaze was extinguished without extensive damage.

Stanley J. Sumner, graduate of Windham high school and of Yale university, class of 1924 will soon enter into partnership with George S. Elliott in the insurance business thereby bringing about the first change in many years in one of the city's most prominent insurance agencies. The agency has a history which dates back to the early days of Willimantic when the business was held by the agencies of Silas F. Loomer, Charles N. Andrew, A. B. Adams and Jerome B. Baldwin.

Sunday's snow storm which continued well into the night left eight inches of snow on the level and drifts two and three feet high, giving the city street department a real job to dig out from under and open the way for vehicular and pedestrian traffic. One of the two auto street plows which were placed in commission broke down and when needed most was undergoing repairs in a garage. These are the trucks which some of the electors said were good enough some months ago in voting down an appropriation to purchase new ones or even build a garage for the old ones.

The state highways in this section were rapidly cleared of snow Monday morning and most of the country roads although somewhat hazardous, were passable. Except in extreme drifts, breaking through the snow was a comparatively easy matter due to the lightness of the flakes. As the wind came up in the afternoon snow furries rose in sparkling spray through the air with a beautiful effect except in cases where the snow was blown back into recently cleared paths.

Alexander Hamilton Pomeroy, 81, one of the oldest inhabitants of Coventry died at a Manchester hospital Sunday following an operation sustained at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Mr. Pomeroy was rushed to the hospital at six o'clock Saturday evening. He was born in Coventry and lived at Pleasant View farm for the past sixty years. A staunch democrat, he participated in the political issues of his town and was intensely interested in state and national politics. He was registrar of voters in Coventry for several years. He held membership in the Masons, being raised in Uriel lodge in Merrow. Surviving is one son, H. B. Pomeroy and one grandson, Walter B. Pomeroy, both of Coventry, also two sisters, Mrs. T. M. Day of 2 Farmington avenue, Hartford, and Mrs. Fannie Curtis of 76 Forest street, Hartford.

Michael Grady of 76 Oak street died at St. Joseph's hospital at 1.30 o'clock Monday afternoon. He was a past grand knight of san Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus and also affiliated with San Jose assembly No. 14. The deceased was an devout member of St. Joseph's parish. Surviving him is his wife; three sons, Francis and Austin of Hartford and Vincent of south Coventry and one sister, Mrs. John McQuillan of this city.

A Cadillac sedan, used as a public service car and operated by Edward Allbosek and a Hudson coach driven by Arthur Ashton and owned by John T. Ashton collided at the intersection of Union and Jackson streets Saturday evening causing some damage to the Hudson. The drivers notified Traffic Officer Bombria that they would settle the matter between themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pukallus and daughter, Virginia, of Norwich were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lamb, Sunday.

Mrs. Henry King of Chestnut street is spending the winter with her son, Clytus King and family in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Everett entertained their daughter, Mrs. Homer R. Turner of Windsor over the week end.

WESTERLY

CITY COUNCIL APPOINTS CHAMPLIN DEPUTY CHIEF

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 6—Westerly town council held its December meeting in the council chambers this morning.

Following the adjournment of the regular council session on motion of Councilman Rogers R. Trainer, the council retired into executive session and at the adjournment of this meeting it was reported that Westerly Patrolman George H. Champlin had been elected a police lieutenant and deputy chief of police of Westerly.

Police Lieutenant Champlin, who became a member of the Westerly police force about nine years ago on the death of Police Sergeant Edwin E. West, was born in Westerly the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Champlin. He attended the public schools of the town and then entered the employ of F. F. Haswell and Son, grocers and later was with the John T. Edmond company. He took an active part about three years ago when the seizure of a $20,000 truckload of booze at Thompson's Corners was made. Known for his courteous attention to automobilists, Officer Champlin was detailed for several summer seasons' duty at Watch Hill. Lieutenant Champlin will assume his responsibilities at an early date and act as chief of police when Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown is out of town.

When the matter of the payment of monthly bills came up the council gave considerable consideration to the payment of the last election officials whose labor was increased two hours over previous elections and who had extra labor in the number of appropriation bond issues which appeared on the ballot. It was finally voted to pay the moderators and clerks $12 each and the supervisors and gatetenders $9 each, an increase of $2 each.

The item of damage done to fowls by dogs appeared the largest it has been for months, the amount voted paid being $80 to Fred P. York.

The report of Superintendent of Health Dr Samuel C. Webster, was voted approved as follows:

Number of November contagious diseases 8, scarlet fever 5, measles 1. The officer also reported that the town ordinance concerning the connection of properties with the sewer main drains had not been complied with by the following on Main street:

Dacey and Maxwell, 46-48; Robert Dunsdale, 54 (not partially); Utter company 56-64; Martha A. Tefft, 112-117; Smith Granite company, 153-161; Estate Ophelia Dodge, 168; Max Nocenski, Frank S. Robbins, 201-205. Others who have receive previous notices have been Clyde Mills, Edward Barna, Nevins property, W. S. Prue, Leonard House, W. A. Wilcox, C. E. Roche, Isaac Bent property, Walter A. Wilkinson and Raymond Wiseman.

Westerly Milk Inspector Dr. Thomas E. Robinson reported that he had received and granted 109 applications for dealers' licenses; 184 samples of milk and 14 of cream had been taken and 9 were deficient in butter fat, 4 had excessive water and 7 contained filth. The testing had been in accordance with the Rhode Island milk bill, and tuberculine tests had been required.

Approval was voted the November report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, as follows: Six arrests on the complaints, driving while under the influence of liquor, 3; intoxication, 2; insanity 1.

The action of Westerly Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton was voted approved in his issue of notes for the indebtedness of the town amounting to $23,200, dated Dec. 30, 1926 and due June 30, 1927.

Much of the council session was taken up in the consideration of establishing a business area at Watch Hill, where there now exists a residential area. A letter was read from the Westerly zoning commission in which it was stated that that board wished to withdraw its previous recommendation of the establishment of a business area along the Watch Hill-Westerly highway, extended from the Starling garage to Breen road so called. The new recommendation of the Westerly zoning board was that two areas be set apart on each side of Breen road, beginning at a point 150 feet distance from the Westerly road and continuing for 300 feet along Breen road with a 150 foot depth on each side. These two areas will then be 150 feet east of the corner turn of Breen road nearer the Pawcatuck river.

After a thorough discussion of the matter the council voted to have a special council session for the consideration of the proposed change on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 29th, in the council chamber. It is hoped by the councilmen at this time that all interested parties, including some of the Watch Hill summer people, may be present at that time and some construction action, with the elimination of personalities, can be arrived at by the council.

Councilmen Rogers E. Trainer, Isaac G. Smith and Peter Nardone were named a committee to look into garbage collection and to report at the next council meeting.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following transfer: Dec. 6. Pasquale Pellegrino to John Algieri that certain tract of land with dwelling house and all buildings on the east side of Rocket street.

Associate Justice Arthur P. Sumner of Providence failed to appear in Westerly on Monday for the session with the Westerly trial calendar of the November term of superior court for Washington county, as he had declared when a recess was taken by him in Westerly a week ago. The respondents in two cases appeared at the county court house on Union street with their attorneys in the afternoon Superior Court Clerk W. Herbert Caswell of Narragansett, R. I., appeared and marked all pending cases on the court calendar as passed. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly then declared the November term of the superior court for Washington county adjourned to meet according to law. The next session of court will be the February term which convenes at West Kingston on the third Monday of the month.

Mrs. Joseph Sayles, residing at 84 Granite street, received painful burns shortly before 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon as the result of the explosion of some stove polish which she placed on the stove. An infant child was also slightly burned. More serious injuries and damage was averted by Mr. Sayles who quickly threw a blanket about his wife and smothered the flames. Dr. J. Devere Barber was called to treat the burns.

Fire Engineer Columbus J. Fasetti, who owns and resides in the same house sent a call to the Westerly fire station and bell alarm was responded to for Box No. 21, Granite street and Newton avenue. When the fire apparatus arrived it was found that the flames had been extinguished and their services were not needed.

Westerly Local Union of Christian Endeavor and kindred societies held its annual meeting and tea on Sunday afternoon in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church.

George R. Dowding of the First Baptist church was re-elected president of the union and Miss Mary Whewell of the Broad Street Christian church was elected vice president; Miss Hazel Martin of the First Baptist church, secretary; Miss Esther Patton of the Broad Street Christian church, treasurer, and Miss Isabelle Rook of the Methodist church, assistant secretary.

Mrs. E. K. Parker of the First Baptist church was elected junior superintendent of the society. Committees were named as follows: Music, Amy Eaton, Margaret Hall and Mary Farrell; reception, Elvin J. Andrews and Herbert Bisson; publicity, Morgan Stewart, Donald Whitford and Elizabeth Kenyon; social, Violet Dowding, Margaret Tefft, Herbert Dowding, Elizabeth Hiscox and Dagmar Smith.

The annual meeting of Amos P. Chapman camp, No. 4, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, was held the past week at Vets hall, Walton block, Pawcatuck, when officers were elected as follows:

Commander, Thomas E. Fidler; senior vice commander, Frank Holdredge; junior vice commander, Walter Knight; treasurer, Daniel Main; secretary, Spencer Lawton; delegate at division encampment, Walter Knight; alternate, Frank Holdredge.

Officers will be installed Jan. 6. Guests will be present from the camp's auxiliary, No. 11, and division officers from Providence bringing with them twenty-nine.

Fred W. Story of Boston arrived in Westerly on Monday afternoon on a business trip.

Peter S. Byrnes, overseer of the poor of the town of North Kingstown, R. I. was a visitor in Westerly early Monday morning, reporting that the Boston Post road was well cleared of snow.

Dr. and Mrs. [illegible] B. Briggs of Ashaway, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stanton and Mrs. Orvilla Stillman will leave Westerly on next Sunday night by the Everglades Limited express for Daytona, Fla., to spend the remainder of the winter there.

Deputy Sheriff Charles A. Fuller of Richmond was a business visitor in Westerly on Monday.

Fayette F. Freeman left Westerly on Monday for a business visit in Boston.

Chief of Police Thomas W. Pierce of North Kingstown was a visitor in Westerly on Monday.

Miss Jennie Milby returned on Monday to Norwich after being the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Milby, Jr. in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pingalore and daughter of Norwich are the guests of Mrs. Pingalore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jehu Holland, in Westerly.

Patrick H. Mullaney of Pawcatuck returned home Sunday from a visit in New London.

STONINGTON

Word has been received by friends in the village of the death of Robert L. Johnstone who for the past two years with his family have spent the summer at the Causeway and Southeast Islands just at the east side of Stonington borough which property he owned. He died at Ottawa, Canada. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son. His death was a shock to the community as no news of his illness had reached the borough, in fact the caretaker of his estate did not know of his illness. His winter home was on Ridgewood avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J. He was president of the American Chicle Products company, manufacturers of candy.

F. G. Ketchum of Boston was a business caller in the borough Monday.

Traffic was somewhat held up Monday in the borough and near-by villages, owing to the snow which fell Sunday. The high school did not begin sessions until 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Philip Sheffield was in Westerly Monday.

Louis B. Palmer has returned to Providence having spent the week end in the borough.

The funeral of Thomas Towey was held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, Rev. C. C. Cotter celebrating requiem mass.

Mrs. Philip Ollweiler and daughters, Miss Gertrude Ollweiler, accompanied by Mr. Ollweiler, returned from Providence Sunday afternoon.

George Mertz of Providence was a local business caller the later part of the week.

Benjamin Adams, Ernest Duke, Harold Hobart and Manuel Travers have returned to their work in Shelton, having spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents and families here.

Most of the local fishing boats and others stayed in part of the week end, owing to the heavy winds.

Alexander P. Lopez has returned from a business trip to New York.

Elmer Browning is a clerk in one of the A. and P. stores at Westerly.

The Stonington band held a social in their rooms Saturday evening. One of the features was the serving of a clam chowder. Plans have been made by the organization to hold a number of these social gatherings.

Mrs. Thomas Reynolds had as a guest recently Mrs. Amos Brown of Westerly.

Thomas Towey, 77, who died at his home on Elm street Thursday evening after an illness of several weeks, came to this country with his family in 1910 and resided in Stonington until the World war, when he returned to his native home. He returned to Stonington at the close of the war. Mr. and Mrs. Towey celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in January, 1925. Mr. Towey was an engineer and followed that employment in Ireland, at the print works. He leaves besides his wife a son and four daughters, Joseph Towey, Matilda Towey of Stonington, Mrs. Theresa Kershaw of Webster, Mass., Mrs. Harry Long of Westerly and Mrs. J. Donohue of New York. Funeral services were held Monday with requiem mass in St. Mary's church.

Victor C. Johnson of New London was a recent caller in the borough.

Mrs. Otto Ide was among those in Westerly Saturday.

At the December meeting of the warden and burgesses Friday evening in their quarters in borough hall the newly elected clerk and treasurer Joseph E. Cushman, gave his bonds which were accepted. He was sworn into office by Warden C. B Crandall. Others present were Burgesses William Bindloss, Henry A. Muller, C. H. McCourt, F. V. Matthews and W. Fred Wilcox.

Fred Fairbrother is to paint the first floor rooms of the Stonington Fire Engine company, No. 1.

Miss Marguerite Hiney and her sister, Miss Hiney were in Westerly Saturday evening.

HOPKINTON

Ex-Lieut. Gov. E. R. Allen has received word of the death of his brother, Col. Edward Tracy Allen, 58, Nov. 29, in San Francisco, Cal. Col. Allen is pleasantly remembered as a visitor to his brother here in past years. He took pains to attend the G. A. R. conventions as long as he was able.

Mrs. Horace Shippee, 80, mother of Mrs. Walter F. Mills of Hopkinton City, died Friday at her home in New Haven. Burial is to be in the Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway.

Saturday, late in the afternoon, two automobiles were in a mix-up at the four corners of Hopkinton city. No one was injured but one of the cars, driven by a sailor, was badly disabled.

Mrs. Harry Lewis is making good recovery after a minor operation, and has resumed her duties as post-mistress at Ashaway.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Crandall were visitors in Providence Wednesday.

OLD MYSTIC

At an afternoon meeting with a supper followed by a roll call at Old Mystic Baptist church held Friday evening, 33 members answered to their names and 43 answered by letter. Mrs. Ann Eliza Copp of Mystic, over 90, and a member for 76 years, sent a message signed personally. This is the oldest church of the denomination in the state, having been organized in 1708 and has an honored history.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the skin, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

Feeling the Strain?

Overwork and Worry Tend to Overtax the System.

MODERN habits—overwork, worry, insufficient rest and exercise—all tend to overtax and slow up the bodily machinery. Good health requires good elimination. The kidneys filter the blood. Sluggish function, however, permits some retention of waste poisons. Such a "toxic condition" is inclined to make one languid and tired; there is sometimes toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic in these conditions. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DANIELSON

APPEALS WHILE WAITING FOR HIGHER COURT RULING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 6.—An appeal was taken in the town court of Killingly this afternoon in a case involving a fine of only $10 and costs, that a decision by the United States supreme court on an issue raised by similar cases be awaited. The case has been argued before the highest court in the land and a decision is expected within a few days.

James L. Dike, a bus driver for the Interstate line, operating between Providence and Hartford via Danielson, was the accused at today's hearing. He was charged with operating a bus without having a certificate from the public utilities commission authorizing him to do so, because he was operating without having a specified route and because it had not been established that such service as his line was rendering was required for public convenience and necessity.

Dike, represented by Attorney Edward R. Kelley, pleaded not guilty. Judge W. Fenner Woodward found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs. Attorney Kelley then appealed, explaining that he asked toawait the supreme court decision on the issues involved, which issues have been raised at various places in the country and finally became a matter for consideration at the country's highest tribunal.

On October 14 last two state officers from the Hartford barracks—Officer Martin B. Kelley and Officer Lloyd Eukers—boarded a Danielson-bound bus of the Interstate company and rode out to Danielson. Dike was the operator of the vehicle and is alleged to have accepted fares from the two officers, who later reported to proper officials and Dike eventually was ordered into court. The point raised is the right of the Interstate company to take passengers from any point in Connecticut for any other point within the state. The New England Transportation company, subsidiary of the N. Y., N. H and H. R. R. company, holds the certificate for bus line operation on the route from Killingly to Hartford on the Providence-Hartford line. The Interstate is a competing company, without certificate from Connecticut authorities. The contention of Connecticut officials is that the Interstate line has no authority to accept passengers for trips wholly within this state.

The Interstate regularly takes passengers in Connecticut for points in Rhode Island and vice versa and no complaint arises, for this is interstate traffic. A passenger may board an Interstate bus here for a trip into Rhode Island but, it is held by Connecticut officials, that the Interstate cannot take a passenger here, for instance, for any point along the route to Hartford, all the intervening territory being within Connecticut.

The following comes from local people who are discussing the article which appeared in a state paper recently:

"A funny man—a newspaperman—came out of the western part of the state a few days ago to visit this place and write a "special" story about one of its industries. Sunday through a "bellow" of the Bridgeport-Waterbury species he presented Danielson's obituary to such people of the state of Connecticut as read his kind of a publication.

The gentleman, not only pronounced a death sentence on this territory, but went on to tell why it is dying, and all the rest of the communities in eastern Connecticut.

His ebullition is so palpably ridiculous and impossible in much that it contains that ther was a hearty laugh in a score of its paragraphs for many who had the story called to their attention. That's why he has been termed a funny man in this reference to what he wrote. To others he is not at all funny. In fact, he is something entirely different, so different that it cannot be set down inthis conservative family newspaper. But there is no law against using your imagination.

It has been said for centuries that wise men came out of the east. This writer seems final proof of it. He comes from the west.

Read herewith some of the evidence against him, taken right out of his "special" story: The object of his visit was to get a story about one of Danielson's textile concerns establishing a new plant in a southern state. Having written about that he goes wandering off to lambast this community, its intelligence, its progressiveness, the people who work and do business and how they do it.

He says "Danielson" is not exactly a town. It is a borough in the town of Killingly, Windham county. Putnam and Plainville are the other two boroughs in the town, but they present a different story."

There's some news for Putnam. Obviously, "Plainville," a town in another part of Connecticut, was intended for Plainfield.

Having thus established the funny man's accuracy as to local geography and town and borough lines one may proceed to quote him further.

It would appear that possession of a coonskin coat where he comes from is accepted without question as an evidence of plutocracy, erudition and high place in life.

Read him again: "One of the noticeable things about Danielson is the absence of coon-skin coats from the backs of its feminine population. There are a few, but cloth coats seem to predominate. There are no hordes of pretty girls in Danielson. Most of the girls are either fat or very thin. A few sylph-like creatures may be found wandering around, but their features are set with the impregnable mask of dumbness, attesting the truthfulness of the adage 'beautiful but dumb.'".

There you have it again from the funny man—coonskin coats and pulchritude all mixed up with an obvious effort to say something mean and cheap, and without the slightest ground for so doing.

Mourning in one section of his story over the allegation that mill workers here earn $18 to $25 a week and many less, he proceeds in another paragraph to tell the world that many of them own their own homes and cars and that of the $10,000,000 in Danielson's banks much of it is represented in the savings of mill workers and that a large proportion of the more than $100,000 recently released in Christmas

RELIABLE PRESCRIPTION FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

When your stomach is upset from Gas, Acid, Indigestion or Nervousness, Professional Men have found that Pepsinic Seltzer is a most capable and pleasing corrective and if taken in the morning before breakfast and when a person is distressed it has a very remarkable effect. It is absolutely safe for everybody, including children. Pepsinic Seltzer can be obtained at Drug Stores. Take no substitutes.

clubs went to the mill workers. Take two looks at that and laugh again.

Danielson, he tells the world, is likely to be "evacuated" within a few years. Eastern Connecticut is going to the dogs. "treadmill life is all they know" he asserts. There is "laxity of spirit," "no interest in the future," he adds for good measure, taking a shot at local officials. There is much more of such junk—a page of it—but what has been set gow here should be enough.

A safe prophecy is that Danielson will be prosperous and growing when the bight young man from Waterbury will be otherwise. On the evidence it will just have to be that way.

As an effort to arouse Connecticut to live interest over losing some of its textile industries the Sunday story was a left-handed success. It was cheap, tawdry, inaccurate and injurious to the textile industry and textile communities as a whole. Evidently a boy was sent out to do a man's job."

A death in Providence during the early hours of Monday morning was that of William Henry Oatley, 69, a native of East Killingly and a family that has been in this town for generations. Mr. Oatley had been in poor health and confined to his home the greater part of the time for more than a year.

He was a son of Stephen and Maria Wood Oatley and was born June 3, 1857. After having obtained his education Mr. Oatley entered the cotton manufacturing industry and followed it as a life's work. For years and up to the time that the plant was abandoned to make way for reservoir developments by the city of Providence Mr. Oatley had been superintendent of a shoe lace and corset lace mill at Ponmapansett, R. I, a score of miles east of here.

Mr. Oatley leaves his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Kink of Claywhite and Miss Evelyn Oatley of Norwich. Nason Oatley of East Killingly is a brother.

The body is to be brought to Danielson Wednesday.

Dont forget the big amateur performance at the Orpheum theatre tonight.—adv.

Mrs. Everett Hyde is ill with pneumonia at her home here.

Measles continue to be prevalent in various sections of the town of Killingly and there is continued disobedience of the health officer's insistence that such c ses be reported. One physician remarked Monday that measles today are really more dangerous than scarlet fever was considered at one time.

State road plows have cleared the trunk line highways in this section of all but a thin covering of snow, and traffic was moving easily during Monday after the season's first real snowstorm.

A threat or arrests from Chief John McFarland was necessary to drive one panhandler from the streets of Danielson, where he had bee loitering about soliciting for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Downe, whose home was badly damaged by fire, smoke and water during Sunday are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beckett of Maple street.

Danielson's Main street, which also happens to be a part of two trunk line highways has a narrowed traveled way because of the snowbanks now lining each side of the street.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth of Hawkins street will have the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church at her home for a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

A meeting of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's church was held Monday evening at the parish house.

A class of candidates of Killingly grange received the first and second degrees Monday evening at a meeting of the organization in Odd Fellows' hall.

The snowfall in the town of Killingly was between 6 and 7 inches. Up to Monday afternoon it had drifted little and did not figure as a traffic blockade, although impeding travel in considerable degree.

PUTNAM

DANSEREAU SIGNS UP LAWYER TO DEFEND HIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 6.—Charles Dansereau, who is serving a sentence at Wethersfield, and who attempted to escape from the prison in September with two other prisoners, has retained Gordon W. Gordon of Springfield to defend him when he appears in superior court on the charge of attempting to escape from prison on Sept. 12 last. Dansereau is serving one sentence of three years and another one of from eight to 12 years. He was convicted in the superior court at Putnam of receiving stolen automobiles and of teaching young boys to steal cars.

The woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital is making its annual Thanksgiving offering appeal to the people of eastern Windham county. For the purpose of receiving donations the vacant store in the Rich block will be open Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The people of the communities using the hospital have always been generous in answer all appeals for the hospital and especially generous in this Thanksgiving appeal. A small contribution from many, make a very sizable whole. The things that are asked for are fruits and vegetables, canned goods, cereals, tea, coffee, spices and many articles that can be purchased at the grocers and of course money is always acceptable.

The hospital has grown physically and with this expansion there has been a corresponding increase in the demands made upon it. The increasing number of patients means an increased amount of food and this Thanksgiving donation helps to make the charitable work of the hospital more possible.

The woman's board is a voluntary organization that for many years has accomplished a great deal for the hospital's needs. Through its work many hospital supplies and some needed equipment is furnished. This Thanksgiving offering appeal is the only regular appeal made for foodstuffs.

John Morse, the veteran violin maker of Putnam has on exhibition in a local store on Union street, two violins which he has recently made. The instruments are the 216th and 217th violins that Mr. Morse has made and they are beautiful in tone and finish and are valued at $150 and $200.

The ladies' guild of St. Philip's church will hold its December meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, at the home of Mrs. George Paine on Fremont street. The ladies' auxiliary of the same church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Chadwick, Center and Chapman streets on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 9.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church will meet on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lewis E. Law on Grove street.

Putnam's first snowfall of the winter was a near blizzard. The snow is more than six inches deep on the level; on the country roads that are freely exposed to the winds the drifts in places are four feet high.

In East Putnam the motor bus that carries the children to school had difficulty in negotiating the road because of the drifted condition of the snow.

Luther M. Keith, supervisor of state roads for this territory, had a force of 100 men working Sunday and Monday. Mr. Keith has had about two hours' sleep in two nights but the roads in his district are clean and automobile traffic was not held up.

The Putnam Country club has been closed for the season and the greens had been put in shape for protection for the cold season before the present snowfall. Tyler P. Andrews, who has been the caretaker and professional instructor of golf, has been reengaged for the next year by the board of governers. The season opens about the first of April.

Hugh Walpole, the author, gave one of his brilliant lectures at the Howe-Marot school for girls recently. His subject was The Victorian Compared to the Modern Novel. He said, that, in the earlier period, the novelist had a much easier time than his brother of today. His characters were either good or bad, there was no middle ground. The reading public had fewer books and each one was eagerly welcomed, widely read and discussed. If people got tired of one of the characters, the author was told and the unpopular character never appeared again.

Mrs. Helen Yates recently entertained the following guests at her home on Bradley street: Miss Loretta Baker, Miss Eleanor Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Montville and daughter, Miss Dorothy of Webster; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wyse of Boston; Joseph Gallegher and sister, Miss Leah of Revere, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. John Delanier, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sallinger and daughter, Miss Rita of Webster, Mass.; Philidore Collette of Worcester; Henry Richard of Auburn, Mass.; Miss Minnie Mark of Worcester; Miss Anna Easton, Chester Wosnicki and Mr. and Mrs. Ulric Baker of Putnam.

Miss Julia Rawley of Norwich spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rawley of School street.

Mrs. W. T. Peckham, Marshall Sheldon and William Hyle of Providence spent the week end with Mrs. A. Vonsiatsky at Thompson.

Ralph Elliott of Hackensack, New Jersey is the guest of his parents at Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ainley of Walnut street has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. Peter Abrams, son and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Abrams and little daughter, all of Preston Hollow, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richard of Main street have returned from a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Burdick at Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Saurison F. Noyes of Fremont street have been entertaining Mr. Noyes' sister, Miss Lena Noyes of Elizabeth, New Jersey.

Edward Ellis of Willimantic and Edward Bruce of Worcester spent the week end with their families in the city. They are both employes of the New Haven railroad.

Miss E. M. Fisher of School street has been entertaining Miss Minnie Nuttall of Providence and Mrs. Theodore Seymore of Worcester.

Carolus and Howard Tourtelotte have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Enlind in Maine.

Misses Alice and Mary Powers of Providence have been visiting Mrs. John Brennan of Church street.

LEDYARD

Rev. J. B. Aldrich of Norwich preached in the Congregational church Sunday morning of last week. Sunday Dec. 5 Rev. Stephen Wood of Swansey, N. H. preached as a candidate.

Paul Holdridge was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting held at the residence of Mrs. Isaac G. Geer Sunday evening. The topic was Christian Endeavor around the world. Sunday evening Dec. 5 a union service announced in the Congregational church with the Gales Ferry church taking part, Mrs. Carl Holdridge was the leader.

Nearly all of the schools observed the recent holiday, the pupils carrying out excellent programs. Miss Doris Browning, teacher in the Gallup school had 50 in attendance and Mrs. Stoddard teacher in the Stoddard school recorded 20 visitors.

A three act play entitled Mrs. Tubbs from Shantytown was given under the auspices of the Methodist church of Mystic in Grange hall, Thursday evening. It was well given and heartily applauded when the curtain went down at the end of each scene. Mrs. Margaret Morgan, a former Ledyard girl, took the principal part. Mrs. Ellery Burdick of Mystic who has appeared before Ledyard audiences before was well received. Home made candy, hot dogs, coffee and soda water were sold. Dancing followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Clark and sons Alfred and George left Friday to visit Mrs. Clark's sister in Brattleboro, Vt.

JEWETT CITY

COMMITTEES SELECTED FOR CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 6—The Christmas committees for the Congregational Sunday school are: Program, the girls in Mrs E. H. Hiscox class, who will also decorate the tree; Rev. G. F. Goodenough's class will procure the tree, and Dr. G. H. Jennings' class has charge of the candy. The teachers are the gift committee. This year each person will contribute a gift for a white Christmas, to be sent to those who are needy, sick or shut-in. In the Baptist Sunday school the tree will be procured by D. L. Phillips' and Miss Ida F. Foster's classes. The gift purchasing committee is Mrs. E. M. Swift and Mrs. G. H. Prior. The decorating committee is Mrs. Prior's and Mrs. A. M Brown's classes. The program committee is Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur and Florence Quimby.

Whist in Knights of Columbus rooms this evening.—Adv

There is increasing interest in the special Evangelistic meetings being held at the present time in the Methodist church. These services are being promoted by the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational churches of the town. On Sunday afternoon there were more than 70 men present at the Methodist church to hear Dr. Milton S Rees speak on the subject Pilate's Question. The speaker made a stirring appeal to the manhood of those present to follow Jesus and to make him their companion for life.

Sunday evening there was a good audience in spite of the snow-storm to hear a sermon by Dr. Rees on The Tragedy of the Ages. His audience was greatly moved as he gave a forceful and clear explanation of the meaning of the death of Christ to every person.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a meeting for women only and in the evening Dr. Rees will speak in the public service. On Wednesday evening the meetings will be held in the Baptist church and will continue there for one week.

On Thursday afternoon there will be another meeting for women only at 2, and the boys and girls are to meet in the Baptist church on Friday afternoon to listen to an illustrated talk by Dr. Rees. On Friday night the meeting will be known as a Sunday school night. All the scholars will have a part in the service. Large delegations from Danielson will be present on Tuesday night, and on Friday night large parties will be present from Moosup.

The artist responsible for the Christmas seal this year is George V. Curtis of New York, who lived and painted in Paris for 30 years. He got the idea for the three troubadour musicians on the seal from the fact that the New York Tuberculosis and Health association uses singers in hospitals in treating tuberculosis patients who tend to become pessimistic under the regime of absolute rest in bed. This year 1,500,000,000 Christmas seals are being distributed every where throughout the country by 25,000 volunteer workers to raise money to fight tuberculosis in their home districts. In Griswold and Voluntown this work is under the chairmanship of Deneas Circle of the King's Daughters. Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman, and the seals are sold by school children, and in the stores. They can also be obtained from Miss Burdick and Mrs. H. H. Hiscox.

Irving Thornton has accepted the position as the bass singer in the quartet at Greeneville Congregational church.

The conference of six churches is to be held at Plainfield Wednesday. Rev. G. F. Goodenough of this place delivers the morning sermon. Rev. Milton Rees, who is conducting evangelistic services here is one of the afternoon speakers, as is Rev. C. S. Nightingale of Moosup

BUT—HE "FELT NO BETTER FOR THAT"

A man from Nebraska tells this: "For three nights I was kept awake by a bothersome persistent cough, and so were others of the family; and I felt no better for that. The very first doses of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me and in two days' time my cough was entirely gone." Think of the saving of distress to himself and others, had he taken Foley's Honey and Tar Compound at the start. It pays to keep it on hand. The large family size is a real economical buy. Montgomery, C. Pourinick, Mrs. Steve Propopinio, Octave Lariviere, Mrs. W. M. Terry, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan and Susie Morgan.

The first snow of the winter combined with a high wind has made traveling on the country roads very difficult on account of drifts. Trucks and private automobiles had great difficulty in getting out of the snow piled in the gutters by the state snow plows. There was much comment on the way truck drivers rack their machines fore and aft, when a little shoveling would save the wear and tear on the owners' property.

NOANK

The new Nuggets ketball team opened the season Saturday evening in the town hall against the old Nuggets, 1913. The game started at 8 o'clock with Fred Fitzpatrick referee. It proved the fastest and best game the village has seen in many years. The new Nuggets put in the second team which did good work in the first quarter and then the regular team went in and at the first half the new Nuggets were ahead, 19 to 13. At the end of the third period the old Nuggets were still behind, fighting hard to get ahead and the score was 28 to 26, in the last quarter the crowd saw both teams fighting hard to win. Charlie Patterson putting in three baskets in a row with his left hand. Smith got a long shot and the old Nuggets came out with a victory, 40 to 32, won in the last five minutes. Albert Patterson for the old Nuggets made the best shot of the evening, when he reached over the crowd and threw the ball over his head with one hand, without looking, and went in clean. The crowd gave him a fine hand. B. Bracci got some nice long shots for the new Nuggets, C. Patterson was the star for the old-timers, getting 21 points out of 40, while B. Bracci for his team was high man with 12 points. Both teams pass work was good and the ball was kept going all the time. Many from out of the village attended. Dancing followed. The line-up: Old Nuggets, A. Patterson, lf, C. Patterson McDonald c, Stretch Morrison rg, Flash B. Braccis lf, New Nuggets: R. Ebbets rf, B. Bracci rg, H. Ellis c, Robertson lg, Timer, Morgan, Scorer, Phelps. Attendance 125. These two teams will meet again at the end of the season.

Charles De Blasi of Sterling was home over the week end.

Walter Willis has gone to Providence for a few days.

The snow storm Sunday morning with high wind made the fishermen put out extra lines as the water was rough and they were afraid the boats would be damaged against the docks. Sunday night two trucks left the village with 90 barrels of fish as a boat came across from Block Island with the fish for Fulton Market.

The waiting room Saturday afternoon was lined with children with their mothers waiting for Santa Claus to come from Toyland.

William Chappell is ill at his home on Main street.

Boat Reliance came in from the fishing ground around Nantucket, Saturday and had a catch of 1,200 cod. The boat tied up at the town dock. Mate Smith made a strange catch, something the old fishermen never saw before; it was a tiger fish, a good sized fish and it had stripes all the way around. The fish was taken to Mr. Smith's home in Stonington where he is showing it to his friends and plans to have a tiger fish dinner.

Alexander Miner has returned to his home in Ashaway, R. I.

The snow plow for the state was around in the village early Monday morning getting the roads cleared. In some places the snow was over 11 inches deep.

For the last week the clam-diggers had some good clam tides and many of them brought home good catches from Six-penny Island flats.

Sunday was communion day at the Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. Ernest Weise being in charge. During the evening a special song service was led by the church orchestra and Rev. Mr. Weise gave a fine sermon on Motoring Through Life. His subject was Stop, Look, Listen! The church was about half filled on account of the bad weather.

Mrs. W. L. Mosher has returned from a visit in Philadelphia and attended the sesqui-centennial exposition.

W. H. Schoemaker of Albany, N. Y., is spending a few days in the village.

Elliott Bennett has returned from a visit with New York relatives.

Miss Catherine McGugan, a bookkeeper at the coal school, Old Mystic, spent the week end at her home on Groton Long Point.

MYSTIC

The Parent-Teachers' association and Mystic League of Women voters plan to unite and hold a meeting Friday evening in Mystic academy at 8 o'clock. Miss Maud E. Keaton, of Hartford, director in the department of special education, will be the speaker. Topic, Fitting the School to the Child.

Interest in the Men's Bible class of the Union Baptist church is increasing; 47 were present Sunday. The pastor, Rev. L. J. Shepley is the teacher. Rev. O. P. Campbell, of Hartford, director of religious education, was present and added interest to the class. Arrangements have been made with W. L. Main, owner of the Community house building for the men to play volley ball there and next Thursday night they are to meet for the first time.

The Beacon Light class taught by Miss Pauline Miner will arrange for the Christmas tree and exercises. Mrs. L. M. Allyn will buy the candy and gifts.

The young people of the Congregational church held a social in the parish house Friday evening. Mrs. Joseph Tyler had charge of the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dibble, of South Windsor, have come to spend the winter with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brooks, on Willow street. Miss Annie Dibble accompanied them for a visit.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Walter H. Lathrop. Mrs. Edward Buckley read the paper on Economic Conditions and Industries of China.

Byron Billings' family has returned to their home on Washington street after spending the summer at their farm in the Road district.

Mrs. Charles Barnes substituted for Mrs. Joseph Johnson in the Baptist choir, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bennett and sons went to Boston Saturday and returned Sunday evening. They were called there by illness of Mr. Bennett's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Denison of Westerly spent Sunday with Mr. Denison's sister, Mrs. Annie Lathrop and Miss Jennie Denison.

Miss Louise Wheeler spent the week end with Miss Alice Denison.

Mrs. Daniel Ivgrs has been ill with a severe cold the past wee.

The annual meeting of the Altar chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Lucy B. Kellogg.

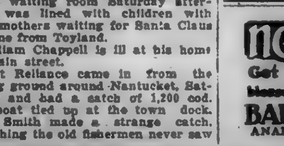
Mr. and Mrs. Arney Smith and daughter, Esther, Howard Partelo, of Greeneville, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Daniel De Murray of Tanghill, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh of Slatersville, R. I., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. John Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Appel spent the week end in New York with relatives.

Mrs. John W. MacDonald is visiting in Providence.

Mrs. Raymond M. Holmes has returned from a visit in New York.



A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co. who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

DANIELSON

APPEALS WHILE WAITING FOR HIGHER COURT RULING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 6.—An appeal was taken in the town court of Killingly this afternoon in a case involving a fine of only $10 and costs, that a decision by the United States supreme court on an issue raised by similar cases be awaited. The case has been argued before the highest court in the land and a decision is expected within a few days.

James L. Dike, a bus driver for the Interstate line, operating between Providence and Hartford via Danielson, was the accused at today's hearing. He was charged with operating a bus without having a certificate from the public utilities commission authorizing him to do so, because he was operating without having a specified route and because it had not been established that such service as his line was rendering was required for public convenience and necessity.

Dike, represented by Attorney Edward H. Kelley, pleaded not guilty. Judge W. Fenner Woodward found him guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and costs. Attorney Kelley then appealed, explaining that he aaired toawait the supreme court decision on the issues involved, which issues have been raised at various places in the country and finally became a matter for consideration at the country's highest tribunal.

On October 14 last two state officers from the Hartford barracks—Officer Martin B. Kelley and Officer Lloyd Eukers—boarded a Danielson-bound bus of the Interstate company and rode out to Danielson. Dike was the operator of the vehicle and is alleged to have accepted fares from the two officers, who later reported to poper officials and Dike eventually was ordered into court. The point raised is the right of the Interstate company to take passengers from any point in Connecticut for any other point within the state. The New England Transportation company, subsidiary of the N. Y., N. H and H. R. R. company, holds the certificate for bus line operation on the route from Killingly to Hartford as the Providence-Hartford line. The Interstate is a competing company, without certificate from Connecticut authorities. The contention of Connecticut officials is that the Interstate line has no authority to accept passengers for trips wholly within this state.

The Interstate regularly takes passengers in Connecticut for points in Rhode Island and vice versa and no complaint arises, for this is interstate traffic. A passenger may board an Interstate bus here for a trip into Rhode Island but, it is held by Connecticut officials, that the Interstate cannot take a passenger here, for instance, for any point along the route to Hartford, all the intervening territory being within Connecticut.

The following comes from local people, who are discussing the article which appeared in a state paper recently:

"A funny man—a newspaperman—came out of the western part of the state a few days ago to visit this place and write a "special" story about one of its industries. Sunday through a "mellow" of the Bridgeport-Waterbury species he presented Danielson's obituary to such people of the state of Connecticut as read his kind of a publication.

The gentleman, not only pronounced a death sentence on this territory, but went on to tell why it is dying, and all the rest of the communities in eastern Connecticut.

His ebullition is so palpably ridiculous and impossible in much that it contains that ther was a hearty laugh in a score of its paragraphs for many who had the story called to their attention. That's why he has been termed a funny man in this reference to what he wrote. To others he is not at all funny. In fact, he is something entirely different, so different that it cannot be set down inthis conservative family newspaper. But there is no law against using your imagination.

It has been said for centuries that wise men came out of the east. This writer seems final proof of it. He comes from the west.

Read herewith some of the evidence against him, taken right out of his "special" story: The object of his visit was to get a story about one of Danielson's textile concerns establishing a new plant in a southern state. Having written about that he goes wandering off to lambast this community, its intelligence, its progressiveness, the people who work and do business and how they do it.

He says "Danielson" is not exactly a town. It is a borough in the town of Killingly, Windham county. Putnam and Plainville are the other two boroughs in the town, but they present a different story."

There's some news for Putnam. Obviously, "Plainville," a town in another part of Connecticut, was intended for Plainfield.

Having thus established the fuony man's accuracy as to local geography and town and borough lines one may proceed to quote him further.

It would appear that possession of a coonskin coat where he comes from is acccepted without question as an evidence of plutocracy, erudition and high place in life.

Read him again: "One of the noticeable things about Danielson is the absence of coon-skin coats from the backs of its feminine population. There are a few, but cloth coats seem to predominate. There are no hordes of pretty girls in Danielson. Most of the girls are either fat or very thin. A few sylph-like creatures may be found wandering around, but their features are set with the impregnable mask of dumbness, attesting the truthfulness of the adage 'beautiful but dumb.'"

There you have it again from the funny man—coonskin coats and pulchritude all mixed up with an obvious effort to say something mean and cheap, and without the slightest ground for so doing.

Mourning in one section of his story over the allegation that mill workers here earn $18 to $25 a week and many less, he proceeds in another paragraph to tell the world that many of them own their own homes and cars and that of the $10,000,000 in Danielson's banks much of it is represented in the savings of mill workers and that a large proportion of the more than $100,000 recently released in Christmas clubs went to the mill workers. Take two looks at that and laugh again.

Danielson, he tells the world, is likely to be "evacuated" within a few years. Eastern Connecticut is going to the dogs, "treadmill life is all they know" he asserts. There is "lazity of spirit," "no interest in the future," he adds for good measure, taking a shot at local officials. There is much more of such junk—a page of it—but what has been set dow here should be enough.

A safe prophecy is that Danielson will be prosperous and growing when the bight young man from Waterbury will be otherwise. On the evidence it will just have to be that way.

As an effort to arouse Connecticut to live interest over losing some of its textile industries the Sunday story was a left-handed success. It was cheap, tawdry, inaccurate and injurious to the textile industry and textile communities as a whole. Evidently a boy was sent out to do a man's job."

A death in Providence during the early hours of Monday morning was that of William Henry Oatley, 69, a native of East Killingly and a family that has been in this town for generations. Mr. Oatley had been in poor health and confined to his home the greater part of the time for more than a year.

He was a son of Stephen and Maria Wood Oatley and was born June 3, 1857. After having obtained his education Mr. Oatley entered the cotton manufacturing industry and followed it as a life's work. For years and up to the time that the plant was abandoned to make way for reservoir developments by the city of Providence Mr. Oatley had been superintendent of a shoe lace and corset lace mill at Ponnaganssett, R. I., a score of miles east of here.

Mr. Oatley leaves his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Kink of Clayville and Miss Evelyn Oatley of Norwich. Nason Oatley of East Killingly is a brother.

The body is to be brought to Danielson Wednesday.

Mrs. Everett Hyde is ill with pneumonia at her home here.

Measles continue to be prevalent in various sections of the town of Killingly and there is continued disobedience of the health officer's insistence that such c ses be reported. One physician remarked Monday that measles today are really more dangerous than scarlet fever was considered at one time.

State road plows have cleared the trunk line highways in this section of all but a thin covering of snow, and traffic was moving easily during Monday after the season's first real snowstorm.

A threat or arrests from Chief John McFarland was necessary to drive one panhandler from the streets of Danielson, where he had bee loitering about soliciting for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Downs, whose home was badly damaged by fire, smoke and water during Sunday are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beckett of Maple street.

Danielson's Main street, which also happens to be a part of two trunk line highways has a narrowed traveled way because of the snowbanks now lining each side of the street.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth of Hawkins street will have the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church at her home for a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

A meeting of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Alban's church was held Monday evening at the parish house.

A class of candidates of Killingly grange received the first and second degrees Monday evening at a meeting of the organization in Odd Fellows' hall.

The snowfall in the town of Killingly was between 6 and 7 inches. Up to Monday afternoon it had drifted little and did not figure as a traffic blockade, although impeding travel in considerable degree.

RELIABLE PRESCRIPTION FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

When your stomach is upset from Gas, Acid, Indigestion or Nervousness, Professional Men have found that Pepsinic Seltzer is a most capable and pleasing corrective and if taken in the morning before breakfast and when a person is distressed it has a very remarkable effect. It is absolutely safe for everybody, including children. Pepsinic Seltzer can be obtained at Drug Stores. Take no substitutes.

PUTNAM

DANSEREAU SIGNS UP LAWYER TO DEFEND HIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 6.—Charles Dansereau, who is serving a sentence at Wethersfield, and who attempted to escape from the prison in September with two other prisoners, has retained Gordon W. Gordon of Springfield to defend him when he appears in superior court on the charge of attempting to escape from prison on Sept. 13 last. Dansereau is serving one sentence of three years and another one of from eight to 12 years. He was convicted in the superior court at Putnam of receiving stolen automobiles and of teaching young boys to steal cars.

The woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital is making its annual Thanksgiving offering appeal to the people of eastern Windham county. For the purpose of receiving donations the vacant store in the Rich block will be open Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The people of the communities using the hospital have always been generous in answer all appeals for the hospital and especially generous in this Thanksgiving appeal. A small contribution from many, make a very sizable whole. The things that are asked for are fruits and vegetables, canned goods, cereals, tea, coffee, spices and many articles that can be purchased at the grocers and of course money is always acceptable.

The hospital has grown physically and with this expansion there has been a corresponding increase in the demands made upon it. The increasing number of patients means an increased amount of food and this Thanksgiving donation helps to make the charitable work of the hospital more possible.

The woman's board is a voluntary organization that for many years has accomplished a great deal for the hospital's needs. Through its work many hospital supplies and some needed equipment is furnished. This Thanksgiving offering appeal is the only regular appeal made for foodstuffs.

John Morse, the veteran violin maker of Putnam has on exhibition in a local store on Union street, two violins which he has recently made. The instruments are the 216th and 217th violins that Mr. Morse has made and they are beautiful in tone and finish and are valued at $150 and $200.

The ladies' guild of St. Philip's church will hold its December meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, at the home of Mrs. George Paine on Fremont street. The ladies' auxiliary of the same church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Chadwick, Center and Chapman streets on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 9.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church will meet on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lewis E. Law on Grove street.

Putnam's first snowfall of the winter was a near blizzard. The snow is more than six inches deep on the level on the country roads that are freely exposed to the winds the drifts in places are four feet high.

In East Putnam the motor bus that carries the children to school had difficulty in negotiating the road because of the drifted condition of the snow.

Luther M. Keith, supervisor of state roads for this territory, had a force of 100 men working Sunday and Monday. Mr. Keith has had about two hours' sleep in two nights but the roads in his district are clean and automobile traffic was not held up.

The Putnam Country club has been closed for the season and the greens had been put in shape for protection for the cold season before the present snowfall. Tyler P. Andrews, who has been the caretaker and professional instructor of golf, has been reengaged for the next year by the board of governors. The season opens about the first of April.

Hugh Walpole, the author, gave one of his brilliant lectures at the Howe-Marot school for girls recently. His subject was The Victorian Compared to the Modern Novel. He said, that, in the earlier period, the novelist had a much easier time than his brother of today. His characters were either good or bad, there was no middle ground. The reading public had fewer books and each one was eagerly welcomed, widely read and discussed. If people got tired of one of the characters, the author was told and the unpopular character never appeared again.

Mrs. Helen Yates recently entertained the following guests at her home on Bradley street: Miss Loretta Baker, Miss Eleanor Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Mowtville and daughter, Miss Dorothy of Webster; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wyse of Boston; Joseph Galleger and sister, Miss Leah of Revere, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. John Delanier, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sallinger and daughter, Miss Rita of Webster, Mass.; Philidore Collette of Worcester; Henry Richard of Auburn, Mass.; Miss Minnie Mark of Worcester; Miss Anna Easton, Chester Woznicki and Mr. and Mrs. Ulric Baker of Putnam.

Miss Julia Rawley of Norwich spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rawley of School street.

Mrs. W. T. Peckham, Marshall Sheldon and William Hyle of Providence accomplished a great deal for the hospital's needs. Through its work many hospital supplies and some needed equipment is furnished. This Thanksgiving offering appeal is the only regular appeal made for foodstuffs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ainley of Walnut street has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. Peter Abrams, son and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Abrams and little daughter, all of Preston Hollow, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richard of Main street have returned from a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Burdick at Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Saurison F. Noyes of Fremont street have been entertaining Mr. Noyes' sister, Miss Lena Noyes of Elizabeth, New Jersey.

Edward Ellis of Willimantic and Edward Bruce of Worcester spent the week end with their families in the city. They are both employes of the New Haven railroad.

Mrs. E. N. Fisher of School street has been entertaining Miss Minnie Nuttall of Providence and Mrs. Theodore Seymore of Worcester.

Carolus and Howard Tourtellotte have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Ballard in Maine.

Misses Alice and Mary Powers of Providence have been visiting Mrs. John Brennan of Church street.

LEDYARD

Rev. J. B. Aldrich of Norwich preached in the Congregational church Sunday morning of last week, Sunday Dec. 5 Rev. Stephen Wood of Swanzey, N. H. preached as a candidate.

Paul Holdridge was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting held at the residence of Mrs. Isaac G. Geer Sunday evening. The topic was Christian Endeavor around the world. Sunday evening Dec. 5 a union service was announced in the Congregational church with the Gales Ferry church taking part, Mrs. Carl Holdridge was the leader.

Nearly all of the schools observed the recent holiday, the pupils carrying out excellent programs. Miss Doris Browning, teacher in the Gallup school had 50 in attendance and Mrs. Stoddard teacher in the Stoddard school recorded 20 visitors.

A three act play entitled Mrs. Tubbs from Shantytown was given under the auspices of the Methodist church of Mystic in Grange hall, Thursday evening. It was well given and heartily applauded when the curtain went down at the end of each scene. Mrs. Margaret Morgan, a former Ledyard girl, took the principal part. Mrs. Ellery Burdick of Mystic who has appeared before Ledyard audiences before was well received. Home made candy, hot dogs, coffee and soda water were sold. Dancing followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Clark and sons Alfred and George left Friday to visit Mrs. Clark's sister in Brattleboro, Vt.

JEWETT CITY

COMMITTEES SELECTED FOR CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 6—The Christmas committees for the Congregational Sunday school are: Program, the girls in Mrs E. H. Hincox class, who will also decorate the tree; Rev. G. F. Goodenough's class will procure the tree, and Dr. G. H. Jennings' class has charge of the candy. The teachers are the gift committee. This year each person will contribute a gift for a white Christmas, to be sent to those who are needy, sick or shut-in. In the Baptist Sunday school the tree will be procured by D. L. Phillips' and Miss Ida F. Foster's classes. The gift purchasing committee is Mrs. E. M. Swift and Mrs. G. H. Prior. The decorating committee is Mrs. Prior's and Mrs. A. M Brown's classes. The program committee is Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur and Florence Quimby.

Whist in Knights of Columbus rooms this evening.—Adv

There is increasing interest in the special Evangelistic meetings being held at the present time in the Methodist church. These services are being promoted by the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational churches of the town. On Sunday afternoon there were more than 70 men present at the Methodist church to hear Dr. Milton S Rees speak on the subject Pilate's Question. The speaker made a stirring appeal to the manhood of those present to follow Jesus and to make him their companion for life.

Sunday evening there was a good audience in spite of the snow-storm to hear a sermon by Dr. Rees on The Tragedy of the Ages. His audience was greatly moved as he gave a forceful and clear explanation of the meaning of the death of Christ to every person.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a meeting for women only and in the evening Dr. Rees will speak in the public service On Wednesday evening the meetings will be held in the Baptist church and will continue there for one week.

On Thursday afternoon there will be another meeting for women only at 3, and the boys and girls are to meet in the Baptist church on Friday afternoon to listen to an illustrated talk by Dr. Rees. On Friday night the meeting will be known as a Sunday school night. All the scholars will have a part in the service. Large delegations from Danielson will be present on Tuesday night, and on Friday night large parties will be present from Moosup.

Flinn's tonight last showing of Kid Boots with Eddie Cantor. Also Norwich parade pictures.—Adv.

The artist responsible for the Christmas seal this year is George V. Curtis of New York, who lived and painted in Paris for 30 years. He got the idea for the three troubadour musicians on the seal from the fact that the New York Tuberculosis and Health association uses singers in hospitals in treating tuberculosis patients who tend to become pessimistic under the regime of absolute rest in bed. This year 1,500,000,000 Christmas seals are being distributed every where throughout the country by 25,000 volunteer workers to raise money to fight tuberculosis in their home districts. In Griswold and Voluntown this work is under the charge of Dorcas Circle of the King's Daughters, Miss M. A. Burdick, chairman, and the seals are sold by school children, and in the stores. They can also be obtained from Miss Burdick and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox.

Annual meeting Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75 F. and A. M. tonight.—Adv.

Irving Thornton has accepted the position as the bass singer in the quartet at Greeneville Congregational church.

The conference of six churches is to be held at Plainfield Wednesday. Rev. G. F. Goodenough of this place delivers the morning sermon. Rev. Milton Rees, who is conducting evangelistic services here is one of the afternoon speakers, as is Rev. C. S. Nightingale of Moosup

BUT—HE "FELT NO BETTER FOR THAT"

A man from Nebraska tells this: "For three nights I was kept awake by a bothersome persistent cough, and no one there others of the family; and I felt no better for that. The very first doses of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me and in two days' time my cough was entirely gone." Think of the saving of distress to himself and others, had he taken Foley's Honey and Tar Compound at the start. It pays to keep it on hand. The large family size is a real economical buy. Ask for it.

Mrs. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn reads a paper in the morning. The services commence at 10:30 instead of 11 o'clock.

Harvey Maynard and Ben Kolbus, returned Sunday from an automobile trip to Cleveland, Ohio, bringing Mr. Maynard's nephew, Homer Maynard, back with them.

Additional names to the Red Cross roll call are Mrs. Adam Medick, Mrs. Phillip Dudek, Mrs. Forest Needham, Mary Wilkinson, Samuel Polinsky, William Watson, E. G. Starkweather, Elphige Chenette, Elsie Lord, Mrs. L. H. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Arba Browning, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Browning, Jacob Harold and David Goldstein, Blanche and Mildred Montgomery, Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, C. Pourisnick, Mrs. Steve Propoplnio, Octave Lariviere, Mrs. W. M. Terry, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan and Susie Morgan.

The first snow of the winter combined with a high wind has made traveling on the country roads very difficult on account of drifts. Trucks and private automobiles had great difficulty in getting out of the snow piled in the gutters by the state snow plows. There was much comment on the way truck drivers rack their machines fore and aft, when a little shoveling would save the wear and tear on the owners' property.

NOANK

The new Nuggets basketball team opened the season Saturday evening in the town hall against the old Nuggets, 1913. The game started at 8 o'clock with Fred Fitzpatrick referee. It proved the fastest and best game the village has seen in many years. The new Nuggets put in the second team which did good work in the first quarter and then the regular team went in and at the first half the new Nuggets were ahead, 19 to 13. At the end of the third period the old Nuggets were still behind, fighting hard to get ahead and the score was 23 to 26, in the last quarter the crowd saw both teams fighting hard to win. Charlie Patterson putting in three baskets in a row with his left hand. Smith got a long shot and the old Nuggets came out with a victory, 40 to 32, won in the last five minutes. Albert Patterson for the old Nuggets made the best shot of the evening, when he reached over the crowd and threw the ball over his head with one hand, without looking, and went in clean. The crowd gave him a fine hand. B. Bracci got some nice long shots for the new Nuggets. C. Patterson was the star for the old-timers, getting 21 points out of 40, while B. Bracci for his team was high man with 12 points. Both teams pass work was good and the ball was kept going all the time. Many from out of the village attended. Dancing followed. The-up: Old Nuggets, A. Patterson, lf. C. Patterson McDonald c. Stretch Morrison rg. Flash B. Braccis H. New Nuggets: R. Ebbets rf, B. Bracci rg. H. Ellis c. Robertson lg. Timer, Morgan. Scorer, Phelps. Attendance 125. These two teams will meet again at the end of the season.

Charles De Blasi of Sterling was home over the week end.

Walter Willis has gone to Providence for a few days.

The snow storm Sunday morning with high wind made the fishermen put out extra lines as the water was rough and they were afraid the boats would be damaged against the docks. Sunday night two trucks left the village with 90 barrels of fish as a boat came across from Block Island with the fish for Fulton Market.

The waiting room Saturday afternoon was lined with children with their mothers waiting for Santa Claus to come from Toyland.

William Chappell is ill at his home on Main street.

Boat Reliance came in from the fishing ground around Nantucket, Saturday and had a catch of 1,200 cod. The boat tied up at the town dock. Mate Smith made a strange catch, something the old fishermen never saw before; it was a tiger fish, a good sized fish and it had stripes all the way around. The fish was taken to Mr. Smith's home in Stonington where he is showing it to his friends and plans to have a tiger fish dinner.

Alexander Miner has returned to his home in Ashaway, R. I.

The snow plow for the state was around in the village early Monday morning getting the roads cleared. In some places the snow was over 11 inches deep.

For the last week the clam-diggers had some good clam tides and many of them brought home good catches from Six-penny Island flats.

Sunday was communion day at the Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. Ernest Weise being in charge. During the evening a special song service was led by the church orchestra and Rev. Mr. Weise gave a fine sermon on Motoring Through Life. His subject was Stop, Look, Listen! The church was about half filled on account of the bad weather.

Mrs. W. L. Mosher has returned from a visit in Philadelphia and attended the sesqui-centennial exposition.

W. H. Schoemaker of Albany, N. Y., is spending a few days in the village.

Elliott Bennett has returned from a visit with New York relatives.

Miss Catherine McGugan, a bookkeeper at the oral school, Old Mystic, spent the week end at her home on Groton Long Point.

MYSTIC

The Parent-Teachers' association and Mystic League of Women voters plan to unite and hold a meeting Friday evening in Mystic academy at 8 o'clock. Miss Maud Keaton, of Hartford, director in the department of special education, will be the speaker. Topic, Fitting the School to the Child.

Interest in the Men's Bible class of the Union Baptist church is increasing; 47 were present Sunday. The pastor, Rev. L. J. Shepler is the teacher. Rev. O. P. Campbell, of Hartford, director of religious education, was present and added interest to the class. Arrangements have been made with W. L. Main, owner of the Community house building for the men to play volley ball there and next Thursday night they are to meet for the first time.

The Beacon Light class taught by Miss Pauline Miner will arrange for the Christmas tree and exercises. Mrs. L. M. Allyn will buy the candy and gifts.

The young people of the Congregational church held a social in the parish house Friday evening. Mrs. Joseph Tyler had charge of the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dibble, of South Windsor, have come to spend the winter with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brooks, on Willow street. Miss Annie Dibble accompanied them for a visit.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Walter H. Lathrop. Mrs. Edward Bucklyn read the paper on Economic Conditions and Industries of China.

Byron Billings' family has returned to their home on Washington street after spending the summer at their farm in the Road district.

Mrs. Charles Barnes substituted for Mrs. Joseph Johnson in the Baptist choir, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bennett and sons went to Boston Saturday and returned Sunday evening. They were called there by illness of Mr. Bennett's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Denison of Westerly spent Sunday with Mr. Denison's sister, Mrs. Annie Lathrop and Miss Jennie Denison.

Miss Louise Wheeler spent the week end with Miss Alice Denison.

Mrs. Daniel Ivgrs has been ill with a severe cold the past wee.

The annual meeting of the Altar chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Lucy B. Kellogg.

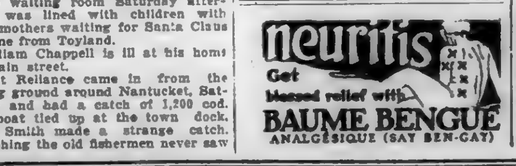
Mr. and Mrs. Charles App i spent the week end in New York with relatives.

Mrs. John W. MacDonald is visiting in Providence.

Mrs. Raymond M. Holmes has returned from a visit in New York.



A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubes. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

THE RUBBER POOL

It is some time since the attention of this country was called to the rubber situation and the fact pointed out that it was possible to produce it in the Philippines. No effort was made to undertake such production chiefly for the reason that rubber was obtainable in a sufficient quantity at a low price and there was seen no need of entering the business on such a large scale as to make this country independent of other sources. We dilly dallied in regard to rubber much the same as we did in regard to dyestuffs and chemicals. War forced us to strike an independent gait regarding the latter and now we see our mistake in not providing for an independent source of rubber.

The recent organization of a $40,000,000 pool in this country is one of the belated methods of meeting the situation. The big rubber concerns of the country have joined hands for the purpose of dealing more effectively with the British rubber monopoly. At least it is hoped that such will be the result since henceforth this American rubber buying pool will have charge of practically all purchases of raw rubber for the manufacturers of this country. Financed to buy in large quantities when the market is the most favorable it is expected to effect a substantial saving that will be of advantage both to the manufacturers but to the ultimate buyer. It is expected that it will have the effect of substantially reducing that $700,000,000 which it has been said was being paid by Americans each year in excess of justification.

The British saw the opportunity to benefit from their control of the rubber market. It is to offset their legislation that the rubber pool has been organized but even with that financial organization acting as the big American buyer might cannot be lost of the fact that this would not have been necessitated had there been the proper development of American territory for rubber plantations, and that the situation will not be fully dealt with until that day comes. We have neglected opportunities and now are and have been paying heavy toll to British enterprises. We are endeavoring to protect ourselves but we neglected the opportunity to prevent all the trouble.

PHOTOGRAPHING ROBBERS

The idea has been advanced of taking moving pictures of bank robbers and holdup men while they are actually engaged in their acts. It is pointed out that photographs of the man or men showing the deed actually being committed and picturing the physical characteristics of the persons responsible would be of much value to the police in identifying the guilty parties, and later on would be of equally great value at the time of the trial in showing just what happened as the camera caught it, thus avoiding the difference in the mental views which eyewitnesses so often present.

The thought isn't a bad one. Theoretically it is ideal but it is another thing to have it work in practice.

For one thing to have a moving picture squad ready for instant service just as soon as the burglar alarm is sounded it is not intended that such pictures should be taken by those who would respond even as the police, or the firemen to an alarm, for it is recognized that it would be folly to try to "shoot movies" of the bandits when the chance to arrest them was offered, and certainly it would be difficult to take pictures of what went on if the picture squad didn't get started about as soon as the robbers did.

The point is to have banks equipped with such secret apparatus as would be needed, so that it could be set in motion by having a clerk step upon some concealed switch and whether they knew it or not the holdup men would be photographed in their operations.

Detroit is not alone banks where the robbers work, and there's no telling where or when they are going to strike next. Such a plan would necessitate the equipment of every place of business where valuables or money are handled in considerable quantities with such an outfit if real effective service was to be performed. The plan is primarily intended for banking houses but it will be interesting to note the result of such tests as are made with it. Anything that will effectively deal with bank robbers is desirable.

THE COSTS OF DISEASE

Following the result of a careful inquiry by several medical authorities it is claimed that it costs the people of this country each year more than $1,000,000,000 to keep well or to regain their health. This is what disease or the lack of proper preventive care imposes upon the people. How much of that might be saved if we were constantly on the guard is not intimated. How much it would be reduced if there was no indulgence in the fake cures is not intimated. The inference in fact is that such expenditures are not included in the figures given since reference is made to "keep or restore health" and such waste of money accomplishes nothing.

By the report of the federal public health service it is figured that the money spent for drugs and patent medicines, reaches a total of $500,000,000 yearly, that physicians get about $230,000,000 for their services, that hospital care costs $264,000,000 and the rest is made up by the 5 per cent charge on the amount invested.

As the result of the work of public health agencies there's no question but what a magnificent service is rendered, that invaluable instructions are given and that through such instructions much disease is prevented and therefore much expense in regaining health is eliminated. There are many individuals who stand in constant need of such instructions relative to proper living, necessary care of children and the ways of avoiding disease [illegible].

In view of the huge sums that are required in regaining health too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the importance of preventing disease. Care is what is needed in most instances, if warnings are heeded. Keeping in good health carries its obligations. Those who transgress laws of any kind realize sooner or later that there is a penalty attached and that it doesn't pay. Some times we fail to place the proper appreciation on good health until we experience the effects of illness. There is in fact much more than the expense involved that should cause us to remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

In Pennsylvania this week there is to be a conference of the mayors and traffic directors of the principal cities in that state for the purpose of giving consideration to state regulations that would have to do with uniformity of traffic. It is in anticipation of legislation if such a move is deemed advisable.

Just what this conference will develop will be of widespread interest for uniformity of traffic regulations is widely desired and yet there are serious difficulties standing in the way of drafting regulations that would apply in all cities if there is an attempt to go into too much detail.

In general, however, there is a chance for the application of similar rules in all cities insofar as most regulations are concerned, quite the same as it is possible for the states to agree upon laws which are found desirable and necessary in some and ought to exist in all. There will be conditions in some cities which could not be met by general state legislation, and it is probably not the purpose of the conference to undertake to deal with such situations.

In the interest of a better compliance with requirements and a better understanding of regulations too much cannot be said in behalf of uniformity. Violations of local traffic regulations are in many instances the result of a lack of understanding of the rules, whereas if in all cities the regulations concerning the most important features were uniform there would be no such excuse and the infractions of the rules should appreciably decrease. Consideration must be shown to the out of towners for the very reason that it is impossible to learn in advance what is required in the different cities. Uniformity of regulations would do much to end such uncertainty.

BROADCASTING

Radio interests so many people that the efforts which are being made to obtain federal legislation in behalf of regulation of broadcasting stations will get widespread backing.

When a committee representing all radio interests makes recommendations for meeting the existing situation it can be expected to carry considerable weight. It was inevitable that there would be a demand for the ending of the chaotic situation created by the dropping of all regulation. It was unfortunate that congress was deadlocked for the type of bill that was needed to meet the situation. The national committee representing the radio interests hasn't been authorized by congress to settle the matter but in the efforts to establish a proper regulation it is bound to have its views considered.

Thus when it urges temporary legislation prohibiting any more broadcasting stations being licensed, when it seeks the adoption of the White bill instead of the Dill bill and when it asks that allocation and use of wave lengths be determined by priority of possession, it is bound to be realized that it represents no small amount of public sentiment, for while those concerned in radio may be speaking for themselves they are bound to take into consideration the service that can be rendered to the listeners in.

It will be noted by congress that the recommendations are not so different from those which have been made by the secretary of commerce, and the situation is certainly one that calls for some kind of action at the present time.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

On Sunday morning Elinora Hall telephoned to ask me to a supper party. She said that she was arranging it hurriedly as her French cousin had arrived from Paris unexpectedly.

"He's a dear thing, Lucile," she said, "and I wish to do something for his pleasure at once. We shall have supper on our lawn under the oaks. I wish Andre to see the simple, pretty home side of American life. When I was abroad last summer he appeared to have the idea that we are all so jassy over here."

I felt that I should be chic for Elinora's sake, and the only costume that I could think of which would be appropriate was Betty's new hand blocked chiffon. When she showed it to me last week I knew immediately that the appricot and green design on the black would be much more becoming to me than to her. She is too colorless herself to wear anything so striking. I got George Requirar on the phone and told him it was an S O S call.

"Can you drive me out to my Uncle Bob's right away?" I asked. "You're always such an angel with your car that I'm not afraid to beg a favor of you, and this is important."

"I'm delighted to drive you anywhere I can," answered George genially, so I suggested that he might also take me out to Evanston in the later afternoon, and I told him that I knew Elinora would be charmed to have him stay for supper.

I have always thought Elinora most hospitable but I must say that she looked astonished when I arrived with George, but I explained that I could not come, dressed as I was, on the elevated.

It seems that she had some very special individual frozen desserts prepared by a wonderful caterese, and she had been so economical that there was not one extra one. I cannot understand when even nice people will do such small things. The salad was also arranged in individual molds, and, of course, there was one short, but Mrs. Hall said she did not care for it particularly, and Elinora quietly skipped the dessert, so that the discrepancy was not noticed generally.

I was amused to see what a gloom came over George as Andre and I merrily conversed. I am indeed glad that I have been persistent in keeping up my French. Andre was obviously pleased to find some one an fait in his beloved language, and I am sure that if I go to Europe in the autumn, as I am trying to persuade father that I should do, Andre will make my stay in France most delightful. It seems his father has a fascinating chateau near Chantilly.

At last, to the surprise of every one, George drew a mouth organ from his pocket and, playing a jazz tune, began to dance wildly his version of the Charleston. Polly Gray jumped up and joined in the dance on the grass, and it was so screamingly funny that we all shrieked with laughter, except the Halls, who looked most disapproving, and Andre, who didn't appear to know what to make of it. I explained to him in French that George was un drole.

"C'est dommage, what a peety," he said, looking at George gravely and kindly, not in the least realizing that he was putting on the performance just for mischief.

"You nearly wrecked the party," I said to George on the way home. "Elinora wished it to be a dignified affair."

"It was so deadly serious that I thought a diversion would be acceptable, and besides I thought you had devoted about enough time to that French sheik. He looked brainless."

"How silly you are, George. He was charming."

"I observed thmat you found him so," remarked George, and fell into silence. It is interesting to digcover that he can be jealous.

Mother was waiting up for me in one of her most trying moods.

"Lucile," she began, immediately, "what are you doing in that dress? Betty called you this afternoon to ask if you had taken it while they were all at church this morning. She wished to wear it herself today. I don't see how you could do such a thing."

"I naturally supposed that she would be glad to have helped me out on a special occasion, but I fear, mother, that Betty is undeniably selfish."

"Selfish" echoed mother, giving me a strange look. I often regret that mother and I are so little in sympathy. I am sure that it is not my fault.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

DO YOU HELP OR HINDER YOUR DOCTOR?

By Arthur B. McGraw, M. D., Detroit, Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Have you ever thought how much you can help or hinder a doctor in his efforts to diagnose your complaint and give you good advice and treatment?

His responsibilities to you are obvious but do you not owe him definite assistance in the way of giving intelligent facts. I can best explain my meaning by introducing to you, briefly, the three last patients who came in yesterday.

First, Mrs. A.—married—late thirties—looks rather overfed—also overdressed. Dustles in and commences talking before sitting down. Has been "treating with" Doctor X., for some time, but "just knows he is on the wrong track." She's sure "It's her liver that's sluggish," and perhaps her "blood is all run down," too.

If I could give her a tonic to "build up her anemia" it might help. The worst trouble is the pain in her back that "draws up into her head, mostly, but sometimes goes 'round to her stomach and bloats her." The good lady pauses for breath and I try to collect my scattered wits.

Next a heavy-set, grim-looking contractor of 45. Sits down and drums impatiently with his fingers on my desk.

"What is the trouble that brings you here," I ask?

"That's just what I came to you to find out," is his answer.

On the defensive from the start. Suspicious—withholding information. Half an hour's hard work serves to excavate a fairly satisfactory story of this gentleman's troubles—provided he had told the truth!

Finally there comes a plain-spoken but intelligent mother. It's about her six year old boy. Night before last he stumbled while playing on the sidewalk and scraped his right knee. Her husband pooh-poohed the idea of "calling the doctor for a scratch," so she washed the wound and "tied it up with a clean rag." The leg was pretty sore last night and Johnny woke up at four in great pain and vomited.

Screams whenever leg is touched or moved. Very swollen, hot and red around scratch. Tender lumps in groin. Whole body feverish. She has told me more in two minutes than the other two in an hour, simply because she set forth when, how and what in orderly sequence.

With which do you confront, your doctor, a curiosity shop an enigma, or an individual, sick, no doubt, but still intelligent and helpful?

Little Talks on Thrift

GREAT WASTE OF LIFE

Statistics recently made public in Washington show that approximately 165,000 persons lost their lives during the past 20 years as a result of automobile accidents. It is pointed out that these fatalities were greater than the total losses of the United States armed forces during the World war from wounds, disease and other causes.

In this connection and national conference on street and highway safety was estimated that if the death rate from automobile accidents in 1925 should continue unchanged for the next 20 years the total fatalities due to automobile accidents in that period will be in excess of 520,000 persons. This is based on the assumption that the population of the country during the next two decades will increase at the same rate that has prevailed since 1920. Since 1906, we are told, there has been a steady increase in automobile deaths.

While many accidents are unavoidable, most of them come as the direct result of carelessness.

Fires, due to carelessness, also are causing an alarming loss of life and property. In this connection the National Board of Fire Underwriters has recently issued some instructive data showing property losses in the United States due to the careless handling of matches of $30,000,000 a year. It was a little more than that for the year 1924, the last annual period for which figures are obtainable. During the five years of 1920 to 1924, carelessness with matches caused the loss of $171,000,000 or enough to erect 50,000 homes at $3,500 each.

The United States Forest service estimates that the careless smoker alone is responsible for upwards of 20 per cent of all fires in the national forests.

Carelessness and lack of thrift are much the same.—American Society for Thrift.

SILENT SYNDICATE SEEKS FRENCH GAMBLING CONTROL

CANNES, Dec. 6 (AP)— Millions of francs are being spent by a mysterious syndicate, which is endeavoring to gain control of the largest gambling establishments in southern France.

Feverish buying of Cannes Municipal Casino stock had recently pushed the price up to 1 900 francs a share, doubling the former high mark reached last year. Six months ago a raid on Monte Carlo Casino shares boosted the price to over 15,000 francs a share.

BOBBED HAIR HAS SAVED ONE GERMAN INDUSTRY

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—"Trim your own," seems to be the motto of large numbers of German maids and matrons who have succumbed to the bobbed-hair epidemic. A large steel goods works announce a heavy increase in the sale of hair clippers, and have found that in most cases women are the untimate users.

Thus to at least one German industry, in contrast with those hard hit, the bobbed-hair fad has proved a decided accellerative.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rear Admiral Roger Welles, who goes on the retired list today on account of having reached the age limit for active service, leaves behind him an excellent record of service during the more than 40 years he has spent in the United States navy. Admiral Welles is a native of Connecticut and was graduated from Annapolis in 1884. In the war with Spain he saw active service as a junior officer on the Wasp and Enterprise. Between the close of the Spanish war and his attainment of the rank of captain in 1911 he saw much service in the Philippines and the far east. During the World war he served as director general of naval intelligence in Washington. For his service in the war with Spain he received various campaign and battle medals and after the World war he was decorated by the French, Belgian and Japanese governments.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6—With congress opening at noon today the ranks of senators and members of the house are practically filled. The Connecticut delegation is here and all were in their seats when the gavel fell at noon. Congressman Tilson has a good program marked out, as republican floor leader, and will undoubtedly have the cooperation of that side of the house. The statements of Col. Tilson, made officially, that he believes the former insurgents should be extended a welcome to come back into regular party lines, so far as they are willing to do so, has met with very general approval. The floor leader, like the president feels that party unity is the key-stone of success, and as he is personally friendly, though politically opposed to their methods, it will be an easy task for him to extend cordial support, if they wish to return to the fold.

There will be complete co-operation among the various members of the New England delegation in supporting measures of benefit to that section of the country, in fact, Senator Moses, president pro tempore of the senate, and senior senator from New Hampshire, has openly stated that if inroads against New England interest can not be protected in any other way, he should advise a New England bloc, much as he is opposed to the bloc system.

Who remembers that during the Wilson administration a flock of high grade sheep grazed picturesquely on the white house lawn? It was during war time, and the great iron gates of the white house grounds were stoutly pad-locked and guarded by special police, to prevent the entrance of the public, but when those sheep first appeared on the lawn, crowds of people watched them through the fence, as they nibbled the close cut grass, for to the average Washingtonian sheep are more foreign than lions which they see any time out at the zoo.

When the Wilson administration ended the sheep were purchased by L. C. Probert who lives in Maryland just over the line from Washington. He used the wool clipped from the sheep as gifts to special personal friends of persons in high political life. This year Mr. Probert had the wool made into blankets, the finest pair of all was sent to President Coolidge, so at this moment the famous white house sheep are not a forgotten incident at the white house.

In fact a number of unusual and interesting incidents have come to light this week about the intimate personal tastes and habits of President and Mrs. Coolidge.

One is that the president spends most of his evenings in the white house library, where according to his own confession he "has work to do nearly every night." And it is also revealed that Mrs. Coolidge spends those quiet evenings in a truly New England domestic manner. She knits. And she likes to knit and doesn't care who knows it. And while she knits she turns on the radio and enjoys beautiful music or something worth while in radio broadcast talks.

And that is not all that has come to light this week which puts the white house in the atmosphere of genuine New England home life, as far as it is possible for a president and wife to make it.

Not long ago, which means the last "swarming time" a cloud of wild bees came to the white house grounds and settled comfortably in an old tree, somewhat hollow and not far from the white house itself. And there they are to this day, entirely undisturbed by their unusual prestige of being executive mansion bees.

The president confesses that he does not like honey. When he was about three years old he climbed up into a chair, reached up to the pantry shelf where the honey jar was kept and helped himself so liberally, as he dug into the jar with his little fists, that he hasn't yet forgotten how sick he was. The taste of honey no longer appeals to him, but he likes to have the swarm of bees remain in the white house tree just the same.

The raccoon, that was sent the president for Thanksgiving dinner, seems even more undesirable from a food view point than does the honey, and lives comfortably though confined, not far away. With all his reserve President Coolidge is fond of house-hold pets. The two dogs know the feel of his friendly hand and the sound of his friendly voice. They have the freedom of the executive office even sitting in the president's chair, which few, if any humans would venture to do. The bees hum undisturbed in the old tree; squirrels frisk fearlessly around presidential feet; the white house kittens are prime favorites of the chief executive, the little raccoon plays within limited quarters, and the president stops in his morning before breakfast stroll to watch his antics with a broad smile. It all seems to be in touch with home life and domestic and country tranquility, very close to the heart of the president, who is hedged in by formality and cut and dried rules and customs of the highest official life.

The seating of new senators in the senate, was a feature on the convening of that body Monday. There was Gould accusers of expending more election stirred Maine politicians to depths heretofore unknown in the Pine Tree state. To be sure, some of the Guold accusers of expending more than the legal amount of money in campaign expenses turned turtle, when they read the elections and found he had won by practically the same overwhelming majority as did that strong Maine favorite, the late Senator Fernald, whose seat Gould is elected to fill. Even Gov. Brewster, republican who had accused Gould of all sorts of misdoings and urged Maine to elect the democratic candidate, came out in a much ridiculed statement that perhaps Gould had been misjudged. That Brewster statement, by the way, has created much merriment here and apparently has put the governor of Maine in a worse political position than had he stuck to his guns.

Another New England senator to take oath on the opening of congress Monday was Walsh of Massachusetts, who defeated Mr. Butler. Butler was filling the Lodge seat by appointment until the general election, and now gives back to Walsh, his former place in the senate. The democrats, by the way are looking to Walsh to play the leading cards in the fight for a modification of the Volstead act, whenever that topic comes up for debate in the senate Walsh is an orator, he has voice and presence, and he is wringing wet in his prohibition views, so he will speak not only for his wet constituents but express his strong personal views as well.

It is not probable any headway will be made in prohibition debate or in modification bills, but the topic is likely to be one that crops up everytime there is a spare moment from other and pending issues.

There has been much talk here as elsewhere as to the future action of Senator William M. Butler regarding the chairmanship of the national committee. After sounding out the opinion of many leading republicans there seems to be no indication that Mr. Butler will be ousted from that position and a western man put in his place. Of course there are some leading men who cry for a change, but apparently the rank and file of "regulars" are for Butler, and whenever he decides to retire from the chairmanship it will be by his own free will and not through being deposed.

Republicans who hold the party purse strings do not forget that Mr. Butler run the 1924 campaign on business principals, and came out of it not only with an overwhelming victory for Mr. Coolidge, but with a big sum left unused in the party purse. That was something that never before happened in the republican party. Butler spent money freely, if for the party good, but he did not waste it. They say here that when a two cent stamp was as effective as a toll call or telegram, Butler used the postage stamp. In other words he ran the campaign on the same strict business methods that he employed in his successful business career. And he delivered the goods. It seems to be regarded here that the failure of Mr. Butler to be elected to the senate a Massachusetts and not a national matter and does not in any way affect his standing as chairman of the national committee. But like President Coolidge, whom he so ably represented in the senate, Mr. Butler isn't telling the world at large about either his thoughts or his intentions as to future political action.

Knew Where to Get It

Harry, a lad of eight, was dining at a neighbor's. He was bashful and backward, and ate his meal with great difficulty because of his embarrassment.

A few minutes after the meal was over, Harry, rubbing his face with his cap, exclaimed:

"Well, now I guess I'll go home and get a good dinner."

Trouble Enough

Mary, age six, recently started to school and came home one day with the information that she had been made a captain in her room. Her mother praised her highly and told her how proud she was of her. The child spoke up and said she did not like it a bit and her mother asked:

"Why not?"

"Because the kids have to ask me everything 'cause I'm captain and I don't know myself half the time," was the answer.

MARTYR TO PAIN FOR 16 YEARS

Finds relief after spending much money in vain.

After spending a great deal of money on medicines without results, a woman who had suffered from a long-standing case of rheumatism, got quick and complete relief by a simple home treatment.

"I have suffered from rheumatism for 16 years and I have spent a great deal of money in trying to get something which would ease the pain," she writes. "I am grateful to say that in Sloan's Liniment I have found instant relief."

Sloan's helps when other remedies fail because Sloan's doesn't just deaden the nerves. It stirs up the bodily forces to throw off the poisons that are causing the pain. Then relief comes as a natural consequence.

So easy, pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub it in. Just apply gently, and the medicine brings the relief.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Needs More Than One Reading

It is not to be expected that at the first reading you can see all the beauties that a word-painter like Tennyson spent years in elaborating. A masterpiece cannot be read too carefully nor too often. To appreciate a great picture like the Sistine Madonna, you must return to it again and again and let its gracious sweetness sink into your soul. It is so that you must study a great poem.

Hence it follows naturally that there is great culture value in storing the memory with noble poems. While we should not go so far as to say with Ruskin that no poetry is worth reading which is not worth learning by heart, there is an inspiration in adoring our minds with as much as we can learn accurately from the great poets; and this inspiration is derived especially from the poetry we have known and loved in youth, which has from its very associations, a strength and sweetness that no other can have.

Peter Goes the Rounds

Who wants the news must go about,
For that's the way to find things out.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was much concerned about his neighbors now that winter really had arrived. That is to say, he wanted to know where each was and how each was planning to spend the winter. So Peter promptly started out to make the rounds. He started out the very night after Johnny Chuck closed his door and went to bed for the rest of the winter. Johnny's house was the first place Peter visited. He knew that Johnny had been awake on the day previous because he had stopped to pass the time of day with him. Then during the night Jack Frost and Routh Brother North Wind had spread a blanket of snow.

As soon as it began to snow Peter thought of Johnny Chuck. "I wonder what Johnny will do now?" said Peter to himself. "I wonder if he will keep on with that silly idea of his of keeping awake through the winter?"

So Peter had remained all day in the dear Old Briar-patch. Then, just as soon as the first Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills he had kicked up his heels in the jolliest way, for Peter dearly loves the snow and started lipperty-lipperty-lip straight for Johnny Chuck's house. When he got there he looked for Johnny's tracks. There were other tracks there right on Johnny's doorstep. There were the footprints of Blacky the Crow; there were the footprints of Danny Meadow Mouse. But then Peter looked all about, he couldn't find a single footprint that looked like a single footprint of Johnny Chuck. Peter poked his head inside. "Hello, Johnny Chuck," said he.

Peter got no reply. He shouldn't have expected one, because even had Johnny not gone to bed for the winter he would have been asleep at that hour. Peter crept in, but he didn't creep far. He had gone but a little way when he bumped his nose against a wall of dirt. He understood then. "Johnny has given up," said Peter to himself. "He has gone to bed for the winter. I won't see Johnny or Polly again until next spring." Then Peter sighed. "It must be nice," said he, "to be sure of being alive when spring comes. But, oh my goodness, what a lot they do miss!"

He kicked up his long heels and away he started lipperty-lipperty-lip, straight for the Smiling Pool. As soon as he got there he looked over toward Jerry Muskrat's house. The roof of Jerry Muskrat's house was a nice, smooth, white mound, rising above a level, flat, smooth, white stretch. Peter knew then that Jack Frost had frozen the Smiling Pool before Brother North Wind brought the snow. "Well," said Peter, "I suppose I won't see Jerry Muskrat again before spring." Then he turned and made for the Green Forest. When he got over there he found Jumper the Hare trying out his snow shoes. You know, Jumper has very long toes with long hairs between them, provided especially for walking on the snow. Jumper was in good humor. "Hello, Peter," he cried. "Isn't this great?"

"I guess so if it is if you say so," replied Peter. "It's all right now, but I hope we won't have much more snow."

"And I hope we'll have a lot more snow," retorted his Cousin Jumper. "I hope it will snow and snow and do it soon. In this kind of snow Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote and Yowler the Bobcat get around without any difficulty; but if we have a lot of snow I can get around and they can't. So I hope it will snow and snow and snow and snow."

"I don't," declared Peter promptly. "That will suit you all right, but when it does that I have to stay at home and it gets hard. Has Buster Bear gone to bed yet?"

SKINNY MEN
THIS BEATS RECORD
He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks — Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed.

Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh - building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees with them that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—it upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawney places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes, "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic, and for thin, puny, undeveloped children — they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 60 tablets for 60 cents. Insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

WINTER SHUTS DOWN ON DEEP RIVER RESERVOIR

Work at the Deep River reservoir has been brought to a standstill by the early arrival of winter, although it had been expected to stop work there within a very short time, even if the first few days of December had not produced the heavy snow and sharp cold.

The work will be resumed in the spring when the weather permits.

FUNERALS

John Domzalicki

At 8:15 o'clock Monday morning the funeral of John Domzalicki was held from his home, No. 71 Russell road, followed by a solemn requiem high mass at the Divine Providence church at 9 o'clock with Rev. Father Pawlowski, celebrant. Miss Frances Kolcsak presided at the organ. The waiting hymn was Pie Jesu and at the recessional Chopin's Funeral March was played. Burial took place in Divine Providence cemetery, Father Pawlowski and Father Czarkowski conducting the committal service. The bearers were Stanley Osik, Julius Worsztak, Stanley Przekop, Thomas Kolasek, Frank Kucharski and John Grotkiewicz.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends from New York, New Jersey, Brooklyn and Norwich and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Mr Domzalicki died Friday morning after an illness of a year. He was born in Poland and at one time resided in New Jersey and New York. He had lived in Norwich for eight years.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Vincent Osik of this city and one son, Alick Domzalicki of Brooklyn, N. Y. There are four grandchildren.

Martin Danahy

At 8.20 Monday morning the funeral of Martin Danahy was held from Hourigan Bros.' funeral parlors, No. 35 Church street with relatives and friends present, some coming from Providence, Willimantic and Hartford. There were many floral tributes of esteem. At 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe, celebrant.

Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ. The bearers were Jeremiah Danahy, Cornelius Mack, Rudolph Nicholson, William [illegible] of Hartford, Martin Dunn of Manchester, and Frank Mack of Hartford. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery and a committal service was conducted by Rev. Frederick M. Cohoian.

Miss Mary H. Bill

Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock a prayer service for Miss Mary H. Bill, daughter of the late Elijah A. and Angelina M. Bill, was held at the Elijah Huntington Memorial home, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiating. At 2.30 o'clock services were held at Trinity Episcopal church. The honorary bearers were Clarence Messinger, Percy Chapman, Henry F. Parker and Walter E. Gilbert and burial took place in Yantic cemetery. Rev. Mr. Brown conducted a committal service at the grave. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were numerous and beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The death of Miss Bill which occurred Friday at the Eliza Huntington Memorial home, 66 Washington street, meant the passing from life of a member of a family long identified with the business and social interests of Norwich. Miss Bill was the youngest and the last of the four daughters of Elijah A. Bill, at one time owner of what is now the Joseph Hall & Son woolen mill, at Trading Cove. Later Mr. Bill was owner of the present store of J. M. Young & Son, corner of Water and Main streets, which store he sold to the late Henry Cardwell, the firm afterwards being Cardwell & Wait.

The Bill family resided in the large double brick house on Church street, opposite Breed Hall. All were members of Trinity Episcopal church and Miss Bill retained her interest in that parish throughout her long life.

Her nearest surviving relatives are the three sons of her sister, the late Mrs. James Lewis of Broadway, Elijah Bill Lewis, long with the S. N. E. Telephone Co., now a resident of Foxboro, Mass., Frederick Lewis of New York and Robert Lewis of Honolulu at present in Europe.

CLEARED STATE HIGHWAYS ALL OVER THE COUNTY

State highways all over New London county, a total mileage of about 230 miles, were clear of snow Monday following the vigorous work put upon them during Sunday afternoon and all Sunday night by the forces of workmen under the general direction of Henry T. Gorman of this city, supervisor of repairs in this county.

Fourteen or 15 motor ploughs were kept going all over the county in clearing the roads which are under state care and supplementary work was carried out Monday in pushing the snow well back on the shoulders in order to be prepared for the future if there should be more snow to follow what is now on the ground.

AIRPLANE IS REPORTED DOWN AT BISHOP'S CROSSING

Owing to engine trouble due to low temperature an aeroplane was reported to have made a forced landing near Bishop's Crossing early Monday evening. The pilot of the machine is said to have put up for the night at Jewett City and will make arrangements to continue his flight today (Tuesday) to have the plane shipped back to the starting point.

LAST CARGOES OF IRON ORE MOVING ON LOKES

DULUTH Minn, Dec. 6 (AP)—A small fleet of storm-beaten freighters is struggling down the lakes this month with the final cargoes of the greatest shipping season the Lake Superior iron mining district has had since 1920.

Preliminary figures of mining experts estimate the 1926 tonnage will reach 59,000,000 tons the fifth largest in the history of the mining area which produces 60 per cent of the world's supply of iron ore.

One iron mine, the Mahoning at Hibbing, the largest open pit property in the world shipped 3,500,000 tons of ore this year, making its total 5,000,000 tons for 1925 and 1926.

Suspension of shipping activities means no great decrease in activity on the iron ranges, however, as then the underground mines speed up production, bringing up ore for stock piles to be ready next May.

Wednesday morning, the feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin, also patronal feast of the United States, a holiday of[illegible] the United States, a holy day of obligation, there are to be masses in St. Patrick's church at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock.

COMMON COUNCIL DECLINES TO PAY FOR BROKEN AUTO SPRINGS

The disallowance of a dozen claims for damages to springs and other parts of automobiles by the court of common council Monday evening at its December meeting is a strong indication that the council will pay no more claims of this nature in the future unless such damage is directly due to carelessness of city employes. Mayor Milo R. Waters stated to the council that he will oppose the practice of presenting such claims unless the damage is directly due to the carelessness of the city's employes.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 8:15 o'clock by Mayor Waters, and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, according to custom. The city clerk read his certificate of publication of the ordinance adopted Nov. 1, relating to penalties for violation of the city's parking rules.

Petitions Presented

Petitions were received and referred as follows:

From Richard Schneider, et al., for two lights on Bentley avenue. Referred to police commissioners with power.

From Mrs. M. B. Murphy, et al., for a light between Mt. Pleasant street and Connell street, referred to the police commissioners with power.

From Joseph Rutchik, for a light on West Main street, referred to the police commissioners with power.

From T. A. Carey, et al., for the acceptance of Golden street extension by the city and for the establishment of a grade for sidewalks there. Alderman Henry Gebrath stated that the Golden street extension matter is already under consideration by the public works committee and suggested that the petition be referred to that committee. It was so ordered.

From John A. Holland, No. 420 Asylum street, calling attention to what he terms bad conditions at the intersection of Sachem, Sherman and Lafayette streets. In his communication he stated that there are two stores there and that machines are parked in front of the stores, thus blocking and narrowing the highway. Accidents are liable to happen due to the present conditions. Mr. Holland expressed the opinion, in his communication which he said he had been asked to send to the council, that both sides of the street should be a restricted area from the intersection of the streets, for a distance of 150 feet, easterly on Sachem street. The petition was referred to the police commissioners.

Wants Electricity On Corning Road

The city clerk then read the following communication from G. Warren Davis, who resides on the Corning road, with reference to two petitions which he submitted to the council:

The published report of your regular session of November, 1925, indicates that my petition of Oct. 22, 1925, was favorably acted upon by you, and that the matter was referred to the police commissioners "with power". Your review of the petition noted will show that you acted favorably upon a petition of mine of a similar nature dated Oct. 28, 1924. In neither case has the police commission operated to effect. The gas and electrical department avers that no formal application for action upon these petitions has ever been filed in its affairs.

The petitions were an outgrowth of conditions that still obtain. In addition let me say that our home has been wired for electricity for two years. The wires conduct no energy. Our citizenship in the city of Norwich carries with it the right of protection which the lighted highway contemplates. No less does it require the facility of municipal electrical energy in our home. If these things are not just and true, then why should we continue to pay city taxes?

Please undertake effective prosecution of these matters.

Yours truly,
G. WARREN DAVIS.

The communication was received and ordered placed on file. It was brought out in a discussion following the reading of the communication that the police commissioners had acted on the petition but not as Mr. Davis claimed in the communication. Mr. Davis was requested to see Charles W. Taggert, general manager of the gas and electric department, in regard to the matter and this Mr. Davis had not done, it was brought out in the discussion.

The monthly report of the street commissioner and the monthly report of the city treasurer were received and accepted.

No Pay For Broken Springs

By the acceptance of the following report by the finance committee and the adoption of the appended resolution, a dozen claims for broken springs were disallowed.

We have investigated the claims mentioned in the resolution herein recommended for passage and believe they should be disallowed.

Resolved: That the following claims against the city for damages to springs and other parts of automobiles made by Herman F. Wischnewski, Theodore Gakowske, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury, Frank D. Davis, Thomas M. English, Richard Heberding, Henry R. Sebastian, W. E. Tingley, M. D., C. G. Thompson, M. D., Mrs. E. Hilderbrand, and John T. Barry, which may be found on pages 142, 362, 201, 202, 241, 281, 283, 398 of the printed council journal 1925-1926 and pages 85, 116 and 165 of the printed council journal, 1926-1927, be and the same are hereby disallowed.

Counciman C. G. Thompson inquired if this was to be the usual procedure or if it was just for this year. Mayor Waters answered the councilman by saying that he will oppose the practice of presenting claims for broken springs unless it is directly due to the carelessness of city employes. "I don't question the honesty of the claimants," said the mayor, but I think the city should stop payments of claims for broken springs. Hartford doesn't pay claims of that nature. The mayor said he had been told by a number of local drivers that they couldn't tell when they broke springs on their machines.

Recommending that Arthur Roy, et al, be given leave to withdraw their petition the committee on finance submitted the following:

Your committee to whom was referred the petition of Arthur Ray, et al. for permission to the Eastern Connecticut Power company by which the part of Canterbury turnpike in question might be temporarily supplied by the company until such time as the city might be willing to take over the business.

The report was accepted by the council which then proceeded to adopt resolutions ordering tax refunds as follows:

Felix Szymanski, $24 of the city tax of 1926, paid by him on property purchased by him and his wife, March 5, 1926, on which he was not able to claim the exemption to which he was entitled as a soldier, due to the fact that the city list of May, 1926, was taken from the town of Norwich list of October 1, 1925.

Arthur Jackson, $24 of city tax of 1926, for similar reason.

John T. Evans $24 of city tax of 1926, for similar reason.

Harold E. Spicer, $6.60 of the city tax of 1926 paid by him, due to the fact that by error he did not claim his exemption as a soldier to which he was entitled in time to have it given on the town and city lists.

The following resolution in settlement of the claim of Mary E. Dawson was then adopted by the council:

That the treasurer pay to J. J. Desmond, attorney for Mary E. Dawson, the sum of $121.98 in full settlement of all her claims against the city and in particular of her claim which is set forth on page 166 of the current journal; such sum to be paid upon the receipt of a release executed by her and satisfactory to the mayor.

A deed by Wladyslawa Zdunczyk conveying a small strip of land to the city of the part of her land which the city needs, in consideration of the abatement in full of the assessment of $160 made against her on account of the Hickory street sewer in front of her premises, it being found necessary in order to cover the brook above Hickory street to encroach on her land, was accepted by the council.

Calls $5,000 Claim Preposterous

A claim from Margaret M. Murray for $5,000 damages was received by the council and following considerable discussion was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. Claimant alleges that due to an explosion of a compressor the city was using in the work on Boswell avenue August 11th, last, the head of the compressor was blown into the house, and the claimant was knocked down and injured, and the household effects were damaged. Brown and Perkins are counsel for the claimant. She is a tenant in the house.

Councilman Maurice Looby said he was on the scene of the accident an hour after it happened. A part of the roof was blown off the house. He thought $25 would suffice to pay for the roof.

I was there very shortly after the accident, said Alderman Henry Gebrath and I don't know that Mrs. Murray suffered any. I saw her afterwards. The end of the compress went over the roof and took part of the cornice off. The public works department spent $1,500 on repairs. I think the claim is preposterous—all out of reason.

Councilman Thompson inquired as to what Mrs. Murray's injuries were. None whatever, said Alderman Gebrath.

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney said that Mrs. Welch owns the house. We put up ceilings, fixed up rooms, painted and papered them; we did everything she asked for, he said.

The alderman failed to mention a new floor put in the bath room, said Alderman Gebrath.

Mayor Waters said he saw the street commissioner and instructed him to put the house in proper condition and he understood this had been done.

Alderman Sweeney said he thought the house was in better condition after it had been repaired than it was before the accident.

This concluded the discussion on the claim and the council proceeded to approve city bills as follows:

Finance department $75,837.07; gas and electric department $67,955.47; police department $7,557.56; street lighting $3,406.93; cemetery department $922.83; fire department $6,730.60; public works department $28,605.92; water department $6,293.43; park department $382.93; Deep River reservoir $40,909.59.

Adjournment was taken until Wednesday evening, December 15, at 8 o'clock.

MONDAY NIGHT WORK CLEARED CITY STREETS

Tons of snow were removed from the city streets in the business section Monday night by a large force of men under the direction of Street Commissioner John C. Donovan. A half dozen wagons and trucks were kept busy all night carting the snow shoveled from the streets to the manhole in Franklin square and to the Preston bridge where it was dumped into the river. So fast did the dumped snow accumulate around the Franklin square manhole that it was impossible to keep up with the trucks so a good part of the snow was dumped into the river from the bridge. During the day Street Commissioner Donovan had the roadways leading to the vault in Maplewood cemetery and St. Mary's cemetery ploughed out. The ploughs were kept busy clearing up the center of the city streets also.

Street car schedules were somewhat delayed Monday, largely owing to difficulty in automobiles and trolley cars passing each other on some of the streets and highways. The going was extremely difficult throughout the eastern part of the state.

L. K. BRAGAW ENGAGED TO MISS SULLIVAN, PASSAIC

The engagement of Miss Mary Elizabeth Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Sullivan of Paulson avenue, Passaic, N. J., to Louis King Bragaw, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bragaw of Hartford and Neptune park, was announced at a tea dance at the Yountakah Country club, Passaic, on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. Miss Sullivan attended Wellesley and was graduated from New Jersey college, class of 1926. Mr. Bragaw attended Salisbury Preparatory school and Wesleyan college, where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi. He is now associated in the insurance business with Silas Chapman & Co, Inc., of Hartford. The Bragaw family has made its summer home at Neptune park, for many years.

COLCHESTER HOUSE WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire, believed to have started from a flying spark caused damage of about $200 to the house of Emil Goffrey, four miles north of Colchester on the Hartford turnpike shortly before noon Monday.

A call to the Colchester fire department resulted in Fire Chief Gilbert Murray dispatching the village apparatus with a squad of men, although the house is out of the Colchester department's jurisdiction.

The early arrival of the firemen with the speedy application of about 70 gallons of chemical probably saved the house from complete destruction.

Shot Foxes and Hawk

Ray Bliven of Salem was out hunting about two hours Saturday morning, gathering in a pair of fine foxes in that time, a dog fox that weighed 13 pounds and a female weighing 10 pounds. He also shot one of the large northern hawks that are invading New England at the present time, the feathered marauder having a five foot spread of wings, from tip to tip.

SOPRANO AND PIANIST GIVE ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME

Laura Littlefield, soprano, with Miss Florence Judith Levy at the piano, made a programme for meeting of the Norwich Music association Monday evening at Slater hall annex that was one of the most enjoyable of the season. Both of the artists came here from Boston, taking the place of Miss Dorothy George who had been obliged to cancel her engagement because of illness.

Mrs. Littlefield had charm of manner and a voice of bell-like clarity and purity of tone to which she added well-trained enunciation that made her numbers a delight. For encores she added to her assigned programme two captivating numbers, The Icicle and Stevenson's Little Shadow.

Miss Levy had one number on the regular programme which displayed her technique in a brilliant manner and in response to the insistent applause she gave what she called the American cowboy's national anthem, Turkey in the Straw.

The programme was carried as follows:

Christmas Songs
Away in a Manger — Luther's Cradle Song
Veni Noel — Old French
No Candle Was There — Lehmann
Hail Ye Time of Holidayes — Brauscombe
Mondnacht — Schumann
Heiden-Roslein — Schubert
Song of India — Rimsky-Korsakoff
The Snowdrop — Gretchaninoff
Piano Solo—Flower Waltz — Tchaikovsky-Grainger
L'Angelus — Briton Folk Song
Chanson des Noisettes — Dupont
Crepuscule — Massenet
The Nightingale — Delius
Song of the Palanquin Bearers — Shaw
The Robin's Song — White

OBITUARY

Mrs. William G. Tarbox

Having been in failing health for three months, Mrs. Lucille A. Tarbox, wife of Captain William G. Tarbox of Poquetanuck, died Sunday night about 8 o'clock in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Tarbox was the daughter of Charles D. James and the late Maria E. Hammett of Danielson and was born there Dec. 12, 1875. She graduated from Killingly high school, and also graduated fro mthe Boston University School of Medicine in 1897. She served as physician in the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital and dispensary and in hospitals in Brooklyn and Philadelphia and was licensed to practice medicine in Maine and New York state.

In Norwich, December 25, 1912, she was united in marriage with Mr. Tarbox by Rev. Peter C. Wright at the pastor's home. Mrs. Tarbox was a member of the Central Baptist church and for several years was a teacher in the Sunday school, and took much interest in her class of girls. Mrs. Tarbox was a member of the Norwich College club.

Mrs. Tarbox was of a kind and sympathetic nature and her aim in life was to make others happy. Her many friends are deeply grieved to learn of her death. Surviving are her husband, two stepsons, Walter Tarbox of Poquetanuck and Harold of East Hartford, her father in Danielson, three sisters, Mrs. A. Handschumacker, Auburndale, Mass. Mrs. W. L. Keay, Boston; Miss Harriet James, Boston and two brothers, Robert B. James, Oakland, Cal.; and Everett James, Danielson.

PHEASANTS THRIVE ON SOUTH DAKOTA PRAIRIES

PIERRE S. D. Dec. 6 (AP)—A graceful, aristocratic and vari-colored bird, the Chinese ring-necked pheasant, is thriving on the prairies of South Dakota.

The game bird has grown beyond the most optimistic hopes of the state department of agriculture, which introduced it, and is attracting more and more hunters each year from a dozen middle western states and a few beyond.

Gratified with the success of pheasant introduction, the agricultural department now plans to bring in a vast number of Hungarian partridges, another bird which is counted among the game of kings and which is expected to find an agreeable environment in Dakota.

Hunting fees are used mostly to provide protection for the game birds when the hunting season is closed and for establishing preserves where young birds are cared for until they may be released.

Avoid Ugly Pimples

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SUSIE TELLS OF SEVERAL INCIDENTS THAT HAVE COME TO HER NOTICE

With little to write about in the local sporting line Susie this week devotes her letter to odd incidents that have not as yet found their way into the public press. Her letter follows:

Good morning Ed: Nice snow we're having, ain't it? It ain't. Speaking of snow, ain't it a grand thing to shovel, specially at 8 o'clock in the morning with a wind blowing. Say now that we're on the subject of snow didja here the one about a feller down in Thamesville what split a coupla of hours shoveling off his sidewalk. No? Well, here's the dope. This feller gets up early in the morning before breakfast and digs the snow-shovel out from the bottom of the coal-bin where it had been resting with about five ton of hard coal on it. He starts in shoveling not paying much attention to anything only what's right in front of him. Well he gets the walk all shoveled off when he happens to look in back of him and oh, my, what a wall goes up. The wind has blown all the snow he shoveled off right back again and all he's got cleaned is about four square feet where he's standing.

Well, nature can't floor this kid that way so he starts all over and just about the time he gets it all cleaned off along comes the city snow plow and pushes what snow there is in the street right up on to his sidewalk. Well, what he said made the air around that place so warm the snow started to melt. He does the job all over again and goes in for some breakfast that friend wife has prepared but he's so tired and his back is so lame that the food don't set well and he gets a tough case of indigestion. Well while he's struggling with the menu along comes the snow-plow from one of the mills and cleans off everybody's walk along the street. Believe me, Ed, that guy is fairly frothing at the mouth just thinking what a fool he was not to wait and get his walk all cleaned for nothing. He says that hereafter he's going to be the last one on the street to tackle that old snow-shovel next time it snows.

Well, Ed, there ain't much to write about this week so I guess I'll have to open the old vacuum cleaner and let out some of the dirt for the dear public. Say didja hear about them two fellers what ducked a meal check in a local eating emporium? No? Well, here's the low down on it. I ain't going to mention no names nor nothing. Well it seems that a coupla local mysteries with million dollar clothes and a five and ten roll invites a coupla frills to dine at a local second-story night club and much to the amazement of the boys the janes shout in chorus "Yes." Well maybe that didn't start the would-be Rockefellers to thinking how much food could be bought for a gross capital of 45 cents. Well they gets parked in a booth and the janes grab the menu and starts ordering. To hear them janes order you would think they was two of the original near east orphans. Chicken a la King, lobster salad, and a lotta other things what has got funny names and cost a lotta money. By the time them two frails got through telling the waiter what they wanted said waiter had used up one pad of order blanks and was starting on the second. The 45c wouldn't have paid for the restaurant silverware what they was to eat with and the boys, already in over their heads in the financial difficulties thought they might as well be hung for a lamb as a goat so they orders steaks with mushrooms. Well the food comes and everybody sails in like there was nothing on their minds or stomachs. When the chow is about gone one of the sheiks remembers he's got a important telephone call to get off so he says "Please excuse me while I telephone," and he beats it down stairs. The other boso waits and as he waits he sees where he's been left with two healthy girls and a more healthy meal check to square. Well by and by he says to the girls "Pardon me, but I think I better see what has become of——" and he gets up and beats it down stairs too. Of course, he don't find his friend so he starts hunting for him and is still hunting as far as I know. What happened to the janes? Darned if I know. If they didn't have the sheiels to settle with the oriental maybe they is washing dishes to make up for it. Now ain't that a dirty trick to play on a coupla girls? Well maybe it will teach them janes that they better get a financial statement from their sheiks before they eat and order accordingly.

That reminds me of a nother similar happening. A party of girls and fellers from this burg goes to one of them inns down near New London and they eats more food than they has funds to pay for. Well them folks warn't so bad 'cause they didn't run, they danced. They told the proprietor they was a bunch of theatrical people and could dance and play the piano and so to make up the $1.62 what they was short. They danced and sang and played for two hours. Oh, boy, imagine doing all that for $1.62.

Say Ed. didja hear about the popular young feller what was initiated into one of the local lodges? No? Well they say that kid is taking his meals off a lunch cart counter and ain't using the stools either. Before he went through he makes the crack that they couldn't do nothing to phase him. Oh what a foolish break to make, especially when there's a membership of several hundred all armed with good flat paddles that fit snugly to the seat of a person's trousers. And then there was the goat. Yep, a real honest to goodness, gentleman goat what they feed tin cans and dinamite. The boy says that the next time anybody wants him to ride a goat they got to put a saddle on the animal for he ain't no Tom Mix. Well I guess the boy is a member all right for they give him the whole works and then some.

Say Ed, ain't human nature a funny thing. You know them American Legion show folks give a play down to the state hospital the other night and there was more people at that show than was there all three nights when it played in Norwich. No they weren't all patients at the institution neither, they was people living right here in Norwich what wouldn't kick in no dollar to see it but would take a bus down there when they could see it for nothing. They tell me that's what a lotta folks is doing in town, going down there when its free to see pictures what have been shown in local theatres. Ain't some people tight?

Didja go to the fire out to the Fairgrounds the other night? Well if you didn't you oughta have gone 'cause you missed a lotta fun. Can you imagine a big place like the fairgrounds with all its wooden buildings having only one fire plug and that outside the grounds? Gosh me and the boy friend sees the glow on the sky that night and we begin it for the grounds. Well we gets there just about as the Yantic company gets there. They stops at the hydrant hitches on their hose and drives on. Well first thing you know they runs outa hose and they is still 3 or 4 hundred feet from the fire. Then they has to send for more hose. Then when the other hose gets there they hitches it up and there goes up a cry for "Water." The fire laddies grab the hose and by and by a thin dirty stream of water comes outa the nossle. A couple fellers with a good working atomizer could a-ne done as much good. Meantime the fire has burned down the sheds and barn and it was lucky the wind was blowing away from the other sheds or there wouldn't have been none left. By and by somebody says take off the nozzle on that hose and they do and out rolls a pebble about the size of a hen's egg. Well taking the pebble out didn't do much good so one of the firemen puts his finger over the end to give it pressure and they manages to get a few drops of water on the blaze. The snow was doing more good than the water. As I was going out there was a coupla places in the hose that was shooting out more water on the ground than there was on the fire. And the crowd, say there was more there than at the whole three days of the fair.

Well Ed. I have writ enough about nothing so I'll close. You ain't heard nothing from Hepsy have you. I guess he'll lay offa me for a while.

Yours as ever,

SUSIE.

CELTICS AND DANIELSON PLAY AT TAFTVILLE THIS EVENING

The game at Parish hall, Taftville tonight will be between the fast Danielson town team and the Taftville Celtics and promises to be one of the best games of the season. From the record that is being piled up by the visiting aggregation, which includes victories over the South Manchester and the Webster teams by large scores, they are coming to Taftville determined to take the first game of the series from the local boys, who are equally determined that they will not break their winning streak in this game.

The Danielson team is bringing to Taftville a large crowd of rooters to help their team along but the Taftville boys are fast making a reputation for themselves and hope that the fans will turn out. Danielson will be represented by such men as Teddy Reeves, former Killingly high star at right forward, with Goudreau of the service battery at left, Armington will jump at center and this boy is without a doubt one of the best centers in the eastern part of the state. Poirier and Keach will be seen at the guard positions with Fulton and Meunier as subs. These men have been playing together for the last four seasons and are considered the fastest in this section.

Taftville will be represented by Mondi Normandin at right forward with Rabbit Gauthier at left, Les Pingree will hop around at center with Coady and Eccleston at guard. Jack Murphy and Phaneuf will be there in case of emergency.

Dancing will also follow the game. Music for the dance will be rendered by Pep's Melody Boys who made such a hit with the crowd last week.

A fast preliminary game between the Nordics and a fast Norwich team will start at 7:45.

THREE PENN PLAYERS ON ALL-EASTERN GRID TEAM

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Three members of the University of Pennsylvania football team accepted an invitation today to play on the all-eastern collegiate eleven that will meet a group of stars from the west in the annual Shriners' hospital benefit game January 1 in San Francisco. They are Jack Butler, center; George Thayer, end, and Jesse Douglas, halfback.

Lieutenant Beckett, assistant during the last year to Hear Coach Ingram, or the Naval academy, obtained permission of Lou Young, Penn coach, to take the three men to the coast provided the faculty gives its approval. Beckett is making the rounds of the eastern colleges to select the team, which will be in charge of Coach Ingram.

Among others likely to be asked to join the all-eastern team, Beckett said, were Welch, Pittsburgh; Friedman and Flora, Michigan; Broda, Brown, Connor, New York university and one or two Navy players.

BREADON TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL OF HORNSBY

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals today took under advisement a request of Rogers Hornsby for his retention for three years as a player and manager.

Hornsby made the request at a conference in which Breadon proposed that Hornsby retain his player's contract, which still has a year to run, or combine the old contract with a one year contract as player-manager with an increased salary.

"I told Hornsby," Breadon said, "that the three year contract he proposed ran into bigger money than the club's earning power for the past eight years justified and that one year was as far as I could reasonably see my way to sign."

Petrolle and De Marco Draw.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., fought a six round draw with Cuddy De Marco here tonight. Petrolle scored the only knockdown in the third round. The weights were Petrolle 137 and De Marco 134 1-2.

Eddie O'Dowd, of Columbus, Ohio, won a six round decision from Dominic Petrome, of New York. Teddy Baldoc, sensational little British bantam decisively outpointed Piere De Caluwe, of Belgium, in six rounds.

Two Golf Teams In Tie.

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Two teams tied for first place in the tin-whistle best ball of pair gold tournament here today when two Canadians, Eric Thompson of Rothesay, N. B., and C. M. Rude of Montreal, deadlocked with George Statzell of Drexel Hill, Pa., and H. P. Hotchkiss of New Haven. Each pair turned in a score of 66.

Mondt Throws Evco.

J., faculty moderator of athletics; Paul J. McEvoy, graduate manager, and Cleo A. O'Donnell, director of athletics.

ILLINOIS COMMISSION MAY PASS ON DECISION TODAY

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission at its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon, may pass upon a request of Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, for a reversal of Referee Benny Yanger's decision, which transferred the middleweight championship to Mickey Walker, after a ten-round contest at the Coliseum last Friday night.

Opinion was divided tonight on the possibilities of a reversal. Legal authorities said the commission had no power to reverse a decision unless evidence of a frame-up is brought forth. These authorities also said that nothing could be found in the law giving the commission authority to reverse a decision of the referee.

John C. Righemier, chairman of the commission, would issue no formal statement today.

"I have passed the buck to the commissioners," said Miller tonight. "If the commission does not have the power to reverse the decision, it should at least come out and officially disapprove of Yanger's decision. Yanger, by his own statement, proved that he is incompetent. I am satisfied that there was no dishonest act about Yanger's decision, but I am convinced that he was not a fit official to judge the contest."

ARGUMENT POSTPONED IN DEMPSEY-KEARNS CASE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Argument was postponed today on a rule obtained by Jack Kearns against Jack Dempsey former heavyweight champion, to show cause why a writ of foreign attachment against the fighter should not be dissolved.

Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, obtained rule against Dempsey, with Tex Rickard as garnishee, Sept. 21, two days prior to the championship bout in which Dempsey lost his title to Gene Tunney.

In the affidavit setting forth the cause of action, Kearns asserted that he had entered into contract with the former champion in August 1923, for three years, during which he was to receive 33 1-3 per cent of the proceeds from all theatrical and athletic contracts he obtained for Dempsey. The amount claimed by Kearns was $619,999.99.

Arguments was postponed one week to allow Dempsey's attorneys time to make reply to the affidavit filed today.

HERMANN TO CONTINUE QUEST FOR COLUMBUS CLUB

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6.—(AP)— Overtures for purchase of the Columbus American association team by the Cincinnati nationals for farming purposes will be continued despite reported opposition among association officials to the sale, August Hermann, owner of the Cincinnati team, said today.

Hermann left today to attend the National association of baseball clubs meeting at Asheville, North Carolina.

Opposition to the purchase was seen in a clause inserted in the association constitution yesterday requiring consent of six teams to admit a new member, although association officials declared the clause had no such purpose.

FINAL PLAY IN $10,000 OPEN TOURNEY ON JAN. 6

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—(AP)—El Caballedo Country club, north of Los Angeles, was chosen today as the site for the final play in the $10,000 open golf championship.

Eighteen holes will be played Friday, January 6, 18 on Saturday and 36 on Sunday. From five to ten courses will be used to determine the finanists in the qualifying rounds January 5, depending on the number of entries.

The course at El Caballero is considered by experts to be one of the most difficult in Southern California.

GRANTS ADJOURNMENT OF TWO WEEKS IN DEMPSEY CASE

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Federal Judge Bodine today granted an adjournment of two weeks in an action started in chancery court of Atlantic City by Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, asking for an accounting and order of discovery to ascertain Dempsey's assets.

Suit was filed before the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia on September 23, seeking an injunction to prevent Dempsey from leaving the state and asking for a share of profits derived from that and other enterprises.

Chapman-Base Matched

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A fight between Red Chapman of Boston and Bennie Bass of Philadelphia, featherweights, in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., on January 1, was announced here tonight by Charlie Ozrdio, manager of Chapman.

TEX RICKARD HAS CORNER ON MOST OF HEAVYWEIGHT CHALLENGERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—With four leading contenders under long-term contract, Tex Rickard apparently held a corner on the 1927 heavyweight market today after signing Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney of Boston and Paolino Uzcudun of Spain within the last three days.

Their names were added to that of Harry Persson, the Swedish challenger, who will do all his boxing next year for Rickard. Jack Dempsey, dethroned champion, also has indicated that any future fighting he may do will be under the promotion of the Madison Square Garden fistic impresario.

From this field and possibly Paul Berlenbach, erstwhile light-heavyweight title holder, Rickard said today he expected to produce Gene Tunney's next opponent through the elimination series which has been in progress at Madison Square Garden several weeks. Berlenbach still is outside the fold, but Rickard's friends predicted he would be added to the group very shortly. He twice has appeared before the state athletic commission recently, seeking to break a contract with Humbert J. Fugazy in order that he might participate in the elimination tests.

Sharkey, last of the candidates to sign under Rickard, will not be available until after February 1, at which time his agreement with Fugazy will expire. He then will engage in four battles for Rickard.

If Rickard succeeds in corralling Berlenbach, which observers considered highly probable, the only possible contender of national repurition not signed for the Madison Square Garden tournament will be Jack Delaney. The light-heavyweight title holder has announced his desire to enter the race, but apparently stands small chance of securing a test fight unless he, too, breaks away from Fugazy.

Rickard predicted that the survivor of his heavyweight elimination tournament would draw "a cool million" in a subsequent battle against Gene Tunney for the championship.

And when Tunney is ready to fight. "You can bet all the tea in China that I will be the man behind the helm," the promoter said.

Rickard expressed the hope that Dempsey would decide to make a comeback, claiming that the dethroned champion was the most "colorful heavyweight that ever lived."

"Tunney and Dempsey would draw another tremendous gate," he continued, "but you'll never live to see the day that the Philadelphia receipts are equalled. Two million dollar gates are a thing of the past."

MANY TRADES AND SALES EXPECTED AT BASEBALL MEET

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—As baseball men gathered here in record breaking numbers for the annual meeting tomorrow of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, a record also was impending in the number of trades and sales of players discussed, but not completed, from early morning until tonight, the relative merits and demerits of playing talent in many leagues were cited without serious change thus far in the rosters of clubs.

The American association, after congratulating itself on a record breaking attendance of 1,790,000 last season, adjourned to meet next week in Chicago to talk of schedules for 1927.

In the absence of an official announcement, friends of Lee Fohl, former manager of the Boston Red Sox, insisted that he will succeed Dan Howley as manager of the pennant winning Toronto Maple Leafs.

Clarence Rowland, American league umpire, who arrived Friday, is said to be a special envoy of Ban Johnson, league president. Rowland, in addition to his role of unofficial observer, also is said to be seeking an umpire to take the place of George Moriarity, who recently accepted Ty Cobb's job of managing the Detroit Tigers.

Miller Huggins, manager of the American league champion Yankees, declared he was not looking for players, but with Business Manager Edward G. Barrow, was besieged by clubs of A. A. and A classification for a lift. One outfielder of the New York reserve list is being sought by seven clubs in the big minors.

BOXING BOUTS FEATURE GROTTO SOCIAL EVENING

Three snappy boxing bouts featured the entertainment program of Nemrod Grotto at the meeting held on Monday evening. After the short business session the bouts were put under the direction of Harold Kramer who acted in the capacity of announcer and referee. The main bout of eight rounds between Young Falcone of Norwich and Young Luppinack of Westerly was a fast and productive of spirited exchanges of hard blows. The bout was fairly even Falcone having just enough to give him the decision.

In the first bout of the evening Young Pick of the East Side boxed to a draw with Battling Falcone, the pride of Toomeytown. This bout was fast and more or less of a give and take affair.

Another draw resulted when Kid Fairo of Greeneville went four fast rounds with Kid Jinks, also of Greeneville. This bout like it predecessor was a good draw neither boy having much on the other.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee brought a most enjoyable evening to a close. The refreshments were good as members of the Bulletin staff can testify as the Grotto brought up a box full for the printers.

HARVARD HAS EXTENSIVE HOCKEY SLATE THIS SEASON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Two games with Yale, two with Dartmouth and five with Canadian colleges appear on a hockey schedule for the present season made public tonight at Harvard. In the event of a tie with Yale a third game will be played in New York on March 5.

For the first time in years Princeton will not be a hockey opponent of the Crimson, which last year won the big three championship. In the place of the Tigers the Canadian colleges of McGill, Toronto, Laval and King's will play at the Boston arena. Ten Harvard letter men will be on the ice this season, the squad having lost only three regulars by graduation.

Preakness on May 9th

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6——At a meeting today of the Maryland Jockey club, owners of the Pimlico race track, May 9, was set for next year's renewal of the $50,000 Preakness. The $25,000 Dixie Handicap will be run May 1st, it was announced.

Jones Gets Decision.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Jimmy Jones, of Youngstown, was given the judges' decision over Irish (Tommy) Jordan, Brooklyn, N. Y., at the conclusion of a slow ten round bout tonight.

Jones weighed 146 and Jordan 136½.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

(By the Associated Press)

Definite ruling on what constitutes a "champion batsman" will be asked of the National league next week by President John A. Heydler. The league executive believes eligibility should include participation in three-fourths of his team's games by each candidate.

Pete Latzo today concludes training for his comeback in the ring at Newark, N. J., tomorrow night against Joe Simonich of Montana. Latzo has not boxed in five months as a result of sickness and injuries, but his welterweight crown will be safe as Simonich will scale more than 147 pounds, the class limit.

George Duncan, colorful British professional, is due in New York today for an American invasion. He will leave immediately for California to match strokes against Harry Cooper in a seventy-two hole skirmish.

Selection of Vincent Richards as No. 1 player in the Metropolitan tennis district is accepted by New York critics as indicating that the former Olympic champion, who recently turned professional, will receive ranking in the National field. His three victories over William T. Tilden are expected by many observers to place him at the top for the first time in his career.

The Amateur Athletic union has sanctioned holding the National Indoor interscholastic track and field championships at Newark, N. J., on Feb. 9. The Newark A. C. will conduct the title events in conjunction with its annual athletic games.

Curling is popular in every part of Canada and the city of Winnipeg is generally regarded as the world center of this winter sport.

The first women's skating tournament for the international championship was held at Davos, Switzerland, in 1906, under the auspices of the International Skating union.

Snow is virtually unknown in the populous sections of Australia, so the people generally have little opportunity to indulge in the so-called winter sports. However, many of those who can afford it journey to Kiandra, in the mountains of New South Wales, where the conditions are excellent for skating and ski-ing.

NEW LONDON HARBOR DREDGING TO BE DONE

The New London harbor dredging project was left untouched during the fiscal year, the only expenditures being $150.53 charged to maintenance, says the annual report, just made public of the chief of engineers of the U. S. army in Washington.

This project, which calls for the dredging of an entrance channel 600 feet wide, 23 feet deep and about three and one-half miles long from Long Island sound to the upper harbor and for a channel 400 feet or more in width 23 feet deep and about 6,000 feet long skirting the waterfront of the city, and for dredging Shaws cove to a depth of 15 feet is about 60 per cent completed and has cost to date $516,924.46. There is an unexpended balance of $275.54, and it is estimated that appropriations to the amount of $120,000 will be required to complete the project, states the report.

"No additional funds can be profitably expended during 1928," reads the report, "as channels appear to be in a condition to meet the needs of the present commerce."

Pursuant to a provision in the river and harbor act of 1916, the state of Connecticut has completed at an expense of approximately $1,000,000 an essential portion of its terminal development, it is stated in the report.

$36,689 Spent on Thames River

Expenditures on the Thames river dredging project for the last fiscal year amounted to $36,689.27, dredging and restoration of the channel up to Norwich.

It is proposed to use the funds unexpended, June 30, for maintenance. "No additional funds can be profitably expended during the fiscal year 1928," reads the report of the engineers, "as the river channels are in good condition." The unexpended balance totals $10,502.18. Total expenditures to date amount to $622,897.82."

Block Island Costs

No work was done on the project at the harbor of refuge at Block Island during the last fiscal year, says the report. Expenditures were for administration and contingencies and totaled $122.05.

The project is about 96 per cent completed and to date has cost $651,068.82. There is a balance of unexpended of $6,098.42, with which it is proposed to dredge the entrance channel and the channel in the inner harbor. It is estimated that appropriations totaling $19,300 will be required for completion of the project.

At the present time, "the breakwaters and the basin walls are in fair condition," says the report.

"So far as is known, no effect has been produced on water freights by the improvements, but the building of breakwaters has afforded an excellent shelter for the fishing boats on the east side of the island, and the deepening of the channel allows vessels of greater draft and size to reach the wharves," it is explained.

The Great Salt pond project, which is about 62 per cent. completed, was left untouched during the last year; no funds are available and "no work is now proposed as the improvement appears to be in condition to meet the requirements of existing commerce.

To date of June 30 a total of $212,209.68 has been expended on the project. It is estimated that appropriations amounting to $116,000 will be required to complete the project, says the report.

Truth is mighty, but a great deal of it is suppressed.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The arrival of Louis Kossuth in New York in 1851 was the occasion for a monster celebration, his fight for freedom of Hungary meeting the approval of Americans.

Items of the week taken from the Norwich Courier of 1851 are in part as follows:

Tuesday, Dec. 2, 1851—Yesterday we had the first snow for the season and for a time it fell thick and fast, but melted almost as fast as it descended. At night there was a thick slush in the streets and gave every indication of bad travelling for the following day.

On a recent Sunday Miss Jenny Lind gave a church a large roll of bills while the collection was being taken. Recently she gave $100 to Father Taylor for the aid of seamen. Miss Lind certainly believes that it is better to give than to receive.

The Metropolitan hotel of New York is now nearly completed after three years work. The hotel stands on the site of the Niblo theatre. The hotel will house 800 guests and will be the most magnificent hotel in the world.

Prof. Arago of Paris has made arrangements with Prof Airy of London to connect the wires on each side of the English channel and a game of chess is to be played by means of the sub-marine telegraph.

Thursday, Dec. 4, 1851—The Cherokee has docked in New York, making the most rapid passage ever made by the Chagres route. She had $2,000,000 in freight and $200,000 in the hands of passengers.

The winter term of the Misses Burgess boarding and day school is to commence tomorrow.

The Silloway block on Franklin street is being offered for sale and at a price so low that it will be quickly snatched up.

The partnership of Edward N. C. Roath and William C. Potter has been dissolved and Mr. Roath will continue the business at the same stand, his stock of stoves and tinware being the best in the state.

Saturday, Dec. 6, 1851—Louis Kossuth arrived in New York yesterday and was greeted by a roaring of cannon and the cheers of thousands of people gathered at the shore to greet him. The mayor of New York city asked that Kossuth remain in the city for some time in order that all the people who wished to greet him might have the opportunity.

At the meeting of the court of common council held Tuesday evening it was voted that the owners of the Parkinson house at the Falls be given until January 1st, to rectify an encroachment upon the public. The application of Stephen Rathbun for leave to continue the burning of oyster shell lime at his kiln on Thames street, was rejected after several of the neighbors had requested the discontinuance of this practice.

The report of the postmaster general shows that the sum of $6,276,402 was expended for the transportation and maintenance of the mails of the United States during the past year. There are now 6,170 mail routes in the country, covering a mileage of 196,380 miles.

DENIES $20,000,000 CONTRACT FOR ELECTRIC BOAT CO.

Published reports that the Electric Boat Co. has secured contracts for Diesel installation work, totaling $20,000,000, the fulfillment of which would necessitate the addition of 500 men to the personnel of the concern and its subsidiary, the New London Ship & Engine Co., were characterized Monday as false by an official of the Electric Boat Co.

The contracts reported to have been secured by the company involve the installation of Diesel engines in four submarines, a mine layer, a submarine tender and a hospital ship, the hulls for the vessels to be built at Quincy, Mass.

BRITISH SCIENTIST SAYS JOHN BULL IS PRE-SAXON

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—John Bull is not a Saxon at all, as generally supposed. John Bull, it seems, is sort of a prehistoric Caucasian.

Sir Arthur Keith, the famous anthropologist, has been coldly examining this world known figure who started on his path to fame in 1712, and concluded that the typical John Bull as seen by the cartoonist is not in the least typical of Englishmen. Said Sir Arthur to the Royal Society of Medicine:

"Neither in face nor coloring is John Bull a true Saxon, and to find his prototype it is necessary to go far back to certain invaders early in the second millennium, B. C. who appear to have originated beyond the Caucasus where big noses and round heads still abound."

IDLERS AT MONTE CARLO ARE NOW TO BE TAXED

MONTE CARLO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Thousands of curious Americans who wish to see the inner-workings of the casino without risking any of their money on the tables are responsible for a raise in the admission price from five to ten francs.

The casino authorities contend that around-the-world tours, student parties, and especially the class of tourists who travel third-cabin class and wish to see everything are so cluttering up the gaming rooms with nongamblers that the raise in price was a necessity.

CLAIM C. G. BASE COOK, NEW LONDON, CAUSED ANOTHER COOK'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—George Edward Washington, a colored cook, at United States coast guard, local section base, No. 4, is a prisoner under arrest there, charged with the murder of Gorman Wilson, 39, also a negro cook and of the crew of the destroyer, Terry, who died at a New York hospital Saturday from wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Washington three weeks ago. Washington will be delivered to the civil authorities within a few days. The New London police have no knowledge of the fight that resulted in Wilson's death. From other sources, however, it is known that Wilson and Washington engaged in a fight in a North Bank street house on the night of either Nov. 7 or 8 and that Washington is alleged to have attacked Wilson with a bottle and is have delivered the latter a blow that opened up the scalp. Wilson returned to his ship Nov. 8th and requested medical treatment, stating that he had been injured in an accident. He was given treatment and within a short time was able to pursue his duties, but a few days ago, his condition became serious and he was admitted to a New York hospital where it was determined that Wilson's skull was fractured.

FIRE AGAIN BROKE OUT AT SECOND CONG. CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—Although the heavy snowfall of Sunday completely enveloped the Second Congregational church, which was gutted by fire Friday afternoon, a small blaze broke out among the ruins shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the smouldering embers broke into a lively blaze. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters, Acting Chief Thomas Shipman and Northwest Hose company responding. The fire was extinguished quickly with chemicals.

The fire department responded to a still alarm this afternoon when a chimney fire was discovered in a residence on Cedar Grove avenue. Chemicals sufficed to extinguish the fire and without damage of consequence.

MESSAGE COMES TO WOMAN DEAD THREE MONTHS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—Mrs. Mary Diker, Staten Island, N. Y., communicated with the New London police this morning, requesting that Mrs. John Trainer, 41 Shapley street, be notified of the death of the latter's sister at Hoboken, N. J. Mrs. Trainer has been dead three months.

A couple of coast guard sailors, Lamie Dixon and Harry Veinot, stationed on a vessel at the academy, went to jail from the police court this morning for their actions Saturday night in wilfully damaging private property, the property of John Morgan, a young man in the employ of the New Haven railroad. Mr. Morgan had operated a Ford automobile to the vicinity of the signal tower of the railroad at Fort Neak when the sailors went by. The car was without an occupant so the sailors took occasion to smash out a couple of windows. The crash was heard by Fred Ingerson, the towerman, who lost no time in establishing the cause of the break. He rushed from the tower and found the sailors, accusing them of lawlessness. Veinot admitted what had been done and confessed that he smashed the glass with a stone, wilfully. He and Dixon were under the influence of liquor, but they realized what they had done. They were arrested and locked up. In court this morning they pleaded guilty of intoxication, but represented that they did not realize that they had been offensive in behavior. They were shown a degree of leniency by the court inasmuch as they had overstayed their leave of absence and were given an opportunity to pay for the damage to the car and to settle the costs of their arrest and trial. This they were unable to do, so went to jail.

Parley Wheller, a chief petty officer on the ship Downes, was charged with intoxication. It was his first appearance in court so he was allowed to return to his ship.

Chris Sorensen, also drunk, was similarly treated.

Mose Allard, a familiar figure in the court, was found drunk and down, helpless in snow on Howard street. He is the father of several children and to send him to jail would be to impose a hardship on them and their mother, so the court manifested the Christmas spirit and allowed him to start anew on a path he has followed of late until his lapse Sunday.

Max Natchek, a freight hustler on the Central Vermont dock during the short time he has been in New London, said he attended a basketball game Saturday evening. He looked as if he had been in a scrimmage himself for he displayed a blackened eye and a swollen face. He represented to the court that he had fallen. He was given some advice and then was permitted to go to his work among the cases and the boxes that go over the lines of the steamers to and from New York.

Two adjourned cases were still further continued as the parties complained against are showing an intention of refraining from law breaking.

There was abundant reason for sending a railroader who was found drunk in a doorway on Bank street early Sunday morning to jail for a term as great as the court could impose for he has been a frequent offender who manifests neither respect for his family nor regard for leniency that has been shown him in the past. He pleaded earnestly today for one more chance and publicly promised the court that he would refrain from the use of liquor during the coming year. Judge Prince told him he would give him the one chance he asked for and promised him that when he appeared again he would be sent to jail for a considerable stay. His conduct in the past has indicated that he is an ingrate. Whether he is proven such hereafter depends upon himself.

The funeral of Daniel D. Buckley, former well known shoe salesman, who died at Hartford Retreat, Friday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a throng of mourners, including delgations of members of Knights of Columbus and St. John's Literary society. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Reagan, with Rev. Raymond O'Callahan as deacon and Rev. Nicholas Caron sub-deacon. During the services the church choir, of which Mr. Buckley was long a member, sang and at the conclusion of the mass Edward F. Murray gave "One Sweetly Solemn Thought". The bearers were Daniel D. Donovan, Peter Dyer, John J. Farrell, Thomas Bannon and Francis Corcoran of this city and William Quinlan of Westerly. Burial was in St. Mary's with committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. Reagan.

Lee S. Denison, well known resident of this city, and for many years, secretary of the Thames Towboat company, died Saturday night at his home 24 Summit avenue. Mr. Denison had been ill about six years. He is survived by his wife, a son, Roger Denison and a daughter, Miss Marjorie Denison, all of New London. Mr. Denison for many years was proprietor of a job printing establishment on Summit avenue.

Angus C. Davies of Boston, president and treasurer of E. D. Steele, Inc., State street clothing store, died Friday at Cranford, N. J. The funeral was held this afternoon in Boston. Mr. Davies was well known in New London, devoting much of his time to the New London store. He had not had sound health for a long time and about six weeks ago he was compelled to enter a hospital, going to Cranford.

Miss Helen G. Austin of the Crocker House apartments, spent the week end with friends in New York.

Theodore Bodenwein has sold a building lot on Norwood avenue to John E. and Sarah G. Stone.

Arthur Korman of Colchester; Mrs. Frank Brennan, 26 Dell avenue; Mrs. Isadore Lewins and infant daughter, 11 Connecticut avenue; Barbara Brennan, 26 Dell avenue; Francis Hamilton, United States coast guard destroyer, Terry, state pier; Mrs. Clarence Samuels, 294 Main street; Gustaf Johnson, United States coast guard section base, state pier; Edward Mojneaux, Saybrook; John Robbins, of Blackhall and Miss Helen Beckman, 22 Maple avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial associated hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

The funeral of George M. Noble, formerly of New London and lately of Willimantic, whose death occurred at Norwich State hospital, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Robert M. Bindloss, 56 Lincoln avenue, and was attended by many mourners, including a delegation of members of Pequot lodge, I. O. O. F. The services were conducted by Rev George E. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Members of Pequot lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Funeral services for Annie M., wife of John W. Stephens, of Broad street extension, Waterford, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Beckwith Memorial chapel, Cedar Grove cemetery, Rev. Chester H. Howe officiating.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Petrini, wife of Natale Petrini, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her residence, 730 Main street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

COUNCIL VOTES $12,000 FOR SWAN ZONING PROJECT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—This evening only four building permits were requested from the city council and these were granted. They were for three garages and a cottage, the last mentioned, to be erected on Ledyard street.

The council voted to buy $559.60 worth of hose for the fire department. There are six companies using the hose and it is proposed to procure 1000 feet now so that each company will have a shift of hose. Mayor Fox advised the purchase of the best quality to be had, and the city manager said that was the sort it was proposed to buy.

The city manager advised the early appointment of a third member of the board of compensation, saying that a meeting of the board for the approval of the laying of a sewer was postponed to secure a full membership of the compensation commissioners.

The council passed a resolution providing for the appropriation of $12,000 for the employment of Herbert S. Swan to arrange a city plan and to introduce the zoning system. The adoption of several resolutions was necessary, including one to forego the second and third readings of the original ordinance. The vote on all the resolutions was 6 to 1, Councilor May voting in the negative each time. The city manager was finally instructed to sign a contract with Mr. Swan to do the work proposed.

Mayor Fox asked the council to meet as a committee of the whole that any amendments to the city charter to be submitted to the legislature might be considered and that the council might know what the proposed amendments were.

WESTERNER ASKS MAYOR TO HELP HIM FIND A WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—Councilor May suggested to the city council this evening that the city manager follow the plan of last winter and designate streets upon which there should not be any coasting. He said that Willetts avenue and Bank street were among the streets on which coasting was prohibited. The police are to be asked to attend to the matter, as they did last winter.

The mayor read a communication which he had received from Jim McNulty asking that the mayor should put him wise to some young lady who wanted to become a wife. McNulty said he had written some 423 letters to congressmen and others and now had included the mayor in the list. He dated his communication at Minneapolis, Minn. McNulty became facetious during the writing of the letter and his language and ideas created a good deal of amusement among the councilors. The mayor said he would place the letter on file and then he put it into his pocket with the idea of replying to it.

CITY TRUCKS UTILIZED IN CLEARING SNOWY STREETS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—With the abatement of the storm of Sunday, City Manager William A. Holt this morning caused all of the four-wheel drive trucks, ordinarily used by the city in the collection of dry garbage, to be withdrawn from performing that particular line of work and the trucks and their drivers were assigned to removing snow from the principal streets of the central part of the city. The vast accumulation of snow was taken from State street and that business thoroughfare was relieved of the hindrance to traffic but on Main street, automobile and trolley traffic was greatly interrupted between Church and State streets because of the deep snow beside the curb, and in several instances the in-bound Norwich trolley car was held up anywhere from five to fifteen minutes because of inability to pass owing to automobiles being parked and unable to park beside the curb. In most instances the New London-Norwich line cars would have been on time, but for this hindrance. The city maintained its four-wheel drive trucks in removing snow from the principal streets, but on Main streets this work was neglected. In place of the trucks which are ordinarily used in collecting dry garbage, horse-drawn teams were used and in most instances the substitution was effective and worked out satisfactorily.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Vaudeville's centennial year and Keith-Albee greater vaudeville season was ushered in at the Strand theatre, playing to a capacity house and no wonder. If this opening greater season is any criterion of what may be expected in the future Norwich theatregoers are due for some real great vaudeville and picture shows. The management of the Strand is doing everything to make this particular season a success and with the help of the fans from Norwich and its environs a rosy time may be looked forward to.

Opening the stage attraction we see the two juveniles Pilliard and Pollier assisted by Bill in a petite revue consisting of songs, dances and what would be least expected of this sort of act comedy. They made a lasting impression with us all.

Evans and Pearl were seen here a few years ago but have this time a new vehicle for their comedy talent called "The Female Chiropractor." This title alone should convince all readers that there is something to laugh about with songs for good measure.

A super developed sense of humor and good voices have been pooled by Warren Murray and Pat Dougherty in "Always Trying" with the result that they have a well of entertainment.

The fourth spot and most difficult was held down by that burnt cork funster Del Elwood. Darky comedy songs and steps gave all a barrel of fun and enjoyment.

And then came the unusual and finest act we have seen here in many seasons.

The Seven Stylish Steppers have about as clever, classy and neat a dancing act as one would wish for, and one of the best all-girl dance offerings that has played the three-a-day in ever so long. The ensemble is daintily costumed, not hard to gaze upon and composed of capable dancers. Following the conventional opening song six of the girls execute a rather neat buck dance, while the other girl presents an excellent high-kicking specialty.

"When the Wife's Away," the clever picture comedy from the Columbia studios, concludes a three day engagement at the Strand theatre tomorrow. This film has produced more laughs, more "I told you so's" and more comment than anything of its kind that has been shown here this year.

George K. Arthur, as the young husband who tumbles into a heap of trouble, seems to have been there in reality, so naturally does he grieve over his celluloid woes. This is equally true of Dorothy Revier, who plays the part of the wife.

The supporting cast consists of Tom Ricketts, Ned Sparks, Harry Depp Lincoln Plummer, Bobbie Dunn and Ina Rorke. Every name is known to lovers of comedy and humor on the stage and screen. The director was Frank R. Strayer.

Breed Theatre

Vicente Blasco Ibanes, famous author of "The Four Horsemen," "Mare Nostrum," and "The Terrant," indirectly supervised at least one role of a story he created, when Antonio Moreno played the role of "Robledo" in the massive Cosmopolitan production of Ibanes' "The Temptress."

For Moreno played the role according to the direct ideas of the author—he had the writer's description of every scene and every quirk in the hero's character.

While in Europe filming "Mare Nostrum," Moreno talked over the role in "The Temptress" with Ibanes, whom he visited at the latter's villa in France. Moreno was intensely interested in the role, and he and Ibanez worked out every detail of it.

Fred Niblo, directing the production, suggested that Moreno bear in mind the author's ideas throughout, hence Ibanes, in a way, really directed Moreno in the scenes.

The new production, now playing at the Breed theatre, is a vivid romance of Paris and South America. Greta Garbo, famous Swedish screen beauty, says the title role as the strange and beautiful charmer who wrecks men's lives. Moreno plays the principal male role. Fred Niblo directed it at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio with a notable cast, that included Lionel Barrymore, Roy D'Arcy, Marc McDermott, Armand Kalis, Hector V. Sarno, Ines Gomez, Alys Murrell and other well known screen players.

Palace Theatre

The story of a glazier which can be seen through and laughed at, that's W. C. Fields latest starring comedy, "So's Your Old Man" which is the feature film offering of the big double feature program now playing at the Palace theatre. Fields long a favorite on the stage, has become more popular since his entry on the screen, for his sunny portrayal of laughable situations, that he could not depict on the stage to advantage. This big rollicking comedy special "So's Your Old Man" is based on the tale that appeared in the red book magazine, which won the O. Henry prize for the best short story in 1926. This comedy is full of screen screams and funny episodes. When Fields gets going at his smile a minute clip, Kid Gloom naturally takes a header for a cyclone cellar till this joyboy passes. Pretty Alice Joyce pleasingly aids Fields in his cleverness. Co-featuring on the same show, a dramatic romance that really can predominate any program is "Rose of the Tenements" with Shirley Mason and Johnny Harron. A story of sinister propaganda and hidden forces battling against young love and love of country. A masterpiece of screen drama with a magnificent climax. A story of the greatest love in life, a picture you will remember for a long time. The Palace latest news events and a cheerful comedy concludes a great show worth going miles to see.

One of the busiest and most important departments of the army air service at McCook field, at Dayton, O., is the salvage department. When an airplane becomes unsafe for flying or is damaged in an accident to an extent that makes it unsafe, it goes to the salvage department. Every part, every piece of material that holds the slightest promise of future service is taken from the ship, inspected and either used again or sold. The discarded ship is stripped of everything that is valuable and only a husk remains. Those mechanical and other parts that are believed to be of further service undergo the same inspection as new parts, and if they pass, are put back in stock. The miscellaneous metal scraps are sold as junk.

POETRY

The Flower

Once in a golden hour
I cast to earth a seed.
Up there came a flower,
The people said, a weed.

To and fro they went
Through my garden-bower,
And muttering discontent
Cursed me and my flower.

Then it grew so tall
It wore a crown of light,
But thieves from o'er the wall
Stole the seed by night.

Sowed it far and wide
By every town and tower,
Till all the people cried,
"Splendid is the flower."

Read my little fable:
He that runs may read.
Most can raise the flowers now,
For all have got the seed.

And some are pretty enough,
And some are poor, indeed,
And now again the people
Call it but a weed.

—Alfred Tennyson.

The Pines and the Sea

Beyond the low marsh-meadows and the beach,
Seen through the hoary trunks of windy pines,
The long blue level of the ocean shines.
The distant surf, with hoarse, complaining speech,
Out from its sandy barrier seems to reach;
And while the sun behind the woods declines,
The morning sea with sighing boughs combines,
And waves and pines make answer, each to each.
O melancholy soul, whom fate and years,
In life, faith, hope, the same sad undertone,
Pursues from thought to thought; thou needs must hear
An old refrain, too much, too long thine own;
'Tis thy mortality infests thine ear;
The mournful strain was in thyself alone
—Christopher Pearse Cranch.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

John, don't ask my father for any favors yet.

No, I won't.

Waiter, you look hungry yourself.

Yes, sir, I'm going out to eat in ten minutes.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Advertising certainly pays. We lost our mongrel pup.

And did you get it back again?

No, but we got two better dogs.—Outlook.

Lady—Humph! This perfume is half water.

Saleslady—Yes, madam. That's the new water-lily fragrance—quite the thing.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

A western chain store advertised as follows:

"Apples, oranges, imported nuts, fruitcake. Come in now and avoid the rush. The early bird gets the worm."—The Progressive Grocer.

O'Brien—By golly, I'm tired tonight.

Mrs. O'Brien—There you go again! You're tired! Here I be standing over a hot stove all day and you working in a nice, cool sewer.—Hogan's Alley.

Motorist—My car's stalled a little way down the road, Mr. Farmer. One of the parts went bad on me. Suppose you haven't a spare spark plug?

Farmer—Spare plug? Nope, I hain't got a hoss on the place.—Boston Transcript.

A railway superintendent ordered that all accidents must be reported immediately. Recently he received a wire: Man fell from platform in front of moving train. Will wire details later.

Five minutes ticked by, then came another telegram: Everything O. K. Nobody hurt. Engine was going backward.—Good Hardware.

Bicycles become more popular in France each year. There is now one bicycle for every seven inhabitants, "wheels" being about as common in France as automobiles are in the United States. In Paris alone there are almost half a million. The latest figures show 6,782,354 bicycles in France, an increase of almost 400,000 in 18 months.

Bill Smith is said to have the oddest job in New York. He is a porter in the Federal Reserve bank and his particular duties are connected with dusting. And his dusting operations are confined to gold bullion. In the underground vaults of the bank there is stored millions of dollars of gold bullion. This gold has to be kept free of dust and that is the principal part of Bill Smith's job.

On the Louisiana side of the Sabine river at Orange, Tex., is a refreshment stand and in the river is an alligator, three feet long, which lounges around within hearing of the lunch stand. When a member of the family running the stand calls "gator" he loses no time in coming up to be fed on various scraps of meat and discarded food. The alligator has narrowly escaped death several times when men became alarmed and pulled their guns as the saurian leisurely swam up for his meals.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

ATTENTION
Sidewalks!

The ordinances of the City of Norwich imposed a penalty of $5.00 upon any owner, occupant or person having the care of any land or building abutting the public highways of the City where there is a sidewalk, either graded or paved, who fails to have removed therefrom all snow, sleet and ice within three hours after it shall have been deposited, or within three hours after sunrise when the same has fallen in the night season, and also upon any such party who fails to have the snow on such sidewalk removed or properly sanded within two hours of its becoming so deposited during the day time, for each successive period of four hours thereafter that it is'd remains after proper notice given.
This will give notice to all affected by the foregoing Ordinances that the same will be strictly enforced and anyone failing to comply therewith prosecuted from this time forward.
Norwich, Dec. 7, 1926.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Irregularity developed in today's stock market as opposing speculative forces struggles for control, but major activity appeared to be on the up-side. Higher call money rates and the uncertainty regarding the action to be taken by congress on the mass of new bills had a tendency to restrict trading. However, the higher money rates are regarded as only temporary and the banking and brokerage circles no legislation likely to be adverse to general business is expected.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 per cent, which was somewhat of a surprise in view of the large deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement, but advanced to 5 and thence to 5 1-2 as banks called about $30,000,000 in loans. The New York Federal Reserve bank reported an increase of $38,870,000 in loans for the week ended last Wednesday. The New York stock exchange figures for the month of November, which also came out today, showed total loans of $3,129,161,675, an increase of $17,984,750 over the total at the end of October. These figures, coupled with federal reserve banks' statements, tend to confirm the belief that no serious credit stringency is in sight.

Speculation continued to center in a small group of high priced industrials, which hold promise of special developments next year. Baldwin, which was weak Saturday, rallied from a morning low of 152 3-4 to 157 3-8, up 2 7-8 net. International Harvester jumped from a low of 146 to a new record high at 151 7-8 and then settled back to 150 for a small fractional gain on the day. Loose Wiles Biscuit second preferred soared 16 1-2 points to a new record top at 170 on a few sales, the common jumped nearly 12 points to a new peak at 171, and Laclede Gas, Otis Elevator, Porto Rican Tobacco, South Porto Rican Sugar, United Drug and Westinghouse Air Brake showed net gains of 3 to nearly 6 points.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors, recent market leaders, showed only small fractional changes on the day. Activity and strength of a few low priced issues also attracted considerable attention. American Woolen was bid up 4 points on reports of a definite turn for the better in the textile industry. General Gas & Electric B jumped 5 1-2 points to 46 but eased to 44 on realising. Electric Boat advanced 2 points to a new high at 12 1-4.

Famous Players preferred crossed 134 to the highest price on record, and heavy accumulation again took place in the common on reports of large current earnings. Other issues to break into new high ground were Philip Morris, Consolidated Cigar, Loew's, International Business Machines and American Locomotive preferred.

Rails moved within rather narrow and irregular limits, a good demand was noted for New Haven in the last hour.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

All the principal commodity markets were firm. Active wheat, cotton and sugar futures ruled slightly higher. Raw sugar was unchanged. In the cotton trade, considerable interest is being shown in the fortnightly government crop report to be issued Wednesday.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.84 1-2, but French francs ruled nearly ten points lower around 3.90 cents. Slight recessions took place in most of the other continental rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Wheat values took a zigzag course today, December delivery advancing in price, whereas later months declined. Unsettlement was ascribed largely to trade complications which are resulting from much wheat both afloat and ashore being tied up by lake barriers of ice. Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 1-2c net lower to 1c advance, with corn unchanged to 1-4c gain. Oats 3-8c off to 1-8c and 1-4c up, and provisions unchanged to 30c down.

Upturns in the price of wheat available for delivery this month were associated more or less with reports on strenuous efforts being made in some quarters to replace wheat that at present is blockaded owing to stoppage of lake navigation. On the other hand, it was apparent that this stoppage would pile up wheat in Canada which later on will be likely to meet with more competition than at present. Fine harvest weather prevailing in to adopt new hygienic method and retain freshness this way; true protection; discords like tissue

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

KOTEX

No laundry—discard like tissue

STANDARD OIL TO BUILD STORAGE AND DISTRIBUTING STATION HERE

Erection in this city of a big storage plant and distributing station, to which tank boats can deliver their cargoes, is forecast by a building permit application filed by the Standard Oil Co. after purchasing from the Connecticut company the old power house station property on the banks of the Thames river in the Thamesville section of the city, off the foot of Shipping street. The property is reached for shipping purposes both from the river and from the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad.

An approximate expenditure of $100,000 is estimated to be indicated by the plans for the development of the property. These include eight different steel tanks, a steel loading platform and steel pump house, as well as the remodeling of the power station building for office uses and for storage.

The steel tanks which it is planned to build include the following: For motor gasoline, 70 x 40, capacity 28,931 bbls; for fuel oil, 50 x 40, capacity 11,760 bbls; for furnace oil, 60 x 40, capacity 11,750 bbls; for water white, 25 x 30, capacity 3,203 bbls; for water white, 30 x 30, capacity 3,173 bbls; and three tanks for motor oil, each 20 x 30, and capacity 1,410 bbls.

SNOW HERO PICTURE IS SHOWN AT Y. M. C. A.

Notwithstanding the snow Sunday afternoon the large gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. was well filled at the 4 o'clock service; in addition to the chairs the side circus seats were used. After the singing of America, the scripture was read and prayer offered. Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos to his own accompaniment, and also furnished the music for the picture. The famous feature moving picture, "The Hero of the Big Snows" was shown with good effect, and it was greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

The wonderful dog Rinu-Tin-Tin was the real attraction of the picture story, and the human sympathy shown by the dog was little less than marvelous, and the heroism of the animal taught a needed lesson to humans. Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, and he spoke in part as follows: I looked up the meaning of the word hero, and found that it means valour, daring or enterprise, and the spirit of sacrifice. The dog on the screen illustrates in a marked way the spirit of heroism. We think of the heroes of the battlefield in the World war, when they went over the top for a great cause, and we bestow upon them all the honor of which they are so worthy. It probably takes more heroism and courage, however, to stand out alone when one's chums go into wrong things and expect one to follow; to say "no" and to refuse to do wrong when all the others are against you is indeed an act of real heroism. The true mother is one of the great heroines of the world; it is well that the boys and girls of this generation take note of the mother's sacrifice and love for them. But the greatest hero of them all was one Jesus born in Bethlehem of Judea. For us he went all the way to Calvary and gave his life on the cross that we might be saved; let us learn to love and serve him more and more, and let us make him our greatest hero, which he is.

PAID $313.48 FOR MOTOR VEHICLE FINES

Peter Pianko of No. 1 Thames street paid $313 48 in the city court Monday morning as the result of his arrest Saturday night after the truck he was driving had collided with a truck, parked on Prospect street, and then collided with three more machines on Main street in front of the Buckingham Memorial. He was presented on two charges, driving while under the influence of liquor and evading responsibility. On the liquor charge he was fined $200 and costs and on the evading responsibility charge he was fined $100.

Peter Sablewski of No. 313 Central avenue, a second offender, was bound over to the superior court on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Bonds were fixed at $1,000. Accused's license was suspended over a year ago on the same charge.

Peter Combs, No. 95 Forest street, was presented on a charge of violating the liquor laws. He was fined $200 and costs and given 10 days in jail. He appealed and furnished bonds of $500. Harry Foster testified to buying a half pint of moonshine from Combs for 75 cents given him by Officers Luke Riley and John O'Neil. He turned over the liquor to the officers and Combs was arrested.

Albert H. Lane, 28, a sailor stationed at the submarine base at the navy yard was in court on a charge of driving a stolen machine. He claims he borrowed the machine from a sailor on the 8-19 in whose care it was left last October by another sailor who is now at Portsmouth, N. H. Lane's case was continued and he was held in $1,000 bonds.

A Montville man, charged with being a common drunkard, was sent to the state inebriate farm for six months. A local man was fined $10 and costs for intoxication and a Westerly man paid $5 flat on a breach of the peace charge. A sailor, charged with intoxication, failed to appear and his bond of $25 was forfeited. A Norwich woman was in court on a charge of failing to send her child to school. Her case was continued for six months.

CAUGHT MAN CARRYING TWO CANS OF ALCOHOL

Noticing William Rodericks, who lives in Talman street, walking near Laurel Hill bridge Monday afternoon, carrying a small black suit case, Officer William Sharvan, who knew the man as a suspected liquor peddler, asked Rodericks what he had in the bag.

The answer was that it was food, but when the officer rapped the bag with his hand, he heard a tinny sound. Then he had the bag opened and found two one-gallon cans of alcohol in it. Rodericks was arrested on the charge of violation of the liquor law and was taken to police headquarters where he was locked up until he got bail.

BOTH BRINGING SUITS AFTER AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Suit for $5,000 damages has been brought in the superior court against John M. Mallon, Jr., of New London, by Joseph Mondelci of the same city, which arises from an automobile accident on Oct. 3 between cars of the plaintiff and defendant. A similar suit is being brought by Mallon against Mondelci.

SHORT TALKS BY THOUGHTFUL MOTHERS

A Pennsylvania mother speaks first: "I know the worth of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. We used it for years, and it never failed us. For croupy children, feverish colds, disturbing night coughs, it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house." No opiates, no chloroforms, made under rigid sanitary control, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound carries a strong appeal to thoughtful mothers everywhere. Ask for it.

Opitz assisted at the different booths. All the different articles were donated by the Guards. Immergruen lodge, No. 11, members and friends. A good sum was realized. The Immergruen Guards are grateful to all those who helped make their first bazaar a success.

DENIES COMPENSATION CLAIM BY MONTVILLE MAN

Because Steve Renkewitz, of Montville, the claimant, has failed to sustain the burden of proof of his injury which the claimant in a workman's compensation case is obliged to sustain, Commissioner J. J. Donohue had disallowed and dismissed his claim against Robertson Paper Co. of Montville.

Renkewitz was employed on the night shift at the mill, at a weekly wage of $22 64, when he claims that while pounding a nail into a shovel, just before quitting time, date he did not know, the nail flew up, striking him in the left eye.

As a result he sustained the loss of the left eye. The claimant was supposed to quit work at 7 o'clock in the morning and it is found that he left the plant about his usual time in the morning but did not say anything to his foreman or any one around the plant that he had injured his eye at the mill. The first information received by the employer was when the claimant came to the superintendent at noon time, requesting to be taken to a doctor in Norwich, at which time claimant told the superintendent that "while chopping wood at his home he had hurt his eye." The superintendent was unable at this time to state the exact day when the conversation took place, but knew the claimant had worked the night before.

Voluntown Store Bankruptcy

At a bankruptcy hearing on the estate of Martial Roussi, a Voluntown general store keeper, which was held before Referee Thomas M. Shields, the trustee and appraisers were named on the bankrupt estate. Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan of Jewett City was named trustee and Daniel F. Finn, Jr., of Jewett City, Clarence Kahan and Audubon L. Kinney of Voluntown appraisers.

It is said that Roussi's bankruptcy was brought about by the closing of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. mills in Voluntown, resulting in a large loss of business for the store.

NORWICH TOWN

END OF DEEP RIVER MAIN READY FOR SERVICE

Supt. Wm. H. Callahan of the Norwich Water department sensing the approaching storm worked his men later than usual Saturday, on the final day of the week and thus finished the job at Harland's Corner. While the work was in progress traffic was protected by night and day, a man being stationed there for that purpose. Pedestrians found walks cleared as early as practicable. Part of one highway was timbered efficiently, adjoining premises were maintained in a stable manner, blasting was accomplished in an orderly way, neighbors and travelers being fully protected. Here the two present sixteen inch mains coming from Fairview reservoir are now connected with the new twenty-four inch main from Deep River reservoir. In joining these two parallel lines with the Deep River main, much rock was met and where its close proximity to any water pipes, occurred, required wedges, plug and feather work were employed instead of using explosives. This of necessity was slower but excavation suitable for the purpose was secured, with marked success, in a difficult location.

Three large horizontal gates of most improved type were installed here. Brick man-holes around them were constructed to insure ease of access to valves, obviating future digging there. In digging for the transverse lines, telephone conduit, and Town street water main were encountered. Wide variation in elevation of two pipe lines (main) made the formation of horizontal and vertical curves necessary. Fittings at main terminals of necessity varied in alignment. With correct calculations and measurements, cast iron pipe, angles, of proper degree of deflection, were on the ground ready for the demand. Closures were carefully cut and snugly fitted and finally all swung into line and position. Then the experienced caulkers completed their operation and the Norwich end of the Deep River water main is ready to receive its supply.

The brick manholes mentioned are covered with, primarily an eight-inch slab properly reinforced, then finished with a regular heavy duty ring and cover.

When all pipes were laid the trench was refilled and tamped, temporary guard rails and fences removed, and the street opened to unrestricted traffic.

Cutting of the sixteen-inch pipes under pressure was a most interesting feature of this important work.

In recognition of Golden Rule Sunday, at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached an eloquent sermon on "The Appeal of Helplessness." His parishioners listened with interest to the words of Rev. Mr. Bailey in leading up to his general theme. Exodus 2:6, was the text referred to. "And when she opened it she saw the child, and behold, the babe wept, and she had compassion on him and said: This is one of the Hebrew's children."

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service was omitted Sunday evening owing to the storm.

The Foreign Missionary society of the Congregational church, is to meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 in the chapel. Special reports to be submitted include a report of the November meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, held in Worcester, Mass.

The Congregational mid-week prayer service Thursday evening, will have for its theme, Peace At Christmastide. Isaiah 52:7, with special reference to 7-15.

The Home Missionary society of the Congregational church is to meet Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Owen S. Smith of Washington street.

In his sermon at the First Methodist church, Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev Albert E. Whitten preached impressively on "Work and Prayer." Parts of two texts were used: John 5:17, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. Luke 10:2, Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He would send forth laborers into His harvest.

Because of the storm, the Methodist Young Peoples C. E. society meeting was cancelled Sunday evening.

Lloyd Ames, foreman at the plant of Julian L. Williams, of 25 Town street, with Mrs. Ames (Gladys Williams) returned last week from their wedding trip, and are located in a newly furnished apartment at 91 West Town street. During their absence of ten days, Mr. and Mrs. Ames who traveled by automobile, visited cities in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. While in Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Ames attended the sesqui-centennial. They returned home from Albany, the last city visited. Mr. and Mrs. Ames were married November 8th.

Former Norwich Town young people. Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliot Ames, (Alice Dyer,) the latter for three years prior to her marriage, November 22nd, a nurse at Rock Nook Children's Home, have returned from a wedding trip passed in New York city and in Albany and are settled in a newly furnished apartment at North Stonington, where Mr. Ames is in the employ of the state highway department.

Lloyd Ames and J. Elliot Ames, brothers, who were married during the same month, are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Ames, of Norwich Town.

George Orrell, captain of the First Department at Holyoke, Mass., returned home Friday after a visit of two days at the home of his cousins, Mrs George LaValley and Mrs. Albert Birdsey, of Elm avenue. Mrs. Birdsey accompanied him as far as Hartford thence proceeded to Middletown, where she was a guest over the week end at the home of her husband's parents, Mr and Mrs. C. F. Birdsey.

Albert Birdsey motored to Middletown Sunday and spent the day at his parents' home. He was accompanied by his mother-in-law, Mrs. George LaValley. Mrs. Birdsey returned to Norwich Town with her husband and mother.

ADMISSION SERVICE FOR GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

A very beautiful service was held at 7:30 Sunday night in Christ Episcopal church. The choral vespers were effectively rendered and then 12 new members were admitted into the Girls' Friendly society with their own service and hymns. Several people came long distances to attend the evening service and felt fully repaid. The meetings of the Girls' Friendly society are full of interest and greatly enjoyed.

Philathea Class Meeting

The December meeting of the Philathea class of the United Congregational church Sunday school, which was held last week at the Sunday school rooms, had a short program of Christmas songs, the Philathea National hymn and a selection read by Miss Gertrude Bisbee, preceding the business meeting.

Plans for Christmas were discussed also plans made for the Christmas party to be held in January.

After adjournment the hostess, Mrs. Edwin F. Colt and Miss Ione E. Breckenridge, served refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, hot chocolate with whipped cream, cake and peppermint patties.

NORWICH MAN IN 1846 INVENTED THE TYPEWRITER

Just 80 years ago the commissioner of patents reported granting a patent to Charles Thurber of this place for the first typewriter. The Bulletin of Nov. 12, 1886, says:

In the histories of the typewriting machines which have been issued from time to time, the date of their successful use is placed as recent as 1860, which is at least 14 years later than the facts warrant. Norwich can claim the honor of the invention of a perfect working typewriter as early as 1846. Charles Thurber of this place invented "Thurber's Mechanical Chirographer" prior to 1845, and in that year applied for a patent.

The commissioner of patents in his report for that year speaks of it as "a very elaborate instrument," and terms it "the fruit of deep study." The report was not issued until 1846, and Mr. Thurber printed a letter upon his machine, which as a clear piece of work, would not be discreditable to the best machines of today.

The government had a fac-simile of this machine-made letter engraved and inserted in the 25,000 copies of the report issued by order of congress. The letter may be found on page 307 of the patent commissioner's report for 1845, and it is only defective in the slightly irregular form of some of the letters.

No one can look upon this old piece of work without discovering that the success of the typewriter was assured at that time although it has been improved in many ways since that date.

VOL. LXVIII—No. 293. POPULATION 29,868 NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1926. FOURTEEN PAGES—98 COLUMNS PRICE TWO CENTS

BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS ARE READY FOR BUSINESS

Immediately After Reading of the President's Message the Senate Began Actual Work of the Session—Voted 70 to 7 to Inquire Into the Case of Senator Gould of Maine—Senator Edge Gave Notice That He Would Call Up After Christmas His Resolution For a National Wet and Dry Referendum—House Adjourned, After the Introduction of a Bath of Bills, Out of Respect For Former Speaker Uncle Joe Cannon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—With receipt of a thick sheaf of recommendations from the White House, and the opening of the doors to general debate, congress got a fair foretaste today of what it is in for during the three months' session ahead.

The day's developments touched successively on a dozen old congressional quarrels and several new ones. The familiar issues of prohibition, taxes, farm relief, the world court, Muscle Shoals and Boulder Canyon had a place in the picture and the newcomers included a proposal to outlaw poison gas in warfare, and a senatorial investigation.

President Coolidge's annual message, read by clerks in both senate and house, was listened to with about the usual attention, and evoked the usual praise from republicans and disapproval from democrats.

Immediately the reading was over, the senate struck into the actual work of the session, but the house lingered only long enough to let in a new batch of bills and resolutions, and then adjourned for the day, out of respect for Uncle Joe Cannon, for many years its speaker.

The afternoon's proceedings in the senate showed that branch of the legislative machine functioning in mid-session form. First, it ground out a resolution of investigation, voting 70 to 7 to inquire whether Arthur R. Gould, the new senator from Maine, was disqualified from senate membership because of his reputed connection with a payment of $100,000 some years ago to an official of Canada.

Then Senator Bruce, a Maryland wet, read to an almost empty chamber a speech indicting the Volstead act on many charges. And his fellow-democrat, Sheppard, of Texas, replied with a general and specific denial. Senator Edwards of New Jersey, also a democrat, interjected a notification that he would call up after Christmas his resolution for a national wet and dry referendum.

Although the president did not mention the world court in his message, the senators themselves were not content to let the subject sleep. Senator Trammell, democrat, Florida, who voted for ratification last session, introduced a resolution proposing withdrawal of the senate's approval for American membership in the tribunal. The resolution pointed out that most of the powers had failed to accept the senate reservations. Senator Trammell's proposal went to the senate's legislative waiting list without debate.

The re-opening of the Muscle Shoals controversy saw a newcomer enter the large company of senators who have proposed solutions. Senator Ernst, republican, Kentucky, heretofore virtually an on-looker in the long Muscle Shoals debate, introduced in the form of a bill the proposal sponsored by C. Bascom Slemp to form a farmers' fertilizer corporation to take over the Muscle Shoals property for fifty years and produce fertilizer at cost. This also was laid aside without discussion.

It was on the house side of the capitol that the perennial squabble over the Boulder Canyon dam project once more came to life. The house irrigation committee approved an amendment to the pending Johnson-Swing bill, clarifying the rights of the federal government to public lands along the Colorado river in the event of court action by Arizona.

Tomorrow the president's annual budget message will be read in both houses, completing the usual annual communications between the chief executive and the legislative body.

After its reading the house plans to take up the first of the annual appropriation bills which provide funds for the governmental departments. This year the measure for the treasury and postoffice departments is to head the list. In the senate most of the day will be given to debate on the treaty for outlawing poisonous gas.

The subject of taxation also may come formally before the house tomorrow with introduction of the bill sponsored by democrats for a $350,000,000 cut in the tax burden.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE WAS READ BEFORE CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Conceding that there could be no great amount of new legislation during the present session, President Coolidge laid before congress today a long list of recommendations in which temporary tax relief and attention to the farm marketing problem stood out prominently.

A reaffirmation of his stand in favor of the protective tariff was included, and a pledge of economy on behalf of the administration was made.

The reading of the message, which required an hour and ten minutes, was accompanied by some noise on the floor of the senate, and at one point Senator Harrison, democrat Mississippi, asked that order be restored on the republican side. The communication itself was received with differing emotions on the republican and democratic sides, but there was some agreement that the two main suggestions—farm relief and tax legislation—faced very dubious prospects of enactment. The democrats have already announced a drive for straight-out tax revision, and some of the administration leaders are lukewarm to the tax credit proposal.

(Text of the message is printed on pages 8 and 9).

HAS HIGHEST RESPECT FOR THE INTEGRITY OF GOULD

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—If the senate decides to investigate the fitness of United States Senator Arthur R. Gould, republican of Maine, one of the star witnesses in the inquiry will probably be F. J. Lisman of New York city.

Mr. Lisman is head of the F. J. Lisman company, investment securities. He acknowledged today that he had been Mr. Gould's banker in the New Brunswick railway project which led indirectly to a charge of bribery against Mr. Gould.

The charge was made by a Canadian judge in the course of litgation by which the present Maine senator sought to recover some $400,000 that he had sunk in his railway. Senator Walsh, democrat, of Montana made this charge the basis of a challenge to the eligibility of Mr. Gould to sit in the senate.

Mr. Lisman insisted today that "politicians pulling against each other doomed what had promised to be a successful railroad building project."

"Do you remember any bribe or suggestion of a bribe in connection with the railroad?" Mr. Lisman was asked.

"I can't recollect positively," he replied "but there was a blackmailing scheme in the proposition. I am certain of that."

"Were you asked to put up $100,000 as a bribe?" was another question.

The white haired banker smiled.

"They don't do business that way," he said. "I have the highest respect for Mr. Gould's integrity," the banker said in answer to another question. "We have worked with him in other ventures and have always found that he was able and honest. They love him up in Maine."

COOLIDGE RESUBMITS THE NAME OF WILLIAM J. TILSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Material for a renewal of controversies with the white house over nominations to federal offices was supplied the senate today when President Coolidge submitted several hundred names for a wide range of government positions.

On the list were the names of a number of job holders serving under recess appointments, several hundred postmasters, and many officers and state department, coast guard, public health service and cost and geodetic survey officials for whom promotion is proposed.

The president re-submitted the names of Edward B. Brossard, of Utah and Sherman J. Lowell of New York, both republicans, for membership of the tariff commission. The senate failed to act on their nominations last spring and they were given recess appointments.

Other material for controversy, centering on the opposition of Georgia's two democratic senators, was seen in nominations for the new middle judicial district of that state. Ignoring the opposition which resulted in the failure of the senate at the last session to confirm as judge, William J. Tilson of Atlanta, brother of Rep. Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader in the house, and the withdrawal of Tilson's nomination and those for United States attorney and marshal for the district. Mr. Coolidge re-submitted the name of Mr. Tilson, whom he had given a recess appointment, and also named an attorney for the district.

FERDINAND MUST UNDERGO A SECOND OPERATION

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 7.—(AP)—King Ferdinand must undergo a second operation, which the attending physicians announce is necessary to complete that performed yesterday. They express the hope that the king will be strong enough to undergo this operation on Thursday.

The king passed a good night, and is reported to be progressing satisfactorily. When the surgeon, Professor Hartmann, was operating yesterday, with the aid of a local anaesthetic, the king puffed complacently on his accustomed cigar. He started proceedings by telling the surgeons: "Well, gentlemen, let's get busy."

PROBABLY FATALLY WOUNDED HIS WIFE

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.— (AP) —Howard West, a cousin of Martin Durkin, convicted murderer now serving a 25 year sentence in prison, today shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, Margaret West, 23. He escaped.

It was West who drove Durkin to his hiding place in Indiana the night after he murdered Edward C. Shanahan, agent of the United States department of justice. He was arrested and held as a material witness. West was also connected with Durkin in several automobile thefts.

According to the police, West had quarreled frequently with his wife.

COOLIDGE'S HOME CITY ELECTS DEMOCRATIC MAYOR

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 7—(AP)—For the second time in two years President Coolidge's home city has gone democratic. Mayor William E. Welch, democrat, was elected today by 891 votes over his republican opponent, former Mayor William H. Felker. At the last election after serving six terms, Mayor Felker bowed to the man who won out again today.

The republicans, however, gained one seat in the aldermanic chamber and five new members on the city council.

$100,000 RUM YACHT WAS FORFEITED TO GOVERNMENT

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The $100,000 yacht Conejo, seized as a rum-runner several months ago, was forfeited to the government today by an opinion handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals. The opinion sets forth that any pleasure yacht which smuggles liquor into the United States is liable to forfeiture to the federal authorities.

The Conejo was alleged to have landed liquor at the Maine coast at Portland and Freeport.

Sen. W. B. McKinley Died 4:10 Yesterday

Was 70 Years Old—Had Suffered From Prostatic Cancer For Several Months.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois died at the Homelaw sanitarium here at 4:10 p. m. today.

Death followed an illness of several months. He was brought here the latter part of August suffering from prostatic cancer. He was 70 years old. Senator McKinley's body will be taken in charge by a local undertaker, after which it will be taken by train to Indianapolis and hence to Champagne, Ills., where funeral services will be held Friday.

Senator McKinley's public service dates rom the first Roosevelt administration, during the intervening 22 years, he was chairman and treasurer of the congressional committee and later became secretary of the senatorial committee. He managed the campaign of William Howard Taft for president in 1912.

He was early in his career, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in congress, according to his private secretary, C. A. Willoughby.

"In recent years, however, he conducted a campaign of donations to charitable institutions," Mr. Willoughby said, "and in the last eight or ten years he probably donated between ten and twelve million dollars in private and philanthropies."

He maintained the McKinley working girls home in Chicago and the Sarah Haskett Stevenson Home for Girls, the latter institution being a day nursery accommodating about 200 babies. His most recent donation was $500,000 to a hospital fund of the University of Illinois.

"Senator McKinley's great hobby has always been the education of boys," his secretary said, "for instance, the McKinley fund at the University of Illinois for seniors to whom money is loaned to enable them to complete their final college year. He always put the young man on his honor."

The death of Senator McKinley brought to three the number of senators who have died since the close of the last session of congress—Senator Albert B Cummins, and Senator Bert M. Fernald of Maine, all were republicans.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT OF JEWELRY VALUED AT $2,545

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing jewelry valued at $2,545 from Helene B. Lynch, of Greenwich, a guest at the fashionable Pickwick Arms in Greenwich, Ernest Hurst, 20, of New York city, was sentenced to the state reformatory by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin in the criminal superior court this afternoon. His companion in the theft, Harry Forbes, 22, also of New York, was given a like sentence when he pleaded guilty to the charge of receiving stolen property.

OIL CASE WAS HALTED BY ILLNESS OF DOHENY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Illness of Edward L. Doheny forced a halt today in the oil conspiracy trial here, but a resumption on the taking of testimony is expected tomorrow. Suffering from a carbuncle on his left arm, the 70-year-old defendant felt much better tonight, and his physicians predicted he would be able to be in court in the morning.

U. S. SENATOR W. B. MCKINLEY

Annual Report of Secretary of Labor

Sees Hope for Reduction in Number of Labor Controversies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—There is real hope for a reduction in the number of labor controversies in American industry because the habit of conciliating and mediating disputes is growing stronger, Secretary Davis of the labor department, said today in his annual report.

So long as enterprising men and women engaged in industry bend their energies toward advancement there will be differences of opinion, he said, but with the principles of conciliation being more generally accepted year by year the nation is bound to see a great reduction in the number of disputes reaching a stage where a stoppage of production occurs.

Administration of the immigration laws, vested in the labor department during the past year was "the most satisfactory since the adoption by congress in 1921 of a limitation policy," Mr. Davis declared. Due in part to the stationing of United States medical and immigration inspectors abroad, the number of immigrants excluded after a long journey to this country was reduced to a minimum.

"Thus there has been realized the second step toward the ideal of selected immigration," the secretary said. "The act of 1924 which gives to United States consular officers abroad a certain amount of discretion in the granting of visas where doubt arises as to the admissability of an intending immigrant was the first. The stationing of our immigration and health officers abroad in the countries furnishing 90 per cent of the immigration is the second. It is my opinion that a third and final step in a complete process of selecting immigration can be accomplished if congress will but approve some method of priority in the granting of what are now referred to as 'non preference' quota visas.

"Wives and unmarried children under 18 years of a citizen of the United States are non quota immigrants under the act of 1924, which is as it should be, but the class should be extended to include the husband of an American citizen and a provision should be added permitting the entrance, if the quota be exhausted, of minor unmarried children, and dependent fathers and mothers of citizens of the United States."

The secretary repeated recommendations first made in 1925, that congress allow the importation of special or skilled labor, under careful restriction, when need exists in American industry.

"America is today the richest country that has ever existed," he declared. "The prosperity of America is one in which the American workers fully share. The poor we still have with us, but hopeless poverty except, perhaps, among the aged and infirm, is now almost unknown."

THREE ALARM FIRE, $150,000 DAMAGE, IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A three alarm fire caused damage estimated at $150,000 to the old Ives block here, occupied by several business firms, and to the property of the occupants, tonight.

The fourth floor, on which the fire started, was completely gutted, and the plant of the Armstrong Pants company was a total loss. It is believed that the blaze started in a pile of pants.

Assistant Fire Chief Patrick F. Redmond, was taken to a hospital unconscious from smoke, but was soon revived. Several others suffered from the smoke. Redmond will be kept in the hospital for a day or so.

SHOT WIFE AND NURSE DEAD AND THEN KILLED HIMSELF

PARIS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—William Howell Payne, a wealthy aged American, enraged over what he believed an irregularity in household accounts, today shot and killed a French nurse and his paralyzed wife who sat by, a helpless witness of the tragedy. He then committed suicide, the triple deaths all occurring within a minute or two.

Mr. Payne born in New York city 65 years ago, had lived in a luxurious 12-room apartment on the Avenue Champs Elysee for the past 20 years. He recently returned from a trip to the Riviera and today began examining household accounts with his wife's French nurse and companion. Mrs. Payne was seated nearby.

COMMITTED SUICIDE AFTER WRECKING MEMPHIS BANK

Clarence Henochsberg, Assistant Cashier and Teller, Fired Bullet Into His Heart After Telephoning Capitalist of the Shortage—Shortage of $300,000 Places the American Savings Bond and Trust Company in Hands of Bank Examiner—Clerk in Same Bank Disappeared Last Week Leaving a Shortage of $105,000.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Memphis financial circles were stirred today by the third sensation within five weeks when business of the American Savings Bank and Trust company was placed in the hands of state bank examiners after an employe admitted shortages of $00,000 and then killed himself.

Clearance Henochsberg, assistant cashier and teller, fired a bullet into his heart after telephoning Abe Plough, Memphis capitalist, of the shortage and saying he would kill himself unless help could be obtained to save himself and the bank.

Accountants at work on the books of the institution tonight sought to learn the extent of the bank's losses and to discover the relationship if any between Henochsberg's activities and shortages found last Thursday on the disappearance of Rush H. Parke, clerk in the same bank.

Parke was still missing tonight. His alleged defalcations were set at $105,000.

Today's developments recalled the flight October 27 of Courtney Glisson, young teller of the bank of Commerce and Trust company and disclosure of $465,000 shortage in his accounts.

Glisson's whereabouts, too, remained a mystery, but the bank's operations were not affected, because Glisson's shortage was made up from undivided profits and his bonds.

Harry Cohn, president of the American Savings Bank and Trust company, declared after Henochsberg's death that depositors would not lose by the closing of the bank's doors, indicating that stockholders would make good the losses.

Henochsberg, who had been employed by the bank fifteen years, was convicted of forgery in federal court four years ago, paying a fine and costs totaling $7,000 after pleading guilty.

NATIONAL CITY BANK, N. Y., LARGEST BANK IN WORLD

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The National City bank of New York, which has long held the distinction of being the largest commercial bank in the United States, today voted a $25,000,000 increase in stock which will give it the largest capital, surplus and undivided profits of any bank in the world. A large "melon" for stockholders will result from the enlargement.

At the same time the directors authorized plans for building up a world-wide organization through the acquisition of the major branches of the International Banking corporation, a subsidiary.

Upon the enlargement of its capital structure the bank will have a capital of $75,0000,000, surplus of $50,000,000 and undivided profits of nearly $15,000,000—a total of approximately $140,000,000. This will exceed by more than $10,000,000 the capital figures of London's three largest financial institutions—the Midland bank, Barclays bank and Lloyds. Total resources of the National City bank, now exceeding $1,250,000,000 probably will be expanded considerably by the development program.

LEBANON MAN FINED $200 FOR TAKING $145 POSTAL FUNDS

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Four indictments were returned by the grand jury on the opening of the December term of the U. S. district court, here today, Judge Edwin S. Thomas presiding. The grand jurors were dismissed and cases assigned for trial.

Hubert W. Sweet of Lebanon, was fined $200 for taking $145 in postal funds while his wife was postmistress at Lebanon.

Charges of homicide against James Pippin, of Staffordville, whose automobile ran up an embankment and fatally injured Daniel Crowley, Sept. 19, in Old Saybrook, were nol prossed after a conference between State's Attorney Inglis and Pippin's attorney, when it became known that Pippin was subject to epileptic fits.

A fine of $25 and costs was imposed upon William J. Powers of Saybrook, charged with reckless driving.

FLEEING HOLD-UP YOUTH CAPTURED IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A fifteen year old bandit who successfully held up and robbed John Swiesskowski, sixty-five, proprietor of a grocery store at 64 Roosevelt street tonight, was captured by John Ricketts, nearby resident, after a chase lasting five blocks. Ricketts was in his home at 84 Roosevelt street when he heard two shots and cries for help from the storekeeper.

Running from his house to the grocery store, he grabbed the gun from the storekeeper's hand, who had already fire two shots at the fleeing robber and started to give chase. The youth proved to be more fleet of foot and Ricketts jumped on a running board of an automobile, and at Boston avenue and East Main street, captured the youth, who on seeing a gun in his captor's hand, threw his gun into the snow. He was held by Ricketts in a nearby drug store until detectives from police headquarters arrived.

EIGHT LIVES WERE LOST WITH CANADIAN SCHOONER

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Death and wreckage tolls of the icy gales that have lashed the North Atlantic coast since Saturday night mounted higher today, while people in several northeastern states shivered in the coldest weather in years for this time of the season.

Eight lives were lost when the Canadian schooner Ella M. Rudolph was pounded into wreckage at Brook Cove near Catalina, off the Nova Scotia coast, after being driven ashore at the heighth of the storm last night. This made the ninth schooner to be wrecked off the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coasts, and brought to 22 the number of deaths caused by the winter storm in the northeastern states and off Canada. Four deaths from the cold were reported in this city today.

300 CHICKENS BURNED TO DEATH AT NEW MILFORD

NEW MILFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Three hundred chickens and a large number of turkeys and geese, were burned to death today in a fire which consumed two barns, several henneries, two silos and an ice house on the farm of T. H. Littlefield in the Chestnut Land district, four miles northeast of this place. The house, garage and one small hennery were saved.

The snow made assistance from the local fire department impossible. The fire was discovered by a neighbor during the absence of Mr. Littlefield. The loss was estimated at from $10,000 to $15,000, including farm implements, hay, and the accessories to an up-to-date farm plant.

SHORTAGE BY TREASURER OF FOREIGN MISSION BOARD

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A shortage has been found by auditors in the accounts of George N. Sanders of Richmond, treasurer of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, Dr. George W. McDaniel, president of the convention, announced here tonight. He placed the amount at approximately $92,000.

Sanders, an employe of a local bank, admitted the shortage when questioned tonight, but said he was not certain of the amount.

The shortage was discovered by certified public accountants in their regular quarterly audit of the treasurer's books about a week ago. Sanders was called before being confronted with the evidence, Dr. McDaniel said, admitted the shortage and offered to make restitution to the limit of his resources. He tendered his resignation at the meeting of the finance committee.

Dr. McDaniel announced that approximately $55,000 of the deficit would be made up by bonds and certain property which Sanders had made over to the board.

Sanders was an employe of the board working on a salary basis and was not an officer elected by any congregation or convention.

ELECTED MAYOR OF NEW BEDFORD FOR 23RD TIME

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 7—(AP)—Propped up among his pillows in Massachusetts general hospital, Boston, where he has been a patient for more than a month, Charles Sumner Ashley of New Bedford today received news of his overwhelming election to a 23rd term as mayor of his native city. The election came unsought by Mr. Ashley, the result of a last-minute sticker campaign initiated by his friends.

The election was the most dramatic this city of 125,000 has ever known, a complete antithesis to the dull, half hearted turnout of voters which was expected until a week ago to return Edward R. Hathaway to office practically unopposed.

The political miracle of Mr. Ashley's sticker victory is attributable to his personal popularity, and the educational advertising campaign by which his friends instructed the public in the use of stickers. Not even Mr. Ashley himself believed that the thing could be done.

TESTIMONY HALTED IN $500,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 7.— (AP) — Trial of Miss Anne Caldwell's $500,000 breach of promise suit against John W. Hubbard, Pittsburgh manufacturer, was halted temporarily in federal court today when a heated argument ensued after the defense had sought to bring out the character of the women the plaintiff associated with early in 1921 prior to the time she claims Hubbard proposed marriage to her.

The plaintiff won the point when Judge W. H. Thomson refused to admit such evidence.

Max Williams, Atlantic City cabaret owner, was on the stand when the argument opened. He had testified Miss Caldwell was known in his cabaret as "Anne" and had frequented the place two and three nights a week with escorts early in 1921. Miss Caldwell has testified she was never in the cabaret until she met Hubbard there late in 1921.

PRISONER TO BE CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED ARSON

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Eugene La Flamme, a convict at the state prison in Wethersfield, serving a term of from five to seven years for robbery, will be presented in the superior court, before Judge Edwin C. Dickenson tomorrow on a bench warrant issued late today on application of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, charging La Flamme with attempted arson. Judge Dickenson also directed that a writ of habeas corpus should be issued ordering Warden H. K. W. Scott to produce the prisoner.

La Flamme is charged with setting fire to a pile of shirts in the prison workshop, June 19, for the purpose of hampering the work of the prison. The fire was discovered before any great damage was done and extinguished.

THREE CAFES IN CHICAGO ORDERED CLOSED FOR YEAR

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The snuffer was applied to the bright lights in Chicago's downtown night life today by Judge Adam C. Cliffe, who ordered three cafes closed for a year each under the abatement of a nuisance provision of the prohibition law.

The places ordered locked up were the Moulin Rouge, Friars' Inn and the Town Club. The decision was a direct blow at those who carry hip flaquer into the safes and there obtain the ingredients to mix with it.

The Willimantic Rotary club welcomed three new members into its family at the regular noon luncheon held in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday. The recent arrivals are Daniel F. Daley, manager of the Nathan Hale hotel, Louis H. Arnold, insurance agent and Ernest Bottomley, manager of a local Woolworth's Five and Ten Cent store. Mr. Daley favored with a brief talk and the new trio rendered a vocal selection. The initiation will be at a later meeting. Andrew W. Bryne, member of the Hartford Rotary club and William P. Jordan of this city were guests Dr. R. Bullock Jones had charge of the singing with John T. Quinlan at the piano. President James P. Bath presided over the business meeting.

Justice George E. Hinman, chairman of the sixth object committee of the club was in charge of the program and he introduced as the speaker of the day Elmer H. Hubbard, of the Pawtucket, R. I. Rotary club and past governor of the 51st Rotary district. Past Governor Hubbard's talk was a simple but sincere and inspiring review of the Six Objects of Rotary. His opening remarks were to outline the tremendous growth of Rotary from four members in Chicago 21 years ago to 123,500 members at the present time, embracing 2,341 clubs in 35 countries.

In treating the six objects of the Rotary movement he laid stress on the friendships cultivated through Rotary and of the advancement of international good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service. In talking of the possibilities of the latter objective he pointed out international friendships made at the great Rotary International conventions held annually. Recorded as one of the best speakers on a Rotary topic ever heard, the ex-district governor was accorded a rising vote of thanks.

A big buck deer which received a K. O. in an encounter with a Ford car today garnishes the menu of the house of Clayton E Smith of Amston, to the extent of a substantial supply of venison steak. Attracted by the lights of the car as it was being driven around a curve on the Hartford-Columbia state highway near Spafford's Crossing last Saturday night, the big buck leaped from the side of the road in the part of the machine which was traveling at a good clip. The deer was thrown to one side of the road having been almost instantly killed by the impact. The Ford veered to the opposite side of the road and turned over, damaging the top and fenders but not to an extent to prevent its being driven home under its own power and carrying the full 200 pound weight of its victim. Deputy Game Warden Raymond E. Clark was summoned and after receiving an explanation he gave Smith permission to dispose of the carcass as he saw fit with the result that Smith and his friends are enjoying juicy morsels.

MORIARITY NOTED FOR STEALING HOME PLATE

DETROIT, DEC. 7.(AP)—If George Moriarty, new Tiger manager, is successful in building a baseball team as he was as a player in stealing home, Detroit in 1927 may see its first championship team in nearly two decades.

Moriarty was the hero of a stirring editorial, Don't Die on Third, a bit of writing which, first published in a Detroit newspaper, was built around a brilliant theft of home executed by Moriarty at the heyday of his career in a game against Cleveland. The editorial's substance was that the trip from third base to home plate is the most important part of the journey around the bases.

Moriarty never was such a bold base burglar as Ty Cobb, whom he succeeds. He was a mediocre infielder. His batting was even more commonplace. He even lacked speed. But making up for these shortcomings was one of the keen baseball minds of the day.

Moriarty, like Cobb, played baseball with his head. He was lightning quick to sense a "break" and equally fast in taking advantage of it. Despite the fact that as a player he never was a phenom, he always was popular with Detroit baseball fans because it always apparent that Moriarty was [illegible] pitching to his utmost ability. [illegible] not be Tigers in 1902 from the New York Highlanders. He gained favor with the team members and with Hughie Jennings, the manager, and was named captain. His days as a Tiger were encompassed by the years 1903 and 1915. Sold to the Chicago White Sox, he shortly afterwards went to Memphis in the Southern association as manager. His stay there was broken to permit him to join the American league staff of umpires.

The new manager will find virtually a new ball club from the one he left in 1915. Two men who played with him, however, still are members of the club—George Dauss and Harry Heilmann.

DANIELSON

NEW PARKING RULES FOR ACADEMY STREET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7—Announcement was made this afternoon of a new parking restriction in Academy street, where unlimited parking, as to time, has been allowed up to now. Hereafter parking will be allowed only on the south side of this street between School and Mechanic streets and only for a period of 60 minutes, as in Main and Center streets. No parking will be allowed on the north side of Academy street in the area named.

Several hundred people already have taken membership in 1927 Christmas clubs being organized by Danielson's banks. Indications now are that these clubs will have when completed, late this month, a larger membership than ever before. When one considers that one of these clubs for 1926 in Danielson had over 1,000 members, it may be indicated how many will enter into the making of next year's clubs.

PAST WEEK THIS YEAR MUCH COLDER THAN 1925

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7—Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly has kept a weather record for years. From that record it is interesting to compare the wather for the first seven days of December of last year with the first seven days of the current month. Here are the figures and weather conditions at sunrise for the first week o December, 1925: December 1, 20, fine snow; Dec. 2, 29, cloudy; Dec. 3, 40, rain; Dec. 4, 47, light rain; Dec. 5, 43, light rain; Dec 6, 52, heavy rain; Dec. 7, 33, cloudy, later clearing. The average sunrise temperature for the week was [illegible].

This year the sunrise temperatures were as follows: Dec. 1, 37, foggy; Dec. 2, 37, colder during the day; Dec. 3, 9, clear; Dec. 4, 23, cloudy, clearing later; Dec. 5, 8, cloudy followed by heavy snow; Dec 6, 13, cloudy; Dec. 7, 5, cloudy. The average temperature at sunrise for the first week of this month was 18.71, a matter of nearly 23 degrees colder on the average than the first week of December last year.

Parking restrictions that have prevailed for a long time along the frontage of the Shumway and Winkleman buildings have been removed. Parking of vehicles is now permitted there for a period of 60 minutes, as at other parking points in the business section. No parking is permitted under the new arrangement along the frontage of the Attawaugan hotel.

In observance of the feast of the Immaculate Conception, a day of obligation, members of St. James' parish will attend some one of the four masses to be celebrated at the church this morning.

From the Break Neck hill section of the town comes an item announcing that a flock of wild geese alighted in a meadow near that section a few days ago and recounts that this is an unusual happening, especially at this time of year, when most geese have long since flown south.

Sales o Red Cross seals have begun in Danielson, but have not yet reached that volume where they are common on letters or other packages coming through the mails. The warning is stressed that buyers of seals should make sure they are getting the seals of the National Tuberculosis association, and not the purely decorative seals that have been in competition with them here the past two or three years.

The Roof of the World will be the subject this evening by Dr. H. L. Canright, dean of the medical school of the West China Union university, at the Methodist Episcopal church here. In dealing with West China and Tibet Dr. Canright will tell of territory made of special interest the past few years through discoveries there by Roy Chapman Andrews, scientist.

PUTNAM

FINDS SICKNESS NOT DUE TO PUTNAM CITY WATER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7—Superintendent C. D. Sharpe of the Putnam Water company has had the water supplied to the city analyzed by two officers of the state board of health who came to Putnam to make a survey of conditions. Their report have been received and it is states that the water has nothing to do with the cases of intestinal disorder that have been prevalent in the city. The complaint that the water of the city was responsible for the many cases of the intestinal trouble accompanied by nausea that had been reported in the city reached the ears of Mr. Sharpe and he immediately started an investigation.

Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter of Hartford was the guest of honor at the banquet of the Men's club of the Second Congregational church last evening. A banquet supper was served at 6.30 in the banquet hall of the church, after which Dr. Potter spoke on the subject of The Church as an Agency of World Citizenship. He is well known in Putnam, and has been the pastor of the First Church of Christ in Hartford 26 years. He has served as moderator of the National Council of the Congregational churches and is now president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions and has recently returned from a trip around the world, having spent three months in India. His talk was of unusual interest and a large number of men were there to hear him.

PUTNAM LIBRARY GETS NEW BOOKS IN FRENCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7—A new consignment of French books has been added to the shelves of the Free Public library of Putnam, the first in four years. These are books in the French language published since the war and are by the best French authors. The entire list has been selected from books now on the shelves of the Providence public library where all of the books are carefully censored.

On the library board, Attorney Eric H. Johnson, has compiled a synopsis of each of the new books and this synopsis will be hung conveniently in the library so that those who desire a French book may see at a glance the contents of the various costumes.

The state board of fisheries and game has sent the following letter to the Ash and Fish and Game Protection association:

The United States bureau of biological survey has issued a warning relating to the serious inroad on the cotton-tails of the west of a rabbit disease known as tularemia. It is a disease that not only may seriously affect the rabbits in this state, were it to become prevalent, but it may likewise cause sickness and sometimes death in humans.

We are all familiar with the past history of importations and the spreading of disease that have been very destructive. We should all cooperate very carefully to avoid any new disaster of this kind.

The funeral of John Buggy was held in St. Thomas' church, Voluntown on Tuesday morning, Rev. Ludovic Paradis officiating at the requiem mass. Mrs. Lelia Garand and James Olson of Jewett City furnished the music. Friends acted as bearers. Burical was in St. Thomas' cemetery. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Two raids were made in the town Saturday afternoon. One at the place of Benjamin Comeau, the other at the home of Domenic Podgeline. Liquor was found in both places. Comeau was placed under arrest and bonds of $500 were furnished by Napoleon Goyette of Mystic and Comeau was released. Podgeline was placed under arrest. Not being able to furnish bonds he was placed in the borough lockup. The liquor was placed in the cell room in the town court and a watchman put in charge. The cases were tried in court Monday morning before Judge William A. Wilcox. Podgeline was charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell, and keeping a place reputed to sell liquor. He pleaded not guilty to both charges. The latter charge was nolled, but on the former he was found guilty and fined $200 and costs, total amounting to $244.48 and a 30-day sentence in New London county jail was given.

Comeau arraigned on a much similar charge was found guilty of keeping liquor with intent to sell. He was fined $200 and costs, totaling $208.08, which he was able to pay and a sentence of 30 days. This sentence was suspended and the reputation charge nolled.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

In his message to the closing session of the 69th congress President Coolidge points out in his characteristically clear manner the conditions surrounding national affairs, directs attention to the fact that the time is short and that it should not be wasted in political fighting and lays stress upon the need of giving serious attention to various problems that need the benefit of legislative action.

President Coolidge points to the condition of peace and prosperity and emphasizes the fact that the latter has been greatly promoted by economy, elimination of many kinds of waste and the raising of the standards of efficiency, and even brought about a reduction in the price of commodities while wages have advanced. What he had to say in regard to the policy of government economy and checking of government waste cannot fail to meet with general approval.

In regard to the reduction of taxes, he declares his belief in it when the state of the treasury will permit but he doesn't believe that a permanent tax cut is warranted at this time. In giving the country relief from tax burdens he favors a tax rebate and urges upon congress the importance of agreeing upon a bill for temporary relief without a display of partisan spirit.

As for the protective tariff he stands firmly for it and points out "that those who wish to benefit foreign producers are much more likely to secure that result by continuing the present enormous purchasing power which comes from our prosperity that has increased our imports over 71 per cent. in four years than from any advantages that are likely to accrue from a general tariff reduction."

The many things that have been done in behalf of agriculture are pointed out but in addition he is committed to the development of strong and sound cooperative associations, directs attention to the need of considering the surplus problem and says "we ought now to put more emphasis on the question of farm marketing" while Muscle Shoals, livestock industry and the work done in behalf of the cotton growers received his attention.

"One of the large contributing causes to the present highly satisfactory state of our economic condition is the prompt and dependable service, surpassing all our previous records, rendered by the railroads," declared the president and declared avantage would accrue from speedy enactment of railroad consolidations.

As for the merchant marine the great need in the opinion of the president is for more freight and not more ships. He believes the operation of the fleet should be put under a single head leaving the shipping board to deal with policy and regulation.

Radio legislation he urges placed under the direction of a board responsible to the department of commerce, and he directs attention to the possibility of trouble in the bituminous coal industry next spring and the fact that the chief executive is "not only without authority but is actually prohibited by law from making any expenditure to meet the emergency of a coal famine."

Praise is given to the administration of Governor General Wood in the Philippines and the need emphasized of granting the requests of the Filipinos when they are right, but points out that their progress can be measured by the way in which they accept the terms of the organic law governing the islands. Development of islands against the opposition of the people is opposed but he believes the rubber industry should be encouraged and that the islands should be placed under civil rather than military control.

Opposition is expressed to competitive armaments but he favors legislation for the return of alien property when accompanied by suitable provisions for liquidation of the claims of the citizens and the treasury.

When it comes to prohibition the president refers to abuses which have arisen which require reform and urges such legislation as the treasury department asks to carry out its duty. He holds that the states under the Constitution are jointly charged with the nation in providing for enforcement of the prohibition amendment and says that those who do not like the amendment and seek through legal methods to effect a change have a perfect wright to do so.

The message is longer than usual. It is printed in full on another page and is well worth reading.

GERMANY'S GOOD SHOWING

For more than one reason this country is particularly interested in the second report which has been made by S. Parker Gilbert, agent general of reparations under the Dawes plan.

We are concerned in the successful working out of the Dawes plan and we are desirous of the settled and peaceful condition in Europe which must naturally accompany such a result.

Our confidence in the Dawes plan has not been shaken by claims to the effect that Germany could not meet the requirements. It was admitted that it might do so for the first few years when everything was made easy for it, but when it came to standing the increased load it would not be able to toe the mark. Time hasn't permitted the test to go that far as yet, but there is at the end of the second year no little gratification over he fact that Germany is in an unexpectedly good financial condition, so much so that it can meet the demands for the second year without bother and is able to make an additional payment, thereby relieving the demands of the future.

That such a showing should please Germany is natural, but the other European countries which are looking to Germany for reparations are equally well pleased. It relieves them of much of the worry that has been going on and because payments are being made and greater certainty furnished that they will be paid in the future their own financial standing has been bettered. Possibly France will have less concern over the much urged provision in the debt agreement with this country about being relieved of payments if Germany failed to meet its obligations.

Germany is paying both in cash and in goods, but mostly goods, and it finds a brisk demand for them. Economic conditions have greatly improved since the survey was made of the country, its finances bolstered and it was put on a sound currency basis. The second Gilbert reparation report doesn't deal with what will be Germany's peak load under the Dawes plan but the response that has been made under it in the second year must take the wind out of the sails of those who have been insisting that Germany could never do it.

BARRING SMALL ARMS

When the report of the postoffice department shows the postmaster general to be committed to a law that would put an end to the sending of small arms through the mail, except in certain specified instances, it is further support in behalf of a step which has long been urged. It is in fact in keeping with action which has already been taken by some mail order houses in abandoning such business.

By means of the mail it has been possible for individuals to get possession of firearms who could not have done so in any other way. Because they were prohibited by state law from getting them, or having them, they have resorted in many instances to the assistance of the government agency in transporting their order and bringing back the desired weapon, with which too often they have caused the deaths of other perhons.

There are legitimate uses for firearms, and there are times when they can be properly sent through the mail, but it is against the indiscriminate distribution of them, regardless of what the law may be in the various states that opposition is raised.

Numerous are the instances which call for the restriction. States have found it necessary to surround the sale and possession of firearms with drastic legal requirements, and yet they have been rendered ineffective because the mail service has been above the law. Crooks even find this a favorable avenue for obtaining the weapons they desire in their business.

Such support as the postoffice department is giving to the sought for law should have a weighty effect upon the law makers.

BAD INTERPRETATION

Boston has been much exercised within the past few days because the action taken by the custom authorities in seizing and destroying foreign magazines sent to this country because they contained liquor advertisements.

Such advertisements are prohibited in papers in this country but it has been held at most ports that foreign papers or magazines are admissible if sent here through the usual channels. Because of orders which were received from a clerk in the treasury department at Washington, acting at that time with temporary authority, the custom officials at Boston have been endeavoring to live up to the orders. But in doing so some of the best of foreign magazines have been held up for there are not many instances where such publication is prohibited abroad.

This method of enforcing the dry law naturally aroused a strong protest, that was carried to the head of the prohibition enforcement forces. Explanation is that a subordinate in a too zealous moment stepped over the bounds. What the enforcement head thought of the order, or the interpretation of the law, is indicated by the fact that the order has been promptly rescinded and first class magazines from other countries will not henceforth be held up for any such reason. It was the solution that was to be expected and it was decidedly unfortunate that the trouble making order should have been issued. The Volstead act has given the enforcement authorities enough difficulties without attempting to enforce such interpretation of its provisions. That was enough to antagonize even the friends of the law.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Those who are always ready to get back of a good thing hesitate when it comes to a snow shovel.

Even before the days have begun to lengthen we have evidence that the cold has begun to strengthen.

The man on the corner says: Someone ought to find a way to convert that cotton surplus into moonshine.

Shops which are featuring spring hats are living up to the claim that the seasons never catch up with fashion.

Those localities overrun with rats ought to make use of the snowy owl from the north and thus make it pay for its stay hereabouts.

Democratic leaders now admit that the loser in the recent Maine election has no chance, but it took them a long time to find it out.

The bathing suits which some of the long distance swimmers are wearing have reached the limit so long predicted. But even with the nothing but axle grease style how many will dare refrain?

WHAT'S IN A NAME

"I've come by way of Kansas City and Omaha this time," said the out-of-town customer as he leaned back in the leather chair and puffed one of Wilkinson's cigars. "There was some rush business that had to be seen to out that direction. Things have been kind of slow out west, but they're picking up and I shouldn't be surprised if they had one of their best years now. Told 'em so, too."

"I wish I'd known you were going there," said Wilkinson. "I'd have got you to look up a fishing spot one of the guys at the convention told me about. It wouldn't have taken you half an hour to make inquiries."

"No, you don't!" declared the out-of-town customer hastily. "I've turned crab and I'm not going to do a blame thing for anybody when I'm off on a trip. I'm through! Yes, sir!"

"Great scott!" exclaimed Wilkinson, "What the dickens has happened anyway? Take a more comfortable chair. Is there anything the matter with that cigar?"

"Quit your kidding!" cried the out-of-town customer with a laugh. "I'm in earnest all right, all right, and I'm never going to do a darn thing for anybody any more—at least not for quite a while."

"That's better," said Wilkinson soothingly. "Now go ahead and tell me all about it. Get it off your chest and it'll do you good."

"I don't care," said the out-of-town customer. "When you go and do all you can for a person and wear yourself to a frazzle and it turns out that you've done a fool's errand, it's enough to make a saint mad."

"My wife's aunt's visiting us," went on the out-of-town customer by way of explanation. "And we are enjoying her ever so much, for she's really a dear old soul. When I said I was going to Kansas City and Omaha she said she had a second cousin in one of those cities, she could not remember which, and she wondered if it would be too much trouble for me to hunt him up for her.

"She wanted to know whether he would like to have some heirloom that belonged to his side of the family and she did not know his address. She said that she always got the two places mixed in her mind and she thought this would be a good chance for her to find out about that piece of jewelry or whatever it was. I hadn't reformed then, so I told her I'd do it with the greatest pleasure."

"A job like that looks easy before you start on it," laughed Wilkinson. "Was it a common name?"

"Henry Anderson," said the out-of-town customer, grimly. "At least she said she thought the name was Henry, but it might be Hugh. Anyway, it was H. Anderson and she though I could find him very readily. So did I, but do you know, I had more trouble with that crazy fellow than with all the business I had come to see after?

"I started out by calling the H. Andersons on the telephone, thinking that would be the quickest way to get at it, but I soon found that they had more questions to ask me than I could possibly answer. They kept calling me back to know who this aunt or cousin or grandmother was, and why, and just what was the value of the heirloom that I had inadvertently mentioned in my talk. They wouldn't say whether or not they know my wife's aunt, but I had to tell them all about my connection with the matter and what I was doing so far from home anyhow."

"They sure had you under suspicion," chuckled Wilkerson. "And they hadn't even seen you!"

"Some of them saw me, all right," said the out-of-town customer.

"They called at the hotel at all hours and even woke me up in the early morning hours knocking on the door for fear they might miss one. One city was as bad as another and I finally lit out here after making appointments with a bunch of my wife's aunt's second cousins who said they positively must see me at once. I hadn't been in the hotel in Chicago two hours before I was called on the long distance from home."

"Probably the old lady had heard from the right fellow and wanted to thank you," suggested Wilkinson. "How was it?"

"My wife's aunt," said the out-of-town customer reaching for another cigar, "said that she's been trying to get me, but didn't know where I was till then. She wanted to say she had just remembered that the second cousin's name was Paul Andrews and she thought he lived in St. Paul or Minneapolis."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Health Engineering.

By Agnes C. Vietor, M. D., Boston, Member Gorgas Memorial Institute.

The complexities of the living body are explained best when compared with an engine. Both require fuel which passes through the processes of combustion and which, in so doing, is transformed into energy.

In the engine, the fuel is wood, coal oil or gasoline; and the particular fuel is transformed into heat, light, electricity, motion, etc. In the living body, the fuel is food and water; and these are transformed into heat, electricity, motion and all the intricate manifestations which group under the head of living activities—muscle and nerve power; glandular balance; thought, will, judgment and all the other marvelous manifestations of brain functioning.

In both cases, the process of combustion is dependent on the presence of oxygen in the air, and on the access of this oxygen to the fuel which is in process of combustion. The living body requires, also, the addition of sunlight.

In both the engine and the living body, upbuilding and breaking down of parts are constantly occurring; hence repairs are continually required. The engine requires the constant care and control of an engineer to inspect and make the repairs, but the living body controls and makes its own repairs. When this controlling and repairing power of the body is impaired, then the physician or surgeon should be called, as an engineer, to discover and help remove the impeding obstacles, and so permit the body to resume its own controlling and repairing powers.

The living body differs from the engine in one other important way; that is, in its power of growth. There is one other interesting fact common to both the engine and the living body; namely that an impairment of one part may be first noticed through a variation in another, even a distant part. Hence, the frequent failure resulting from attention to only the part giving symptoms.

The advantages to both the engine and the living body of frequent, thorough, general examinations, by a competent engineer and attention to seemingly small troubles is constantly apparent. In this way, early beginnings of causes leading to impairment of efficiency or to organic damage may be noted, and opportunity given for the avoidance of mechanical failure, on the one hand, and loss of health on the other hand.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Charles Nagel, who has accepted the chairmanship of the "Business Men's Commission on Agriculture," which has been created to make an intensive study of the agricultural situation in the United States, is a St. Louis lawyer of eminence who came into national prominence in 1909 when President Taft made him secretary of commerce in his cabinet. Mr. Nagel is a native of Texas who removed to St. Louis in early life and received his scholastic education at the public schools of that city and his legal training at the St. Louis law school. He rose rapidly in the profession of law and at the same time took an active interest in republican politics, filling several municipal offices and serving as a member of the Missouri legislature. In addition to his law practice and his political activity, Mr. Nagel has found time to give much attention to educational affairs.

Stories That Recall Others

Time to Call Halt

The minister and his small son were in the grocery one day. While the grocer was busy with other customers the minister picked up a nut and ate it. The small son watched his father closely, then being careful so that none might hear, he whispered: "Daddy, steal one for me."

Oh, Grammar! Grammar!

Only a school teacher knows the stress that is placed on the study of the verbs "sit" and "set." Only a student knows the monotony of the frequent drills to gain their mastery. These verbs, however, continue to supply pitfalls for the high school pupils.

In a recent examination in a home economics class a girl, who is in many respects above the average, was caught in the snare of the following question:

"Name two methods of setting on ruffles."

"Two methods of setting on ruffles are as follows: First, smooth the ruffles out well before you set down; second, if the ruffles are wide enough, raise them up and do not set on them at all," was the well organized, neatly written answer.

Discovery of ancient ruins, arousing the hope of archaeologists that future excavations may reveal one of the most important buried cities of Mexico, is announced in special despatches from Oaxaca.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Neglecting the East Side

Mr. Editor: In the report of the December meeting of the honorable city council, published by you today, there is included a "discussion" over a communication of mine to the honorable council. The "discussion" appears to omit some related facts plus telephone conversations and a one-sided correspondence on the matter of lights on Corning road, which is a frequented street within the city of Norwich. The things omitted could reasonably have found a place in the published account of the "discussion." The fact shows itself to be, Mr. Editor, that the city council, whether honorably or otherwise, has determined to put no lights upon the unlighted portion of Corning road.

Ever since the East Side became a part of the municipality of Norwich all of the property on the East Side has paid the city taxes and has paid the town tax, too; two taxes altogether. But in this portion of the city the honorable city council contents itself with gratefully receiving the taxes, but doesn't consider itself bound to make any return for the money paid; for we have neither electricity, nor gas; nor city water (for which we are grateful); nor safe streets. Since the honorable mayor has flatted broken automobile springs out of court with no authority under the sun, moon and stars to do so, will there be enough money saved (?) to extend light wires to Corning road east, do you suppose, Mr. Editor?

The trend of the "discussion," Mr. Editor, was away from related facts. When a trend gets a slant on it like that, it is likely to have a funny kind of look on its countenance. That's the way this trend looks.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

HISTORY.

The object of history is to tell us not only what happened but the causes and results of what happened, and this leads the historian into almost every field of human interest. He deals to be sure, with facts, as far as he is able to ascertain them, but his generalizations and interpretations of facts are an important part of his work. The historian must abandon prejudice, preconception and predilection of every kind. He must deal with the people, their ideas, development and social movements as well as with the incidents of war and foreign relations and the actions and influence of great men whose agency in shaping the progress of events is often over-estimated.

As everything which passes through the human mind is necessarily colored more or less by the particular mind through which it passes, we find that the history of the same people during the same period will not seem in all respects to be identical when presented by different historians. Macaulay and Carlyle, each of whom wrote history with extraordinary brilliancy present to us pictures of the times of which they wrote that for interest are wonderful but for accuracy are in many respects less valuable than the histories written by authors of less ability.

PLAINTIFF'S CASE PRESENTED IN $10,000 SUIT FOR DEATH OF BOY

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in the superior court here Tuesday most of the day was occupied in the trial of the suit brought against Michael Pisarko of this city for $10,000 damages for the death of Waclaw (Walter) Satkowski who was struck and killed on West Thames street near Everett street on June 26, 1925 by an automobile driven by Pisarko.

Pisarko was driving here from New York that day in a Stutz machine with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony R. Fedorsky of Jersey City, prospective customers for a farm that he intended to show them. The suit is brought by the boy's father, Andrew Satkowski, administrator of his son's estate, Attorney J. T. Barry appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney V. P. A. Quinn for the defendant.

The complaint alleges that the Pisarko car was driven upon the sidewalk in an attempt to pass a team that was going in the same direction as the automobile, thus striking the boy, knocking him down and inflicting mortal injuries, a fractured skull.

The defendant makes a general denial.

In selecting a jury for trial of the case there were so many challenges from both sides that the panel was exhausted and Judge Brown instructed Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton to summon in a talesman. In a few minutes the deputy sheriff returned to court with Robert J. Fullerton who was accepted as the twelfth juryman, making the jury as follows:

Reuben S. Bartlett, Frederick A. Gallup, Robert J. Fullerton, Norwich; John P. Hollowell, Frank R. Ayer, J. Guy Ayer, Preston; Clark H. Standish, Wilton H. Hoxie, Lebanon; Irving R. Main, North Stonington; Edward A. Bishop, Albert J. Grandy, Bozrah; Daniel Day, Sprague.

Court adjourned for the day about 5 o'clock in the afternoon to continue the trial on the following day.

The first witness called for the plaintiff by Attorney Barry was Alexander Wawrzynowicz, who was driving a wagon in which Walter, with his father and two other boys were, riding in Everett street just before the accident. The boys all got out of the wagon, the witness said, before they came to the junction of Everett street and West Thames street.

This witness was followed by Claude Z. Jette, who explained a plan of the locality. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve testified to the injuries which the boy received and testimony was given by Frank A. Gwizdowsky and Albert M. Lamphere, two Norwich police officers.

Clara Wawrzynowicz, 14, daughter of Alexander Wawrzynowicz, testified that she had opened the gate for her father and was waiting there when she saw the boy Walter rolling under the automobile. She didn't see the automobile before it hit Walter. The automobile was near the edge of the sidewalk. Two other boys were standing there, the witness said, and she ran away and told her mother, who was in a lot some distance away.

Stanley Waszuk, 13, living on Everett street, testified that Walter lived in the same house as he did. The witness was in the wagon with Walter and the boy's brother, all getting out of the wagon. The witness said Walter was standing on the edge of the sidewalk when the automobile hit him, and the witness was standing near the pole. Clara was standing near the gate. On cross examination the witness said the automobile hit Walter in the head and the boy went under the front wheels.

William Maleski of this city testified that he was driving an automobile behind the Pisarko car on the night of the accident, having been passed by the Pisarko car near De Wulf's switch, and was about 300 yards behind at the time of the accident. A bundle seemed to fall from the Pisarko car, the witness said, but he didn't know there was an accident till he had stopped his car about 50 feet beyond the Pisarko car, got out and walked back. He saw the boy's body lying with the head and shoulders on the sidewalk and the legs and feet across the cobblestone gutter. The body lay about four feet towards Norwich from the telephone pole at this point.

The witness said that the rear end of the Pisarko car was 12 to 15 feet from where the body lay, with the left front headlight broken. Mr. Maleski said he covered up spots of blood on the ground with some dirt he drew over them with his feet. About 10 to 12 feet south of the pole, heavy brake marks were shown and brake marks for 35 to 40 feet in all. The wheel tracks of the machine showed about a foot from the gutter, and it was standing well off to the right of the road after it stopped.

Attorney Richard Dudkowski acted as interpreter for the next witness who was Andrew Satkowski, now of New London, but formerly of Norwich and the father of the boy who was killed.

The witness said he was sitting on the team and the boy was on the sidewalk. The witness said he did not see the boy struck by the automobile but he got off and picked the boy Walter up in his arms, the body lying with the head on the sidewalk, near the telephone pole and on the side towards Norwich from the pole. The wagon, the witness said, was just coming onto West Thames street, when the automobile hit it on the left side, but there was not room to pass on that side.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY HELD DECEMBER OPEN MEETING

With an attendance of about 60 the December meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. B. P. Bishop, 189 Broadway. Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, president of the auxiliary, presided at the meeting, which was one of the regular open sessions held from time to time by the auxiliary. Miss Hannah Crowell gave an interesting talk on her experiences in India. The musical program comprised two groups of songs by Mrs. Aurin O. Payson, acompanied by Mrs. Charles A. Saxton. Tea was served Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. H. H. Osgood pouring.

The business part of the meeting was opened by Miss Miriam Campbell, vice president, and Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Y, conducted the devotional exercises. Miss Campbell reported that since the resignations of Miss Marion Bishop as president and Mrs. F. M. Kingsbury as secretary, these offices had been filled by Miss Bishop as secretary and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson as president.

After these new appointments had been ratified, Mrs. Johnson took the chair and addressed the meeting, emphasizing the responsibility of all members to the furtherance of the work of the auxiliary. The usual reports were then read and accepted. Miss Mary E. Richards, Mrs. L. O. Smith and Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley were appointed a committee to act with the house committee, to secure contributions for new dishes which are sorely needed.

The board of the auxiliary held its meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building on Main street at noon, Miss Mary Porteous and Mrs. Howard L. Stanton being the hostesses. The next meeting of the auxiliary is to be held in February.

Mr. Bamford underwent a blood transfusion a week ago last Sunday and since then has been improving. Tuesday he was able to sit up in bed with a back rest for a short while.

The blood supplied or the transfusion was from George Cregan of 106 1-4 North Main street.

Akeley's Statue in Church.

"The Chrysalis," a statue representing evolution, which two years ago was barred from the exhibition of the National Academy of Design, found a place Sunday on the platform of the West Side Unitarian church, 550 West 110th street, New York, at a service in memory of Carl Ethan Akeley, American explorer, sculptor and inventor, who died recently in Central Africa, where he had gone on a scientific expedition. Dr. A. Wakefield Slaten preached the sermon.

Akeley's wife was Dr. Mary Job, owner and manager of Mystic summer camp for girls, originally Mystic Peace grove.

Petitions for Receivership

A receivership for the G. W. Pants company of this city is sought by Phillip Gottsfield, one of the three partners, Jacob Weisman and Jacob Goldberg. He claims that they cannot agree upon the settlement of the affairs of the partnership.

On Nov. 11, 1925, the three men formed a partnership under the firm name of the G. W. Pants Co., for the business of manufacturing all kinds of pants. Each partner invested $1,300.

The plaintiff and the defendants now own considerable valuable machinery and stock of goods, and they also have debts owing to and by them. On or before Nov. 22, 1926, the partnership was dissolved.

Davis Estate in Norwich

An appraisal of $3,220.03 has been made of the Norwich property of the late John B. Davis of this city, but there is an estate in Kansas which is said to be worth about $12,000. The local appraisal and inventory was made by John R. Fowler and William E. Shanley, appraisers, with Dr. N. B. Lewis, the executor. The principal item in the Norwich estate is land on the East Side of the city valued at $2,800.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION CLOSES AT ST. MARY'S

Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Memorial church the forty hours devotion which had been held since Sunday morning came to an end when over 1,200 communicants had received the sacraments. The masses Tuesday were offered at 5 o'clock by the curate, Rev. F. M. Coholan, at 7 by Rev. Henri Chagnon of Taftville and at 8 by Rev. W. A. Keefe, the rector. The devotion ended with the offering of the litany and the final blessing given by Rev. Fr. Chagnon, who was assisted by Rev. Fr. Keefe in the closing exercises.

Priests assisting the rector and the curate in the successful period of devotions were Rt. Rev. Monsgr. Michael H. May, Revs. Myles P. Galvin, John J. Reilly, this city; Edward J. Quinn, Norwich Town; Ulderic O. Bellerose, Henri F. Chagnon, John Malley, Taftville, Frederick H. Desseresault, Occum; and Richard P. Morrisey, Plainfield.

CLEARED AWAY SNOW FOR MAIN ST. TRAFFIC

Street Commissioner John C. Donovan had another force of men and trucks at work all night Tuesday clearing the snow from Main street. Practically the entire street was cleared up at an early hour this (Wednesday) morning. Norwich is one of the few cities in the state that has met the storm emergency so promptly and effectively.

CHANGES AT ISOLATION BUILDING AT HOSPITAL

Changes at the isolation building at the W. W. Backus hospital have now been completed so that the Chapin method can be employed, which will give the hospital greatly improved facilities for handling isolation cases.

The hospital authorities announced Tuesday that any who are interested to inspect the isolation building will be welcome to do so between 2 and 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon this week.

First Fall in Franklin Square

A local trolley man has the distinction of being the first person to fall in Franklin square this winter. Several nights ago, a few minutes after a light snow fall started in, he slipped on a snow flake and landed flat on his back in the middle of the square, much to the amusement of passengers on crowded trolley cars that were awaiting the signal to start on their runs.

Inventor Browning Honored.

Full military honors were paid John M. Browning, inventor of ultra-modern machine guns and military weapons, who died suddenly last week in Belgium, on the arrival of steamer Majestic at New York, Tuesday, with his body.

The Browning guns were made at the Marlin-Rockwell plant, the former Hopkins & Allen Arms Co., factory in Norwich, during the World war.

LATE ORAMEL PRATT WAS CORPORATION LAW EXPERT

(Special to The Bulletin)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4.—Oramel W. Pratt, member of the Yale Law school, class of 1885, and a native of Norwich, Conn., a recognized authority here on corporation law, died today in this city.

He was the brother of Bela Pratt of Boston, internationally known as one of the world's best sculptors.

Mr. Pratt, who was a member of the law firm of Lathrop, Morrow, Fox & Moore, came to this city in 1886, a year after his graduation from Yale. He was the first treasurer of St. Paul's Episcopal church and was a member of the University club.

He was married in 1898 to Miss Bertha Pepper in Ottumwa, Ia.

George Pratt, a son, now is in Yale. Besides the widow and the son, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Johnson Bennett, Madison, Wis., and Miss Bertha Pratt of the home address. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. A. P. Bodman, Winchester, Mass.

Funeral services will take place Monday afternoon in St. Paul's church, and burial is to be in Salem, Conn.

G. A. R. Survivors Becoming Few

Norwich has lost by death, this week, Orrin M. Price, 81 years of age, past department commander, G. A. R., and long commander, Sedgwick post, No. 1. His regiment was the old Thirteenth Connecticut, which suffered fearfully at Fort Hudson and in the Shenandoah. A great proportion of its men never came home, that is, of the original enlistment. The G. A. R. survivors have become so few that the passing of each one becomes an event of state-wide note. It would do no harm if the occasion were made always, hereafter, locally, one for patriotic services in the churches and schools.—Hartford Times.

DEPOSITION FROM BULLOCK IN CRABTREE WILL CONTEST

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Once more, in memory, Lotta Crabtree, California songbird of the eighties and nineties, walked the boards today as "the luck songstress" whose thespian path was strewn by happy-go-lucky miners with Spanish doubloons and sacks of gold dust.

These glamorous days were recalled in a deposition by "Uncle Tom" Bullock introduced in probate court here in support of the claim of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, California, to the famous actress as her aunt and therefore of her right to contest the will by which Miss Crabtree disposed of $4,000,000 on her death in 1924.

ACADEMY PLAYS SUFFIELD SATURDAY IN FIRST SCHEDULED HIGH SCHOOL GAME

That the basketball fans of Norwich will see some of the fastest high school quintets on the local floor is evidenced by the schedule of the Norwich Free Academy basketball team announced yesterday by Manager John Spotten. The schedule, of which two games have already been played, includes games with Wilby high of Waterbury, Kingswood Prep of Hartford and the state championship team of Torrington high.

Seventeen games are on the slate and the season will be terminated about the middle of March, the final game being the Wilby game at Norwich.

Four open dates appear on the slate but these are expected to be filled within the next week as games with the Conn. Aggie freshmen, Killingly, Deep River, Bulkeley of Hartford and Weaver of Hartford are pending. This schedule is about as stiff as any high school team in the state and is as follows:

Dec. 11—Suffield at Norwich.
Dec. 18—Open.
Dec 28—Alumni at Norwich.
Jan. 1—Open.
Jan. 8—Open.
Jan. 15—Windham at Norwich.
Jan. 19—Plainfield at Plainfield.
Jan. 22—Stonington at Norwich.
Jan. 25—Chapman at New London.
Jan. 29—Plainfield at Norwich.
Feb. 4—Windham at Windham.
Feb 8—Kingswood Prep at Hartford.

The game Saturday evening with Suffield will really be the opening interscholastic contest for the Academy five, the other two games being with local teams. Suffield boasts a strong team and expects to give the local five plenty of opposition. The Academy five is working hard to get into shape for this game. It was good news to followers of the Academy five when it was announced Tuesday that Les Pingree would be back in the lineup for Saturdays game. Pingree has been out of the game for a week or so due to his scholastic standing but has made up his credits and is in good standing. This will materially strengthen the team as Pingree is one of the best centers in the city and has a world of experience with fast amateur teams in Taftville and Norwich.

Another boy who has been showing up real well in the first two games of the season is George (Duckie) Jackson who has played a beautiful guarding game as well as a strong offensive game. It was Jackson's shooting the last game that brought victory to the Academy. Capt. Yerrington is a fast man in the forward position and it is predicted that he and Pingree will give the Suffield five plenty to watch when they get going. Yerrington, like Pingree, has starred on amateur teams in Taftville and works well with Pingree.

That the Suffield game will draw a large crowd is evidenced by the advance sale of tickets which have been distributed in various stores in Norwich. The seating capacity of the Y will be increased to approximately 500 as the two sets of indoor bleachers will be erected for this game. This will be the first basketball game played between high school teams in Norwich in a great many years and should draw out one of the largest of the indoor crowds of the season.

MORE RUMORS ABOUT DEMPSEY BEING POISONED

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The New York American adds another chapter to the story of "poison plots" woven about the figure of Jack Dempsey, who lost his heavy-weight boxing title to Gene Tunney at Philadelphia.

Dempsey told its representative in Los Angeles, the American says, that he believes he was poisoned before the contest and that his suspicions was confirmed by a physician who examined him the day after he lost his championship. The physician was not named.

Dempsey explained, the paper said, that he refused the doctor admission after he arrived, fearing that the public might think the former champion was "trying to frame an alibi," but that another physician who stitched the wound Tunney opened over Dempsey's eye said "there was strong symptoms of poison."

Tex Rickard, promoter, was afraid Tunney would not be able to go through with the match, Dempsey is quoted as saying.

"Tunney got sick flying here from Stroudburg. Do me a favor and don't step him too fast. Let him stay three or four rounds. This is the greatest crowd we ever had and I wanted to give them a run for their money," Dempsey said Rickard told him.

"I almost had to laugh in his face he was worrying about the wrong man. I was so weak when I reached the arena, that I almost fell out of my automobile," the paper quotes Dempsey as saying.

Cohen Kayoes Saxon

ALBANY N. Y., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Myer Cohen, Holyoke, Mass., welterweight, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Saxon, of Bridgeport, Conn., in the fifth round of a scheduled 12 round bout here tonight. Saxon was floored three times in the round. Cohen weighed 151 and Saxon 150.

PLAINFIELD AND BRISTOL IN TITLE CLASH TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 7.—A resumption of the struggle for the supremeacy between the Plainfield Town team and the Bristol Endees will take place Wednesday evening at the Community house at Plainfield. Plainfield will try to wipe out the defeat handed them at Bristol at the latter's floor on last Saturday night when the locals succombed to a score of 39 to 16. Handicapped by playing under amateur rules with which they were not familiar Plainfield is confident of turning the trick when they play under professional rules tonight. A mixup in the claimants for the state championship naturally results from the triangle combination after Plainfield has beaten the New Britain National Guard quintette who had previously beaten Bristol, champions of the state in 1925 twice in the same week. A prior claim to the title will be made by the local team should they come out victorious in tonight's fracus.

The Bristol team will have Telman and Malcomb forwards, Donny Hughes center, Dutch Leonard and Marchimuch guards.

Plainfield will send in Normandin and Martelli forwards, Norris center, Benson and Madden guards, Dissinger and Stavinsky utility.

There will be a fast preliminary between the Buddies and the Baltic independents starting promptly at 8 p. m.

U. S. G. A. TO REORGANIZE WITH BIG MEMBERSHIP

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Reorganization of the United States Golf association with a view to increasing active membership in the organization from 338 to 1,200 clubs is proposed in the call for the annual meeting at Pittsburgh on January 8.

Control by the executive committee of the green section of the U. S. G. A., which now has no formal connection with the parent body, and abolition of allied memberships are recommended. A single membership fee of $30 annually, including service of the green section, which carries on experimental and research work in connection with the growing of turf grasses and the maintenance of course, is proposed.

The U. S. G. A. at the present time has 546 allied member clubs, paying dues of $10 annually, in addition to the active membership. They have no vote in U. S. G. A. meetings, hundreds of clubs outside the association also receive the green section service by payment of $10 annually. It is the aim of the executive committee to merge all three classes into one membership through control of the green section by the parent body.

The green section's work has grown to such large proportions in recent years that the proposed reorganization has become a financial necessity, the committee explains.

BOXERS MUST STOP PROMISCUOUS HANDSHAKING

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—There will be no more handshaking to interrupt the bruising business of fisticuffing in New York state rings, the state athletic commission decided today.

Holding that the "manly art" of pummeling has been marred by an excess of politeness, the board issued an edict that boxers hereafter must stick strictly to the task of cuffing without courtesies. Referees will warn all contestants that only two handshakes will be permitted, one before the thumpers go forth to battle, the other after the business has been finished.

The ruling bans a practice ong prevalent in the ring. A certain element has received as a display of sportsmanship the handshakes which have followed minor infractions of the rules during the heat of conflict, such as unintentional low blows, backhanding, and hitting on the breakaways, but henceforth the commission will have no more of it.

"It has been merely a gesture. It didn't mean anything and lately there has been altogether too much of it," explained Chairman James A. Farley.

"That's right," chorused William Muldoon, senior member of the board. "We've been having more handshaking than fighting. Now, we will get a little fighting for a change."

COLLEGE ATHLETICS ARE GREAT CIVILIZING AGENCY

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Football and organized sports in general act as a great civilizing agency through which the colleges can reach the general public as they can in no other way, Ray Oosting instructor in physical training and varsity basketball and track coach at Trinity college, said tonight in a radio dialogue over station WTIC. He was discussing intercollegiate and intra-mural athletics with Professor Thomas H. Bissonette, head of the biology department.

Responsibility for the evils of intercollegiate athletics, particularly football, was laid at the foot of the college faculty by Mr. Oosting who charged that college faculties have until recently failed "utterly to recognize that physical development is just as essential a part of formal education as is mental or spiritual development."

Faculty members, he said, have persisted in thinking of intercollegiate sports as physical training, and are the only portion of the college community which does. Intercollegiate sports grew up as, and have continued as, an expression of loyalty, an endeavor to maintain and exalt the dignity and honor of the college in those things in which youth is most interested, he declared.

HARMON FILES CHALLENGE FOR PETE LATZO'S CROWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Willie Harmon, New York welterweight who was knocked out by the champion, Pete Latzo, not so long ago, is ambitious for another crack at the title-holder.

Through his manager, Harmon today filed a formal challenge for a championship match with Latzo, but the state athletic commission tabled it inasmuch as Latzo's six months' period of grace in New York doesn't expire until January.

Approval was given a card of four ten round bantamweight bouts submitted by Tex Rickard for a Madison Square Garden show on December 17. The main event will feature Tony Canzeroni of New York and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind. Other matches will bring together Johnny Green and Vic Burrone, both of New York, Andy Martin of New York and Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, Pete Sarmiento of the Phillippines and Dominick Petrone of New York.

The board deferred action on a request of Rickard to charge a top price of $10 for the heavyweight fight on Dec. 28 between Jimmy Maloney of Boston and Harry Persson, Swedish contender.

GIBSON BELIEVES KAPLAN WILL BEAT WALLACE AGAIN

Despite the fact Louis "Kid" Kaplan was knocked out in his first start as a member of Billy Gibson's stable, the latter believes the $10,000 he recently paid for the retired undefeated featherweight champion's contract represented the wisest investment he ever made.

"In the four rounds which preceded his knockout at the hands of Billy Wallace in Cleveland the other night Kaplan showed me that he is a very great fighter," Gibson declares. "His work bordered on the sensational and he seemed well on the way to a knockout victory himself when Wallace connected squarely with his 'button' and dropped him.

"Let me say that Wallace is a great fighter. He all but knocked out Sammy Mandell in a bout on the coast, I am told, and a few days after Babe Herman defeated Tod Morgan in Boston he went to Cleveland and lost ten out of ten rounds to Wallace, being floored five times during the bout. Yes, Wallace is a great fighter but Kaplan is a greater one. There isn't a doubt in my mind that Lou will not stop him if they meet again. He'll play for the body as he did with such marked success in the first four rounds the other night, instead of punching to the head at long range and giving Wallace a fair shot at his own chin."

Three promoters are seeking to rematch the pair of contenders for the lightweight title. Tex Rickard, through his matchmaker, Jess McMahon, has made over..... Wallace for a return bout. George Mulligan, of Waterbury, Conn., is also after the match, while Cleveland promoters are more than anxious to re-match the boys.

The Kaplan-Wallace bout, by the way, drew approximately $41,000 in Cleveland.

LATZO MEETS SIMONICH IN TITLE FIGHT TONIGHT

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Terminating a six months' absence from the ring, Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., will go into action at the Newark armory tomorrow night for the third time since he lifted the world's welterweight title from Mickey Walker last May. His opponent in a ten-round no-decision fight will be Joe Simonich, miner from Butte, Montana, whose chief claim to distinction in the east was a recent hard-fought match against Walker, during which the western fighter scored a first round knockdown.

Indications today were that Simonich, who has been fighting as a middleweight, would make the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, forcing Latzo to defend the title. Simonich weighed 148 pounds after his workout today. A knockout over Latzo or disqualification of the champion for fouling would bring about change of title if Simonich succeeds in shaving off the extra pound.

In two previous defenses of his crown, Latzo knocked out Willie Harmen of New York in five rounds and won on a foul in the fourth round from George Levine, also of New York.

There will be three ten-round supporting fights. In the semi-final, Benny Bass, Philadelphia featherweight, will square off against Benny Cross of Newark. The others will pit Phil McGraw, Detroit lightweight, against Johnny Ceccoli of Scranton, Pa., and Monte Munn, Nebraska heavyweight, against Gordon Munce of New York, former amateur champion.

WINDHAM GIRLS FIVE HAS 8-GAME SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 7—Coach Miss Margery Harvey announced the tentative basketball schedule for the Windham high school girls' team Tuesday with eight games listed. This number will be added to when arrangements are completed with Stonington high school. It is hoped to have the latter team appear here February 25. The schedule to date: December 17-Alumni, January 7-Putnam, evening, January 14-Rockville, afternoon, January 21-Plainfield, away, afternoon, February 5-New London, away, afternoon, February 11-Putnam, away, February 18-Rockville, away, afternoon, March 4-Plainfield, afternoon. A hard clash is expected on the evening of December 17 at the school gym when the girls' team and the town varsity encounter respective alumni aggregations.

Brown Beats Smith

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Newport Johnny Brown of Boston avenged two previous decisions scored over him by Steve Smith of Bridgeport, Conn., at the Exposition building tonight when he shaded the Connecticut battler in 12 torrid rounds. The men slugged all the way, Brown hitting harder and oftener. Dick Lambert of Berlin, N. H. had an edge on Ray Cross of Milford, Mass., in the semi-final.

Duncan Arrives From England.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—George Duncan, former British open golf champion, arrived today on the Majestic for an invasion that will carry him through winter championship tournaments in California, Texas and Florida. He will leave Thursday for the Pacific coast.

TAFTVILLE CELTICS WIN EASILY FROM DANIELSON TOWN TEAM, 53 TO 32

The Taftville Celtics swept to an easy victory over the Danielson Town team Tuesday evening at Parish hall when led by Walt Coady rolled up 53 points against the visitors' 32. The game was not quite so one-sided as the score would indicate for the Danielson team although outclassed put up a strong fight all through the game. The outstanding features of the game was the teamwork of the Celtics together with the basket shooting of Coady and Normandin, who between them accounted for 31 of Taftville 53 points.

Taftville swung into the lead early in the game and held the advantage all during the game although Danielson threatened several times to start a drive but the guard work of Eccleston and Coady stopped these attempts. Armington, center for Danielson, showed real offensive power but the teamwork of the visitors was nowhere as near as smooth as that of the Celtics.

In the preliminary game the Norwich All-Stars took the Taftville Nordics into camp by a 36 to 21 score, the All Stars having little trouble in defeating their opponents.

ILLINOIS COMMISSION BACKS UP YANGER'S DECISION

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, is the world's middleweight champion, just as Referee Benny Yanger ruled he was when he raised Walker's water soaked glove at the finish of the ten-round fight against Tiger Flowers, title-holder last Friday night.

The Illinois state athletic commission refused today to reverse the decision, as requested by Walt Miller, manager of the Georgia deacon, instead the commission backed up Yanger's verdict but decided that in the future two judges in addition to the referee will decide all contests. This plan, the same used by the New York commission, will become effective January 1.

The commission in its investigation, found there was no collusion or crookedness on the part of Referee Yanger, that his decision was strictly an honest one, and that Yanger rendered his verdict in accordance with the rules of boxing, as promulgated by the commission. The commission took the spectators to task for booing.

Miller, the dethroned title-holder's manager, while expressing disappointment because of the commission's refusal to reverse the decision, said he felt the commission had exerted every effort within its power to "right the injustice" that had been done in depriving Flowers of his title.

Miller said Flowers and Walker are certain to meet in a return match within 90 days, and that Tex Rickard would promote it in his Madison Square Garden arena, in New York, probably on March 3. Miller intimated, however, that the date might be set back so the contest can be staked outdoors.

CONLEY SETTLES ALL DISPUTE ABOUT LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE BY BEATING DAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—In one of the fiercest and most furious boxing bouts ever witnessed in this city Young Al Conley, state lightweight champion, settled all claims that Georgie Day of New Haven may have had for the title by out-boxing, out-slugging and out-generaling Day in eleven of the twelve rounds of the main bout at the Lyceum theatre here tonight. There was no doubt in any minds as to the superiority of Conley over Day. Day was a gorey spectacle at the finish of the bout, Conley having cut Day about the face and without doubt administered to Day the worst beating of the latter's ring career.

The bout opened with Day taking the aggressive and having the better of the first as Conley fought cautiously in the opening stanza. With the second Conley let loose his whirlwind tactics and by crowding Day and refusing to slacken his speed at Day's fierce punching had Day on the defensive as the round closed. From then on Conley set a pace that Day could not follow and the New Haven boy although fighting furiously could not stop the onslaught. The fourth round was a torrid one for Day who took an unmerciful beating, and when the round finished was bleeding from the nose and from cuts about the face. Conley refused to slacken his pace during the entire fight, even when Day's hardest punches found their mark. In the ninth round Day fought his hardest to turn the tide of defeat that was pouring over him but the confident sailor was too ast for the challenger in all departments of the game. Although Conley slugged his way to the verdict he was unable to knock Day from his feet. The decision of Jack Conway was popular with the record crowd. Conley weighed 134 and Day 133.

In the eight round semi-final Tommy Jarret of New Haven boxed his way to a decision over Nick Petito of Bridgeport. Jarret looked much better against the Bridgeporter than he did against Conley in the last show and had Nick groggy on two occasions during the mill.

In a lightweight set-to between Kid DeBartello of Westerly and Young Rita of Norwich the Westerly boy was given the decision over his stiff-punching opponent.

Although he suffered three broken ribs Big Boy Williams, colored light-heavyweight of the Coast Guard, won the decision over Tom Hartley of Westerly in a six-round slam-bang punching bee. The bout was featured by eight knock-downs six being credited to Williams and two for Hartley. Science was conspicuous by its absence, the bout developing into a glove-throwing contest and after the third round became a question of the survival of the bo's set of limbs. Both were nearly in a comatose state at the final bell.

In the curtain raiser Young Ross of Westerly was given a decision over Kid Wagner of Taftville who was off form and did not fight in his usual slashing style.

The card was certainly as good as can be seen anywhere at any price. A world of credit is due Matchmaker Tracy of the Acme A. C. for staging such a brilliant boxing spectacle. His efforts were rewarded with a capacity house that called for the "Standing Room Only" signs to be displayed. If Tracy continues to put on cards of this calibre New London will take its place among the leading boxing centers of the state. Nothing but praise was heard after the bouts for Tracy.

ENDORSEMENT OF LANDIS BLOCKED BY DALLAS CLUB

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A move for unqualified endorsement of Commissioner K. M. Landis' administration of baseball by the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues was blocked today by Walter Morris, secretary of the Dallas club, Texas league. Morris objected to an endorsing resolution because re-election of Landis would continue the major-minor agreement, including the draft clause, which the Texan termed "thoroughly objectionable."

The resolution introduced at the opening session of the National association's annual meeting by John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, called for sweeping endorsement of Landis and his administration, and gave "official notice" to the major leagues that the minors wanted him re-elected with "no curtailment of authority."

After a heated discussion the resolution was referred to the resolutions committee.

W. G. Bramham, president of the South Atlantic, Virginia and Piedmont leagues, and a supporter of the resolution, suggested that it be sent to the resolutions committee.

President Michael Sexten, Rock Island, Ills., in his annual address deplored the practice of employing scouts to "pry through the colleges and even high schools in search of baseball material."

Minor league baseball is in a splendid and healthy condition he reported.

The report of J. H. Farrell, secretary, showed 39 leagues, embracing 201 cities and towns in the United States and Canada; 7,946 players employed during the past season, an increase of 940 over 1925; and only one league, the tri-state, failing to finish its playing season.

A Challenge

The Taftville Eagles are without a game for the coming Saturday and would like to hear from any fast team that averages 17 years of age in Norwich and vicinity. For further arrangements write to Leodore Phaneuf, Taftville, Conn., Box 88, or call 1373-4 any evening between 6 and 7.

The lineup: Lucier and Pepin, forwards, Phaneuf, center; Le Rose and Thibeault, guards; Martin and Chancerelle, subs.

Lee Chosen Wesleyan Captain.

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Stephen G. Lee, '28, of East Orange, N. J., was today chosen captain of the Wesleyan eleven for next fall. Lee played at end on the freshman team and has held down the same position on the varsity for two seasons. He is also a letter man in basketball and golf, and in his freshman year was a member of the yearling track team.

Baltic Inds. vs. P. W. C.

At the Baltic gym this evening the Baltic Independents will clash with the Ponemah Wheel club five. This game is expected to be fast and the Independents are out to add another victory to their season's unbroken string.

The Unexpected Answer

The gossip will, as sure as fate,
Become embarrassed soon or late.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Has Buster Bear gone to bed yet?" asked Peter Rabbit of his cousin, Jumper the Hare, as they sat side by side in the snow over in the Green Forest.

Jumper had just opened his mouth to reply when both suddenly sat up very straight with their long ears pointing straight up at the sky in the listening position that you all know. "Did you hear something?" whispered Peter.

"Did you?" whispered Jumper.

"I don't know," replied Peter.

Both looked anxiously this way and that way and the other way, but they saw nothing to be afraid of. Finally they settled down again and concluded that they had been mistaken. "You were asking something about Buster Bear," said Jumper.

"I asked if Buster had gone to bed yet," replied Peter. "I have just come from Johnny Chuck's house and the Smiling Pool. Johnny Chuck has gone to bed for the winter and Jerry Muskrat is shut up under the ice for the winter. At least, that is the way it looks. That reminded me of Buster Bear, and I wondered if he has gone to bed yet. Probably he has. You know, Jumper, I should think that fellow would be ashamed of himself. The idea of any one as big as Buster Bear going to sleep on account of a little cold weather. I don't see how he dares look the rest of us in the face. It's all very well for him to say that he can't get food enough in the winter, but if you ask me, I believe that is just an excuse, and a mighty poor one at that. Were I as big as Buster Bear and as strong as he is I shouldn't ever worry about getting food to eat. I hope he's gone to bed, because he is one less to be on the watch for. Do you know if he has, Jumper?"

Once more Jumper the Hare opened his mouth to reply, and once more he failed to reply. Instead he made a flying leap, while at the same time Peter jumped in another direction. Both jumped barely in time. With a grunt two great forefeet landed right where they had been sitting. "Woof! Woof!" cried a great rumbly, grumbly voice which came from way down in the throat of none other than Buster Bear. It was the unexpected answer to Peter's question.

"Woof! Woof!" cried Buster. "I almost got you fellows that time. I'd like to know what business it is of yours, Peter Rabbit, whether I've gone to bed or not."

At a safe distance Peter had stopped to look back. His eyes were popping out of his head so that he looked really funny. If Buster Bear had dropped right down out of the sky Peter wouldn't have been any more surprised. It was hard work even now to believe that he wasn't dreaming. Where Buster had come from he couldn't imagine.

But it was all very simple. Buster had been right behind a big tree trunk in a heavy shadow when Peter and Jumper had come along. They had sat down on the other side of that tree, and of course they hadn't seen Buster. When they had first been suspicious and looked around Buster had fairly held his breath. He would have liked both or either one for a good meal. It wasn't that he was so hungry. Actually, he was fat. But he knew that the more he could eat before he went to sleep, the better off he would be, and hare and rabbit would have been very nice. So he had done his best to catch the two cousins.

"I asked if Buster had gone to bed yet," replied Peter.

"Woof! Woof!" said Buster. "Come here, Peter, and I'll answer your question."

"No thanks," replied Peter, "it's answered enough as it is. And I won't take back a word of what I said. If you're going to go to bed I wish you'd go to bed and leave honest folk in peace."

Yes, Different

Cigarettes are cigarettes, many people think, until they get acquainted with Lucky Strikes. Then they appreciate the difference.

That's because Lucky Strike tobaccos—the world's finest Turkish and domestic—are subjected to a costly extra process, toasting. If judged only for their tobaccos, Lucky Strikes would rank as the finest.

But the added refinement of toasting gives them an individuality all their own. Lucky Strike smokers enjoy:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

WESTERLY

CAPTAIN OF TUG WESTERLY HAS FRACTURED SKULL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 7—Capt. F. H. Robinson of the tug Westerly, a master mariner of Westerly and well known in the ports of Long Island sound, is a patient at the Westerly hospital and suffering from severe injuries sustained while in the pilot house of the tugboat coming up the Pawcatuck river soon after noontime today.

While the tug was approaching the Commerce street wharf the pilot wheel struck Capt. Robinson with such force as to throw him backward and his head came in contact with the floor of the pilot house. Dr. Harry F. Crandall attended Capt. Robinson at the Westerly hospital, for a fracture at the base of the skull, and he was placed on the danger list.

The tug Westerly had reached a place in the Pawcatuck river about 12.15 o'clock, near the Neugent fish boats, when a cake of ice floating down the river struck the rudder and the steering wheel was wrench from Capt. Robinson's hands, and, striking him on the head hurled him to the floor with such force that the fracture at the base of the skull resulted. Dr. Crandall was called to the Commerce street wharf and directed Dr. Robinson's removal to the hospital.

The first regular bi-monthly session of Westerly probate court was held in the probate court rooms of the Westerly town hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Probate Judge Edward M. Burke disposed of business as follows:

Estate of Jaynes E. Wilbur. Petition received from widow, Annie Amanda Wilbur, named in the will as executrix of the testator who died a resident of Westerly on November 5, 1926, that the estate be probated and letters testimentary be issued her. Will was read, signed by Dr. Alexander Ferguson, Donald Moll, Ferguson and A. T. L. Ledwidge as witnesses, and proved. A. T. L. Ledwidge appearing in court. With no objection Annie A Wilbur was confirmed as sole executrix with bond of $2500 without surety. Oliver P. Crandall was named appraiser.

Estate of Charles Glenn Beames. Petition received from Charles Glenn Beames, a minor, over 14 years of age, son of Bertha eames Smith and the late Earl Beames, that his mother, Bertha Beames Smith be made guardian of his person and estate, which consisted of a government pension from his father's estate. There being no objection, Bertha Beames Smith, of 132 Main street, Westerly, was made guardian of his person and estate. Bond was made $600 with surety in 30 days, with the mother to file a report with the probate court each year unless excused. Everett E. Whipple was named appraiser.

Estate of Charles W. Gray. First and final account was received from Edith C. Gray, executrix, from Nov. 2, 1925 to Nov. 12, 1926. The same was received, examined allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of John Walter Opie. First and final account received from Dr. William T. Veal of Stonington as administrator. The same was received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Ida M. Opie. First and final account of Dr. William T. Veal of Stonington as administrator was received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of John Opie. First and final account of Dr. William T. Veal as guardian was received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of John Opie. Account of Dr. Veal as administrator was received and continued to the next court session.

Estate of Francisco P. DiGangi. Petition was received from Rosalie, widof Francisco who died intestate, a resident of Westerly on Sept. 28, 1926, that the estate be probated. Petition was received and Joseph Grilla was named administrator with bond of $1600 with surety. Joseph Michele was named appraiser.

Estate of William I. Slocum. Inventory received, allowed and ordered recorded.

BURNS CAUSED DEATH OF FORMER ONECO WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 7—The death of Mrs. Ethel Marriott Sayles, 32, wife of Joseph D. Sayles, formerly of Oneco, following terrible burns from exploding stove blacking, occurred in Westerly on Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock. Her injuries were received Monday afternoon when liquid stove polish burst into flames while she was blacking a stove in an upstairs tenement at 53 Granite street. Both arms and hands, her face, neck and the whole front portion of her body were terribly burned.

Dr. J. DeVere Barber, a next door neighbor, was summoned to attend the injured woman immediately following the accident. Owing to the upset condition of the Sayles family's tenement, due to the fire, Mrs. Sayles was removed to the tenement of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Miner on the ground floor below, where a trained nurse remained by her side throughout last night.

Mrs. Sayles' infant daughter clung to the mother while the latter's clothing was in flames and consequently was burned quite painfully. The baby's face and right arm were scorched.

The Sayles family, which moved to Westerly in August from Oneco, Conn., occupies an upstairs tenement in the large house at 52-54 Granite street, owned by Mrs. David A. Lowry. Assistant Fire Chief Columbus Passetti, who lives in one of the downstairs apartments, summoned the fire department at about 1.45 p. m., but the services of the firemen were not required.

Mrs. Sayles' father and mother, Mr and Mrs. John E. Marriott, reside at 6 Newton Flats. Besides her parents she leaves her husband, Joseph Sayles a son, Kenneth Gordon, aged two years and three months; a daughter, Evelyn, one-year-old; three sisters, Mary, Margaret and Jean Marriott, and one brother, John Marriott, all of Westerly.

The deceased was born in Dalbeattie, Scotland, March 7, 1904. With her parents she came to this country at the age of 15 and prior to moving to Westerly had lived at Sterling Hill and Oneco, Conn.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appears the following lease:

Dec. 7. Tristant D. Babcock to James Jolly for a period of ten years beginning Nov. 1, 1926, a certain parcel of land east of the Watch Hill road at Avondale on which are two wooden ice houses, the property of the lessor, together with a fifty foot strip of land surrounding the ice houses.

Fred S. Ople left Westerly on Tuesday morning for a business visit in Boston.

Dr. Frances Kenyon of Woodville, R. I., arrived here Tuesday morning to visit in Pawcatuck.

Mrs. S. Jennie Doty left Westerly on Tuesday for a short visit with friends in Providence.

Mrs. Maude E. Freestone left Westerly on Tuesday morning for a visit in Providence.

Miss Anna Edge was successfully operated upon Monday for goitre at a local hospital and is now with her sister, Mrs. Michael Winstanley on Liberty street, in Pawcatuck.

Mrs. Amos Brown, returning with her son, Amos and granddaughter, Harriet, left Westerly the first of the week to visit at her son's home in New Haven.

MYSTIC

Rev. Edward E. Knapp gave a talk on Alaska for one hour and a half in the assembly hall of Mystic academy, Monday evening, for the Parent-Teacher association and the public. He related thrilling experiences, fully explained the life and customs of the people at the time he was there and game in detail the kinds of food and the method of keeping it. Everyone was greatly interested and appreciate his kindness in giving the second talk which was different from the first one. He had numerous stories which were humorous. Mrs. Knapp played a piano solo at the beginning and sang sweetly, accompanied by Miss Margaret Osgood. The selections were her own composition.

Harry B. MacKenzie is confined to his home by an attack of lumbago.

Mrs. Ellery Burdick and daughter, Evelyn, have returned from a visit with Raymond Burdick at Lafayette, R. I.

Miss Sarah Smith, R. N., of New York, recently visited her parents here.

Miss Mary E. Kellogg resigned at the J. W. Lathrop company's office early in November after 30 years of continuous service and Saturday concluded her work there. She has been a competent and faithful clerk and highly esteemed. Miss Ada Wheeler has been in the office for three weeks, learning the work and now has charge of the work which Miss Kellogg did.

Madeline Moll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moll, entertained several friends Saturday, it being her eighth birthday.

Mrs. Lottie Taylor visited relatives in Stonington Sunday.

The Old Mystic Social circle members were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lamb in Ledyard Monday evening. Music and games provided amusement and Mrs. Lamb served refreshments.

Mrs. Clifford Mouse of New London is visiting Mrs. Stephen Richards.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeWaldo spent Sunday in Westerly.

Mrs. Adelheid Mull of Westerly spent Sunday with her son, Fred Moll on Hathich street.

Dr. Charles F. Congdon who has been ill for three months is improving slowly and is able to sit up some days.

Mrs. Eleanor Crowther has returned to Westerly after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Gilmore.

At the meeting of Charity and Relief lodge, No. 72, A. F. and A. M., Tuesday night, the Master Mason degree was conferred.

David Scott attended the annual sophomore hop at Connecticut college Saturday evening.

Some report thermometers registering zero, Saturday night. The weather man kept people busy shoveling coal and Sunday noon the snow commenced to fall and kept it up until late at night. The evening services in the churches were omitted.

NOANK

At the meeting held by the Fire Co. in its rooms Monday evening there was the largest turn out in years. When Acting Foreman A. Banks brought down the gavel on the table and the secretary called the roll. 35 members responded. The nomination of officers resulted: Chief H. H. Park; foreman, A. McDonald; second, William Plumstead; secretary, John Ellis; treasurer, Fred Fitzpatrick; steward, Edward Ashby; engineer, Earl Foster; third foreman, Phillips Steel. Eight new members were taken in. A committee was appointed to run anything they see fit, such as a dance, etc. It was voted to have a moving picture, the committee being Edward Morgan and John Ashby. The telephone has been changed at the Fire company, the number now being 658-5. In case of fire, if one cannot get into the church, the key will be at the home of Charles Palmer, or at Rev. Mr. Weise's house; for the church will be locked at all times. After the meeting Steward Edgar Ashby gave the firemen a fine clam chowder, served by his kitchen help. A speech was made by Arthur De Blaisi and the piano was played by Maxson Langworthy.

Noank Nuggets won the first game of the season in Town hall, Monday evening, taking the H. Y. team of New London into camp before a small crowd, 27 to 13. The game was fast and the pass work of the nuggets was good and they had New London looking for the ball, while H. Y. team was good on long shots. Swift Ellis, Noank center was high man, getting seven field goals from the floor, making 14 points. Some of the second team were used for 10 minutes and held them in great style. The people of the village will see some good basketball games, for a fast team from around Norwich will be down Saturday evening. Scorer Phillips, Timer Cannerey and referee, Fitzpatrick. Boy Scouts was to play, but the team did not show up.

A Ford coupe with Conn. numbers got stuck on the bottom of the Store hill during the storm Sunday night, as the radiator was frozen and there was a flat tire beside. The owner worked for two hours, but it would not go and it was towed away to a garage by another car in the village.

Arthur Fish has returned from New York after a business trip to his home.

Dale Aldridge has work as molder at the Brown cotton gin plant, New London.

The young people of the village turned out in large numbers for coasting on the Store hill Monday night and a sled will go as far as the Town dock. A coasting party from Mystic was down and helped make it a lively evening.

Harry Robertson has returned from Orange, Conn.

Boat Ada and May, owned by Capt. Earl Davis after finishing blackfishing was hauled out for the winter at Rogers' yard.

Allen Brocky has gone to Montauk, L. I., for a few days' fishing, on the boat Baby.

Rev. Dr Canfield for many years a successful medical missionary of China will speak this week at the Methodist church. Dr. Canfield has been all over New England working under Bishop Anderson and has proved a successful speaker.

Edward Labonty is in North Kingston to help his cousin, Max Long get out cord wood.

Dinty Banks has returned after a visit at Hope Valley.

SCOTLAND

An oyster supper served to voters and their families and friends by Representative-elect Charles F. Brenn Thursday evening at the chapel was a very sociable affair. The supper began at 6:30 o'clock with an excellent oyster stew prepared by George N. Perry, the menu also including cold ham, rolls, cake and coffee. About 125 were present. Guests included Sheriff Charles Gates, Ex-Postmaster King, Representative A. Linn Weatherhead, and Charles B. Pomeroy, from Willimantic, Representative-elect John Fitts of Hampton, County Agent Frank Davis of Putnam, Highway Superintendent Luther Keith and Mrs Keith of Putnam and County Commissioner and Mrs. Keith of the same place, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Breen and Mr. and Mrs. William Sangster of Brooklyn and George A. Cook and daughter of Windham.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Among Recommendations Made by the Chief Executive Are: Some Form of Temporary Tax Relief—A Sound Solution of the Farm-Marketing Problem—Transfer of the Philippines From the Military to the Civil Branch of the Government—Enactment of Such Prohibition Enforcement Measures as the Treasury Department May Suggest —Radio Control Under the Department of Commerce —The Message Contained No Mention of the World Court.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—President Coolidge sent his message to congress today. It was read in both houses by clerks. The text follows:

Members of the Congress:

In reporting to the congress the state of the union, I find it impossible to characterize it other than one of general peace and prosperity. In some quarters our diplomacy is vexed with difficult and as yet unsolved problems, but nowhere are we met with armed conflict. If some occupations and areas are not flourishing, in none does there remain any acute chronic depression. What the country requires is not so much new policies as a steady continuation of those which are already being crowned with such abundant success. It cannot be too often repeated that in common with all the world we are engaged in liquidating the war.

In the present short session no great amount of new legislation is possible, but in order to comprehend what is most desirable some survey of our general situation is necessary. A large amount of time is consumed in the passage of appropriation bills. If each congress in its opening session would make appropriations to continue for two years, very much time would be saved which could either be devoted to a consideration of the general needs of the country or would result in decreasing the work of legislation

Economy

Our present state of prosperity has been greatly promoted by three important causes, one of which is economy, resulting in reduction and reform in national taxation. Another is the elimination of many kinds of waste. The third is a general raising of the standards of efficiency. This combination has brought the perfectly astonishing result of a reduction in the index price of commodities and an increase in the index rate of wages. We have secured a lowering of the cost to produce and a raising of the ability to consume. Prosperity resulting from these causes rests on the securest of all foundations. It gathers strength from its own progress.

In promoting this progress the chief part which the national government plays lies in the field of economy. Whatever doubts may have been entertained as to the necessity of this policy and the beneficial results which would accrue from it to all the people of the nation, its wisdom must now be considered thoroughly demonstrated. It may not have appeared to be a novel or perhaps brilliant conception, but it has turned out to be preeminently sound. It has not failed to work. It has surely brought results. It does not have to be excused as a temporary expedient adopted as the lesser evil to remedy some abuse. It is not a palliative seeking to treat symptoms, but a major operation for the eradication at the source of a large number of social diseases.

Nothing is easier than the expenditure of public money. It does not appear to belong to anybody. The temptation is overwhelming to bestow it on somebody. But the results of extravagance are ruinous. The property of the country, like the freedom of the country, belongs to the people of the country. They have not empowered their government to take a dollar of it except for a necessary public purpose. But if the constitution conferred such right, sound economics would forbid it. Nothing is more destructive of the progress of the nation than government extravagance. It means an increase in the burden of taxation, dissipation of the returns from enterprise, a decrease in the real value of wages, with ultimate stagnation and decay. The whole theory of our institutions is based on the liberty and independence of the individual. He is dependent on himself for support and therefore entitled to the rewards of his own industry. He is not to be deprived of what he earns that others may be benefited by what they do not earn. What he saves through his private effort is not to be wasted by government extravagance.

Our national activities have become so vast that it is necessary to scrutinize each item of public expenditure if we are to apply the principle of economy. At the last session we made an immediate increase in the annual budget of more than $100,000,000 in benefits conferred on the veterans of three wars, public buildings, and river and harbor improvement. Many projects are being broached and requiring further large outlays. I am convinced that it would be greatly for the welfare of the country if we avoid at the present session all commitments except those of the most pressing nature. From a reduction of the debt and taxes will accrue a wider benefit to all the people of this country than from embarking on any new enterprise. When our war debt is decreased we shall have resources for expansion. Until that is accomplished we should confine ourselves to expenditures of the most urgent necessity.

The department of commerce has performed a most important function in making plans and securing support of all kinds of national enterprise for the elimination of waste. Efficiency has been greatly promoted through good management and the constantly increasing cooperation of the wage earners throughout the whole realm of private business. It is my opinion that this whole development has been predicated on the foundation of a protective tariff.

Tax Reduction

As a result of economy of administration by the executive and of appropriation by the congress, the end of this fiscal year will leave a surplus in the treasury estimated at $383,000,000. Unless otherwise ordered, such surplus is used for the retirement of the war debt. A bond which can be retired today for 100 cents, will cost the people 104 1-4 cents to retire a year from now. While I favor a speedy reduction of the debt as already required by law and in accordance with the promises made to the holders of our Liberty bonds when they were issued, there is no reason why a balanced portion of surplus revenue should not be applied to a reduction of taxation. It can not be repeated too often that the enormous revenues of this nation could not be collected without becoming a charge on all the people whether or not they directly pay taxes. Everyone who is paying for the bare necessities of food and shelter and clothing, without considering the better things of life, is indirectly paying a national tax. The nearly 20,000,000 owners of securities, the additional scores of millions of holders of insurance policies and depositors in saving banks, are all paying a national tax. Millions of the individuals and corporations are making a direct contribution to the national treasury which runs from 1 1-2 to 38 per cent of their income, besides a number of special requirements, like automobile and admission taxes. Whenever the state of the treasury will permit, I believe in a reduction of taxation. I think the taxpayers are entitled to it. But I am not advocating tax reduction merely for the benefit of the taxpayer; I am advocating it for the benefit of the country.

If it appeared feasible, I should welcome permanent tax reduction at this time. The estimated surplus, however, for June 30, 1928, is not much larger than is required in a going business of nearly $4,000,000,000. We have had but a few months' experience under the present revenue act and shall need to know what is developed by the returns of income produced under it, which are not required to be made until about the time this session terminates, and what the economic probabilities of the country are in the latter part of 1927, before we can reach any justifiable conclusion as to permanent tax reduction. Moreover the present surplus results from many nonrecurrent items. Meantime, it is possible to grant some real relief by a simple measure making reductions in the payments which accrue on the 15th of March and June, 1927. I am very strongly of the conviction that this is so much a purely business matter that it ought not to be dealt with in a partisan spirit. The congress has already set the notable example of treating tax problems without much reference to party, which might well be continued. What I desire to advocate most earnestly is relief for the country from unnecessary tax burdens. We can not secure that if we stop to engage in a partisan controversy. As I do not think any change in the special taxes, or any permanent reduction is practical, I therefore urge both parties of the house way and means committee to agree on a bill granting the temporary relief which I have indicated. Such a reduction would directly affect millions of taxpayers, release large sums for investment in new enterprise, stimulating industrial production and agricultural consumption, and indirectly benefiting every family in the whole country. These are my convictions stated with full knowledge that it is for the congress to decide whether they judge it best to make such a reduction, or leave the surplus for the present year to be applied to retirement of the war debt. That also is eventually tax reduction.

Protective Tariff

It is estimated that customs receipts for the present fiscal year will exceed $615,000,000, the largest which were ever secured from that source. The value of our imports for the last fiscal year was $4,466,000,000, an increase of more than 71 per cent since the present tariff law went into effect. Of these imports about 65 per cent, or, roughly, $2,900,000,000, came in free of duty, which means that the United States affords a duty-free market to other countries almost equal in value to the total imports of Germany and greatly exceeding the total imports of France. We have admitted a greater volume of free imports than any other country except England.

We are, therefore, levying duties on about $1,550,000,00 of imports. Nearly half of this, or $700,000,000, is subject to duties for the protection of agriculture and have their origin in countries other than Europe. They substantially increased the prices received by our farmers for their produce. About $300,000,000 more is represented by luxuries such as costly rugs, furs, precious stones, etc. This leaves only about $550,000,000 of our imports under a schedule of duties which is in general under consideration when there is discussion of lowering the tariff. While the duties on this small portion, representing only about 12 per cent of our imports, undoubtedly represent the difference between a fair degre of prosprity and marked depression to many of our industries and the different beteen good pay and steady work or wide unemployment to many of our wage earners, it is impossible to conceive how other countries or our own importers could be greatly benefited if these duties are reduced. Those who are starting an agitation for a reduction of tariff duties, partly at least for the benedit of those to whom money has been lent abroad, ought to know that there does not seem to be a very large field within the area of our imports in which probable reductions would be advantageous to foreign goods. Those who wish to benefit foreign producers are much more likely to secure that result by continuing the present enormous purchasing power which comes from our prosperity that has increased our imports over 71 per cent in four years than from any advantages that are likely to accrue from a general tariff reduction.

Agriculture

The important place which agriculture holds in the economic and social life of the nation can not be overestimated. The national government is justified in putting forth every effort to make the open country a desirable place to live. No condition meets this requirement which fails to supply a fair return on labor expended and capital invested. While some localities and some particular crops furnish exceptions, in general agriculture is continuing to make progress in recovering from the depression of 1921 and 1922. Animal products and food products are in a more encouraging position, while cotton, due to the high prices of past years supplemented by ideal weather conditions, has been stimulated to a point of temporary overproduction. Acting on the request of the cotton-growing interests, I appointed a committee to assist in carrying out their plans. As a result of this cooperation sufficient funds have been pledged to finance the storage and carrying of 4,000,000 bales of cotton. Whether those who own the cotton are willing to put a part of their stock into this plan depends on themselves. The federal government has cooperated in providing ample facilities. No method of meeting the situation would be adequate which does not contemplate a reduction of about one-third in the acreage for the coming year. The responsibility for making the plan effective lies with those who own and finance cotton and cotton lands.

The department of agriculture estimates the net income of agriculture for the year 1920-21 at only $575,000,000; for 1924-25, $3,564,000,000; for 1925-26, $3,787,000,000. This increase has been brought about in part by the method already referred to, of federal tax reduction, the elimination of waste, and increased efficiency in industry. The wide gap that existed a few years ago between the index price of agricultural products and the index price of other products has been gradually closing up, though the recent depression in cotton has somewhat enlarged it. Agriculture has on the whole been going higher while industry had been going lower. Industrial and commercial activities, being carried on for the most part by corporations, are taxed at a much higher rate than farming, which is carried on by individuals. This will inevitably make industrial commodity costs high while war taxation lasts. It is because of this circumstance that national tax reduction has a very large indirect benefit upon the farmer, though it can not relieve him from the very great burden of the local taxes which he pays directly. We have practically relieved the farmer of any federal income tax.

There is agreement on all sides that some portions of our agricultural industry have lagged behind other industries in recovery from the war and that further improvement in methods of marketing of agricultural products is most desirable. There is belief also that the federal government can further contribute to these ends beyond the many helpful measures taken during the last five years through the different acts of congress for advancing the interests of the farmers.

The packers and stockyards act

Establishing of the intermediate credit banks for agricultural purposes

The earmarked act for agricultural research,

The Capper-Volstead Cooperative Marketing act,

The cooperative marketing act of 1926,

Amendments to the warehousing act,

The enlargement of the activities of the department of agriculture,

Enlargement of the scope of loans by the farm loan board,

The tariff on agricultural products,

The large federal expenditures in improvement of waterways and highways.

The reduction of federal taxes,

In all comprise a great series of governmental actions in the advancement of the special interest of agriculture.

In determination of what further measures may be undertaken it seems to me there are certain pitfalls which must be avoided and our test in avoiding them should be to avoid disaster to the farmer himself.

Acting upon my recommendation, the congress has ordered the interstate commerce commission to investigate the freight-rate structure, directing that such changes shall be made in freight rates as will promote freedom of movement of agricultural products. Railroad consolidation which I am advocating would also result in a situation where rates could be made more advantageous for farm produce, as has recently been done in the revision of rates on fertilizers in the south. Additional benefit will accrue from the development of our inland waterways. The Mississippi river system carries a commerce of over 50,000,00 tons at a saving of nearly $18,000,000 annually. The inland Waterways corporation operates boats on 2,500 miles of navigable streams and through its relations with 165 railroads carries freight into and out of 46 states of the union. During the past six months it has handled over 1,000,000 bushels of grain monthly and by its lower freight rates has raised the price of such grain to the farmer probably two and one-half cents to three cents a bushel. The highway system on which the federal government expends about $85,000,000 a year is of vital importance to the rural regions.

The advantages to be derived from a more comprehensive and less expensive system of transportation for agriculture ought to be supplemented by provision for an adequate supply of fertilizer at a lower cost than it is at present obtainable. This advantage we are attempting to secure by the proposed development at Muscle Shoals, and there are promising experiments being made in synthetic chemistry for the production of nitrates.

A survey should be made of the relation of government grazing lands to the livestock industry. Additional legislation is desirable more definitely to establish the place of grazing in the administration of the national forests, properly subordinated to their functions of producing timber and conserving the water supply. Over 180,000,000 acres of grazing lands are still pastured as commons in the public domain with little or no regulation. This has made their use so uncertain that it has contributed greatly to the instability of the livestock industry. Very little of this land is suited to settlement or private ownership. Some plan ought to be adopted for its use in grazing, corresponding broadly to that already successfully applied to the national forests

The development of sound and strong cooperative associations is of fundamental importance to our agriculture. It is encouraging to note, therefore, that a vigorous and healthy growth in the cooperative movement is continuing. Cooperative associations reporting to the department of agriculture at the end of 1925 had on their membership rolls a total of 2,700,000 producers. Their total business in 1925 amounted to approximately $2,400,000,000, compared with $1,000,000,000 in 1915. Legislative action to assist cooperative associations and supplement their efforts was passed at the last session of congress. Important credit measures were also provided by congress in 1923 which have been of inestimable value to the cooperative associations. Although the federal credit agencies have served agriculture well, I think it may be possible to broaden and strengthen the service of these institutions.

Attention is again directed to the surplus problem of agriculture by the present cotton situation. Surpluses often affect prices of various farm commodities in a disastrous manner, and the problem urgently demands a solution. Discussions both in and out of congress during the past few years have given us a better understanding of the subject, and it is my hope that out of the various proposals made the basis will be found for a sound and effective solution upon which agreement can be reached. In my opinion cooperative marketing associations will be important aids to the ultimate solution of the problem. It may well be, however, that additional measures will be needed to supplement their efforts. I believe all will agree that such measures should not conflict with the best interests of the cooperatives, but rather assist and strengthen them. In working out this problem to any sound conclusion it is necessary to avoid putting the government into the business of production or marketing or attempting to enact legislation for the purpose of price fixing. The farmer does not favor any attempted remedies that partake of these elements. He has a sincere and candid desire for assistance. If matched by an equally sincere and candid consideration of the different remedies proposed, a sound measure of relief ought to result. It is unfortunate that no general agreement has been reached by the various agricultural interests upon any of the proposed remedies. Out of the discussion of various proposals which can be had before the committees of agriculture some measure ought to be perfected which would be generally satisfactory.

Due to the emergency arising from a heavy tropical storm in southern Florida, I authorized the secretary of agriculture to use certain funds in anticipation of legislation to enable the farmers in that region to plant their crops. The department will present a bill ratifying the loans which were made for this purpose.

Federal legislation has been adopted authorizing the cooperation of the government with states and private owners in the protection of forest lands from fire. This preventive measure is of such great importance that I have recommended for it an increased appropriation.

Another preventive measure of great economic and sanitary importance is the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle. Active work is now in progress in one-fourth of the counties of the United States to secure this result. Over 12,000,000 cattle have been under treatment, and the average degree of infection has fallen from 4.9 per cent to 2.1 per cent. The federal government is making substantial expenditures for this purpose.

Serious damage is threatened to the corn crop by the European corn borer. Since 1917 it has spread from eastern New England westward into Indiana and now covers about 100,000 square miles. It is one of the most formidable pests because it spreads rapidly and is exceedingly difficult of control. It has assumed a menace that is of national magnitude and warrants the federal government in extending its cooperation to the state and local agencies which are attempting to prevent its further spread and secure its eradication.

The whole question of agriculture needs most careful consideration. In the past few years the government has given this subject more attention than any other and has held more consultations in relation to it than on any other subject. While the government is not to be blamed for failure to perform the impossible, the agricultural regions are entitled to know that they have its constant solicitude and sympathy. Many of the farmers are burdened with debts and taxes which they are unable to carry. We are expending in this country many millions of dollars each year to increase farm production. We ought now to put more emphasis on the question of farm marketing. If a sound solution of a permanent nature can be found for this problem, the congress ought not to hesitate to adopt it.

Development of Water Resources

In previous messages I have referred to the national importance of the proper development of our water resources. The great projects of extension of the Mississippi system, the protection and development of the lower Colorado river, are before congress, and I have previously commented upon them. I favor the necessary legislation to expedite these projects. Engineering studies are being made for connecting the Great Lakes with the north Atlantic, either through an all-American canal or by way of the St. Lawrence river. These reports will undoubtedly be before the congress during its present session. It is unnecessary to dwell upon the great importance of such a waterway not only to our mid-continental basin but to the commerce and development of practically the whole nation. Our river and harbor improvement should be continued in accordance with the present policy. Expenditure of this character is compatible with economy; it is in the nature of capital investment. Work should proceed on the basic trunk lines if this work is to be a success. If the country will be content to be moderate and patient and permit improvements to be made where they will do the greatest general good, rather than insisting on expenditures at this time on secondary projects, our internal waterways can be made a success. If proposed legislation results in a gross manifestation of local jealousies and selfishness, this program can not be carried out. Ultimately we can take care of extensions, but our first effort should be confined to the main arteries.

Our inland commerce has been put to great inconvenience and expense by reason of the lowering of the water level of the Great Lakes. This is an international problem on which competent engineers are making reports. Out of their study it is expected that a feasible method will be developed for raising the level to provide relief for our commerce and supply water for drainage. Whenever a practical plan is presented it ought to be speedily adopted.

Reclamation

It is increasingly evident that the federal government must in the future take a leading part in the impounding of water for conservation with incidental power for the development of the irrigable lands of the arid region. The unused waters of the west are found mainly in large rivers. Works are to store and distribute these have such magnitude and cost that they are not attractive to private enterprise. Water is the irreplacable natural resource. Its precipitation can not be increased. Its storage on the higher reaches of streams, to meet growing needs, to be used repeatedly as it flows toward the seas, is a practical and prudent business policy.

The United States promises to follow the course of older irrigation countries, where recent important irrigation developments have been carried out as national undertakings. It is gratifying there, that conditions on federal reclamation projects have become satisfactory. The gross value of crops grown with water from project works increased from $110,000,000 in 1924 to $131,000,000 in 1925. The adjustments made last year by congress relieved irrigators from paying construction costs on unprofitable land, and by so doing inspired new hope and confidence in ability to meet the payments required. Construction payments by water users last year were the largest in the history of the bureau.

The anticipated reclamation fund will be fully absorbed for a number of years in the completion of old projects and the construction of projects inaugurated in the past three years. We should, however, continue to investigate and study the possibilities of a carefully planned development of promising projects, logically of governmental concern because of their physical magnitude, immense cost, and the interstate and international problems involved. Only in this way may we be fully prepared to meet intelligently the needs of our fast-growing population in the years to come.

Transportation

It would be difficult to conceive of any modern activity, which contributes more to the necessities and conveniences of life than transportation. Without it our present agricultural production and practically all of our commerce would be completely prostrated. One of the large contributing causes to the present highly satisfactory state of our economic condition is the prompt and dependable service, surpassing all our previous records, rendered by the railroads. This power has been fostered by the spirit of cooperation between federal and state regulatory commissions. To render this service more efficient and effective and to promote a more scientific regulation, the process of valuing railroad properties should be simplified and the primary valuations should be completed as rapidly as possible. The problem of rate reduction would be much simplified by a process of railroad consolidations. This principle has already been adopted as federal law. Experience has shown that a more effective method must be provided. Studies have already been made and legislation introduced seeking to promote this end. It would be of great advantage if it could be taken up at once and speedily enacted. The railroad systems of the country and the convenience of all the people are waiting on this important decision.

Merchant Marine

It is axiomatic that no agricultural and industrial country can get the full benefit of its own advantages without a merchant marine. We have been proceeding under the act of congress that contemplates the establishment of trade routes to be ultimately transferred to private ownership and operation. Due to temporary conditions abroad and at home we have a large demand just now for certain types of freight vessels. Some suggestion has been made for new construction. I do not feel that we are yet warranted in entering that field. Such ships as we might build could not be sold after they are launched for anywhere near what they would cost. We have expended over $250,000,000 out of the public treasury in recent years to make up the losses of operation, not counting depreciation or any cost whatever of our capital investment. The great need of our merchant marine is not for more ships but for more freight. Our merchants are altogether too indifferent about using American ships for the transportation of goods which they send abroad or bring home. Some of our vessels necessarily need repairs, which should be made. I do not believe that the operation of our fleet is as economical and efficient as it could be made if placed under a single responsible head leaving the shipping board free to deal with general matters of policy and regulation.

Radio Legislation

The department of commerce has for some years urgently presented the necessity for further legislation in order to protect radio listeners from interference between broadcasting stations and to carry out other regulatory functions. Both branches of congress at the last session passed enactments intended to effect such regulation, but the two bills yet remain to be brought into agreement and final passage.

Due to decisions of the courts, the authority of the department under the law of 1912 has broken down; many more stations have been operating than can be accomodated within the limited numbers of wave lengths available; further stations are in course of construction; many stations have departed from the scheme of allocation set down by the department, and the whole service of this most important public function has drifted into such chaos as seems likely, if not remedied, to destroy its great value. I most urgently recommend that this legislation should be speedily enacted.

I do not believe it is desirable to set up further independent agencies in the government. Rather I believe it advisable to entrust the important functions of deciding who shall exercise the privilege of radio transmission and under what conditions, the assigning of wave lengths and determination of power, to a board to be assembled whenever action on such questions becomes necessary. There should be right of appeal to the courts from the decisions of such board. The administration of the decisions of the board and the other features of regulation and promotion of radio in the public interest, together with scientific research, should remain in the department of commerce. Such an arrangement makes for more expert, more efficient, and more economical administration than an independent agency or board, whose duties, after initial stages, require but little attention, in which administrative functions are confused with semijudicial functions and from which of necessity there must be greatly increased personnel and expenditure.

The Wage Earner

The great body of our people are made up of wage earners. Several hundred thousands of them are on the pay rolls of the United States government. Their condition very largely is fixed by legislation. We have recently provided increases in compensation under a method of reclassification and given them the advantage of a liberal retirement system as a support for their declining years. Most of them are under the merit system, which is a guaranty of their intelligence, and the efficiency of their service is a demonstration of their loyalty. The federal government should continue to set a good example for all other employers.

In the industries the condition of the wage earner has steadily improved. The 12-hour day is almost entirely unknown. Skilled labor is well compensated. But there are unfortunately a multitude of workers who have not yet come to share in the general prosperity of the nation. Both the public authorities and private enterprise should be solicitous to advance the welfare of this class. The federal government has been seeking to secure this end through a protective tariff, through restrictive immigration, through requiring safety devices for the prevention of accidents, through the granting of workmen's compensation, through civilian vocational rehabilitation, and education, through employment information bureaus, and through such humanitarian relief as was provided in the maternity and infancy legislation. It is a satisfaction to report that a more general condition of contentment exists among wage earners and the country is more free from labor disputes than it has been for years. While restrictive immigration has been adopted in part for the benefit of the wage earner, and in its entirety for the benefit of the country, it ought not to cause a needless separation of families and dependents from their natural source of support contrary to the dictates of humanity.

Bituminous Coal

No progress appears to have been made within large areas of the bituminous coal industry toward creation of voluntary machinery by which greater assurance can be given to the public of peaceful adjustment of wage difficulties such as has been accomplished in the anthracite industry. This bituminous industry is one of prime necessity and bears a great responsibility to the nation for continuity of supplies. As the wage agreements in the unionised section of the industry expire on April 1 next, and as conflicts may result which may imperil public interest, and have for many years often called for action of the executive in protection of the public, I again recommend the passage of such legislation as will assist the executive in dealing with such emergencies through a special temporary board of conciliation and meditation and through administrative agencies for the purpose of distribution of coal and protection of the consumers of coal from profiteering. At present the executive is not only without authority to act but is actually prohibited by law from making any expenditure to meet the emergency of a coal famine.

Judiciary

The federal courts hold a high position in the administration of justice in the world. While individual judicial officers have sometimes been subjected to just criticism, the courts as a whole have maintained an exceedingly high standard. The congress may well consider the question of supplying fair salaries and conferring upon the supreme court the same rule-making power on the law side of the district courts that they have always possessed on the equity side. A bill is also pending providing for retirement after a certain number of years of service, although they have not been consecutive, which should have your favorable consideration. Those faithful servants of the government are about the last that remain to be provided for in the postwar readjustments.

Banking

There has been pending in congress for nearly three years banking legislation to clarify the national bank act and reasonably to increase the powers of the national banks. I believe that within the limitation of sound banking principles congress should now and for the future place the national banks upon a fair equality with their competitors, the state banks, and I trust that means may be found so that the difference on branch-banking legislation between the senate and the house of representatives may be settled along sound lines and the legislation promptly enacted.

It would be difficult to overestimate the service which the federal reserve system has already rendered to the country. It is necessary only to recall the chaotic condition of our banking organization at the time the federal reserve system was put into operation. The old system consisted of a vast number of independent banking units, with scattered bank reserves or any credit elasticity. As a consequence, a strain was felt even during crop-moving periods and when it was necessary to meet other seasonable and regularly recurring needs.

The federal reserve system is not a panacea for all economic or financial ills. It can not prevent depression in certain industries which are experiencing overexpansion of production or contraction of their markets. Its business is to furnish adequate credit and currency facilities. This it has succeeded in doing, both during the war and in the more difficult period of deflation and readjustment which followed. It enables us to look to the future with confidence and to make plans far ahead, based on the belief that the federal reserve system will exercise a steadying influence on credit conditions and thereby prevent any sudden or severe reactions from the period or prosperity which we are now enjoying. In order that these plans may go forward, action should be taken at the present session on the question of renewing the banks' charters and thereby insuring a continuation of the policies and present usefulness of the federal reserve system.

Federal Regulation

I am in favor of reducing, rather than expanding government bureaus which seek to regulate and control the business activities of the people. Everyone is aware that abuses exist and will exist so long as we are limited by human imperfections. Unfortunately, human nature can not be changed by an act of the legislature. When practically the sole remedy for many evils lies in the necessity of the people looking out for themselves and reforming their own abuses, they will find that they are relying on a false security if the government assumes to hold out the promise that it is looking out for them and providing reforms for them. This principle is preeminently applicable to the national government. It is too much assumed that because an abuse exists it is the business of the national government to provide a remedy. The presumption should be that it is the business of local and state governments. Such national action results in encroaching upon the salutary independence of the states and by undertaking to supersede their natural authority fills the land with bureaus and departments which are undertaking to do what it is impossible for them to accomplish and brings our whole system of government into disrespect and disfavor. We ought to punish wrongdoing. Society has not only the privilege but the absolute duty of protecting itself and its individuals. But we can not accomplish this end by adopting a wrong method. Permanent success lies in local, rather than national action. Unless the locality rises to its own requirements, there is an almost irresistible impulse for the national government to intervene. The states and the nation should both realise that such action is to be adopted as a last resort.

The Negro

The social well-being of our country requires our constant effort for the amelioration of race prejudice and the extension to all elements of equal opportunity and equal protection under the laws which are guaranteed by the constitution. The federal government especially is charged with this obligation in behalf of the colored people of the nation. Not only their remarkable progress, their devotion and their loyalty, but our duty to ourselves under our claim that we are an enlightened people requires us to use all our power to protect them from the crime of lynching. Although violence of this kind has very much decreased, while any of it remains we can not justify neglecting to make every effort to eradicate it by law.

The education of the colored race under government encouragement is proceeding successfully and ought to have continuing support. An increasing need exists for properly educated and trained medical skill to be devoted to the service of this race.

Insular Possessions

This government holds in sacred trusteeship islands which it has acquired in the East and West Indies. In all of them the people are most prosperous than at any previous time. A system of good roads, education, and general development is in progress. The people are better governed than ever before and generally content.

In the Philippine islands Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood has been governor general for five years and has administered his office with tact and ability to the success of the Filipino people. These are a proud and sensitive race, who are making such progress with our cooperation that we can view the results of this experiment with great satisfaction. As we are attempting to assist this race toward self-government, we should look upon their wishes with great respect, granting their requests immediately when they are right, yet maintaining a frank firmness in refusing when they are wrong. We shall measure their progress in no small part by their acceptance of the terms of the organic law under which the islands are governed and their faithful observance of its provisions. Need exists for clarifying the duties of the auditor and declaring them to be what everyone had supposed they were. We have placed our own expenditures under the supervision of the comptroller general. It is not likely that the expenditures in the Philippine islands need less supervision than our own. The governor general is hampered in his selection of subordinates by the necessity of securing a confirmation, which has oftentimes, driven him to the expediency of using army officers in work for which civilian experts would be much better fitted. Means should be provided for their and such other purposes as he may require out of the revenue which this government now turns back to the Philippine treasury.

In order that these possessions might suffer no seeming neglect, I have recently sent Col. Carmi A. Thompson to the islands to make a survey in cooperation with the governor general to suggest what might be done to improve conditions. Later, I may make a more extended report including recommendations. The economic development of the islands is very important. They ought not to be turned back to the people until they are both politically fitted for self-government and economically independent. Large areas are adaptable to the production of rubber. No one contemplates any time in the future either under the present or a more independent form of government when we should not assume some responsibility for their defense. For their economic advantage, for the employment of their people, and as a contribution to our power of defense which could not be carried on without rubber, I believe this industry should be encouraged. It is especially adapted to the Filipino people themselves, who might cultivate it individually on a small acreage. It could be carried on extensively by American capital in a way to furnish employment at good wages. I am opposed to the promotion of any policy that does not provide for absolute freedom on the part of the wage earners and do not think we should undertake to give power for large holdings of land in the islands against the opposition of the people of the locality. Any development of the islands must be solely with the first object of benefiting the people of the islands. At an early day, these possessions should be taken out from under all military control and administered entirely on the civil side of government.

National Defense

Our policy of national defense is not one of making war, but of insuring peace. The land and sea force of America, both in its domestic and foreign implications, is distinctly a peace force. It is an arm of the law at home and security to our citizens abroad. No self-respecting nation would neglect to provide an army and navy proportionate to its population, the extent of its territory, and the dignity of the place which it occupies in the world. When it is considered that no navy in the world, with one exception, approaches ours and none surpasses it, that our regular army of about 115,000 men is the equal of any other like number of troops, that our entire permanent and reserve land and sea force trained and training consists of a personnel of about 610,000, and that our annual appropriations are about $680,000,000 a year, expended under the direction of an exceedingly competent staff, it can not be said that our country is neglecting its national defense. It is true that a cult of disarmament exists, but that candid examination made by the congress through its various committees has always reassured the country and demonstrated that it is maintaining the most adequate defensive forces in these present years that it has ever supported in time of peace.

This general policy should be kept in effect. Here and there temporary changes may be made in personnel to meet requirements in other directions. Attention should be given to submarines, cruisers, and air forces. Particular points may need strengthening, but as a whole our military power is sufficient.

The one weak place in the whole line is our still stupendous war debt. In any modern campaign the dollars are the shock troops. With a depleted treasury in the rear, no army can maintain itself in the field. A country loaded with debt is a country devoid of the first line of defense. Economy is the handmaid of preparedness. If we wish to be able to defend ourselves to the full extent of our power in the future, we shall discharge as soon as possible the financial burden of the last war. Otherwise we would face a crisis with a part of our capital resources already expended.

The amount and kind of our military equipment is preeminently a question for the decision of the congress, after giving due consideration to the advice of military experts and the available public revenue. Nothing is more laudable than the cooperation of the agricultural and industrial resources of the country for the purpose of supplying the needs of national defense. In time of peril the people employed in these interests volunteered in a most self-sacrificing way, often at the nominal charge of a dollar a year. But the army and navy are not supported for the benefit of supply concerns; supply concerns are supported for the benefit of the army and navy. The distribution of orders on what is needed from different concerns for the purpose of keeping up equipment and organization is perfectly justified, but any attempt to prevail upon the government to purchase beyond its needs ought not to be tolerated. It is eminently fair that those who deal with the government should do so at a reasonable profit. However, public money is expended not that some one may profit by it, but in order to serve a public purpose.

While our policy of national defense will proceed in order that we may be independent and self-sufficient, I am opposed to engaging in any attempt at competitive armaments. No matter how much or how little some other country may feel constrained to provide, we can well afford to set the example, not of being dictated to by others, but of adopting our own standards. We are strong enough to pursue that method, which will be a most wholesome model for the rest of the world. We are eminently peaceful, but we are by no means weak. While we submit our differences with others, not to the adjudication of force, but of reason, it is not because we are unable to defend our rights. While we are doing our best to eliminate all resort to war for the purpose of settling disputes, we can not but remember that the peace we now enjoy had to be won by the sword and that if the rights of our country are to be defended we can not rely for that purpose upon anyone but ourselves. We can not shirk the responsibility, which is the first requisite of all governments, of preserving its own integrity and maintaining the rights of its own citizens. It is only in accordance with these principles that we can establish any lasting foundations for an honorable and permanent peace.

It is for these reasons that our country, like any other country, proposes to provide itself with an army and navy supported by a merchant marine. Yet these are not for competition with any other power. For years we have besought nations to disarm. We have recently expressed our willingness at Geneva to enter into treaties for the limitation of all types of warships according to the ratio adopted at the Washington conference. This offer is still pending. While we are and shall continue to be armed it is not as a menace, but rather a common assurance of tranquility to all the peace-loving people of the world. For us to do any less would be to disregard our litigations, evade our responsibilities, and jeopardize our national honor.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Veterans

This country, not only because it is bound by honor but because of the satisfaction derived from it, has always lavished its bounty upon its veterans. For years a service pension has been bestowed upon the grand army on reaching a certain age. Like provision has been made for the survivors of the Spanish war. A liberal future compensation has been granted to all the veterans of the World war. But it is in the case of the disabled and the dependents that the government exhibits its greatest solicitude. This work is being well administered by the veterans' bureau. The main unfinished feature is that of hospitalization. This requirement is being rapidly met. Various veteran bodies will present to you recommendations which should have your careful consideration. At the last session we increased our annual expenditure for pensions and relief on account of the veterans of three wars. While I approve of proper relief for all suffering, I do not favor any further extension of our pension system at this time.

Alien Property

We still have in the possession of the government the alien property. It has always been the policy of America to hold that private enemy property should not be confiscated in time of war. This principle we have scrupulously observed. As this property is security for the claims of our citizens and our government, we can not relinquish it without adequate provision for their reimbursement. Legislation for the return of this property, accompanied by suitable provisions for the liquidation of the claims of our citizens and our treasury, should be adopted. If our government relinquishes to foreigners the security which it holds for Americans, it must at the same time provide satisfactory safeguards for meeting American claims.

Prohibition

The duly authorized public authorities of this country have made prohibition the law of the land. Acting under the constitution, the congress and the legislature of practically all the states have adopted legislation for its enforcement. Some abuses have arisen which require reform. Under the law the national government has entrusted to the treasury department the especial duty of regulation and enforcement. Such supplementary legislation as it requires to meet existing conditions should be carefully and speedily enacted. Failure to support the constitution and observe the law ought not to be tolerated by public opinion. Especially those in public places, who have taken their oath to support the constitution, ought to be most scrupulous in its observance. Officers of the department of justice throughout the country should be vigilant in enforcing the law, but local authorities, which had always been mainly responsible for the enforcement of law in relation to intoxicating liquor, ought not to seek evasion by attempting to shift the burden wholly upon the federal agencies. Under the constitution the states are jointly charged with the nation in providing for the enforcement of the prohibition amendment. Some people do not like the amendment, some do not like other parts of the constitution, some do not like any of it. Those who entertain such sentiments have a perfect right to seek through legal methods for a change. But for any of our inhabitants to observe such parts of the constitution as they like, while disregarding others, is a doctrine that would break down all protection of life and property and destroy the American system of ordered liberty.

Foreign Relations

The foreign policy of this government is well known. It is one of peace based on that mutual respect that arises from mutual regard for international rights and the discharge of international obligations. It is our purpose to promote understanding and good will between ourselves and all other people. The American people are altogether lacking in an appreciation of the tremendous good fortune that surrounds their international position. We have no traditional enemies. We are not embarrassed over any disputed territory. We have no possessions that are coveted by others; they have none that are coveted by us. Our borders are unfortified. We fear no one; no one fears us. All the world knows that the whole extent of our influence is against war and in favor of peace, against the use of force and in favor of negotiation, arbitration, and adjudication as a method of adjusting international differences. We look with distavor upon all aggressive warfare. We are strong enough so that no one can charge us with weakness if we are slow to anger. Our place is sufficiently established so that we need not be sensitive over trifles. Our resources are large enough so that we can afford to be generous. At the same time we are a nation among nations and recognize a responsibility not only to ourselves, but in the interests of a stable and enlightened civilization, to protect and defend the international rights of our government and our citizens.

It is because of our historical detachment and the generations of comparative indifference toward us by other nations that our public is inclined to consider altogether too seriously the reports that we are criticised abroad. We never had a larger foreign trade than at the present time. Our good offices were never more sought and the necessity for our assistance and cooperation was never more universally declared in any time of peace. We know that the sentiments which we entertain toward all other nations are those of the most sincere friendship and good will and of an unbounded desire to help, which we are perfectly willing to have judged by their fruits. In our efforts to adjust our international obligations we have met with a response which, when everything is considered, I believe history will record as a most remarkable and gratifying demonstration of the sanctity with which civilized nations undertake to discharge their mutual obligations. Debt settlements have been negotiated with practically all of those who owned us and all finally adjusted but two, which are in process of ratification. When we consider the real sacrifice that will be necessary on the part of other nations, considering all their circumstances, to meet their agreed payments, we ought to hold them in increased admiration and respect. It is true that we have extended to them very generous treatment, but it is also true that they have agreed to repay us all that we loaned to them and some interest.

A special conference on the Chinese customs tariff provided for by the treaty between the nine powers relating to the Chinese customs tariff signed at Washington on February 6, 1922, was called by the Chinese government to meet at Peking on October 26, 1925. We participated in this conference through fully empowered delegates and, with good will, endeavored to cooperate with the other participating powers with a view to putting into effect promises made to China at the Washington conference, and considering any reasonable proposal that might be made by the Chinese government for the revision of the treaties on the subject of China's tariff. With these aims in view the American delegation at the outset of the conference proposed to put into effect the surtaxes provided for by the Washington treaty and to proceed immediately to the negotiation of a treaty, which, among other things, was to make provision for the abolition of taxes collected on goods in transit, remove the tariff restrictions in existing treaties, and put into effect the national tariff law of China.

Early in April of the present year the central Chinese government was ousted from power by opposing warring factions. It became impossible under the circumstances to continue the negotiations. Finally, on July 3, the delegates of the foreign powers, including those of the United States, issued a statement expressing their unanimous and earnest desire to proceed with the work of the conference at the earliest possible moment when the delegates of the Chinese government are in a position to resume discussions with the foreign delegates of the problems before the conference. We are prepared to resume the negotiations thus interrupted whenever a government representing the Chinese people and acting on their behalf presents itself. The fact that constant warfare between contending Chinese factions has rendered it impossible to bring these negotiations to a successful conclusion is a matter of deep regret. Throughout these conflicts we have maintained a position of the most careful neutrality. Our naval vessels in Asiatic waters, pursuant to treaty rights, have been used only for the protection of American citizens.

Silas H. Strawn, Esq., was sent to China as American commissioner to cooperate with commissioners of the other powers in the establishment of a commission to inquire into the present practice of extraterritorial jurisdiction in China, with a view to reporting to the governments of the several powers their findings of fact in regard to these matters. The commission commenced its works in January, 1926, and agreed upon a joint report which was signed on September 16, 1926. The commission's report has been received and is being studied with a view to determining our future policy in regard to the question of extraterritorial privileges under treaties between the United States and China.

The preparatory commission for the disarmament conference met at Geneva on May 18 and its work has been proceeding almost continuously since that date. It would be premature to attempt to form a judgment as to the progress that has been made. The commission has had before it a comprehensive list of questions touching upon all aspects of the question of the limitation of armament. In the commission's discussions many differences of opinion have developed. However, I am hopeful that at least some measure of agreement will be reached as the discussions continue. The American representation on the commission has consistently tried to be helpful, and has kept before it the practical objective to which the commission is working, namely, actual agreements for the limitation of armaments. Our representatives will continue their work in that direction.

One of the most encouraging features of the commission's work thus far has been the agreement in principle among the naval experts of a majority of the powers parties to the Washington treaty limiting naval armament upon methods and standards for the comparison and further limitation of naval armament. It is needless to say that at the proper time I shall be prepared to proceed along practical lines to the conclusion of agreements carrying further the work begun at the Washington conference in 1921.

Department Reports

Many important subjects which it is impossible even to mention in the short space of an annual message you will find fully discussed in the departmental reports. A failure to include them here is not to be taken as indicating any lack of interest, but only a disinclination to state inadequately what has been much better done in other documents.

The Capital City

We are embarking on a ambitious building program for the city of Washington. The Memorial bridge is under way with all that it holds for use and beauty. New buildings are soon contemplated. This program should represent the best that exists in the art and science of architecture into these structures which must be considered as of a permanent nature ought to go the aspirations of the nation, its ideals expressed in forms of beauty. If our country wishes to compete with others, let it not be in the support of armaments but in the making of a beautiful capital city. Let it express the soul of America. Whenever an American is at the seat of his government, however traveled and cultured he may be, he ought to find a city of stately proportion, symmetrically laid out and adorned with the best that there is in architecture, which would arouse his imagination and stir his patriotic pride. In the coming years Washington should not be only the art center of our own country but the art center of the world. Around it should center all that is best in science, in learning, in letters, and in art. There are the results that justify the creation of those national resources with which we have been favored.

American Ideals

America is not and must not be a country without ideals. They are useless if they are only visionary; they are only valuable if they are practical. A nation can not dwell constantly on the mountain tops. It has to be replenished and sustained through the ceaseless toil of the less inspiring valleys. But its face ought always to be turned upward, its vision ought always to be fixed on high.

We need ideals that can be followed in daily life, that can be translated into terms of the home. We can not expect to be relieved from toil, but we do expect to divest it of degrading conditions. Work is honorable; it is entitled to an honorable recompense. We must strive mightily, but having striven there is a defect in our political and social system if we are not in general rewarded with success. To relieve the land of the burdens that came from the war, to release to the individual more of the fruits of his own industry, to increase his earning capacity and decrease his hours of labor, to enlarge the circle of his vision through good roads and better transportation, to place before him the opportunity for education both in science and in art, to leave him free to receive the inspiration of religion, all these are ideals which deliver him from the things that are material, we broaden our dominion over the things that are spiritual.

CHICAGO "SAFE" FOR VISITORS; ITS CRIME RECORD RANKS SMALL

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Should one on visiting Chicago supply himself with a suit of chain armor or an armed bodyguard?

Spectacular gang murders have received so much newspaper notice both here and abroad and have occasioned so much comment on the city's [illegible] that these occasional acts thousands, particularly in the smaller towns, who imagine that no one visiting the place would be safe unless equipped as for an advance on the enemy tranches.

This picture, the same as any picture built upon the cumulative effect of a number of isolated examples, is false, city officials say, citing figures showing that Chicago, for its size has one of the smallest crime records of any one city in the land. Chicagoans, who live a life about as normal and uneventful as the average citizen anywhere, see so little of crime conditions that they sometimes wonder if they are not missing out on something.

Chicago's murder record, of course, is the one that receives the most outside attention. This year's casualty lists are not complete, but the total for 1925 was 394 murders. Morgan A. Collins, chief of police, said 150 of this number were negroes slain by negroes, ascribed to the great influx of negroes from the south, while 80 were bootleggers slain by bootleggers, leaving 162 homicides to the rest of the population.

The 80 deaths among the bootleg outlaws furnished the striking feature of the murder list, but according to Judge Marcus Kavanaugh of the superior court, "the feudists are very good shots and no innocent bystanders are hit."

By dividing the total estimated ord into the city's 4,000,000 population, it is a safe bet that 99 44-100's per cent of the citizenry have never seen anything more startling than an automobile crash. One person who has lived here eight years and covered 15 or 20 miles of the city every day maintained that he never had witnessed even that. The same percentage of the persons probably never saw a gangster nor would recognize one if seen.

Therefore many Chicagoans smile a little when they see their city pictured in print and cartoon as overrun by gangsters who prowl about the streets with pistols and machine guns while terror stricken inhabitants dart to cover. And occasionally they have to assure anxious visitors that they can get about the streets unmolested virtually any hour of the day or night.

They realize that Chicago has crime, but believe that the spectacular manner in which some of the acts of depredation are carried out, particularly the gang murders, gives them an undue prominence leading to the belief that Chicago is a huge throwback to the roaring frontier towns of past decades.

One man particularly who resents the popular view of Chicago crime conditions is Mayor Dever, who has gone gunning several times for those who get too bold in their comments. He has been particularly active [illegible] but believes that most of the feuds and killings are directed from suburbs over which Chicago has no control. After the latest machine gun shooting, the mayor said, "Chicago's police force is doing all it can to put an end to gang warfare, but the illicit liquor trade is directed and operated in the county, not in the city limits."

WORLD'S PHYSICAL LAWS ALSO GOVERN UNIVERSE

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Law not only keeps this little world in order, but the universe as well.

The atom, which man cannot see or fully understand, and the star in the immense spaces of the heavens, possess the same orderliness and system, says Prof. Philip Fox, head of Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university.

"Studies of the terrestial globe, the sun, moon, and neighboring planets, the far-flung stars and nebulae reveal a community of material and a common response to law," the astronomer said.

"The chemical elements which are the constituents of the most familiar things of our daily life are common to the entire universe, whether the body is the densest star or the most attenuated nebula.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week four permits for new buildings have been granted and one application for permission to build has been received and will be granted next week. Two of the permits granted are for new dwelling houses while the other two are for smaller work. The weather conditions during the latter part of last week were not ideal for building although considerable work has been done. The heavy snow of Sunday called a halt on practically all exterior work for a day or so.

Work on the new home for the Dime Savings bank on Broadway is progressing with commendable speed. Contractors Peck McWilliams Co., have made exceptionally good progress on the building, the granite front up to the second story is in place and makes a very attractive appearance. All the walls are well up and the steel roof supports will be set in place within a few weeks.

The application now on file at the office of Fire Marshal Stanton is for a new distribution and storage plant for the Standard Oil Co. of N. Y. This plant is to be located in Thamesville on the river front where the power house of the Connecticut company was located. A more thorough description of the work is found on another page of this issue.

A permit has been granted to Homer G. Monty to erect a two-story frame house on his lot on Grant Court. The house will be 24x26 feet with cement foundation There will be seven rooms and bath all finished in hard wood floors and trim with hard-finish plaster walls The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles.

Fred Tongren has been granted a permit to erect a frame house at 95 Summit street for Mrs. Rose Feldman. The house will be 24x26 feet and two stories high. There will be six rooms and bath equipped with all modern conveniences. The interior will be finished in plaster and hardwood trim and the floors will be of oak. The exterior will be in clapboards with a composition shingle roof.

A permit has been granted to Herbert D. Rogers to build a 20x27 feet addition to the present frame garage at his home on Cahoon street.

George Sadinsky is to build a storm porch on the house at 140 Mt. Pleasant street for Mrs. Jennie Hotchkiss. The storm porch will be of frame construction, 9x6 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were 11 sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to 8 sales for the corresponding week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $34,350 and $38,765.

In New London the sales of real estate during the past week numbered 7, one more than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $49,700 and $14,980.

Building Permits in State

The number of building permits issued in this state during the past week was 327, compared with 319 for the corresponding week a year ago. Although the number of projects started was larger than last year, however, the estimated cost of construction work was much less for this past week. The most conspicuous losses, occurred in Bridgeport, Hartford, Hamden, New Haven, West Haven and Waterbury. Important gains were made in Bristol, Fairfield, New Britain, New London and Norwalk. Building activity in Bristol and New London has been exceptionally high during the past year and in the latter town a new high record in the number of permits issued was established in November.

Building Materials

No decided changes in the building materials market occurred during October. The seasonal recessions customary at this time of the year started during the month, but affected prices little. The only real downward trends were noticeable in lime and linseed oil. The lumber situation was the same as it has been for the last two or three months. Although steel bookings averaged lower than in September, the prices of structural steel remained unchanged. The starting materials, cement, brick and hollow tile, remained firm.

Construction Industry Stabilized

That the building industry is closing the year on a reasonably stabilized basis was indicated by building reports for October, made to S. W. Straus and company from 483 cities and towns. The decline from October, 1925, was only a little more than four per cent. This was about the same as the September and not so great as the August decline from the same months last year. The increase in volume of permits for October over September this year was nearly 24 per cent which also emphasizes the apparent stability of the building situation at present.

A few years ago, or before the movement to increase the volume of winter building was started, the normal trend was a decline from September to October, but during the past three years, since the winter building movement has been gaining momentum, this trend has changed from a decline to a gain.

The S. W. Straus and company building reports show, for example, in 1924 a gain of a little more than 15 per cent from September. Last year the increase was slightly more than 11 per cent. Thus, this year's gain of 24 per cent establishes a record. While it is impossible to tell whether this increase over September is due to a further strengthening in the winter building movement, or to accidental circumstances, the October gain is probably indicative of a considerable volume of building during the closing month of this year.

New London

Permits issued by the council for November reached a total of 83 with the addition of the nine issued by the council this week. The figure is an unusually high one, eclipsing by far the figures of any other month this year. Contractors regard the permits as a sort of criterion of future building conditions and in view of the time of the year the large number of permits insure a fair prosperity in the building trades for the successful contractors.

Twenty of the permits issued by the council in November are for new dwellings, mostly of the one-family size and cottage design. This is an exceptionally large number of houses to be started in the city in one month and in view of the fact that nearly all of the houses are of cottage type for one-family occupancy the figures indicate an element of prosperity in community.

Of the 83 permits issued 36 were for garages. A large percentage of the new garages are of the one and two-car type while several are of more pretentious proportions to be used for commercial purposes. There seems to be no distinctive preference of material in the garage constructions, brick concrete block frame and other types being selected, according to taste of the owner.

Of the permits issued this week, five were for new garages, two for commercial buildings, and the rest for minor additions or alterations. There were no new houses included in the permits this week.

Work is being rushed to completion by the Standard Oil company at that company's new gasoline and service station at Broad street and Connecticut avenue. Besides a new station house of metal construction, which replaces a former metal house at the location, there have been new sidewalks laid on both sides of the plot and new driveways are being completed. Plans of the company are to make the station as convenient and serviceable as possible and the former arrangement has been completely changed in the alterations.

The interior work is being completed on a new store building addition for Emil Seifert at 82 Main street. The new addition is of brick construction in front and concrete block and hollow tile on the sides and rear. The front is finished off with a show window and a store entrance. The structure is 14 by 35 feet in dimension, and one story in height.

Work is progressing rapidly on the extensive alterations to the Hotel Royal at 57 Bank street for Frederick Gavitt. An addition to the south side of the building will provide a new entrance to the hotel office on the second floor of the building while the large floor formerly occupying the entire ground floor, together with the addition, will be divided in half to provide two separate stores on the ground floor of the hotel. The first floor facade will be greatly enhanced in appearance by modern application of stone trim.

Thomas Occhalini has completed work on his new residence in Montauk avenue. The house is unique in its Spanish and Italian combination and is the only type of its kind in the city. In view of its distinctive design the owner invites its inspection by prospective home builders. The dwelling is arranged with seven rooms and an office with tile baths and showers. All modern improvements have been installed. The exterior is finished with an attractive white stucco.

Westerly

Cold weather during the past week in Westerly has had its effect in slowing down construction work on all kinds of outdoor building operations. At the new office building of the light and power producers, the South County Public Service company, 45 High street, the cornice is nearly in place and support for the fourth floor nearly completed. The steel work for the roof has been partially erected but the covering has not yet begun.

At the Nardone block, corner of High and Canal streets, the brick sidewalls of the third story have been laid on the Canal street side to the height of the window sills. On the High street side the third story window frames for front and rear walls have been placed in position but cold weather has prevented the brick laying for several days, the black mortar used being especially susceptible to cold weather.

Nov. 29. F. E. Newbold, Fort road, Watch Hill, R. I., addition to kitchen 5 feet by 9 feet at rear. W. O. Hiscox company contractor.

CLEARING WALKS ORDERS IGNORED BY MANY NEW LONDON RESIDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—Notwithstanding the efforts of the police and ordinances that seek to have the sidewalks of the city cleared of snow a few hours after a storm, there are scores of walks that have not yet been treated to the clearing process. It is not of record that any suits in damages have been brought against the city for injuries sustained by pedestrians falling on icy and snow-covered walks, but avoidance of such suits is the purpose of the police and the purpose of the ordinances. Attorney McGuire, when he was the city's law officer, won a case that was tried in damages on the defense that the city had done all that it could reasonably be expected to do when it ordered the walks cleared and an effort was made to remove ice from them. It was held in substance that the city did not insure the limbs of persons who went abroad. That ruling is not regarded as likely to hold, in cases in which the snow has not been removed and in which a proper effort to clear the walks has not been made. It is held that the trampling of the snow so that one can pass over it is not the clearing of a walk nor the making of it safe.

JOHN G. GORTON STRICKEN AFTER SHOVELING SNOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—John G. Gorton, is ill at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Richard W. Mansfield, Brainard street. Mr. Gorton, who is about 75, was engaged in removing snow from the sidewalk last night and with the completion of his labors entered the cellar and there was stricken with a shock. He was found a short time later and assisted to the upper part of the house and a physician was summoned. By the time that the physician arrived, Mr. Gorton had lapsed into a condition of unconsciousness and has remained in that condition since.

Miss Katherine Danforth, of 95 Federal street; Master Frank Wentworth, East Lyme; Mrs. Chester Martin and infant daughter, Old Lyme; Mrs. Cornelius Snodgrass and infant son, Hotel Mohican; Mrs. William Clinton and infant son, 54 Thames street, Groton; James Kirby, 16 Jay street, and Miss Jean Holburn, Pawtucket, R. I., patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Lee S. Denison was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 36 Summit avenue and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bearers were Henry L. Watrous, William A. Ames, Charles E. Greene and Charles C. Perkins. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Captain Lemuel H. Withey, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at New Orleans, La., Nov. 29, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his niece, Mrs. H. Coe Gardner, 287 Broad street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Members of Brainard lodge of Masons acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Alfred Rudd and family have moved from Broad street to the Harris building apartments, State street.

Abraham Watchinsky, Bank street grocer, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities comprise taxes of $186 and claims of $3,930.50, a total of $4,060.50. His assets consist of stock of the value of $500.

The fire department responded to three still alarms and one box alarm last night and today. The first fire last night occurred when a blaze was discovered in one of the offices at the state pier. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Thomas Hose company responded. When the firemen reached the pier the flames had communicated to the woodwork about a stove, but a small quantity of chemicals sufficed to extinguish them and without serious damage. The next time the department was called out was for a fire in a garage on Shaw street. An automobile was discovered ablaze and an alarm was rung in from box 451, corner of Shaw and Steward streets. Quick application of chemicals on the blazing car prevented the flames from causing serious damage to the building. This morning a basket of clothes in a residence, 107 Squire street, became ablaze, prosably because of their being too close to a stove. A still alarm resulted in the Ockford Hose company and Niagara Engine company responded. But little damage resulted. This afternoon a still alarm was received for a supposed fire in the dwelling at 14 Woodbridge street and Chief Thomas Shipman and the Niagara Engine company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. No fire existed, the cause of the alarm being the bursting of a hot water boiler in the kitchen and the escaping steam which seemed to indicate a fire. Other than the destruction of the boiler and the drenching of the kitchen, no damage resulted.

An automobile truck owned by the F. H. & A. H. Chappell Coal company, and a commercial truck owned by the New London Plate Glass company, North Bank street, collided this afternoon on Bank street, near Tilley street. The commercial auto was damaged, but none of the occupants sustained injury. The coal truck was bound from the coal yard to Tilley street and had started to cross Bank street. Before the rear of the truck had cleared Bank street the lighter truck, headed southerly on Bank street, crashed against the rear of the truck, resulting in the entire front end of the colliding auto being crushed.

Frank Mariano, a youth of 18, created a disturbance at the Lyceum theatre last evening when he apparently allowed his temper to get the better of his judgment. He and others were disturbing girl auditors when complaint reached the management and the police officer in attendance was called. He admonished Mariano and his associates, but the youths refused to be suppressed in that way. Mariano was arrested and arraigned in the police court today for tumultuous and offensive conduct. He then admitted that he allowed his temper to have sway with the result that he resisted the officer. He was given some advice and then was released.

Arthur Collins, a taximan, annoyed by the piles of snow at the union railway station got over the line that defines the territory where taxis are allowed to solicit patronage, and was ordered into court by Officer Clifford. Today the matter was explained to the court and the taximan was released.

Charles E. Williams, a snow shoveler, for that work too strenuous, so he quit his job. That was all right had he not taken another job—that of drinking so much booze that he became intoxicated. He thus broke a record which had kept him away from the police station during a year. On his promise to make his absence for a longer period he was released.

Police power to restrict coasters from using specific streets where there is so much vehicular travel that the sport is dangerous is to be exercised now that gliding has commenced. Among the streets on which there will be no coasting permitted are Bank street, Willetta avenue, Williams street and several streets that lead to the most travelled highways of the city. The movement is one to spare children from injury and to make safe the operation of autos and trucks on the main streets of the city.

The Learned Mission did good work in feeding the hungry and lodging those whose means to pay were limited. The unfortunates also included those who were supplied in some degree with clothing. It is the policy of the mission to compel applicants for aid to earn their way along, but no one is shut out if he cannot earn.

WILSON'S FATAL INJURY DUE TO MILK BOTTLE BLOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—The police started an investigation today to determine the facts in the assault by George Washington, negro mess attendant of the United States coast guard, local section base, 4, state pier, on Gorman Wilson, colored, also a member of the United States coast guard, formerly on the destroyer, 252. The assault resulted in the death of Wilson in a New York hospital, last Saturday from a fractured skull. The first that the New London police knew of the assault was when the New York police advised that Wilson had died and that his injuries had been inflicted in New London. Today, Sergeant Nelson Smith started the investigation and during the day he examined a half dozen witnesses. It was revealed that Wilson had visited the residence of Alice Marks, negress, 35b North Bank street, on the night of Nov. 3, and at the house at the time were the Marks woman, "Big Boy" Williams, colored, United States coast guard, a negro named Simms and Washington. During the early evening, Williams left the house to procure tickets as he intended to have the Marks woman as his guest at the show. When he returned he found Wilson bleeding from a bad laceration of the scalp and from statements made by all it developed that during Williams' absence Washington and Wilson engaged in a wordy quarrel. When Wilson finally told Washington to "go to ——" Washington, it is claimed, seized a milk bottle that was on top of an ice box and taking aim at Wilson, hurled the bottle at the latter's head, the bottle striking Wilson and laying open his scalp. The Marks woman gave Wilson $5 and hired a taxicab that Wilson might obtain medical treatment. The following morning Wilson appeared at the section base and there stated that he had been in an accident and requested further treatment of his head. This was provided and, apparently, Wilson did not suffer from any ill effects of his injury, although the federal physicians did not discover the fracture. Later while the destroyer was off New York, Wilson was taken ill and he was taken to a New York hospital, where an examination revealed the fracture. His condition rapidly became worse, but before he expired he made a statement in which it was disclosed that the wound was received in New London. The New York police were notified and when Wilson died the New London police were provided with such information as the New York police had obtained. The Marks woman professes to have no actual knowledge of what led up to the assault or even whether Washington committed the assault. She has a police court record and so has Washington, who is considered a "bad man". He is a military prisoner at the state pier and will be held as such pending the completion of the investigation, when he will be delivered to the civil authorities, after formal request has been made upon the war department at Washington to do so.

GORDON NORRIE RESIDENCE ENTERED BY CROOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—The residence of Gordon Norrie, 521 Pequot avenue, was entered by thieves within a night or two for this morning the caretaker detected evidence that entrance had been made to the house. The police were notified and Patrolman Clarence Martin was assigned to conduct an investigation. He ascertained that entrance was gained by the crook smashing one of the windows near the lock, which would permit the window being opened. The place was ransacked for valuables but none were found, at least the caretaker stated that so far as he could determine there was nothing missing. The Norrie family is in New York for an indefinite stay.

The city's highway laborers were again kept busy throughout today removing snow from the principal streets. Bank and Main streets were given particular attention today because of the great amount of traffic. By nightfall practically all the snow had been removed. The removal of the accumulation of snow from Main street, was a relief to trolley traffic. Because of the narrowness of that street in some places the schedule of the city line and New London-Norwich line cars was greatly hampered, but with the snow removed practically no delay is now experienced on that street.

There will be no delay in restoring the Second Congregational church, which was damaged by fire a few days ago, after the insurance on the building is adjusted. The church members are anxious to have their house of worship restored in the shortest possible time. The other churches of the city have tendered their places of worship to the people deprived of their church and the Y. M. C. A. is at the disposal of the Congregationalists for Sunday school purposes. Just how the fire that was so destructive originated has not yet been absolutely established, but the opinion is growing that the flames started from an overheated furnace. Insurance adjusters will be here in a day or two and the additional information as to the cause of the fire may be forthcoming. New London has been fortunate in that it has had few church fires. The Second Congregational church at Huntington and Jay streets, the church from which the edifice now burned grew, was destroyed by fire some 55 or 60 years ago. An incendiary was responsible for that fire. He was never detected and punished.

County Detective William Lewis is looking up evidence in cases that are to come before the January term of the superior court for this county. New London will furnish several of the most important cases but they are not many in number yet.

William E. Jackson, county detective of Windham county was here with local friends this evening.

Police Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh is in New York to bring back with him Albert C. Cornell, who is wanted here for bigamy. They will be back in New London tomorrow.

Some of the streets leading to and from Bank and State street are in such condition that travel by vehicle over them is dangerous. The snow is a foot deep and there are ruts worn in it so that all the power autos can gather is needed to force a machine along. At Golden and Green street there is evidently a leak in the water main for the gutters are filled with water which cannot find a way to leech off. It is the filthiest spot in the city.

Rain is promised for tomorrow when walking will be something to be dreaded.

There has been an absence of marine disasters in Long Island sound during the fall and winter. This may be due to the fact that there are fewer vessels in coastwise trade than ever before. The barges that are in use are of a more substantial sort than were the so-called "coffins" that were used a few years ago. The barges now are larger and many of them are steel in construction while the tugs are powerful craft, capable of standing any sort of weather.

Attended Dinner to Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Hussey were among those present at a dinner given last Friday evening at the Stratfield hotel, Bridgeport, in honor of Bishop John Gardiner Murray, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church. Mrs. Hussey, who before marriage was Ruth Bogue of this city, is soprano soloist in the choir of St. George's church, a member of the Altar guild and chairman of the social committee of the Women's Service league.

A big golden eagle, measuring nearly eight feet from tip to tip, crashed into a swiftly moving government air mail plane near Elko, Nev., causing his own immediate destruction and damaging the plane so badly as to necessitate its being held at Elko for repairs. The pilot said that immediately after the impact it was necessary for him to use all of his aileron control to keep the plane from turning over.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sale of Norwich Town Property

James L. Case has sold for Mrs. Caroline L. Freyer the property owned by her consisting of about 10 acres of land with a five room cottage house and other buildings thereon, located on Vergason avenue, Norwich Town to Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Larsen, who have made the purchase for a home, and will occupy it on or about the first of January.

Breed Theatre

The greatest football player of all times—in a great picture! The silver sheet is to be graced by the "Illini flash," not a brief newsreel, but a full length feature picture, entitled "One Minute to Play," which will be shown at the Breed theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Admirers of Red Grange and lovers of football will have the treat of their lives when they see the popular idol in a story that is built around football, and one which gives Red a chance to show the stuff that has made him the greatest player the world has ever had. The climax is a thrilling game through which the "Gridiron Ghost" tears with his unrivalled speed and incomparable technique. The picture was made under the direction of Sam Wood from the original story by Byron Morgan. The cast includes: Mary McAllister, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Lincoln Steadman, Lee Shumway, Charles Ogle, Jay Hunt, Edythe Chapman and George Wilson, the latter the famous All-American hatchet.

Palace Theatre

"So's Your Old Man" and "Rose of the Tenements" make its farewell appearance on the screen today at the Palace theatre. The entertainment that this super double feature furnishes, has by far proved to be a most excellent program. See W. C. Fields, one of the screen's foremost comedians, a past master in creating laughs, cultivate your humorous disposition in a tearing, screaming, rip-roaring comedy that's got the kick of a mule. Beautiful Alice Joyce is also featured in this laughable farce. "Rose of the Tenements" with Shirley Mason and Johnny Harron, a powerful, vivid, throbbing love story, completes the final showings of today's show. The Palace latest news events shows Gov. Trumbull partake in the closing ceremonies of the sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia.

The management announces for the last half of the week, starting tomorrow a vaudeville program of five big time headline acts. A galaxy of stars measuring up with the best high class theatres on Broadway. The vaudeville at the Palace, due to the wonderful bills presented since the grand opening, is becoming the chief topic of the town. Just as "So's Your Old Man" is the most popular expression in the English language, that's how popular vaudeville at the Palace is becoming among the theatregoers of Norwich. Arriving on the screen on Thursday, "The Popular Sin" a light comedy of love, marriage and divorce, against a glittering society and back stage background, with a cast of quality stars, featuring Florence Vidor, surrounded by Olive Brook and Greta Nissen.

Strand Theater

What may be considered the prize show of the year closes a successful three days at the Strand today There are five Keith-Albee star acts on the bill featuring Joe Suratt's Seven Stylish Steppers. The photoplay has a laugh from start to finish. See it today or you'll regret it.

Tomorrow will see five new Keith-Albee acts, which no doubt, will also set records falling for entertainment value.

Blazing action and a meaty story, happily studded with laughs and warmed with young romance, make The Broadway Gallant highly amusing entertainment in the opinion of many who have already viewed the Richard Talmadge F. B. O. starring vehicle which comes to the Strand theater tomorrow with the irrepressible stunt king in his most captivating role to date.

As Monty Barnes, idling young son of a financier, Dick Talmadge moves through the story of The Broadway Gallant with all the zest of a Kansas cyclone tearing through the cornfields of the middle west and depositing cows and barns in the next country.

It is all good fun, according to advance report and not to be taken seriously. Dick introduces many new stunts that bewilder one in point of sheer daring and marvelous escape from serious injury for the star.

MINISTERS OF COUNTY MET AT PARK CHURCH

The New London County Ministers' association held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday at Park Congregational church. There were about 20 ministers present from various towns of the county. During the noon hour an appetizing menu was served by a committee from the Women's Federation of the church. Those on the committee were Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, Mrs. Webster D. Copp, Mrs. Humphrey Almy, Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Harry E. Prentice.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, moderator of the association, conducted the devotional service and the paper of the day was by Rev. Giles F. Goodenough of Jewett City upon "Evolution of the Appreciation of Jesus." After the luncheon the paper was discussed by the meeting.

A woman's idea of a flatterer is a man who says nice things to other women.

POETRY

Hymn to Night

I heard the trailing garments of the Night
Sweep through her marble halls!
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls!

I felt her presence, by its spell of might,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm, majestic presence of the Night,
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold, soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the Night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the midnight air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy Night, from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy fingers on the lips of Care,
And they complain no more.

Peace! peace! Orestes-like I breathe this prayer!
Descend with broad-winged flight,
The welcome, the thrice-prayed for, the most fair,
The best beloved Night!
—Henry W. Longfellow.

"With Ships the Sea Was Sprinkled"

With ships the sea was sprinkled far and nigh,
Like stars in heaven; and joyously it showed;
Some lying fast at anchor in the road,
Some veering up and down, one knew not why.
A goodly vessel did I then espy
Come like a giant from a haven broad;
And lustily along the bay she strode,
Her tackling rich, and of apparel high.
This ship was naught to me, nor I to her,
Yet I pursued her with a lover's look;
This ship to all the rest did I prefer;
When will she turn, and whither? She will brook
No tarrying; where she comes the winds must stir;
On went she—and due north her journey took.
—William Wordsworth.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Bon: "Is there anything at all you're sure of?"

Bert: "I'm sure I don't know."—Answers, London.

"How many ounces to a pound, Willie?"

"Depends on what butcher you go to."—Detroit News.

"We'll miss Jonesy when he moves."

"Yes, indeed! He has the only lawn mower in the neighborhood."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Grocer: "My boy, if you want a thing done well you must do it yourself."

Boy: "Then suppose you carry those crates down cellar, sir."—The Progressive Grocer.

"Looks are important in the movies."

"Yeh, I see a prize fighter who has just signed up has agreed not to get his face improved."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mrs. Town: "Who is that woman you just bowed to?"

Mrs. Suburbs: "Oh, she's my neighbor."

"But she didn't return your bow."

"No; she never returns anything."—Good Hardware.

An old verger was asked for the key by a visitor anxious to see the church.

"Is not the church ever used for private worship?" asked the visitor.

"Not if I can help it, sir," replied the verger. "But now and again I catches one of 'em at it."—Tit-Bits.

The curious one asked a Negro who was whitewashing a fence, "Sam, why don't you get a brush with more bristles in it?"

"Wha' foh?" replied the old man.

"Why if you had a good brush you could do twice as much work."

"Yassah, but Ah ain't got twice as much wu'k to do."

KALEIDOSCOPE

It is estimated that an automobile engine wastes 97 per cent. of the energy of gasoline.

A scissors grinding gauge has been patented to enable persons' hair to be bobbed at home.

At the age of fourteen Count Rumford calculated an eclipse of the sun within four seconds of accuracy.

The first Buddhist mission to England has been established in the west end of London under the leadership of Anagarika Dharmapala.

Hungarian women may once more study to become doctors as the government has overruled the university senate's decision not to admit any more women medical students.

A bell that hung for thirty-two years in the tower of a branch Sunday school of the Bennington, Vt., Congregational church has been shipped to Groadus, Mont., as a gift to residents who are building the first church in Powder River county.

Pounding of steam in the radiator in the home of Isadore J. Abramson, of Philadelphia, awakened him. The six members of the family were forced to flee. The water in the heating system boiled when the fire started next to the steam pipes in the basement.

What is called by some European papers a record slow trip for carrier pigeons is reported from Bath, England, where a bird released in Varennes, France, nearly four years ago has just reached home. It is believed that the pigeon alighted to rest and was held in captivity until it escaped and then resumed its homeward flight.

The longest name yet wished on a defenseless infant has been bestowed on a daughter of Arthur Pepper, Liverpool, Eng., laundryman. The child's initials exhaust the alphabet. Taking the letters in order, omitting p, which is provided by Pepper, the child was christened Anna Bertha Cecilia Diana Emily Fanny Gertrude Hypatria Inez Jane Kate Louise Maud Nora Ophelia Quince Rebecca Starkey Teresa Ulyets Venus Winifred Xenophon Yetty Zeno Pepper. She is sometimes called Miss Alphabet Pepper for short.

Former Premier Briand of France, has retained his cook over a period of thirty years. On each of his twelve sojourns in various ministries M. Briand took the faithful cook along with him. She enjoys a high reputation among the diplomats and statesmen who attend banquets given at the Quai d'Orsay and has become such an important person that she was recently interviewed. "Monsieur Briand may be in the right place at the foreign affairs," she volunteered, "but I would hate to have him go to the finances." "Why?" asked the interviewer. "He never checks up my own accounts," she replied.

These Improvements are Important

There are two general classes of motor car improvements. Those made primarily for their effect on the public—and those made primarily for their effect upon the car.

You will perceive at once that Dodge Brothers new five-bearing crankshaft, two-unit starting and lighting system, air cleaner and other recent improvements, are the sort that represent genuine value.

They are sound and substantial betterments, producing definite and marked results, and as such they are typical of Dodge Brothers methods and product.

LEGAL NOTICE

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 6th day of Dec., A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

In the matter of the appointment of a Trustee of the property and estate of Clarence A. Bailey, recently a resident of the Town of Sprague in said District, who has disappeared and whose abode cannot be ascertained.

Clarence C. Bailey of Sprague, Conn., appeared in Court with counsel and filed a petition, alleging that said Clarence A. Bailey, father of the petitioner, has disappeared from home and gone to parts unknown, leaving real and personal estate within the Town of Sprague uncared for; that petitioner has not heard of nor from said Clarence A. Bailey for a period of about six months, although he has made diligent search and inquiry in an effort to locate him, and praying for the reasons therein set forth that a Trustee be appointed to take charge of said estate in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 13th day of December, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

Cattle, lower.

Hogs easy.

MARKET WAS PROFESSIONAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Reactionary price tendencies developed toward the close of today's stock market after an early period of strength during which more than a dozen issues were elevated to new high levels for the year. In the absence of any adverse news developments, Wall street described the selling as a "technical reaction" designed to correct the market's supposedly weakened technical position. Early gains of 1 to 5 points were substantially reduced or wiped out, and in several instances converted into net losses of a point or more.

President Coolidge's message was well received by the financial district, the best prices of the day being made after publication of his recommendations. Judging from commission house comment, Wall street was particularly pleased with the tax rebate and railroad consolidation proposals, and the president's opposition to any plan that puts the government into the business of selling crops, or fixing prices. Record-breaking chain store sales, higher dividends by several small industrial companies and a reported decrease in crude oil production last week also helped to create bullish enthusiasm.

Trading continued to be largely of a professional nature, with chief speculative interest centered in about a dozen high priced industrials. Indications of a slight increase in public participation were seen in the recent expansion in brokers' loans, but this "outside buying" is reported to be of a very selective character.

International Harvester was run up over 4 points to a new record high price at 156 3-8 but lost nearly half its gain. Other issues to break into new high ground were General Motors 7 per cent. preferred, Consolidated Sugar, American Woolen preferred, Westinghouse Air Brake, Collins & Aikman common and preferred, Corn Products, Otis Elevator, LaClede Gas, Eureka Vacuum Cleaner and Electric Boat.

U. S. Steel common, General Motors and American Smelting showed practically no change on the day although they fluctuated in a range of between 3 and 3 points.

Baldwin closed nearly 2 points lower at 156 1-2 after selling between 154 1-4 and 158 3-4. Elsewhere, the strength of such specialties as Cuba-by Packing, Commercial Solvents B, Gotham Silk Hosiery, Manhattan Electrical Supply, United Cigar, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Warren Bros. and Wilson Co., contrasted with the heaviness of American Linseed preferred, Brooklyn Edison, Continental Baking A, Loose Wiles issues, National Tea, Philip Morris, and Warner Pictures A.

Rails showed a firmer undertone with good buying noted in such issues as Atchison, Chicago & Alton, preferred, Pere Marquette preferred and Union Pacific.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity prices showed little change. Cotton futures were slightly firmer, closing 3 to 13 points net higher. December wheat advanced slightly but the more distant options lost ground. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices yielded 17 to 34 points.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary, with demand sterling ruling around $4.84 1-2 and French francs around 3.84 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Cong. ch. fair and entertainments, Ponemah hall, Tues. and Wed. 7th and 8th, afternoons and evenings.—adv.

Taftville Fire company, No. 2, Louise A. Paquette, chief, was called on Monday for a fire in the Frederick Johnson house on the Occum road. The fire was extinguished by use of 10 gallons of chemical and without any great damage being done to the property.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the Norwich Town Congregational church, attended the December meeting of the New London Association of Congregational Ministers, held Tuesday at Park church.

Norwich Town friends of William G. Tarbox, principal of the Town street school, were saddened to read in Tuesday morning's Bulletin of Mrs. Tarbox's death. Many have expressed sympathy for Mr. Tarbox and family in their bereavement.

MISSION FOR CRUSADE TO BE AT CHRIST CHURCH

A mission for crusade is to be held at Christ Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. Walter E. Bentley, missioner, of St. Stephen's church, Port Washington, L. I., and beginning next Saturday.

In a letter of invitation which has been sent to the parishioners and friends of the church, Missioner Bentley says:

The mission, which, under God, I am to hold in your parish beginning Saturday evening, Dec. 11, at 7:30 and closing on Sunday evening, Dec. 19, will depend for its success upon your prayers and mutual co-operation. Your rector and I want to try and make God and His church more real in your lives and I hope you will use me in every way that will help you. Use the question box freely and see me personally that I may directly help you with your doubts and fears. The great realities are, God, the soul, and eternity, and if we can manage to get a firmer hold on these, lesser things will take care of themselves.

Bring all your friends and acquaintances to the evening services and let us all show a greater zeal for the spread of Christ's kingdom. Only in this way can you strengthen your own souls and find God's peace which passes all understanding, and which the world can neither give nor, thank God, take away.

NEWTON PROFESSOR SPOKE TO BAPTIST MINISTERS

Rev. Dr. Frederick L. Anderson, professor of new testament literature at Newton Theological seminary, was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Thames River Valley Baptist Ministers' association held on Monday at the Huntington Street Baptist church in New London.

Rev. Dr. Anderson spoke at both the morning and afternoon sessions. His subject was The New Testament Method of Personal Evangelism. The speaker is chairman of the foreign missions board of the Northern Baptist convention and is one of the outstanding leaders in all work of the denomination.

At noon time the women of the church served dinner.

Discharged From State Hospital.

New London police have learned that Eugene Yeney, 19, of New York has been discharged from the Norwich state hospital. Yeney was committed to the hospital several months ago following his arrest in New London on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and breaking and entering in the night time. Parents of the young man indicated that he was a deficient mentally at the time of his arrest and following an examination he was committed and the charges against him in the court nolled. It is reported by the police that the man is now at his home in New York, apparently recovered from his mental disorder.

SUES FOR DIVORCE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS DESERTION

On the ground of his wife's desertion for more than 18 years, Charles I. Allen of this city has brought suit for divorce from Pearl Armstrong Allen, also of Norwich. They were married June 18, 1907. Papers in the suit have been filed in the superior court.

Two Chimney Fires

At 11:27 o'clock Tuesday morning the fire department was called out by telephone for a chimney fire at No. 12 Hodge avenue owned by Robert Adams and occupied by John Haffner and others. Six gallons of chemical were used on the blaze. Monday evening at 6:05 o'clock the department was called to No. 25 School street, occupied by Joseph Tomiano, for a chimney blaze. Three gallons of chemical were used.

It's a short street that has no beauty parlor.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER SUED FOR KEATING'S DEATH

On the claim that the state highway department was negligent in allowing Crocker hill in the town of Lebanon to be in a slippery and oily condition from an excess of oil on it on the night when James E. Keating of Norwich Town and Frank P. Pratt of North Cliff street were killed in an automobile accident, suit has been brought for $10,000 damages for the death of Keating against State Highway Commissioner James A. MacDonald. The suit is brought by John S. Keating, administrator of the estate, the papers having been filed with the clerk of the superior court.

Keating and Pratt were killed on Sunday night, Nov. 8, 1925, when they were riding from Lebanon to Yantic in a small roadster that Keating used as an employe of a trucking company.

As the machine was coming down Crocker hill, the machine skidded from the right to the left side of the road, the front wheels went up a high bank and the car overturned, falling back into the road and pinning the two men underneath it so that they were fatally injured and died almost instantly. At the time of the accident it was reported that another man had been helped out of the wreck and that he disappeared in the darkness after recovering from the dazed condition in which he was found by the first people to arrive after the accident.

The complaint in the case alleges that there was too much oil on the road and that it had not been properly sanded.

PRAISES OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY HERE

The December issue of the Telephone Bulletin devotes a page to complimentary reference in general to the Norwich observance of Armistice day and in particular to the striking display made by the float of the telephone company.

A cut of the float is given with the following account of the observance:

The city of Norwich was the Mecca of eastern Connecticut's population on Armistice day. And those who traveled far to attend the Rose City's observance of that event which eight years ago brought to a close the World war with all its misery and its suffering and its death, were well repaid for their time and their effort.

No better, no more elaborate, no more appropriate and impressive observance of the day has been held in our territory.

It is not easy to say that one event of the day was more important than another for while the parade, a long one with gorgeous floats and the sturdy men who fought during the war, fraternal, civic societies and all, naturally was an impelling attraction, the dedication of a war trophy in the presence of Governor John H. Trumbull and his staff, other state and city officials and military and naval officers representing the government, was indeed a thing long to be remembered. And then in the evening there was a dinner at which the governor and a host of other distinguished guests were present and here was given in word picture the sacrifice which good Americans made during the war and the rejoicing that came with the armistice just eight years ago.

Norwich and its citizens should be proud of their observance of the great day and it was only through the hearty cooperation of its civic and business leaders and the people as a whole that such an appealing program could be arranged.

But what we started out to tell you was that our company had a handsomely decorated float in the parade. A picture of that float is shown herewith and while we say it, as shouldn't perhaps, that float was among the big attractions in the parade.

Trimmed in white and blue, the telephone colors, and with an enormous telephone made of wood and painted to represent a set as it actually looks, with Holly tastefully set about the float and a series of telephones arranged in regular order about the lower and upper platforms, our contribution to the parade was a genuine success and was generously applauded all along the line of march.

The young ladies in their white coats and the former service men who rode on the float fitted perfectly into the picture. Misses Mary Marks and Lucille Drew of traffic are the young ladies in the picture and Fred Wood and Edward Trevens, plant men, who saw service during the war, represented the male contribution by our company to the battle line of those iron days.

On each side of the float was shown the company's service flag and its significant figures which made it plain that telephone men and women did their share in the war. But equally impressive were the words "In Peace and War the Telephone Serves the Nation," which also appeared on each side of the float.

For days after the parade was held, Exchange Manager Henry E. Lyon of Norwich received many enthusiastically favorable comments on the fact that our company participated in the parade and prepared such a striking contribution to the good effect of the whole procession.

There is no doubt that the company made friends by its participation in this event for it forcefully brought to the attention of the thousands who lined the sidewalks along the route of the parade that the telephone and telephone men and women were alert to their duty at all times.

Arthur R. Mealia had much to do with designing and decorating the float and despite the fact that Arthur is right close to us here in the office and shuns the spotlight, we wish to hand him just a word of praise for the impressive product of his initiative and ingenuity and to all who aided in the building of this float and its proper presentation in the Norwich celebration congratulations are due.

SUPERINTENDENT GENTER AT MEETING IN BOSTON

The fifteen district superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church, supervising the districts of the New England area, under Bishop W. F. Anderson of Boston, are meeting Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at the Wesleyan building in Boston, and Rev. Myron E. POSTMASTER NOMINATIONS IN PUTNAM AND TAFTVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—The president today sent to the senate many nominations, among them these postmasters: Guy M. Bartlett, Andover; Anthony Hansen, North Windham; Edward Adams, Taftville; Archibald McDonald, Putnam; Elbert B. Austin, Cromwell.

The nominations mentioned for Taftville forecasts a change in the postoffice there where Dennis C. Murphy is at present postmaster, with his son Edward as assistant.

WE ANCIENTS MEET IN PINOCHLE PLAY

The We Ancients pinochle club met Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Henry Herring's home on Asylum street. It was Mrs. Herring's birthday and the club presented her a beautiful linen buffet set and scarf to match. The first prize was won by Mrs. Yalen and the consolation by Mrs. Miller. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

EXPECT COMMITTEE CHANGES IN COMING LEGISLATURE

Women suffrage and liquor licenses will probably be dropped as matters for special committee consideration by the Connecticut general assembly during the 1927 session. Abolition of the joint committees on woman suffrage and excise, both of which have been part of the legislative organization for decades, will probably be recommended and new committees will be proposed in their stead to handle more pressing affairs.

Decision on the recommendations to be made will be reached at a conference next week of Judge Benjamin W. Alling of New Britain, attorney general-elect, and Representative Ernest L. Averill of Branford. They are members of a committee appointed by the 1925 legislature to consider revision of the joint rules in the light of suggestions made by Governor Trumbull at the 1925 McKinley association dinner.

Creation of a joint standing committee on motor vehicle legislation may be recommended to replace one of the abolished committees. The growing importance of aviation may be recognized by the recommendation that a committee be created to handle the legislation on this subject, it has been said. It is generally considered necessary to have the present number of joint committees, in order to provide committee assignments for all members, this being the chief argument used in 1925 for the rejection of a bill to abolish four committees to which no legislation had been referred.

Procedure has been for all bills concerning motor vehicles and aviation to be refefred to the committee on roads, bridges and rivers for consideration. This committee is also charged with passing upon legislation for state highways and the state highway department.

It is not expected that recommendations will be made designed to carry out the proposal of Governor Trumbull for what in effect would be annual sessions of the legislature.

The governor in his McKinley association address pointed out that many members of the legislature as well as other state officials, were often unfamiliar with subjects officially brought before them. He proposed that after convening in January of the odd numbered years, the legislature remain in session only for introduction of bills and for adopting emergency legislation, and then adjourn for nine months or a year.

A constitutional amendment would be necessary, it is claimed, to carry out the recommendation of the governor, as the 35th amendment to the constitution provides that the legislature must adjourn without date not later than the first Wednesday after the first Monday in June of the session year.

LAWRENCE WILL SUSTAINED IN $100,000 ESTATE

"A decree may be entered admitting the will to probate," said Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court here Tuesday morning after a brief hearing in the case of Olga McKenna of Lynn, Mass., who appealed from the New London probate court against Samuel Marcus, a member of the New York bar, and executor of the estate of Lydia Lawrence, late of Jerome court, New London. The estate, according to counsel, will approximate $100,000.

Counsel in the matter stated that by stipulation a settlement had been effected out of court in favor of Mrs. McKenna, who contested her sister's will on the grounds that the latter was unduly influenced by Henry Lewis of Philadelphia, one of the chief beneficiaries under the terms of the will, and that it was not her last will and testament.

The case was withdrawn from the jury by stipulation of counsel and the brief hearing was held before Judge Brown. Two witnesses, Judge Arthur B. Calkins and Attorney Marcus, testified in regard to the signatures affixed to the will.

Attorney George Curtis Morgan and Attorney Jacobs of Lynn, Mass., appeared for Mrs. McKenna, while Attorney Arthur T. Keefe was counsel for Marcus.

OSBORN PROPOSES LICENSING HOSPITALS IN STATE

A state-wide system of licensing hospitals is recommended by Commissioner of Health Stanley H. Osborn in his annual report, made public Monday. Other recommendations in the report ask for the appropriation of funds for the expansion of the department's work, particularly in the fields of occupational diseases and public health work.

The licensing of hospitals would admittedly be a further blow at the activities of the eclectic doctors whose licenses have been revoked, inasmuch as at least two of them have been known to be operating private hospitals.

In addition to these hospitals are an increasing number of others operated by persons with a meagre knowledge of medicine, according to Dr. Osborn, who points out that the licensing of all hospitals under a definite set of regulations is necessary for the protection of the public. At present only tuberculosis hospitals, maternity hospitals and hospitals for the care of the insane are under any sort of state supervision.

Pointing out that occupational diseases are a definite phase of the health problems of the state, the report recommends the appropriation of funds to enable the department to reduce the prevalence of such diseases.

The fact that Connecticut is an industrial state and owes much of its prosperity to industry is said to make it "right and proper that a physician trained in industrial hygiene should be employed to care for the inclusive demands."

The bill to provide public health nursing service for the smaller communities, which was defeated in the general assembly in 1925, will be introduced again during the coming session if one of the recommendations of the report is followed.

JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

Found guilty of having liquor with intent to sell, William Roderick, a resident of Talman street, was fined $200 and costs and given 30 days in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby, at the Tuesday morning session of the city court. He was arrested Monday by Officer William Sharvan who found him carrying two gallons of alcohol in a handbag at the corner of Market and Water streets.

Daniel Morgan, 21, colored of Hempstead, L. I., was in court on a charge of striking Mrs. Mable Gurley at the home of Mrs. Peccia Thompson on the West Side. He was given a $10 fine, suspended for six months.

Arthur H. Lane, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base and whose home is on Yantic street, was fined $25 and costs for operating an automobile without a license. He was also charged with driving a stolen automobile but this charge was dropped as the owner of the machine, a Bridgeport man, did not wish to prosecute. The commander of the submarine on which Lane is stationed and the Bridgeport owner of the machine stated that they did not believe that Lane had anything to do with the theft of the machine.

A Mechanicsville man, arrested for intoxication Monday afternoon and taken to police headquarters in a passing hearse, as the patrol wagon was not available, was fined $5 and costs.

Several delinquent taxpayers were ordered to pay their taxes and each fined $5.

ALL MANCHESTER SOLDIERS DEFENDANTS IN SUIT

All the ex-soldiers in Manchester have been sued for $10,000 damages by Albert Lennon of that town for a shot in the leg while he was playing in a band furnishing music for a parade of theirs, May 15. As a member of the Silk City band he was playing a martial air, to the accompaniment of a discharge of firearms, he said in his suit in the superior court, when he was suddenly disabled by a bullet in the left leg. The person who fired it is not named, but he has named as defendants the Hartford County Voiture of La Societe Nationale des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux; Dilworth-Cornell post, No. 102, American Legion; Carroll Chartier, Walter Sheridan and Louis Fleisher.

DEM. TAX REDUCTION BILL PRESENTED TO CONGRESS

Representative Garner Placed Before the House a Measure Calling For Tax Cut of $335,000,000—Bill Has Been Endorsed by Democrats in Both House and Senate—Proposes a Reduction of the Corporation Tax From 13½ to 10 Per Cent and Repeal of the Automobile, Amusement, Club Dues and Produce Stamp Taxes—The Proposal Will Face a Hostile Republican Majority.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP) — The $336,000,000 democratic tax reduction bill was presented to congress today without a word of comment from the floor by its sponsor, Representative Garner of Texas. It was referred to the ways and means committee, on which he is the ranking minority member.

Endorsed by democrats in both house and senate, the measure proposes reduction of the corporation tax from 13 1-2 to 11 per cent, and repeal of the automobile, amusement, club dues and produce stamp taxes.

Facing a hard legislative journey, it is confronted by a hostile republican majority. President Coolidge has come out in opposition to permanent tax reduction bill at this time, while Chairman Green of the ways and means committee today announced he would oppose it.

Although Garner refrained from discussing his bill on the floor he estimated in a statement that the treasury surplus at the end of this fiscal year would be at least $500,000,000, more than $100,000,000 above President Coolidge's expectations.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, the democratic tax spokesman in the senate, said in a statement that Garner's argument in support of his bill was "very sound" but he announced that if it should reach the senate he would oppose amendments further reducing the rates on small individual incomes and a "slight" reduction in tobacco taxes. He estimated his amendments would cut $20,000,000 from small individual incomes and $15,000,000 from tobacco taxes.

In the house today the revenue question was touched on during debate on a supply bill by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee, who asserted he was in favor of the president's proposal for a tax credit and also a tax reduction measure. He indicated, however, he would not support the democratic proposal.

Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, said he thought the treasury surplus should be applied to reduction of the public debt.

As members of the house took stock today of the situation, there was an apparent feeling that the president's plan for a tax credit could not muster a majority in both houses, and this led a number of house ways and means committee members to predict there probably would be no tax legislation at this session.

If a deadlock should develop and all tax proposals are buried it was pointed out that existing laws provide for application of the treasury surplus to reduction of the public debt.

Besides the democratic bill, the house received another tax measure. It would eliminate a $5 tax which the present revenue law will impose on American Legion members who attend the Paris convention next year.

Representative Bacharach, republican, New Jersey, sponsored the bill at the request of the legion.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The house today received the first of the annual appropriation bills—that for the treasury and post office department—but after an hour's discussion adjourned before a threatened fight over prohibition could reach the floor.

Rumblings of the impending battle, however, entered the chamber with the committee report, disclosing that prohibition was the cause of a split in the appropriations committee that prevented a unanimous report—a rarity in supply bill history.

The bill, which will provide $755,483,000 for the postal service and $187,371,000 for the treasury, including $11,990,000 for the prohibition unit, came out of the committee with the opposition of three members who refused to concur in the enforcement appropriation. These are Representatives Gallivan, of Massachusetts and Cullen and Griffin, of New York, democrats, who objected also to the proposed appropriation of $16,349,000 for the coast guard's dry law activities.

Two other members of the committee, Representatives Vare of Pennsylvania, and Tinkham, of Massachusetts, republicans, reserved the right to vote against certain prohibition provisions.

The request of Assistant Secretary Andrews for permission to increase to $500,000 the present $250,000 fund for expenses of "under cover" agents bore the brunt of Representative Gallivan's attack. He plans to carry his opposition to the floor when consideration of the bill is resumed probably Friday.

Beer and wine were coupled with farm relief in a measure offered today by Representative Black, democrat, New York, which would create a federal alcoholic liquor board in the department of agriculture. Farm organizations would be permitted to sell beer and wine, the revenue to be used for farm relief purposes.

Denby Testifies in Fall-Doh[illegible] Case

Former [illegible]ry Said He Had [illegible]termined the Oil Land Leasing Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Edwin Denby, who was secretary of the navy until he was swept from the cabinet by the oil revelations of 1924, emerged from his retirement today to defend again his official record under the fire of a merciless prosecutor on the stand as a defense witness in the Fall-Doheny oil conspiracy trial here, the former cabinet officer told the jury he accepted full responsibility for the navy's part in the 1923 leasing program, and personally approved the leases and contracts given Edward L. Doheny's corporations while Albert B. Fall was secretary of the interior.

Then, under a pummelling attack by Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts, he stuck to his story in the face of several excerpts from the senate record revealing answers differing in important details from those given in his direct examination today.

He explained he had been afforded no opportunity to review officials records before his senate testimony in October, 1928, but had refreshed his memory on many points since that time.

Mr. Denby said he personally suggested to President Harding, early in 1921, that the naval reserves be transferred to the jurisdiction of the interior department, of which Fall then was secretary.

He said the leasing policy had been determined upon by himself after he had been convinced by subordinates that drainage of the public domains through nearby private wells made such action urgent, and that this suggestion had come to him from naval officers, rather than from the interior department or oil company officials.

Denby told the jury he had never seen Edward L. Doheny until the Elk Hills lease was signed Dec. 11, 1922, and that he could not recall Doheny's name having been mentioned in departmental conferences until he was called upon to approve the award, in April, 1922, of the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage contract to Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

Convicts Appear in the Superior Court

Two For Attempting to Escape—Third For Attempting to Set Fire to Laundry.

HARTFORD, Dec. 8—(AP)—Three convicts from the state prison at Wethersfield donned civilian attire and had a holiday in the superior court today. Judge Edwin C. Dickenson was their host and State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn was master of ceremonies.

Mr. Alcorn introduced the convicts, Charles Dansereau and Walter H. Knowles, as two men who had escaped from the confines of the prison August 7. He introduced Eugene La Flamme, the third convict, as one who had attempted to set fire to a pile of shirts in the prison factory June 19.

All complied with the ritual of the court. Knowles, in a salt and pepper suit, raised his right hand high above his head and looked up at the judge with a troubled stare.

"I plead guilty to escape and lay myself on the mercy of the court," said Knowles.

Dansereau, in a darker salt and pepper suit was as obstinate as his bristled close-cropped head warned he would be.

"I plead guilty to a breach of trust," said Dansereau, "and that's all."

This was not according to ceremony or Mr Hoyle. Mr. Alcorn asked Gurdon W. Gordon, of Springfield, who had been announced as counsel for the men, if he had instructed Dansereau to make that plea.

"I thought I represented Dansereau, but I find I don't," said Mr. Gordon.

The Springfield lawyer had seen both convicts in the basement cell before court.

Public Defender John F. Forward was then assigned by the court to represent Dansereau. In colloquies audible within twenty feet, Dansereau refused to plead guilty to escaping from the prison.

"I was trusted out on the farm," said Dansereau. "And I only committed a breach of trust when I walked off it."

The two convicts were told to take a back seat for a moment while counsel and client came to an agreement.

Meantime, La Flamme, a short sullen fellow with a wad of gum in his mouth, came forward to answer the charge against him.

"I refuse to make any plea," he said, "until I can get legal advice."

"Can you provide counsel?" asked Mr. Alcorn.

"I can provide it if I can get to my folks in New Britain. If I can't, I will take the public defender."

That concluded their visit. After they were gone, Mr. Alcorn said La Flamme had expressed a desire to have Morris Saxe, of New Britain to defend him and that the convict would be in court tomorrow to plead.

The state's attorney also told his plans for the other convicts. Dansereau will be tried before the jury Tuesday and will be defended by Mr. Forward. After the trial Knowles will be sentenced with Dansereau, should the latter be found guilty.

FISCAL YEAR GOV'T BUDGET; REPORT OF U. S. TREASURY

The Budget Calls For $4,014,571,124, or $16,543,728 More Than Allotted For the Current Year—$73,477,380 is Proposed For Aviation in the Army and Navy—U. S. Treasury Reports a Surplus of $383,079,095 in Sight For This Fiscal Year Ending June 30, and $200,703,863 For the Following Year.

(Tabulated summaries of the federal budget and the U. S. treasury report are printed on Page 9.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The government's budget for the next fiscal year, calling for appropriation of $4,014,571,124 or $16,543,728 more than is allotted for the current year, was submitted to congress today by President Coolidge.

The Civil and Spanish war pension voted last session, together with increases in the cost of operating the postal service and the veterans bureau account principally for the higher budget, more than offsetting heavy reductions in expenses of other branches of the government. The largest of these reductions—$30,000,000—was the interest on the public debt.

The 1928 fiscal year outlay provides for inauguration of five-year aviation programs in the army and navy, with a total of $574,000,000 for national defense; and the maintenance of prohibition enforcement at a total cost of nearly $20,000,000.

Of the $73,477,380 proposed for aviation in the army and navy $20,600,000 is for new planes and $2,400,000 for construction of barracks and quarters. The total appropriations of $630,537,642 for the war and navy departments makes provisions for military and naval strength of 610,000 men, including reserves. The navy budget including $4,000,000 carried over from last year is $317,815,500 or $9,246,475 less than this year and the war department estimate is $366,722,142, or $11,251,340 more than for this year.

The coast guard, receives increases totaling more than $2,500,000 for new vessels and for general expenses. The treasury estimate does not include the $20,000,000 which the administration expects to spend during the year for public buildings throughout the country.

Decreases also are shown in the totals for the state and labor departments, but they are due to the fact that last year special appropriations were made for both of these departments $5,000,000 to the state department for the final payment under the Colombian treaty, and $1,000,000 to the labor department for maternity and infancy welfare work. Neither of these items will be repeated in the 1928 budget.

The largest increases are $32,755,278 for the interior department to cover the higher pension payments authorized last session; $19,168,812 for the post office department, to pay additional salaries and provide for additional facilities to handle the increased volume of mail; and $11,251,340 for the war department, the bulk of which will be spent on aviation and new barracks. The interior department appropriation also includes a $5,000,000 increase for reclamation and the war department allotment includes $66,347,600, about the same as last year, for river and harbor work.

The agriculture department receives an increase of $4,551,997, of which $2,500,000 goes to meet the increasing cost of the continuing program of forest road construction. The amount set aside for endowment of agricultural experiment stations under the Purnell act is increased $480,000 of which $10,000 goes to each state. The allotment for eradication of tuberculosis in animals is increased from $4,653,000 to $5,553,000 and there is an increase from $710,000 to $1,000,000 for cooperation with the states in forest fire protection under the Clarke-McNary act.

A $4,607,553 increase for the department of commerce is largely devoted to the work of promoting commercial aviation under the new law. The allotment for air navigation facilities jumps from $800,000 for the current year to $3,219,500 for next year. The bureaus of foreign and domestic commerce, census, standards and fisheries, the patent office, and the lighthouse service also receive smaller increases.

REPORT OF CONDITION OF THE U. S. TREASURY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—President Coolidge revealed to congress an almost unprecedented prosperous condition of the treasury in his annual budget message today, but he again emphatically declared against any permanent reduction in tax rates at present.

A surplus of $383,079,095 is in sight for this fiscal year, ending June 30 and $200,703,863 for the following year. This year's surplus is $200,000,000 more than was originally estimated and despite the cut in tax rates of last March will exceed the margin of last year by $6,000,000.

But not until there has been another year's test of the new revenue law, and a sounding of the extent of the present prosperity, the president said, can it be determined "what our permanent policy of taxation shall be."

FOUR PLEADED NOT GUILTY IN LOTTERY INDICTMENTS

BOSON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The arraignment of four men here today in federal court left only four more to plead to the government's charge of conspiring to make interstate shipments of lottery tickets. All of the 83 arraigned have pleaded not guilty and bail has been fixed at from $1,000 to $5,000 each.

Those who appeared today were John Conway of Adams, George Scarbo of North Adams, Charles Metapolitis and John Fenton, of Springfield. Two of the remaining four were said to be residents of Springfield, one of Rensselaer, N. Y., and one of Pittsfield.

Although the department of justice had only within a fortnight obtained indictments against 36 men charged with affiliation with the Hudson gambling pool, the internal revenue department has long been cognizant of its operations, one of the defendants declared today.

He asserted that the records of the pool would show that it had furnished names of winners and amounts won to the internal revenue for the collection of income taxes.

STORIES OF WEST FEATURE CRABTREE WILL CONTEST

BOSTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Grim stories of the old west continued to add a dramatic touch today to the hearing in Suffolk probate court, where Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Cal., is seeking to prove relationship to the late Lotta Crabtree that she may share in the former actress' $4,000,000 estate.

For five days counsel for Mrs. Cockburn have been weaving together the story of her life as contained in a score of depositions bearing witness that she was the daughter of John A. Crabtree, brother of Lotta, and was born in Tombstone, Ariz.

Additional depositions were offered today and in them were more tales of frontier life. There was one from Horace Stillman, a deputy sheriff at Brisbane during the eighties, wo said there were many stage hold-ups and robberies in those days as well as frequent Indian raids. He recalled that the Wells-Fargo Express company lost between $12,000 and $13,000 in one robbery.

MOTORIST KILLED WHEN AUTO HIT TROLLER CAR

STMFORD, Dec. 8.—(AP)—William Baird, 33, of Norwalk, was almost instantly killed and his companion, Louis Bender, of Westport, was injured when the automobile driven by Baird crashed head-on into a trolley car of the Stamford-Norkalk line on a straight stretch in Noroton, in the town of Darien, tonight.

After hitting the trolley car Baird's automobile bounced off and hit another automobile without causing much damage. Baird was taken to the Stamford hospital in the car of a passing motorist, but was dead when he reached the hospital.

TWO EARTH TREMORS FELT IN IMPERIAL VALLEY, CAL.

EL CENTRO, Cal., Dec. 8—(AP)—Two earthquake shocks occurred here at 4.10 and 4.20 this afternoon. The shocks were felt through the Imperial valley and seemed to be more severe south of here. No damage was reported.

CONVENTION OF LUMBER DEALERS' ASSOCIATION

WATERBURY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Harold E. Thompson, Watertown lumber dealer, was elected president of the Lumber Dealers' Association of Connecticut at the annual meeting of the organization at the Elton hotel this afternoon. The occasion was the annual convention of the association. Three hundred retail dealers and a number of wholesalers, as well as representatives of the Northeastern Lumber Dealers' association, comprisong the northeastern states, were present. Mr. Thompson will hold office until the next annual convention.

The afternoon business session started at 2 o'clock. Paul Collier, secretary and manager of the Northeastern Lumber Dealers' association, of Rochester, N. Y., addressed the dealers.

The annual banquet which was attended by more than 300, took place in the main dining room of the Elton at 7 o'clock.

LIGHTNING STARTED FIRE ON CAL. OIL TANK FARM

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8—(AP)—Fire started by lightning this afternoon on the Union Oil company's tank farm at Brea, Calif., was extinguished after small damage had been done, officials of the company announced here. Chemicals floated on the surface of a large tank which caught fire smothered the flames.

Damage was confined to the roof of the tank.

The tank farm comprises about sixty acres and includes one crude oil reservoir with a capacity of 1,000,000 barrels and two others of 750,000 barrels each, besides 25 surface tanks of 55,000 barrels capacity each.

The farm was struck by lightning last April with a resulting loss by fire of millions of dollars.

SCHOONER DAMAGED IN COLLISION OFF CAPE COD

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The British schooner May G. McKean, Nova Scotia for New York suffered heavy damage early today when the vessel was in collision off Cape Cod with the Boston schooner Velma L. Hamlin, Bras D'or Lakes for New York. The schooners came together in thick weather off Chatham.

The McKean was picked up by a coast guard patrol boat which towed her to Vineyard Haven. She had lost her mizzen mast and was kept afloat by means of her pumps.

The Boston vessel lost her head gear and foretopmast. She was anchored tonight five miles east of Chatham.

WOOLWORTH CO. 50 PER CENT STOCK DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—The F. W. Woolworth company which started with one store in Lancaster, Pa., in 1879 doing an annual business of $6,750 and grew into the world's largest chain of five and ten cent stores doing a yearly business of over $250,000,000 in this country alone, today cut a $32,500,000 "melon" or stockholders by declaring a 50 per cent stock dividend. The company is capitalized at $100,000,000 with only $65,000,000 stock outstanding, so that no increase in capitalization will be necessary. The dividend is payable February 1 to stockholders of record January 10.

GATHERING OF SPORTSMEN OF WESTERN CONNECTICUT

DANBURY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Three hundred sportsmen from western Connecticut gathered here tonight for the anual dinner of the Western Connecticut Game Protective association, and heard state and county officials discuss game conservation matters, some of which will probably come before the 1927 legislature for action.

The speakers included Frederick C. Wollcott, of Norwalk, president, and John W. Titcomb, of Hartford, superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game. The gathering was the largest of its kind ever held in this section.

INSURGENT HOUSE LEADER MAY BE REINSTATED TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8—It is practically certain that the republican house committee on committees will tomorrow fill the vacancy of chairman of invalid pensions by a "welcome back" assignment of that chairmanship to Insurgent House Leader John M. Nelson of Wisconsin. This is the first move towards carrying out the Coolidge policy of party harmony and is largely due to the tact and influence of Republican Floor Leader John Tilson of Connecticut and is fully in accord with the views of the president.

WIFE OF SLAIN DETECTIVE RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 8—(AP)—Luther Bishop, state detective, who was shot and killed last Sunday as he lay asleep in his home here, met death "at the hands of persons unknown," a coroner's jury held late today.

Mrs. Edith Bishop, his widow, was released from custody. J. W. Wright, county prosecutor, declared that no charges would be filed against her.

NAVY CROSS AWARDED LIEUT. HILYER F. GEARING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—The navy cross has been awarded Lieutenant Hilyer F. Gearing, for heroism during the explosion aboard the submarine S-48 at New London, Conn., last April, four men were killed.

Gearing directed the work of rescue, entering the exploded battery compartment and remaining until during wreckage was torn away and three injured comrades removed.

"His nerve and undaunted courage," President Coolidge's citation says, "were an inspiration to the others in the rescue work."

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT FACES CALM SESSION

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—After two of the stormiest years in its history, the Canadian parliament will open tomorrow for what is expected to be a comparatively calm and uneventful session. The MacKenzie-making government, after a temporary eclipse, is back in power and can be reasonably certain of a safe majority on almost any vote which can be brought on in the house of commons.

The opening of the 16th parliament since confederation, will be performed with all the usual pomp by a new governor-general, Viscount Willingdon, who as Freeman Freeman-Thomas was atne time a whip of the liberal party at Westminister. He succeeds Baron Byng of Vimy as governor-general. Rodolphe Lemieux, who has been speaker for five years, will probably be re-elected tothe chair.

Debate on the speech from the throne which will be read Friday and the legislation it foreshadows is expected to be brief this year. There is talk of finishing it, by the co-operation of all parties in the house, in one day. Much of the money required for the public services remains to be voted because of the defeat within a week of two governments at the end of last session and the consequent abrupt dissolution of parliament prior to the general election.

CLEMENCEAU WEEPS AT THE FUNERAL OF ARTIST MONET

GIVERNY, France, Dec. 8.—(AP)—With tears streaming down his age wrinkled face, Georges Clemenceau, France's wartime premier, today trudged behind the body of his life long friend, the famous impressionist painter, Claude Monet, as it was borne to its last resting place.

The "Tiger" who rarely gives the public display of grief appeared tired and heart sick as he walked half the distance to the cemetery and then trembling with emotion permitted friends to persuade him to finish the trip in an automobile.

The former premier was at the tail end of the procession of mourners which followed the simple casket covered with violet cretonne, that contained the body of the noted French artist. Two wooden shoed peasant friends of the painted, who rose from poverty and obscurity to international fame, hauled the casket on a two wheeled pushcart.

STEAMERS FORCED TO PUT INTO ST. JOHN'S FOR FUEL

ST. JOHN's, N. F., Dec. 8—(AP)—The steamers Hilgien from Boulogne to Boston, the Adelina from Barrow-in-Furness for Hampton Roads, and the Dutch steamer Stolwijk were forced to put into this port today for fuel. Stormy weather since the first of the month exhausted their supply.

The Stolwijk tried without success today to take in tow the Hillcroft, sister ship of the Hilgien, which has been drifting without fuel since Sunday, about 40 miles off Newfoundland.

G. N. SANDERS CHARGED WITH LARCENY OF $92,000

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 8.—(AP)—George N. Sanders, former treasurer of the foreign missions board of the Southern Baptist convention, was arrested today on a warrant charging th elarceny of $92,000 from the board's funds.

THREE TUGS BREAK UP ICE BLOCKADE IN GREAT LAKES

SAULTE STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 8—(AP)—Three powerful little tugs and the giant car ferry Sainte Marie brought the greatest ice blockade in the history of Great Lakes navigation virtually to an end today.

While the big railroad ferry was smashing into the ice barrier, the tugs hauling ahead and swinging from side to side, yanked the steamer General Garretson out of its mooring in West Neebish channel and opened the way for the movement down of the fleet of grain carriers that since December 1, had been caught in a jam of ice that closed the "bottleneck" of lake navigation routes.

With the deliverance yesterday of the steamer Coulee at the head of a string of more than 100 downbound grain carriers the General Garretson became the "key log" of the jam. Lying at an angle across the West Neebish channel, the Garretson blocked the path of the grain flotilla stretching out for 20 miles astern toward Sault Ste Marie. When the tugs "lifted" the Garretson out this afternoon they towed her into open water and soon she was proceeding to Lime island under her own power.

The end of the blockade started yesterday when milder weather favored the rescue efforts and a fleet of upbound coal carriers was liberated.

TESTIFY DRY AGENT SERVED INTOXICANTS AT DINNER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8—(AP)—Col. Ed. M. Green, deposed federal prohibition administrator for northern California and Nevada on trial in the United States district court here on a charge of having embezzled confiscated liquor, served intoxicants at two dinners in his hotel apartment, it was testified today by Col. Sam I. Johnson, former assistant prohibition enforcement official.

Appearing as a government witness, Colonel Johnson testified that the first party he had attended in Colonel Green's hotel apartment several months ago five others were present.

"Who were they?" asked Theodore Roche, deense attorney.

"My son Ivan, Colonel Green, Colonel J. L. Dodge, local business man and two women," replied Colonel Johnson.

Johnson protested against revealing the identity of the women. He was overruled however, and said:

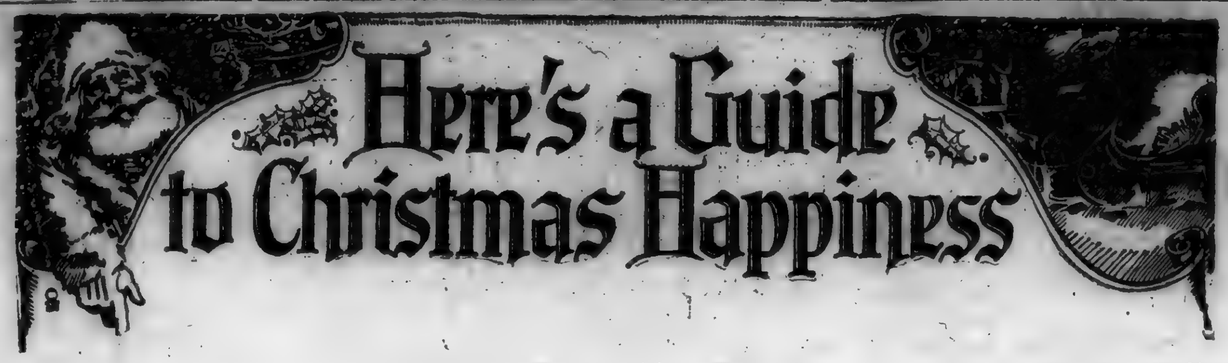
"The women were Mrs. Dodge, wife of Colonel Dodge, and a Miss Fannie Griffith of Palo Alto."

Colonel Johnson said the guests at the other party he attended in Colonel Green's apartment at which liquor was served were a "Mrs. Hill" of Los Angeles and an eastern newspaperman, and his wife. He said he had forgotten the name of the couple.

FERDINAND UNDERGOES A SECOND OPERATION

BUCHAREST, Dec. 8.—(AP)—King Ferdinand was again in the hands of the surgeons today. He underwent another minor operation—the first was on Monday—and a silver tube was set in place for drainage of the large intestine.

About the time the surgeons were operating on the king at Cotrochini palace, the Palace Royal in the center of the city was in flames, with the courtyard heaped with great quantities of Louix XV furniture. When informed of the palace, Ferdinand remarked fervently: "God's will be done."



Merry Christmas!

Let us carol it aloud, in our homes, in our workrooms, on our highways

IN YE OLDEN DAYS PEOPLE WENT FORTH ON THE HIGHWAYS AND SHOUTED MERRIE CHRISTMAS TO ALL WHO MIGHT HEAR. THEY AROSE EARLY AND BROKE THE STILLNESS OF THE WINTER'S MORN WITH GLORIOUS CHRISTMAS CAROLS AND, THROUGH THE ECSTACY OF SINGING, BROUGHT CHRISTMAS CHEER INTO THEIR LIVES AND THOSE OF THEIR NEIGHBORS.

Today we give thanks, not by singing alone, but by GIVING. The custom of our day is different, but the spirit of worship and happiness still remains. Today we not only sing for joy, but we also share our happiness with others through a generous distribution of gifts. No joy is greater than that shared with our loved ones and with others less fortunate than ourselves.

SO LET US BE GENEROUS, AND LET US BE JOYFUL!

Generosity and joy must be timely in order to be fully appreciated. The most truthful and timely slogan ever conceived is, "Eventually, why not now?"

MOVING HOUSES FROM SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 9—Two double tenement houses of sturdy construction are being removed from the former Dondero property on Valley street, which has been purchased by the state of Connecticut as the site of the new $300,000 First district grammar school, to Tingley street and a third single tenement house is being moved to the corner of Tingley and Prospect streets. The three buildings as well as six others, making a total capacity of 13 tenements, have been purchased with the land by the state. The three houses being moved were in turn purchad by Oliver L. Willard of this city. Frank Davis of Danielson is engaged in removing the structures. One of the buildings has already been raised from the foundation and with the temporary removal of the overhead cable wires by the Southern New England Telephone company the house will start on its journey to a new location. Four of the other six buildings which the state must dispose of are cottages on Valley and High streets.

Mrs. Elizabeth Vargas of West Ashford was arraigned in the Ashford town court Tuesday night charged with having a slain deer in her possession and of possessing firearms contrary to the law affecting aliens. Deputy Game Warden John Brecica of Warrenville made the arrest on a complaint sent to him from the state board of fisheries and game. The woman pleaded not guilty to killing or possessing the deer but she admitted owning the gun which she said was an old fashioned rifle which had been in the family for 30 years Mrs. Vargas said that she was a widow and she kept the gun for protection. Justice of the Peace E. E. Bickness imposed a fine of one dollar and costs for possessing the gun and found Mrs. Vargas not guilty of killing the deer. The woman paid an assessment of $12.32. Grand Juror Otto Hattin prosecuted the case.

Mrs. Vargas was the second Ashford resident made defendant in a drive against the slaughtering of deer. A short time ago Mike Charka of Ashford was fined a total of $29.47 for illegally possessing a firearm under the alien law. He was found not guilty of another charge of killing a deer.

Mrs. Harry H. Burnham of Newtonville, Mass., gave an interesting talk on Poetry and Dishwashing at a meeting of the Woman's club held Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Frederick R. Noble, president, in charge. It was voted to pay the bill for one month at the Model school, for milk furnished to undernourished children. A collection was taken in response to an appeal to assist the decorating committee of the Allentown hospital for ex-service men. Leroy Webster rendered two pleasing piano solos. Mrs. Carl R. Alford introduced the speaker. Mrs. Burnham who is chairman of the division of homemaking in the general federation opened her talk with an outline of the department of the American home in the general federation. There are four divisions: Home, economics, home extension service, family finance and home-making. Mrs. Burnham added color to her talk by illustrating her various points with poems.

MAYOR TRACY'S RULING WAS TO CUT DOWN EXPENSE

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 9—Rumors that Mayor John C. Tracy has given orders not to have the high snow banks removed from both sides of Main street were run to earth Wednesday when street employes working under Street Superintendent Irvin M. Ford got busy on the south side of the street during the day after having cleared the narrower thoroughfares of Church, Union and North streets. With the removal of the trolley the piles of snow on Main street do not materially interfere with traffic or parking and for this reason Mayor Tracy did not sanction a suggestion that extra men and trucks be hired to clean the street. It is probable that it was from this denial that the above mentioned rumor got its source. The city fathers and tax-payers join in the hope that snowstorms of the type just experienced will not be frequent as the snow-removal appropriation is for only $3,000 which will barely be adequate under ordinary favorable weather.

Daniel Moriarty, aged about 59 died at his home in West Ashford Tuesday night. He had been a resident of that town for the past four years. The deceased, who leaves no known relatives, was well known in this city.

Anson J. Olds of 170 High street, widely known rural mail carrier, who has broken through country roads chocked by storms and otherwise driven an automobile under all kinds of hazardous conditions broke his excellent record of never having had an accident in many years of driving Wednesday morning when his automobile skidded on the snow as he tried to stop and struck one of the gates at the New Haven railroad crossing at the intersection of Jackson and Union streets.

A substantial amount for the purchase of kitchen utensils to be used in the new quarters in the Masonic building was netted at an entertainment and whist held under the auspices of Radiant chapter No. 11, O. E. S. at the Woman's club rooms Tuesday night Twenty-four tables were in play. Mrs. Charles Rice of Andover favored with readings and musical selections. Mrs. Fred L. Avery was chairman of the arrangements committee.

Benjamin Blumenthal of Hartford, who was connected with the stock sales force for the Capitol Theatre corporation leaves for New York this week to remain until December 16 when he sails on the S. S. Reliance for the West Indies on a pleasure trip, of several weeks.

Summit and Windham streets have been designated by Mayor Tracy for coasting purposes and police protection is being provided from 4 to 5:30 p. m. daily. Hundreds of young people enjoy the coasting under ideal conditions Tuesday evening.

Santa Claus arrived here on a reindeer special from his polar domains Wednesday and immediately struck up a friendship with groups of youthful admirers who told him of their many Christmas desires as they followed Old Kris in a miniature parade along the street. Genial Santa did not overlook the grown-ups and he strode into the stores to bid proprietors, clerks and customers alike a hearty Christmas cheer.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Bose who are motoring to Florida with Joseph LeFleur write that their trip has been an excellent one and at the time of writing they were nearing Ankonah.

Arthur W. Gates returned here Wednesday morning from Charlotte, N. C., where he attended a meeting of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists.

Miss W. L. Crane was hostess at a successful whist and Christmas sale held at the Windham Girls' club rooms this week Mrs. Crane was assisted by Miss Mildred Moulton and Miss Alice Peterson.

Rev. Mother Geraldine, head of St. Joseph's Hospital Training School for Nurses has received notification that Miss Josephine Squires, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Squires of 31 High street, has successfully passed the examinations of the state board of examination and registration of nurses. Miss Squires is now entered as a registered nurse.

Nine gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish a chimney fire in the business block owned by Jacob Cohen at 756 Main street, Tuesday night. The blaze was confined to the second and third floors No damage was done.

Engine company No. 1 was called out Wednesday afternoon to attend to a troublesome chimney in the residence at 33 Summit street owned by Miss Helen Martin and occupied by Raphael Doiron and family. No chemicals were used.

Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher was in New London on business Wednesday.

NOANK

When the workmen at the shipyard were putting on their overalls Tuesday morning for the day's work, someone smelled smoke. From under the shop a large blaze was coming out and about 25 men with hose from the yard worked over two hours before the fire was put out. Chips have been accumulating under there for the past 50 years, and it is claimed that the blacksmith forges got hot Monday, some sparks flew under the building and started the fire which was burning all night. The smoke and flame were seen early the next morning. The Fire Co. was told to keep around and be ready in case the fire got away from the workmen, but they were not needed. Ten men stayed at the fireroom for two hours. The water would freeze and it was hard to fight the fire. Chief Park went down and investigated and made a report that the men had done good work.

John Robertson has returned to his home in the village after spending a month in Gildersleeve, Conn.

The trucks that left the village during the snow storms did not reach New York with their 100 barrels of fish until 7:30 o'clock Monday morning, taking nearly 14 hours and a half. At one place they had to get out and shovel for over one hour for the snow was 18 inches deep. The drivers said it was the worst storm they had ever been out in and they would sure be glad to get back to Noank and have a good rest. The fish got in on time for the morning prices, which are high.

Frank McDonald has returned from a visit of a month in Middletown.

Mavin Porter, a Noank boy who is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Porter has just come from the west coast. He has been in Portland, Oregon, Frisco and St. Louis and Minnesota and then back to Long Island, then to the village of Noank. He has been gone about a year. It is his hobby to see the world and he has been on a tug boat in those places as mate and on different jobs, or he was working his way to the [illegible] coast.

Grist Hill was busy with young and old enjoying the coasting about 100 being on the hill, some with double runners. Tuesday evening until midnight. One accident was reported when the ripper with 20 girls and young men on it and with Walter Wells steering hit a pole at the foot of the hill. Wells sprained his ankle and will be laid up for a day; the rest landed in a snow bank with out getting hurt.

William Franklin is in Baltonville, Conn., on a visit for a few days.

Howard Brown is the champion duck hunter of the village. He went out Tuesday, near Palmer cove, and brought home the largest number of any one this season. Mr. Brown claims a duck has no show with him, when he pulls the trigger. He got 35 ducks, 15 black ducks, 6 broad-bills and 4 shell-drakes. It was a good day for ducks, as it was cold and the game came in to feed.

Sam Main has gone to Miami, Fla., for the winter. He left Wednesday by train and expects to take care of a rich man's place in that city. Some of his friends gave him a watch chain, at a party held in his honor recently. Mr. Main was caretaker of a large place in the village for a long time.

Lewis Main of New York has spent a day at his home here.

Freeman Rogers has returned from a visit at Spring Hill, with relatives.

The pupils at the local school were dismissed at noon for the day on account of the teachers' meeting at the school house Tuesday. Teachers from Groton, Mystic, New London, Old Mystic, about 60 in all, attended. After business there was a social hour. Sandwiches, cake, cookies and coffee were served.

Edwin Babcock of Groton Long Point is spending a few days in Plainfield with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Babcock.

William Davis has returned from a visit at his home in Hartford.

Rolin Rathbun is visiting in Daysville for a few days.

Frank Muse has returned from a fishing trip around Block Island on his uncle's boat Jennie D. With Capt. Ed. Mahoney at the wheel they brought in eight barrels of flatfish.

Arthur McDonald was in Old Lyme for a day this week.

Paul Sullivan has returned from a visit at Hope Valley.

P. Crumb has secured work as painter for the Sea Sled company at West Mystic.

Jake McMahon is spending a week in Lowell, Mass., with relatives.

The Altar chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church at the annual meeting Monday evening elected their officers: Directress, Miss Lucy B. Keilogg; secretary, Miss M. Josephine Dickinson; treasurer, Miss Annie M. Packer. The directors appointed a standing committee to carry on the work of the chapter during the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Chesebro, of 14 Pearl street invited Plus Ultra class of the Old Mystic Baptist church to hold the December meeting with them, Tuesday night. George Robinson, president presided. After roll call, Rev. Frances Witherell conducted the devotional service. The secretary, Amos Gallup read the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. J. A. Lawrence, treasurer, gave her report. After business was transacted, games that required paper and pencil and brain work, were played. The musical game by Mrs. Emily Holmes was especially pleasing and Mrs. Alida Coit was the only one to guess all correctly. After the games sandwiches, cake and coffee were the lunch provided. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Williams, Rev. and Mrs. Francis Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coit, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lawrence and children, Mrs. Addie Staplins, Mrs. Harold Williams, Mrs. Ida Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Abbie Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Victor Grinnell have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Isabel Victoria Grinnell, to Charles Dewar Simons, 3rd of Dongan Hills, Staten Island. Miss Grinnell is a senior at Connecticut college. She is a talented violinist and pianist and very popular here and at the college.

The Baptist church members held a meeting Saturday afternoon to vote as one of the beneficiaries of the estate of Mrs. Henrietta Mathewson, consent to the sale of the cottage in Rhode Island.

The snow which fell Sunday and Monday drifted, but cars passed through without trouble.

Only nine out of the 31 pupils who attend the village school attended sessions Monday.

VOLUNTOWN

Funeral services for John J. Buggy, 73, night watchman at the Briggs Manufacturing plant in this town, who was found dead Sunday morning at the plant, death having been caused by live steam, were held Tuesday at his late home. Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Thomas' church by Rev. Ludovic Paradis, the pastor. Music of the mass was rendered by Mrs. Delice Garand and James Olsen of Jewett City. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery. The bearers were Nathan Bitgood, Floyd Bitgood, Frank McNally and Samuel Ingham.

A checkup at the plant following the finding of Mr. Buggy's body, disclosed that he had made his round at 4 a. m. Just how he met his death will probably never be known, but it is supposed that he had discovered a leaky tube and was making adjustments when overcome.

On Tuesday evening a pleasant entertainment was given in Union hall for the benefit of St. Thomas' church, by a number of young people from Norwich. The program consisted of selections by D'Atri's Wauregan Hotel orchestra, stories by Edward T. Conelly, clog and buck and wing dancing by "Chip" Dugas, songs by Warren Kane, the Metropolitan Glee club and soft shoe dances by Mr. Appleby. Following the entertainment dancing was enjoyed. A committee in charge of Rev. Father Paradis served sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Wednesday morning the Feast of the Immaculate Conception was observed at St. Thomas' church, mass being said by Rev. Father Paradis at 8 o'clock. There was a large attendance.

The community tree box at the village postoffice is receiving the attention of local people and it is expected that sufficient money will be received to bring cheer into many needy homes.

Nathan P. Bitgood has accepted the position as night watchman at the Beachdale mill.

PREVENTING COASTING ACCIDENTS

With a liberal supply of snow it is inevitable that the boys and girls should be getting their full enjoyment of coasting. The desires of youth are not so different in that respect from one generation to another. But while there was a time when highways could be used with a reasonable degree of safety for such purposes, it is not so today. There are increased dangers surrounding it now which cannot be ignored.

Thus early in the season the lives of two small children have been snuffed out in Indian Orchard, Mass., in a coasting accident. Previous to that a child was killed in the streets of Woonsocket and before the season is over the death list from this cause will be longer and more impressive. This will not be because the liability of such accidents is not known, but because of failure to take steps to prevent them.

The motor vehicle registrar of Massachusetts has appealed to the authorities of all cities and towns in that state to deal with this danger and provide safe sliding places, and calls attention to the fact that 36 deaths have occurred in that state in the last four years, in coasting accidents where there were collisions with motor vehicles.

At Woonsocket, R. I., the police have ordered sliding in the street stopped. Automobile traffic makes it impractical in recent years. In other cities this very action has been urged for the very same reason. The protection of the children is deemed paramount to their pleasure.

At Bristol, this state, ten hills have been designated as coasting places for the children during fixed hours on school days and all auto drivers are asked to give their full cooperation Boy Scouts will undertake the supervision.

There are cities where hills can be reserved for coasting and where this is possible it is the thing to do, but conditions in all communities are not alike and circumstances must govern with proper weight given to the safeguarding of lives even when this means the restriction of pleasure. It isn't a spirit of hard-heartedness that prompts such a course but a desire to prevent the needless waste of human life.

AUTO REGISTRATION

There remain only about three weeks in which to obtain markers for the cars that can be driven on the first of the next year. That time will be regarded by many as sufficient, even if they wait for a couple of weeks more, but it is only what could be expected when the motor vehicle department calls attention to the fact that owners should not delay this matter, but do it now while the force of clerks has been increased to handle the business.

Waiting until the last minute to get auto markers is as unwise as delaying other important matters. It is far better to have the markers tucked away on a shelf for two weeks and ready to use when needed than to wait until the 11th hour and fail to get them until several days of the new year has expired.

Many of the claims of unjustified conditions surround the getting of markers are warranted. Others are not. Some are in a position to get their 1927 markers now. Others are not. Those who can should do so at once and give those who cannot the benefit of the last few days.

This of course calls attention to the fact that there is no good reason why there should not be a branch office of the motor vehicle department established in every city of the state at this season of the year for the accommodation of the automobile owners. Service for the people of a few cities and neglect and additional expense for the others isn't justice. In the interest of the many thousands of auto owners in the state and their accommodation this matter should get the serious attention of the next general assembly.

"SHORN SHEEP"

In the federal court at Boston this week an investor asked what his rights were in a company where a receiver had asked for a discharge from that office. After explaining to the investor the judge is reported to have commented to the effect that "he had never seen such sheep waiting to be shorn as the New England investor: they want to save and invest, he added, but they are constantly being made victims of fraud and mismanagement."

Fraud and mismanagement have been going about hand in hand for a long time. There are occasions when their presence is much more easily discernible than others, but it is too often the case that they are neither observed nor looked for until they have gotten in their nefarious work.

But the strange part of it all is that regardless of the number who feel the effects of such fraud and mismanagement there are plenty of others who are eager to test out this same combination. Despite the experience of others they harbor the idea that they possess greater luck or are dealing with 100 per cent honest individuals when they part with their funds. There is the lure of getting rich quick and the fascination of cleverly told tales of dead certain opportunities which they are unwilling to properly discount. So hypnotized are they that they ignore the importance of looking carefully into the propositions made to them, and neglect to obtain the advice of those who are in a position to know and who have had the benefit of and remember the experience of others.

It is not believed that the people of New England are any more gullible than those of other parts of the country, but there's unquestioned truth in the declaration of the Boston judge who knows what he is talking about. He is preaching what has been repeatedly set forth before. No doubt he will have opportunity for expressing himself in this direction on future occasions, but the tale of "shorn sheep" cannot be set forth too frequently for the greatest good of the greatest number. The Boston judge did a good service in what he said. There's a question of course as to just how many who heard or read his statement will take it to heart. The trouble with the "shorn sheep" is that they don't take the trouble to protect themselves through prevention. When they wake up they are helpless.

PERFECTING OUR SEAPLANES

There are not many of the test flights that are undertaken but what produce something of value for the advancement of aviation. Through the study which they permit, or the weaknesses that are developed, it is possible to make better provision for future efforts. In fact there are times when such becomes mandatory.

This is one of the results of the recently attempted non-stop flight from Virginia to the Panama canal. In No. 1 of the seaplanes there was a break in the machinery which forced it to drop at the Carribean, while No. 2 experienced a break in its lubricating system which affected the supply of oil and it was obliged to land at the Isle of Pines and get a new supply and make repairs before it completed its flight.

Whether those same conditions could be expected under other tests is uncertain but it becomes evident that information has been obtained which will be acted upon. Seaplane engines will receive attention in such a way as to endeavor to overcome those defects in the future for it isn't a seaplane engine that might make such a flight that is wanted, but one that will do it. The engine that falters, that developes defects or that fails may have served a purpose in demonstrating what needs to be done to it, but it is evident that it cannot be regarded as having reached a satisfactory degree of perfection.

Our seaplanes are being tested with a view to getting long distance, nonstop service from them. The attempt to fly from California to Hawaii failed through a shortage of gas. Other troubles were experienced on the attempt to reach Colon without stopping, but it is not unreasonable to expect that such flights will be made within a comparatively short time. It is a case of getting better engines and that step will be promptly taken. In our national defense our seaplanes must be made to perform the service expected of them.

REMOVING SNOW

Removing the snow is a bigger problem than it used to be. This isn't because the storms are worse but because more of such work is made necessary by the fast increasing number of automobiles.

The state highway system is thoroughly covered by the highway department in not only removing drifts but in plowing out the roadways even where there are no drifts, thus clearing the way for traffic. What is true in Connecticut is likewise true in about two thirds of the other states where snow can be expected to be an obstale. The result is that large provisions have to be made for this work. It is no longer a city problem, for even though the cities are doing much more than they ever did in years gone by in carting away snow and sending snow plows through the streets to make it easy for the autos, the same is true of the improved country reads.

This stands out in marked contrast to the days when breaking a road out consisted of removing drifts and then allowing those using the road to make the best of the snow as found on the level. Great areas are quickly opened to traffic today in a short time where it took days and weeks, even after going through fields, to do it in the past. In cities it is not unusual for streets to get more attention than the sidewalks.

This is one of the accompaniments of modern transportation methods. It calls for a force ready and equipped for service at all times, day and night. It involves much expense not previously encountered and it cannot fail to get widespread appreciation from the many who are depending upon passable highways.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—All the agricultural woes are not confined to the United States. In the tight little island, the British ministry of agriculture, has been solemnly sitting on the state of the British egg, and has issued a fat printed report of the same. The traditional English dish of bacon and eggs is apparently English only in name. The bacon comes from the United States, and the eggs from all parts of the world. The alien egg according to the report, has driven out the product of the native British hen.

The Latvian, the Esthonian, the Norwegian and the Irish egg, together with the Danish, the German, and the Polish egg have caught the British taste. Twenty million pounds sterling a year are being spent on alien eggs, and the ministry makes the formal recommendation that the English agriculturist give himself over seriously to raising British hens that will lay British eggs. Meanwhile by a little order in council, they intend to boost the rates to make the entry of the alien egg a little harder, and its cost a little higher to the British consumer.

Railway owners and managers who have been protesting attempts to reduce railroad rates, have now reached the point of making a flat declaration, that if further increases in rates are to be averted, and reductions in any way made possible which they pay must be lifted. The railroads are now paying $400,000,000 a year in taxes.

Railway officials say that their taxes in September totalled $37,100,000, an increase of three and a half million, or eleven per cent over their taxes for the same month of 1925. During this month their earnings increased only 4.7%. In 1911, the taxes of the railways of the United States were 3.6% of their gross earnings. The railway position is that while the tax gatherers are justified, because of increased earnings, in increasing taxation are ever doing it by increasing taxation three to one as against a ratio of earnings.

Highways nearly long enough to circle the earth have been constructed during 1925-26 by the highways departments, of the federal government and the several states. Approximately $463,000,000 is being spent for road work.

Between 30,000 and 40,000 miles of surfaced roads have been built each year since 1921. Under the federal aid act, the total cost of highways completed up to July 1, 1923, was $649,655,000 of which the federal government paid $237,852,000. These highways are 32,452 miles long.

Projects completed since July 1, 1924, cost $44,709,000 of which the federal government paid $21,291,000. The length of this section of highway is 3,643 miles.

As a matter of record, the following statement of the political condition of the congress which met December 6th, and the congress which comes into being March 4, 1927, may prove of interest. In the congress which met December 6th, in the senate there were 53 republicans, 42 democrats, and 1 farmer labor. In the house there were 247 republicans, 182 democrats, three farmer labor, and 2 socialists. There is also one vacancy in the 12th Illinois district owing to the death of Charles E. Fuller.

The 70th congress which begins March 4, 1927, will have the following political status, in the senate 48 republicans, 47 democrats and 1 farmer labor. In the house 238 republicans, 194 democrats, 2 farmer labor, and 1 socialist.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

When the new parliament assembles today it is expected that the first business of the house of commons will be to re-elect Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux to the speakership. Few men in Canadian public are more widely and favorably known than the eminent and eloquent French-Canadian from Gaspe. For 30 years he has been almost continuous service in the house of commons. Aside from his parliamentary service he has filled several cabinet positions and has represented the dominion on several important missions abroad. Mr. Lemieux is a native of Montreal and has just passed his 60th birthday. Before his entry into public life he had attained high standing in the legal profession.

RIDING FOR A FALL

(The girl with a tight little felt hat, from the southeast corner of which a billowy plume cascades, is speaking over the telephone.)

"Lo! How's the girl?"

"Just swell. Say, old dear, listen. Ja know I was just back off my vacation, huh?"

"Say, did I? Ask me! But, say, dearie, listen, you'll die when I tell you about it.

"Oh, cut, to the mountains. It was like this, see? When I started to commence to talk about where I would go when I gets my vacation the girl friend she says, 'Why don't you go to the mountains,' she says, 'and go horseback ridin' and everything?' she says. 'It u'd be swell,' she says, 'I don't know how to go horseback ridin,' I says, and she says, 'it ain't nothin', she says. 'Just get you a swell soot and take a couple lessons over to the ridin' academy,' she says. 'Any person can do it,' she says.

"Well, it listened kinda good to me and the folks at home was all for it, too. Only when I says sumpin about takin' horseback ridin' lessons, my dad—he was, you know, raised on a farm—he says 'Oh, laff that off,' he says, 'You don't hafto take no lessons,' he says, 'Just get on the horse and ride.'

"Sure, I fell for it. That's how much I knew, see? Well, anyways, I got me the swell scenery—kinda balloony knickers and cute gaiters and long-handled gloves and everything. Believe me, I was all set to knock 'em in the eye!

"Boy friend? Sure there was. Wait till I tell you. I ain't come to him yet. You see the mornin' after the day I got to the mountains I come steppin' down in the hotel all dolled up in my new ridin' clo'se, and I tells 'em to have me a horse ready soon's I gets through with my breakfast, see? Just like I hadn't done nothin' but go horseback ridin' since the day I was born, see? Pretty ritzy, what?

"Well, say, kid, listen, I didn't have no more idea it was startin' to cloud up and rain on me than nothin'. That's how much I didn't know, see? So after breakfast I just kinda stands 'round looking like I felt like a million dollars till the fellow come 'round with the horse.

"Sure, he come all right. And from the start I could tell that baby and me wasn't goin' to hit if off, see? He had a cocoo eye and a cute way of kickin' out with all his legs at once that made me reelize right off that there wouldn't ever be no sympathy between he and I.

"Well, lookut, darling. This bird stands still for about a minute—anyways long enough to fool me into leavin' the fellow give me a shove so's I could get up on the hore's back—anyways I was kind of up on it, and then the old boy started doin' his stuff—I'll say he did.

"Say, kid, could you of seen him hookin' his head 'round in back of himself tryin' to put the jinx on me with his cuocoo eye and me slidin' first this way and then that way for one reason and another, and his doin' the Charleston with some of his legs and fox trottin' with the rest of 'em! Gosh, kid, you'd died.

"And say, dearie, listen. The next thing I know I was landed on my ear on the ground and the old horse was gallopin' back to where he come from. And this is where the boy friend flashes in, see? He comes runnin' 'round the end the hotel and he picks me up and he says 'You sore kid, you,' he says 'did he kill you?'

"And then I kinda felt myself here and there and I says I guessed I could be mended all right, in time. 'But it was some knockout,' I says, and he says, kinda lookin' at me sideways 'but I don't know if I mean the same kind of a knockout you do,' he says. Cute? Say! And then he says 'I guess you won't want to try it again this mornin',' he says. 'Say,' I says, 'thanks in,' he says. 'Say,' I says, 'You said something.' I says 'I don't want to try it again this mornin' or any other mornin',' I says.

"And, say, old dear, listen. Right at first I kep' thinkin' how I wish I hadn't of spent all that money for the swell ridin' clo'se and then after while I begun to think kinda different, seein' how if and otherwise I wouldn't never—you know—have seen—him — and everything—

"Oh, fade away, little one. Nothin' like that, see? Anyways, I ain't—you know—sayin' nothin'—not yet anyways—"—Exchange.

HEALTH DEMANDS PERSONAL ATTENTION

By Walter L. Hacket, M. D., Detroit, Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Unless you are an incompetent, you do not put your affairs in the hands of a guardian. Your health is your main asset. And likewise it will pay you to give it your personal attention.

You can have any kind of health you want, miserable, tolerable, or excellent. There are people who cultivate poor health, and seem to enjoy it. But they are never among the workers, for the most important factor in preserving health is useful, honest work. It is a stabilizer. It maintains a harmony between the body and mind, and keeps each one normal.

The second important factor is correct daily habits. You know the old advice, "keep the bowels open, feet warm, and the head cool" and you will not need a doctor. It is good advice; think it over. Thoughtful men after years of study have reached the same conclusion. Keep the bowels open, every one knows the foods to use, coarse bread, vegetables and fresh fruits and plenty of water.

Harsh cathartics to relieve periods of constipation are harmful. This is also well known. Appendicitis, gallstones, cancer of the bowel, piles, are only a few of the results of constipation. One eminent surgeon claims that almost every disease has its origin in the improper functioning of the large bowel.

The third factor in keeping well is the periodic health examination. Take an inventory every year and see how you stand. The examiner can tell you if there is an incipient disease threatening you. You are warned in time and can take the matter in hand.

The fourth factor is the doctor. His work is not preventive when called to cure and, hence, is of less importance in maintaining health than the first three. He reaches only isolated cases already diseased.

Use judgment in selecting a doctor for yourself. Get an honest man who deals fairly with his people. There are plenty of them. Don't blame him when results are not brilliant. He is working on damaged goods. He can give you advice but cannot give you a new pair of lungs.

The hospital I mention last. It is the last resort. It costs money and guarantees nothing. If you need an operation, have it done as soon as you can, and under the most favorable circumstances. Even an indifferent operation done on a strong patient, will give better results than a brilliant piece of work done on a patient that is half dead.

Stories That Recall Others

Putting the Question

When John and Joe, bearing the weekly burden of newly ironed clothes entered Mrs. X's kitchen they saw the delicious doughnuts being removed from the pot of sizzling fat.

They were paid, but seemed loath to go. Their whispered conversation became audible.

"You ax huh!"

"No, you ax huh!"

"What is it, boys?" asked the kindly Mrs. X.

"Joe said ask ya would ya give us one of dem dere doughknobs you is a frylin'," said the greedy John.

What Did Mother Say?

On a street car the other day was a substantial, intelligent looking woman of a high type. She was well dressed with an eye to practicability rather than desire to interpret the latest mode. Accompanying her was a small son whose beaming face told he was pleasantly preoccupied as they rode along. Presently he said:

"Mother, I have a nice little sweetheart in my room at school."

"That's fine, Buddy," and perhaps appreciating this burst of confidence from the youthful admirer, added, "is she pretty?"

"Oh, yes, awful pretty."

Then after a brief silence came this question:

"Mother, do men marry girls 'cause they are pretty or just 'cause they are good, like daddy did you?"

The Study of History

Psychologists tell us that the chief use of the study of history is to train the judgment. It has other uses, however, which while not so essential from the viewpoint of the psychologist, are important in their bearing on the development of the individual. The breadth of view which comes from a knowledge of the relations of men in another period or land helps us in the understanding of the affairs of our own nation or community in our own day. Human struggles, achievements or even failures must ever interest the thoughtful man and the rise, progress and decline or success of great movements in another age enables us to judge intelligently of similar or other movements going on about us. Narrowness and bigotry will ever exist even among men who are in intention perfectly sincere and honest, but the man who is narrow and bigoted in regard to any subject because of ignorance of history or unwillingness to ascertain the full facts is dishonest to himself. History is one of the most enlightening of studies and its effect upon daily conduct if rightly viewed may be such as to lead men to a wider and fuller application of the Golden Rule. In fact much of what the historian is called upon to record has a direct relation to the Golden Rule or rather to the frequent failure of men to observe it. To the devout mind the working of God in history is clearly shown, and the downfall of nations may be traced in many instances to a decline in religious earnestness and to a consequent lowering of moral standards.

TRAFFIC

By the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau for Street Traffic Research University of California, Los Angeles

Development of additional off-street storage facilities for automobiles to overcome the acute shortage of parking space in the business districts of American cities is pointed out as a factor of major importance in the relief of traffic congestion in a bulletin made public recently by the Albert Russell Erkskine bureau for street traffic research, recently endowed in Harvard university for a scientific study of the traffic problem.

"There is no city in the country that possesses curb space in the central business district capable of accommodating the parked cars of more than a small fraction of the motorists who enter the district daily," declares Dr Miller McClintock, director of the Erskine bureau.

"In Chicago, for example, the Metropolitan Street Traffic survey conducted by the Erskine bureau in cooperation with the Chicago association of commerce discovered that the curb space in the central district of the city—the famous 'loop'—when used to its fullest capacity and with a 100 per cent turnover every half hour, could accomodate no more than 15 per cent of the actual number of motor cars that daily enter the district. It was likewise discovered that in the so-called off-street facilities, — in storage garages and such structures, there was room for only 8,000 motor vehicles. Compared to the 123,000 vehicles that daily enter the 'loop' these facilities are negligible."

In connection with another survey which included 17 cities, it developed that while 1,424,660 automobiles entered the business districts, curb space for parking was available for only 55,424, and that storage garages and vacant lots available for parking purposes could take care of only 147,051 cars. A survey of the number of garages in these cities showed 341 structures, and disclosed that plans were underway to erect additional buildings in almost every city.

"There is no more important improvement that can be undertaken to encourage the use of the automobile as a standard and daily means of personal transportation than for cities to encourage, either by public construction or by private means, the construction of storage space for automobiles near the center of the business district. There should be accomodation for every motor car that is brought into the city in some safe, off-street storage space."

Dr. McClintock believes that the motor car possesses a sufficient utility as a means of flexible, independent personal transportation to warrant the payment of a reasonable sum for storage near the office of destination of the driver.

"When an individual buys a car, his first thought is to provide a private garage or other storage space in close proximity to his home. He naturally does this as a precaution against theft, and against the depreciation his car would suffer if left out in the open in all kinds of weather. For the same reasons I believe most motorists would welcome the opportunity to store their cars safely near their offices."

OBITUARY.

Byron W. Peck.

The death of Byron W. Peck, 61, occurred Wednesday evening at 7:46 o'clock at his home, 85 Spruce street, following a lingering illness for the past two years.

He was born in Canterbury, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Peck, but the greater part of his life had been spent in Norwich. For many years he was an engineer on the Norwich & Worcester division of the New Haven road, following which he was an engineer for eight years at the Hopkins & Allen Arms company and then at the industrial building where he was employed when illness obliged him to give up work.

Mr. Peck was twice married, his first wife being Harriet Waldo. Several years after her death, he was married in this city, Feb. 1, 1914, by Rev. H. J. Wyckoff to Mrs. Abbie J. Rose. She survives him and he also leaves a son, Walter A. Peck, who is a teacher in New London, and a sister, Mrs. Addie Waldo of Canterbury Green.

Mr. Peck was a member of the Odd Fellows, of Norwich Stationary Engineers association and of Worcester division, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and attended the Congregational church.

FUNERALS.

Relatives and friends of the family were present. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, Baltic. The child died in this city, death being due to broncho-pneumonia.

Mrs. William G. Tarbox.

With a very large attendance of relatives and friends present the funeral of Mrs. William G. Tarbox of Poquetanuck was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church, conducted the service. Fred T. Maples sang Abide With Me and Sometime We'll Understand. The burial took place in Maplewood cemetery, Rev. Dr. Pitt conducting the committal service. The bearers were Arthur G. Wymah, Shepard B. Palmer, Frank L. Arnold and C. Edward Smith. There was a wealth of very beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

WEDDINGS

Vickery-Nicholson

At the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church, Brockton, Mass., at 10 o'clock last Saturday morning, Norman P. Vickery of Brockton and Miss Hilma Nicholson, daughter of Mrs. John A. Nicholson of No. 32 Reynolds street, this city, were united in marriage in the presence of members of the immediate families. Guests present included Mrs. Nicholson, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Charles Tingley, the bride's sister.

The bride has been stewardess at the Norwich Golf club for several years, succeeding her mother, who was forced to retire owing to ill health. Mr. Vickery was professional at the club the past season. News of the wedding comes as a surprise to the many friends of the couple as they had made no announcement of their plans. As stewardess at the club Mrs. Vickery was faithful in the performance of her duties and won the high regard of the club members. Mr. Vickery is also held in the highest esteem by the members of the club. Mr. Vickery's father is green keeper at a Massachusetts golf club.

Mr. Vickery is an instructor at a winter golf school on Federal street, Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Vickery will reside for the winter in Brockton.

Magee-Holden

At the home of Herbert F. Davis, No. 54 Montgomery avenue, Holyoke, Mass., Sunday afternoon, Adelbert Magee of Sarasota, Fla., and Miss Ida Holden of Preston City, were united in marriage by Rev. O. E. Crane, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Holyoke. Only members of the immediate family were present. The couple were attended by Herbert F. Davis, brother-in-law of the groom and Mrs. Herbert F. Davis. Following an extended wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Magee will reside at Sarasota.
